Autopsies Show 2 Shot In Back, Brother Suicide

Said Shot Before Barn Fire Near Campbellford

CAMPBELLFORD (CP) — A joint request will be held into the shooting deaths of a brother and sister and the apparent suicide of a second brother in their farm at nearby Stanwood during the weekend.

Coroner Dr. D. W. Burgess, who ordered the inquest, said he believed the Dafoe brothers, Cecil Rowe, 46, was self-inflicted.

Rowe's body was found by another brother Sunday, a day after the charred bodies of Miss Audrey Rowe, 37, and Clarence Rowe, 39, were found in the blackened ruins of their barn. An autopsy showed both had been shot in the back.

Cecil Rowe was questioned by police following the fire, and Inspector Ernest Craig of the provincial police criminal investigation branch joined the investigation Saturday night.

FOUND BODY

Carleton Rowe, reeve of Seymour, and another brother, said he found Cecil's body about 8 p.m. Sunday, an hour after he had telephoned to say about going to Peterborough, 30 miles to the west of here, to identify the bodies and make funeral arrangements.

He told police that when he arrived at the farm he found a shotgun lying on the kitchen floor, a shotgun wound in his head and a 12-gauge shotgun by his side.

The autopsy was ordered after a 30-30-calibre rifle was discovered near the two bodies.

Dr. Burgess said he considers the two were shot shortly before the fire. He said it would be difficult to establish because of the charred condition of the bodies.

The man was led away sobbing.

Eichmann purred his lips and his face twitched as he listened to the gory evidence.

Attorney-General Gideon Hausner submitted two copies of orders from Gestapo headquarters in 1942 signed by Eichmann, for executions of Jews in Ciechanow.

There was a stir in court as Hausner read out the German officials' "thank you" letter to authorities to administer "special treatment" to four Jews in one case and seven in another.

Eichmann has told his interrogators "special treatment" meant killing. He maintained that he sent all such instructions on superior orders.

The next witness, Dr. Moshe Beitzl, a lively magician who described the beeping of a young boy and a Jewish girl near while 15,000 inmates of the Plaschow labor camp looked on.

Castro Celebrates Victory With Big May Day Blowout

In what promised to be one of the most boisterous public displays since Fidel Castro's revolutionary regime assumed power more than two years ago, giant demonstrations are scheduled across country.

The biggest and no doubt the noisiest is set for Havana.

The celebration is for Castro's revolution and the defeat of his troops over insurgent invaders.

Havana Radio said about 2,000,000 persons would participate in the rally where Castro is expected to speak.

Meanwhile, troops are on the alert throughout the island against another attack which Castro supporters say they fear.

Representatives of every labor group in Cuba met in Havana on 30 special rail-highway trains, chartered buses and automobiles Sunday and Sunday night, the radio said.

Similar parades are scheduled in Cuba's 11 cities throughout the sun-parched island.

Actually, May Day celebrations were already well under way Saturday as the city became alive with excitement and color.

Cars and trucks were driven through flag - covered streets with horns blaring away, their occupants exchanging cheers. Radio vans with strangers broadcasting slogans. Half - ton trucks, equipped with loudspeakers, cruised streets, their speakers blaring patriotic slogans.

Throughout the city, most notably in feet-high letters on great building fronts, were signs reading "Viva the First of May."

Havana was definitely gay despite the presence of militiamen, sandbag emplacements at strategic points, flatbed gun mountings and other signs of the state of alert which has put Cuban capital constantly moved.

Massey-Ferguson Says Farm Machine Prices Due to Costs

OTTAWA (CP) — Massey-Ferguson Limited said today the prices of its farm machines have been increased in line with the cost of steel and labor and are not due to high profits.

The Canadian - based company, in a submission to the tariff board inquiry into farm machinery prices, said the increases "are not due to high profits."

Net income after taxes last year was 3.7 per cent of sales, compared with 3.9 per cent in 1959 and 3.3 per cent in 1958, the company said in a brief totalling $2,714,000.

The data could scarcely be described as a situation where the prices of farm machinery could be associated with high profits," said the Massey-Ferguson brief.

The statement was made several times in various forms in the company's brief, which is a submission to the committee by the manufacturing industry. During session, other companies are expected to appear later.

Some 1961 net earnings had "faced increasingly vigorous competition in what has become a buyer's market."

WANTS NO PROTECTION

Massey-Ferguson noted that there is a tremendous surplus of farm machinery in North America. And it is "obvious" that would like to see that situation remain. It said it serves the Canadian market without tariff protection, and doesn't want it.

All Massey - Ferguson combines and balers for the North American market are produced at its Toronto plant, the brief said. Tractors, when the Toronto market were turned out in Detroit.

But Canadian plants in the Toronto area have a distinct geographical advantage in Western Canada, compared with U.S. plants in Illinois and Michigan.

The company noted that the Canadian railway are asking for a freight rate increase.

"Any increase whatsoever would gravely worsen the position of Canadian farm machinery manufacturers," the brief concluded.

Foremen's Seminar Speaker Says Labor Problems Will Continue Another Decade

Labor problems will continue past 1971 in the next decade but by 1971 many disputes, which now would possibly lead to strike action, will be settled in an orderly way, C. A. Cameron, professor emeritus of Queen's University, told a seminar of foremen here.

Mr. Cameron, an expert in labor and industrial relations, was the guest speaker following a banquet at Quinte Secondary School which ended a day-long seminar sponsored by some 3 of the Canadian Council of Foremen's Clubs. More than 100 foremen attended.

"Unions still frequently fight among themselves for business, and illegal strikes occur from time to time, especially in the construction trades," he said. "Our present laws need to be amended. They are not designed to be the cure-all for every problem. Governments will, before very long realize this and legislate new and similar body, power to settle such disputes through arbitration."

CAN ELIMINATE STRIFE

It is not enough that present laws provide that there shall be no strikes or lockouts while an agreement is in effect, nor is it enough that present laws give power to an arbitrator or arbitration board to give a final and binding decision in disputes over the meaning of the agreement.

"I predict that by 1971 arbitrators will be given power to award agreements in other fields when they are satisfied that a strike is not a result of a breach of the agreement by the other party", he said. "Compulsory common cause of strife can be eliminated".

Organized labor has traditionally resisted government regulation, and legislation, have generally refrained from attempting it.

"However, now that labor organizations have won a place for themselves in society and the government protects and aids them, the situation has changed and it is time that labor recognized its responsibilities. Unions are public utilities with, in effect, franchises to operate. Some of them have become so powerful that they have become a menace to the public welfare."

BECOMES TRUSTEE

"If legal protection is given to unions it becomes necessary to the proper organization of labor that a certain amount of present-day labor relations, what is they use their power and authority, but to oppress".

Mr. Cameron believed that a decision by a majority vote is given the right to begin for a group of workers, then it becomes a trustee for all. In so becoming, it must be subject to appropriate regulations, laws and other trustees.

New Equipment Is Installed In Hospital

Installed in a spacious, bright room on the second floor of the new east wing of Trenton Memorial Hospital.

Soon the staff expects to take over the new central supply room comprising 1,320 square feet. In the meantime, all the supplies required by the various departments are prepared and sterilized in quarters some four times smaller.

It is in the central supply room, more so than in some of the others, that the visitor can understand why extra space is needed and expanding the original building was decided. Completion of the new nearing completion will increase patient treatment twofold.

The original plan for expansion project was estimated to cost $775,000. The amount $150,000 is being raised by public subscription. The balance will be made up by provincial federal government grants and the Trenton Hospital provided $100,000 from its capital future issue.

Included as one enters the central supply room shining cupboards finished equipment catches the eye. It is here that staff cleans, inspects, repairs, sterilizes and stores all the linen trays required from the various departments.

Among the major installations are two steam operated sterilizers, one large and one small for sterilizing agent. They are controlled automatically as to time and temperature and are also used for sterilizing materials and equipment not affected by water.

Another sterilizer is electrically operated and uses dry heated air in making sterile materials adversely affected by water. Also installed is a specially called a cyclomatic instrument washer automatically washes and sterilizes instruments in one operation or in an emergency as a high speed pressure instrument sterilizer.

The most noticeable improvement in the operating room with the old quarters is the extra space available. Available are 600 square feet of steel shelving, 350 square feet of working surfaces and 160 cubic feet of cupboard space.

47 Building Permits Total Over Million

One of the biggest building months in the history of the city was recorded in April with permits representing over a million dollars worth of building being issued at city hall.

There were 47 permits issued during the month, bringing the total for the year up to 113.

Topping the month's building list was the new office building at Northern Electric valued at $400,000.

But the north end of the city saw two projects commenced with the construction value of well over half a million.

These were a new 50-unit motel east of North Front Street and a short distance south of 401 highway. The motel is valued at $350,000.

The other major project in the eastern general area is the new provincial police headquarters valued at $250,000.

26 Out of 30 Days in April Rainy Ones

Belleville residents looking for an early sun tan weren't able to make much progress during the month of April.

Officials at the local water filtration plant today stated that it rained 26 days during the 30 days of April. Rainfall during the month was 3.44 inches which with eight inches of snow made a total precipitation of 4.24 inches.

A year ago rainfall was just a bit more at 4.45 inches for the month.

Maximum temperature for the month was 50 degrees with a minimum reading of 25. Mean temperature was 41.3 degrees.

It got really warm a year ago with a top reading of 71 degrees. The minimum was 22 degrees and the mean reading 44.2

The comparatively cool weather of April was an exception with the 5-year average hitting reading being 70 degrees. The average rainfall for April over the 5-year period is 3.20 inches, with a total precipitation average of 3.40 inches.

Cape Breton Pits to Close On May 31st

GLACE BAY, N.S. (CP)—Renewed discontent rumbled through Cape Breton's provincial field Sunday as a last-ditch struggle opened to prevent the close May 31 of three collieries that employ more than one-third of the island's 7,000 miners.

A meeting of some 500 miners, union officials and citizens decided to send a delegation to Ottawa to ask the government to keep all Cape Breton pits operating until the market in Ontario clarifies itself.

Two Local Cars Taking Part In Big Rally

Sunday morning some 110 automobiles of all makes and types started out from Montreal on the first leg of a 4,000-mile car rally which will eventually wind up on the west coast in Vancouver. Of the many entries, which came from across Canada, the United States, the United Kingdom and Europe, there were two from Belleville.

Dr. Robert Allore and Dr. Harold Williamson, in a Porsche coupe, were the first Belleville entry and the second was Frank Sorensen of 89 Southview driving a Volkswagen for an international rallying team known as the "Eager Beetles". All of the local enthusiasts are members of the Belleville Chapter of the St. Lawrence Automobile Club and have been quite active in both local club events and out-of-town rallies.

The rally is divided into five sections, two of which will be two-day affairs, the balance being one-day in length. Stopover points along the route, which is being held entirely on Canadian roads, are at Toronto, Port Arthur, Winnipeg, Regina, Calgary and Penticton, ending at Vancouver. The rally finishes on May 6th.

At the end of the first day the rallying doctors expressed their satisfaction for the initial leg of entries, which they considered a special "He-breaking" driving test held on the site of the Mosport Park, which will be opening this season as eastern Canada's first full-fledged sports car racing circuit, several miles north of Bowmanville.

The rally, which is sponsored by the Shell Oil Company and organized by the British Columbia International Trade Fair, is the largest of its kind to be held in North America and is also one of the longest rallies anywhere on the globe today. It has been given considerable attention from a number of the automobile manufacturers, both domestic and foreign, and a large number of automotive factory teams are competing.

Since the rally has been authorized as an international event by the Federation Internationale de l'Automobile, the international governing body for motorsport, through the Royal Automobile Club, there are a number of competitors from England, Sweden and the United States, who are interested in earning points towards the international rallying championship for 1961.

The event has been sanctioned by the governing body for motorsport events in Canada, the Canadian Automobile Sport Club a number of whose affiliated clubs, including the St. Lawrence Automobile Club, have been busy in the organization and running of the rally. The local club manned three of the checkpoints used on the Montreal-Toronto leg of the rally.

Those interested in hearing the latest news about the rally may do so by tuning in any radio station on the CBC Trans-Canada radio network at 6:19 p.m. EDT. On May 13th at 10 p.m. EDT the CBC-TV network will feature a film of the rally from its start to its finish.

Technical Age Needs More Skilled Technicians, Says Director

Mr. Charles Leppan, technical Director at Moira Secondary School, was the guest speaker at the Y's Men's regular supper meeting held last week at Moira Secondary School.

Twenty-four per cent of the total secondary school population enter the vocational courses and 70 per cent of these students look for positions in this field. On the other hand, Mr. Leppan reported, only one-third of the jobs available are qualified positions and two-third are for skilled positions. One can easily see that there is a great need for training to fill the ever increasing jobs opening up in the technological age.

GOVERNMENT PLAN

The Federal Government has started a plan, known as Plan M, to assist the provinces in their technical programs. There is to be $45,000,000 spent in a little over a year. The purpose of this plan is to attempt to stop the flow of students who are trained in any field of skilled labor. The plans of the local school boards for expansion in the field of technical education must be approved by the federal authorities.

Mr. Leppan suggested the provincial government should establish a Provincial Advisory Board composed of experienced commercial and industrial leaders, technicians and department of education officials. The function of such a board would be the co-ordination of plans for the technical field of education for the province.

EXPAND VOCATIONAL COURSES

Another development in the technical education field in this province has been the limited vocational courses. Under this plan, graduates from elementary training in grades nine and ten and then send the students to a three year vocational school to complete their technical training in grades 11 and 12. Mr. Leppan felt this was an excellent plan and thanked the provincial department officials.

Mr. R. J. Reid, vice-principal of Moira Secondary School, introduced the speaker, Mr. Charles Leppan, a recent addition was expressed by Mr. John Hayman.

President John Hayman announced that Mr. Max Woolley-Armstrong teacher at Quinte Secondary School, and Mr. Joe Rudd, Agricultural Director of YMCA, were accepted into membership of the Club.

Guests present at the meeting were: Dr. Dave Bell, physical education director at Moira Secondary School; and Mr. Ross Boyce, salesman at Elliott Motors.

DANISH FLAG

Mr. John Luscombe spoke briefly on the Danish people, the country in which the Y's Men's branch of Y's Men's is located. Denmark has 15 Y's Men's Clubs with over 340 members.

Gerry Hill, youth work committee chairman, reported that arrangements for the theatre and son banquet have been completed for this Saturday at the YMCA. President John reported that four members of the club would be visiting Cobourg on Saturday to assist a Dave Bell meeting a club in their first radio auction.

FIND PORTRUNE

ISSAQUAH, Wash (AP) — He was a recluse and they called him the Hermit of Cougar Mountain but when officials went to investigate his death Saturday they found nearly $95,000. Theodore Richardson, 84, was found dead, apparently of natural causes by a neighbor in his little shack in the woods. Officers found $94,020.78, mostly in U.S. savings bonds and bank deposits.

Address Change Cards Will Be Delivered Free

OTTAWA (CP) — Since more than a third of all Canadians change addresses once a year, the post office has decided to ease the resulting problem for its mail sorters, it was announced today.

Free postage now will be offered to the more than 6,000,000 persons changing their addresses annually—to be used on cards notifying their correspondents of changes in addresses.

There is no limit on the amount of free postage any one mover can claim, said a statement by Postmaster - General William Hamilton which estimated the decision equals the equivalent of $120,000 worth of stamps.

U.S. SECURITY

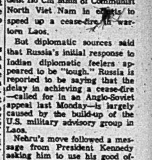
Burma if those nations requested.

NEW DELHI (Reuters) — Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru was reported Sunday to be in touch with Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev and President Ho Chi Minh of Communist North Viet Nam in efforts to speed up a cease-fire in war-torn Laos.

But diplomatic sources said that Russia's initial response to Indian diplomatic feelers appeared to be "tough." Russia is reported to be saying that the delay in achieving a cease-fire —called for in an Anglo-Soviet appeal last Monday—is largely caused by the build-up of the U.S. military advisory group in Laos.

Nehru's move followed a message from President Kennedy asking him to use his good offices in Communist capitals, and after informal approaches from the British government stressing the urgency of a Laotian cease-fire.



There was serious concern here that a further delay in halting the Laos fighting might spark U.S.-sponsored military action in Laos.

Adults vs. Children

Making the world of communications safe for children appears to be one of the favorite occupations of a certain group of people. In the name of protecting the innocent, they are always urging curbs on this or that media of communication. There are signs that they are fighting a losing battle. Over the past three decades, for instance, there has been a slow, almost imperceptible but, in the aggregate, an impressive widening of the themes dealt with in daily newspapers. It is commonplace today to publish reports, in plain language, on a variety of social problems which, back in the twenties, would have been considered unfit for discussion in a "family journal."

Nor are newspapers the only media which have broadened their scope. The recent annual report of G. J. Silverthorne, chairman of the Ontario Board of Censors, Theatres branch, noted with evident disapproval that an increasingly large number of U.S. and British films are classified by the Board as adult entertainment. "We remind the industry on this continent and abroad that the prime purpose of the motion picture is to entertain," Mr. Silverthorne observed. "Instead, it has rapped on the knuckles by an editorial in one Toronto newspaper for making such an assumption.

Television is one medium of communication in which relatively little advance has been made in dealing with subjects of a nature unsuitable for children—but this appears to be true only on this continent. From UNESCO we learn that the French television network has adopted an ingenious method of warning viewers when a program is not considered suitable for children. A little white square is thrown on the screen in the right-hand corner when a telecast intended for adult consumption is shown and this square remains there until the end of the program. Parents can then see for themselves whether their children are watching a show not intended for their viewing.

The idea appears to be an excellent one, except that it requires a degree of parental control over TV-viewing which we are not at all sure exists in this country.

The alternatives, though, are unpalatable, either to permit children to see programs unsuitable for their years or else to prevent television to them. Here on this continent there may be some who would be willing to accept this latter course—as Mr. Silverthorne apparently is ready to surrender movies to entertainment. But in other lands, which do not have our "child-centred" attitude, this is not true.

Perhaps, in justice to Mr. Silverthorne, we ought to quote a couple of sentences: "We reiterate our belief that almost any subject can be discussed by the motion picture industry without compromising professional integrity and within the grounds of taste, provided sufficient ingenuity and artistry is employed by the producer. In this year of questionable literature, as well as not so much the subject matter as its exploitation in a cheaply sensational manner, and, all too often, by a crude and blatant appeal to eroticism —the use of shock value, applied to the point of obscenity."

With those sentiments we can agree, but even the most ingenious and artistic handling cannot make some themes suitable for children.

Strange Qualification

The Ontario civil service commission, we are informed in a news story, is looking for a director for the provincial government's new sales tax branch.

The position will pay from $9,500 to $11,500 a year, so that the commission should not lack for a goodly supply of applicants. The job will go to a qualified administrative ability, strong administrative ability. But, says a treasury department official, what is really needed is a man "who is well liked."

This seems akin to demanding a beauty queen for the role of a witch in Macbeth. No matter how well liked a man may be, he will not continue to be well liked after he starts collecting that three-per-cent sales tax. And the government, the civil service commission and the successful applicant himself might as well reconcile themselves to that fact now as later.

But perhaps the treasury department official was convinced that only a man with a winning personality will be able to survive at all, once he takes the job. There might be something to that theory.

When all is done, human life is, at the greatest and the best, but like a forward child, that must be played with and hlimored a little to keep it quiet till it falls asleep, and then the care is over.—Sir William Temple.

Strictly Personal
Sydney Tries Contrasting Temperaments

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

There are, basically, two kinds of temperament in the world:

Those who get to the airport early enough to get all and with plenty of time to spare, and get there just as the gates are closed.

Those who squeeze their toothpaste from the bottom of the tube and roll it up, and those who squeeze it any which way, making the top in the process.

Those who sleep raw, under a thin sheet, and like the windows open at night; and those who sleep in flannels, under blankets, and like the windows closed at night.

Those who read their newspapers neatly from page to page, and leave them in the same condition they were found it; and those who detach the sheets and scatter them in unholy disorder.

Those who love parties, dancing, conviviality and late hours; and those who fall apart by 9 p.m. and are at their peak waking at 6 a.m.

Those who carefully itemize their change in little boxes, balance their accounts, and know how to budget their outlay; and those who have no idea of how many cheques they wrote, charges they ran up, or money left in the bank, if any.

Those who flourish in outdoor surroundings, and find their chief joy in huddling damply in a mountain valley; and those who whose noses begin to run after a few minutes in the most comfortable room.

Those who enjoy the elaborate and formal occasions, rich in new and exotic dishes, and those who want nothing but bacon and eggs, and feel nervous at all over the concoction.

Those who believe that a regimen of strictness and discipline is the only way to bring up a child; and those who believe that easiness and freedom contribute more to the child's character.

Those who went the house piled with company at every possible opportunity, and those who find company the most tiresome burden and an invasion of privacy.

Those who idea of "travel" is dashing about from point to point, usually abroad, and taking in all the sights; and those whose idea of travel is settling in some quiet place by the beach, and lying on the sand.

Those who read the comics first, cut four to growing old, and those who dread it mortally and refuse to admit the slightest illusion of youth.

These are, basically, the two kinds of temperaments in the world — and it is the supreme irony of the human condition that almost invariably they are married to each other.

Old Ladies Indignant

Industry

Not a rich news of a humorous nature — or a out of South Africa lately, but a serious report from Capetown it pertains an economic complaint to provoke at least a smile.

The board of management of the local Building Society Old Ladies, it seems, is considerably a shortage of names. Members complained that people were continually misreading it as the home for the infirm old ladies" and even as the home for "indignant old ladies," with unfortunate implications for all concerned.

Alas, even old ladies in South Africa are not proof against the insidious perils of the English language.

STRENGTH FOR THE DAY

DR EARL L. DOUGLASS

THE YOKE OF S ELF-DISCIPLINE

Perhaps no one bears the word "discipline" without wincing. It is a word which suggests being kept after school when we were young, or doing extra guard duty as a soldier. Yet discipline is a most vital and important word for daily living — especially when it becomes self-discipline.

Self-discipline is the true mark of adulthood. We begin to grow up when no one has to make us do what is right. Adults who lack self-discipline are not grown children who have never assumed the responsibilities — or known the deep joys — of adulthood.

Self-discipline is the foundation of our moral, social, economic, and political order. We do not have a strong moral character until we do what we know we should, even when we do not want to do it. No social order is possible unless the majority of men voluntarily submit to the rules and restriction of community living. Without self-discipline of hard work, saving and intelligent planning for the future leads to economic progress. The freedom of democracy is possible only for people who willingly impose upon themselves limits of freedom, qualify selves the duties and responsibilities, and the other necessities of government.

Real freedom comes when we can say not, "Somebody has to tell me what to do!" but instead, "Nobody has to tell me what to do."

The Vital Subject

Calgary Herald

In a very real sense, there is no more important subject taught in our schools than English. If the student, or the citizen-to-be, is unable to communicate his ideas and thoughts in terse, plain, easily-understood language, all his other skills are nought.

The lovely month of May, freed from winter's shackles, has come with its promise of flowers and its genial balmy weather. This is the month which, after a fallow in the trees and in which nature enters her fullness of spring in all its freshness and glory.

Mr. Arthur Aman, well-known Big Island farmer, surveyed the charred remains of his house, barn and outbuildings completely destroyed with their contents in a $10,000 fire on Sunday, and decided to rebuild as soon as possible. The loss was the result of a marsh fire which threatened the buildings over a large area along the shore road leading to Northport from Consecon Lake. Hydro high tension wires were melted by the heat of the conflagration and the district was without hydro service for some time.

Two members of the Belleville Fire Department, Jack Thompson and Gerald "Wargy" O'Brien, have been awarded "receiver" leave of absence from the city council for the duration of the war and upon his return will resume his former position with the fire department. Buddha Gave Labor Code

Brantford Expositor

Prince Gautama, called the Buddha, the Enlightened One, was the founder of whose teachings, or variations thereof, the great Buddhist religion is based.

During his lifetime he said many wise things and was unquestionable to our own times. For instance, he offered good advice to employer and employee.

The employer, he said, should pay his workers only such a sort of job his ability and strength fitted him to do; he should not overwork or hold back and fair wages, nurse him in time of illness, allow him a share in any special food that came his way and, finally, give him a certain holiday each year.

We don't know whether the original 19th century Socialists were students of Buddhism; we do know that they had the best successors saying, "There you are! Treat them right and recommended by a prince who lived more than 2,500 years ago.

Ah, but hold on a minute, you Welfare State enthusiasts. The Buddha also said the servant should not "in return for the good treatment accorded by his master, the servant should rise before him, work after him, be satisfied if he thinks the wages and treatment are fair, do his work well, and, lastly, shall sing praises of the good master everywhere."

That's very postscript, excellent though it may be, ethically and as accommodating, will not, we fear, meet with acceptance. The Buddhist code of idea seems to be to get as much as possible for doing as little as possible, and that's not the way to let the state look after everything, and, of course, vilify the boss.

Price of Automation

Christian Science Monitor

Automation, a word both hailed and dreaded, is necessary in order to keep pace with world efficiency; but it means many adjustments, some of them unpleasant, before it bears fruit in more rather than less employment.

Lindbergh Not First

Brantford Expositor

"Everyone remembers Lindbergh. But who remembers the second man to fly the Atlantic?"

So spoke a disappointed United States Congressman regretting the news that a Soviet Union aviator had "made it first" in outer space.

We ask the worthy Congressman: "But who remembers the first man?" Evidently he doesn't.

Colonel Charles Augustus Lindbergh was the first man to fly the Atlantic, nonstop and, to all credit to him for that, But he was not the first to fly the ocean anyway.

That pioneering honor belongs to the late Captain Sir John Alcock and the late Sir Arthur Whitten Brown, who crossed in a Vickers Vimy built Royce-supplied former army bomber on June 14-15, 1919, from St. John's, Newfoundland to Clifden, County Calway, Ireland, eight years before "the Lone Eagle" made his trip from New York to Paris in his "Spirit of St. Louis."

Jack Alcock, a Manchester boy, was 28 at the time. His companion, Brown, was born in Glasgow of U.S. parents, was 32 and had flown more than all the world so less than did Lindbergh's at the later date, was knighted by a KING for Daily Mail prize from Lord Northcliffe. Both were "the first aviators" met by the Secretary of State for War, a gentleman known then as Winston Spencer Churchill.

Anyway, let not the Congressman mourn. Lindbergh will live as Lindbergh seems to have eclipsed Alcock and Brown in his own time. He was the first man of his fellow Americans, so may the Soviet Union's spaceman prevent he outshone in the not distant future by some cosmonaut from Cape Canaveral, Florida or even some other country.

American space accomplishments are already tremendous, and they have only begun. There is no will that we be in the first lap. As we have said before, Major Cagarla's success should stimulate our editors not defiate them.

Chinese Reds Victorian

Hamilton Spectator

Young Chinese are helped by treading the pages of a new weekly magazine published especially for them. The aim in publishing how much the articles in "Chinese Youth" resemble how the "Youth's Companion," which our Victorian great-grandparents regarded as ideal reading for young people. One article almost hear the ghostly voice of the bearded Victorian, "Uncle Joel Smiles— he who wrote "Self Help." "Hard Work" and numerous other books on the subject of character and success.

Bigness ploughs right through bitterness. And when you are a big enough, you have no bitterness at all in your heart. You ward life or toward anyone in life.

Bitterness does nothing but destroy. Bigness does nothing but build.

It is not always easy to be magnanimous and big, but that is what creates bigness — going through difficult trials and experiences and finding not only but, softened and cleansed the character and wonder.

If anyone ever had excuses for becoming bitter, it was Abraham Lincoln, he sought to deal fairly with a divided nation as well as with those about him who were not always fair and big. There was much bitterness, but his bigness rose above it all.

Somebody recently called to my attention a report from Robert Webb, of Indiana University, about a sour accident in an automatic laundry.

A married university student took his two little daughters with him to the laundry. The older girl was nine, and the other four and the nine-year-old asked for two nickels to get soft drinks.

Daddy agreeably handed over the nickels. A minute or two later it occurred to him that all the soft drink dispensers he'd seen charge a dime now. So wisely he went to investigate.

The nine - year - old had two paper cups full of something that looked like a lime or lemon drink. She took a taste, and didn't like it, so she spit it out at once.

And a good thing, too! What she had was a cup full of laundry bleach!

The smaller girl, happily, didn't have a chance to drink any! The older girl didn't suffer any after-effects because she got rid of the stuff in time. But obviously she could have been harmed.

Sure, it tasted bad. But hundreds of children die every year and many more are made ill because they drink such badtasting stuff as furniture polishing fluid, furniture polish, lye, detergents and insect poisons.

I've told that Indiana people are considering putting labels on dispensing machines, but how all children can or do read the signs.

Perhaps these dispensers can be put up higher, out of reach of little hands. But not on shelves or chairs!

What's the lesson to be learned by all parents is that the little ones just have to be watched. Like the father of these two, you must heed that warning bell that rings in the back of your mind when you get home little else — like being asked by nickels instead of dimes.

Let's face it. The world is full of danger, and I doubt if it ever will be completely foolproof. I'm for taking every safety precaution that can be devised, but we parents have got to be on our toes all the time.

"Dear Dr. Molner: Does lemon juice, taken in tea or hot water, bring down the blood sugar in a diabetic — B.H.K."

No. Don't confuse the sour taste of lemon with the question of how much sugar is present. Sugar masks the sour flavor, but chemically sugar and lemon don't counteract each other. In fact, there's a bit of sugar in even the sourest lemon.

"Dear Dr. Molner: Can alcoholism bring on a case of hardening of the arteries? — A. R. G."

Let's give you a middle of the road answer. Specifically it would be hard to say that this "causes" hardening of the arteries. Evidently there is no single cause. Hardening of the arteries is a complex process that takes years to develop and involves a variety of factors, blood pressure, diet, stress and others.

You can't say that any one thing is the cause. Alcoholism certainly doesn't help a factor. It might not be a direct one, but it could exaggerate its effect on diet, stress, or other matters.

After all, who cares whether the effect is indirect or direct? The end result is what is concerned with. So I must vote against alcoholism. Certainly it couldn't help never improved anyone's health.

THE PACKSACK

Has anybody seen a breakdown of the costs of making a space rocket? Where does the money go? How many men does it take to produce the things together? How much metal, how much fuel? How do you put together a rocket? Are dollars into a few dozen things that go whoosh no place in particular?

Several million dollars go into making of a big modern jet aircraft. Why this should be so is something of a mystery, too, unless the capital investment in large permanent manufacturing plants and the salaries of platoons of high priced executives are the major items in the cost of the machines.

But why the cost of rockets should be vastly greater than the cost of aircraft is something that it takes a genius to find out for us. The rockets are not particularly large. You can count only a few dozen thousands or tens of thousands of dollars on an engine. Transistors and fill the fuel tanks are so much a gross. Chemicals for heat cost a few hundred dollars. Time and a half for overtime is so much. Even platinum costs only a few dollars.

Where do the hundreds of millions go?

Into what?

BIGNESS AND BITTERNESS

I read the other day that bigness and bitterness never go together. I can't see how they could.

You can't mix milk and vinegar and expect a very happy combination.

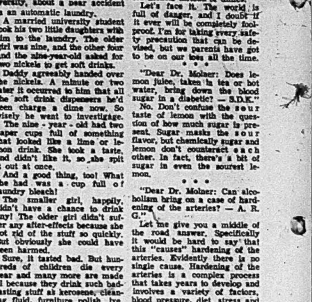
Bigness ploughs right through bitterness. And when you are a big enough, you have no bitterness at all in your heart. You ward life or toward anyone in life.

Bitterness does nothing but destroy. Bigness does nothing but build.

It is not always easy to be magnanimous and big, but that is what creates bigness — going through difficult trials and experiences and finding not only but, softened and cleansed the character and wonder.

If anyone ever had excuses for becoming bitter, it was Abraham Lincoln, he sought to deal fairly with a divided nation as well as with those about him who were not always fair and big. There was much bitterness, but his bigness rose above it all.

Banish bitterness from your heart, my friend. Be big. Lift up your head and see how much bigger you are than when you are big enough to banish bitterness.



Cause of Bigamy

The laws against bigamy are unnecessary and correct, but offences against them are often directly due to our unjust, oppressive and illogical divorce laws, which discriminate against innocent partners in marriage dissolved in fact but perpetuated in legal fiction.

45 Cans Milk Spilled Into Deep Ditch

Close to 45 cans of milk were spilled into the ditch on a Lonsdale area township road on Sunday morning.

Provincial Police said a district farmer delivering a truck load of eight-gallon cans of milk to Napanee when he failed to negotiate an S-turn and went into the ditch. The truck did not overturn but was tilted sufficiently for the cans to spill their contents into the ditch. The farmer was charged with impaired driving.

U.K. Organist Plans Recital At Kingston

Dr. Francis Jackson, F.R.C.O. organist and master of the choristers of York Minister Cathedral, York, England, will play an organ recital in St. George's Cathedral, Kingston, Wednesday night.

The cathedral choir, under the direction of George N. Maybee, will assist, presenting several choral numbers during the program. This recital is of such interest that the C.B.C. is sending a team of technicians from Toronto to record it for later release on the C.B.C. "Wednesday night" series.

Acknowledged as among the leading recital players in Europe today, Dr. Jackson is currently on a North American tour that has taken him from coast to coast. The Musical Times of London reports his "virtuoso technique and brilliance of style are acknowledged and admired wherever he plays. He is in great demand as a recitalist and is, of course, a regular on the B.B.C.'s Third Program of Recitals."

Shortly after Dr. Jackson's return to England on May 25, from a recital in Bermuda, he will officiate as musician in charge of the music for the wedding of the Duke of Kent and his bride to York Minster.

It is hoped that this area will welcome the opportunity to hear this most distinguished recital organist by attending the cathedral in large numbers on Wednesday at 8.15 p.m. No tickets are required, but a collection will be taken to defray the costs of the visiting recitalist.

BULLETIN:

Extraordinary ingredient in today's Super Shell is made by tearing petroleum apart to give you faster warm-up and top performance

Among them is an ingredient called mixed pentanes. This quick-firing component is made by tearing the heavier molecules of petroleum apart—much as you split kindling to get a fire going faster.

COLD ENGINES can never deliver top performance. They also waste gasoline.

Top performance without coaxing

Shell makes mixed pentanes by subjecting petroleum to terrific heat. Under this ordeal, the heavier hydrocarbons are torn apart and transformed into lighter, quick-burning molecules.

When blended into Super Shell, these quick-burning molecules work much like kindling in a log fire. They ignite easily and get everything going faster. Your engine soon loses that hesitant feeling it has when starting cold. You don't have to coax it into delivering top performance.

Dramatic effect

The effect of mixed pentanes may well be one of the most dramatic things you'll notice after you fill up with today's Super Shell. But you'll notice a number of others, too. Mixed pentanes is only one of the nine Super Shell ingredients that give your car top performance.

Read about the other eight. What they are and what they do. The extra benefits of today's Super Shell may surprise you.

Ingredient #2 is TCP for power, mileage and longer plug-life

Super Shell now contains an even better version of this famous additive. It was originally developed for use in aviation gasoline.

TCP additive can give your car up to 15 per cent more power; 17 extra miles per tankful; and make your plugs last twice as long.*

Today's aviation-grade TCP does this by neutralizing the harmful effects of engine deposits. It stops them from glowing when hot—a major cause of power loss.

It also stops them from diverting your spark—a major cause of "missing."

This is petroleum that has actually cracked under 900-degree heat and catalytic action. Its heavier molecules have been shattered into livelier, lighter ones.

The result is a high-octane ingredient that makes your engine purr with power the moment you put your foot down.

NOTE: "Cat-cracking" refers to the use of a catalyst—a substance that has the mysterious ability to alter molecules without changing itself.

Ingredient #4 is heavy alkanes—for both power and economy at all speeds

Shell scientists will tell you that gasoline can be too sensitive.

That's their unflattering description of a gasoline that performs well enough when you're driving slowly but causes knock and loss of power at higher speeds.

Super Shell behaves itself at all speeds. Shell scientists insist on it. They "discipline" today's formula with heavy alkanes, a high-octane ingredient that is notably insensitive.

Result: Super Shell gives you top performance whether you're in slow traffic, or accelerating, or cruising on a super-highway.

NOTE: Heavy alkanes also have the advantage of lowering your fuel consumption. Your engine can use them up slowly—and still give you all the power you need.

Ingredient #5 is anti-knock mix for extra resistance to knocks

You might suppose that two high-octane ingredients would be enough to give you knock-free performance. But Shell's scientists have ears like musicians.

They insist on adding a special anti-knock mix. A mix, so effective, one teaspoon per gallon can boost anti-knock rating by seven points.

This mix has the tricky job of regulating combustion so that Super Shell gives each piston a firm, even push—rather than a sharp blow which would cause a knock.

Ingredient #6 is butane for quick starts on icy mornings

By itself, butane is so volatile that it would actually boil in your refrigerator. In Super Shell, it helps your engine fire in seconds. Think what this means in cold weather. Your battery is relieved of strain—and so is your patience.

Ingredient #7 is an "anti-icer" to stop stalls due to carburetor icing

Super Shell's formula is adjusted up to eight times a year for your area to beat the weather. Whenever the temperature is likely to be less than forty-five degrees, an anti-ice ingredient is added.

Why add anti-icer at forty-five degrees? Because even then, frost can form in your carburetor just as it does in your refrigerator. It can choke your engine dead.

Ingredient #8 is gum preventive to keep the fuel system clean

Even the purest gasoline can form gum when stored. This can clog carburetors, fuel lines, and pumps. But, with Super Shell you needn't worry. A special gum preventive does the trick.

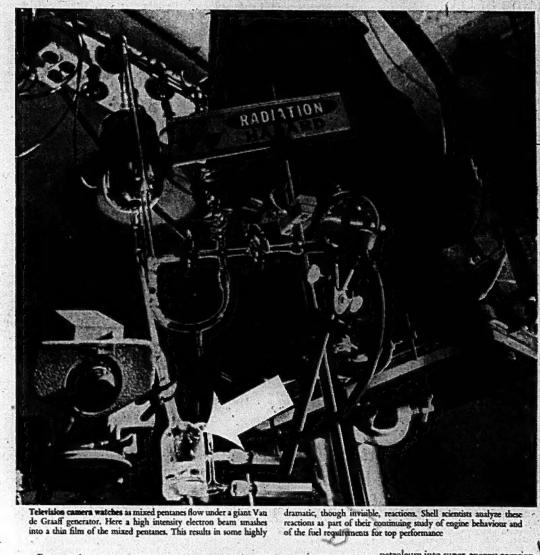
It acts like a policeman controlling a mob. Keeps an eye on unstable elements—stops them from clotting and forming gum.

Super Shell makes gummed-up engines a thing of the past.

Ingredient #9 is Platformate for extra energy, more mileage

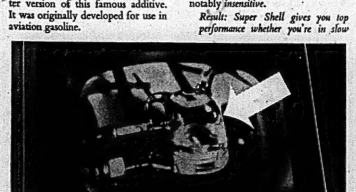
It takes one million dollars' worth of platinum catalyst for Shell to produce its Platformate. But fortunately for you and for us, this precious stuff can be used over and over again.

The platinum process, which gives Platformate its odd name, re-forms petroleum into super-energy components—such as benzene, toluene and xylene.



These three alone release 7 per cent more useful energy per gallon than the best 100-octane aviation gasoline.

But make no mistake. This is not untamed energy. Far from it. The super-energy of Platformate is harnessed by the eight other ingredients in Super Shell, where it behaves so well you scarcely know it's there. That is, until you note your extra mileage. After that, there is no doubt.



Test Super Shell for yourself

Try Super Shell next time you fill up. You'll soon feel and hear a difference in the way your engine runs.

That difference is top performance.

Television camera watches as mixed pentanes flow under a giant Van de Graaff generator. Here a high intensity electron beam smashes into a thin film of the mixed pentanes. This results in some highly dramatic, though invisible, reactions. Shell scientists analyze these reactions as part of their continuing study of engine behaviour and of the fuel requirments for top performance

Close-up TV shot assures Shell scientist that the experiment is proceeding safely. Radiation hazard here is not great, but Shell takes no chances, performs the bombardment by remote control. Men are protected by thick concrete walls and electrically operated doors that cannot be opened while the apparatus is operating.

'Great Courses' Theme at U.C. W.A. Meeting

The regular monthly meeting of Holloway Street United Church Women's Association met Thursday afternoon in the church parlors.

The ladies were welcomed by the president, Mrs. H. Outinghyes.

Business regarding the vocational school visit to the County Home and the fall bazaar was discussed.

The devotional period was taken by Mrs. Leonard Reid. The Scripture lesson, Matthew 6: 5-18 was read by Mrs. Carl Wannamaker, and Mrs. Reid's meditation, "Too Busy to Pray," suggested that people of today seem to think they have no time left for prayer, and yet Jesus sought to show people that they can find a way through their stress and worries. One does need to resort to his or her strength through prayer. Doctors claim that disturbed persons should resort to prayer that no psychic knows how to pray, and that prayer has creative and curative powers in man's life. Remember prayer is not out of fashion in these times. God is never too busy to listen, so one should not be too busy to be aware of relationship with God.

GUEST SPEAKER

The speaker, the Rev. Mr. Pipe of Consecon, was introduced by Mrs. C. W. Coleman, taking as his topic, "Great Causes," and in part "Christians and the church have always had their part in history and the social climb of countries. The church provokes and arouses the enthusiasm of great people." He referred to the crusades, the attack against slavery, the appalling conditions of the early prisons, and child labor. The four years with their trials, disasters, endurance and personal sufferings, these were strained conditions, yet people had a real thrill when they identified themselves with this great cause of putting down evil. Christ's parallel "If any man be prepared to come after Me, let him take up his cross and follow Me," is a Christian challenge and when one acts with faith and confidence there are many victories. The impact of the church is great, like an army moving across the world, bringing light, brotherhood and peace because as a risen Lord.

Mrs. G. Coulter thanked the speaker and threw out the challenge to us as members to take up the cross and follow the Master.

The collection was received by Mrs. H. Brown and Mrs. M. Hicks.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Clifford Smith and her group and a social hour spent.

Prayer and imposition of hands by the Rev. W. B. Greenwood as Mrs. Laurie Price is ordained to ministerial office. Pastors the Rev. Drs. I. H. Price and H. M. Smith assist.

Ordain Mrs. Laurie Price As Pentecostal Minister

The auditorium of Calvary Temple was filled to capacity on Sunday morning when Mrs. Laurie Price was ordained as a minister of the Pentecostal Assemblies of Canada. The Reverend W. B. Greenwood, district superintendent for Eastern Ontario and Quebec officiated assisted by the Reverend Dr. H. M. Smith, presbyter of the Belleville section.

"I believe that God sets His ministers in the church, be they men or women," said Mr. Greenwood. "Some people maintain that women should not be allowed to preach, but we do not hesitate to look into the Word of God and see what it teaches. In the Scriptures we have the record of many noble women who were faithful to God in various ways. Faithful women were at the crucifixion. It has been said that women were the last at the cross and the first at the open tomb.

"In Joel 2.28 God said 'I will pour out of my spirit upon all flesh; and your sons and your daughters shall prophesy'. Acts 2 records the fulfilment of this promise when on the day of Pentecost a hundred and twenty disciples were filled with the Holy Ghost. There were women in the upper room on that occasion, including Mary the mother of Jesus. Again, in Acts 21 we read that Philip the evangelist had four daughters and they all prophesied. Therefore, we have Scriptural grounds for believing there is a place for women in the ministry, as well as in other walks of life.

"I am glad of the many capable and faithful women in this Pentecostal movement. A great number of our churches have been pioneered by lady evangelists."

Mr. Greenwood paid tribute to the Reverend Mrs. Price's ability as a preacher and Bible teacher and stated that she is loved and respected throughout the district. She is a graduate of the Eastern Pentecostal Bible College and before her marriage she pastored churches in Newfoundland and Nova Scotia.

Guest soloist was Miss Irene McMillan of Toronto, who sang "Submission." Accompanying musicians were Rev. Hope Smith at the organ and Dr. Rev. Joseph Tubby at the piano. The Rev. Dr. Laurie Price was in charge of the service.

Bemersyde Ch. IODE Holds Regular Meet

CAMPBELLFORD — The monthly meeting of Bemersyde Chapter, I.O.D.E., was held recently at the home of Mrs. A. D. Barrett.

The meeting opened in the usual manner, with the Regent Mrs. George Vice in the chair. The Standard of the Order was not present at this meeting, as it was being carried in the Standard Bearers procession at the annual convention in Hamilton, by the Chapter delegate, Mrs. Florence Hopping.

Reports were heard from all offices and the group leaders. Mrs. Empire and world affairs convener, Mrs. Marie Locke, read a most interesting and timely article on the Cuban situation and its possible effect on the United States and the world as a whole. Mention was made of the recent scientific achievement of putting a man into space.

Mrs. Helen Anderson reported that the birthday tea was a decided success and thanked Mrs. Georgia Maybee for opening her home for the event.

Mrs. Mona Evans was the winner of the birthday cake which was made and decorated by Mrs. Lillian Fox.

The 42 members present discussed plans for a hospital tea party in charge of Ward 2. It was decided to hold it on Wednesday, May 10th, at the home of Mrs. G. Maybee, under the convenership of Mrs. June Bennett and Mrs. Marie Locke.

It was announced that Mrs. Florence Benor, the only life member of Bemersyde Chapter has been elected once more as representative of the area to serve on the Provincial Council for I.O.D.E. The election took place at the convention in Hamilton. This is a great honor for Mrs. Benor and Bemersyde Chapter. Her fellow members expressed their wishes for her continued success in her work for the Order.

Refreshments were served at the close of the meeting by Group 2. The May meeting will be served by Group 4.

White Cane Club Enjoys B.G.H. Talk

The April business meeting of the White Cane Club took place at the Recreation Centre on Thursday evening with vice president, Dick Philips, in the chair in the absence of president, Mildred Hudlow.

Pat Baverstock read the minutes in Braille. An invitation to visit the Lenox Braille Society in Peterborough in June was discussed.

A letter of sympathy will be sent to Mike O'Malley whose daughter passed away last Friday. Arlie Scott read nine birthdays for April and May and a rose was presented to each.

Gladys Silden, Theresa Chouinard and Walter Waite were made associate members of the club.

GUEST SPEAKER

Maude Rollins introduced Mrs. Lennox Smith, past president of the Hospital Auxiliary who gave a most interesting talk on the past, present and future of the Belleville General Hospital and the great need for more space. She also described the many projects of the auxiliary and passed around samples of puppets they made for the children's ward.

Mrs. Smith was thanked by Arlie Scott.

Pat Baverstock and Maude Hollins sang a duet the title of which was "And the Phone Bell Rang", which was quite in keeping with present day living. C.J.S.G. kindly lapsed an excellent address on "Unity" given by Carl Hallday which Clarence Morris played on his recording machine. This was well received.

Refreshments were served by the Kinettes and grateful thanks expressed by Violet Waite.

HOME SERVICE

MONTREAL (CP)—The Allan Memorial Institute of Psychiatry at Royal Victoria Hospital has established a pre-servicepreadmission home visits by social workers to patients, Mrs. Phyllis Poland, social service supervisor, says this means rehabilitation can begin at the time of diagnosis.

'Ecumenical Church' Topic At WA Meet

Mrs. W. G. Anderson, president of Bridge St. Church Women's Association, presided at the April meeting.

Reports were heard from secretaries and treasurer.

Mrs. D. G. Williams, convener of the "Silhouette Tea" to be held at the Parsonage, presented a report. Miss Helen Sulman was appointed delegate to the Presbytery Woman's Association meeting at Marmora.

The program under the leadership of Mrs. J. Parrott, and Mrs. K. Bird and their group, began with the singing of a Spring hymn. The worship service led by Mrs. J. B. Casey and Mrs. A. E. Miles, was based on a passage from Revelation. As in springtime, so rejoice in the new life around us, so John of Patmos saw his vision in a springtime of the soul.

Mrs. Allan Gardiner sang "God Hath not Promised Skies Always Blue".

GUEST SPEAKER

Mrs. R. W. T. Middleton, guest speaker, was introduced by Mrs. Parrott. The Association members look forward always to Mrs. Middleton's messages and were once again obsessed and challenged by her address.

Her topic was the 'World or Ecumenical Church'. When Jesus told his followers 'Other sheep I have which are not of this fold', His plan must have been for one flock under one shepherd.

One important step toward one church or church union when three denominations joined together forward step will be the new organization 'United Church Women', which will unite existing women's organizations.

The World Council of Churches, which includes all but four communions, is another forward step toward the goal of a World Church.

The speaker pointed out that there have been set-backs in this hoped for union. Race prejudice where a man is judged by the color of his skin, rather than by the kind of person he is, has divided people. Instead of saying with Kipling, 'East is east and west is west and never the twain shall meet,' 'let us remember Christ there is no east or west'.

LACK OF LEADERS

"Lack of leaders is another hindrance. Trained Christian leaders are those who are trained in the ways of Christ — brave to withstand the evils of the day; putting service to the church above anything else. Pilate is an example of one who feared to follow his convictions".

"In Bible history, the people whom God chose as leaders, were ordinary people, pursuing their everyday lives. The promise, 'Lo, I am with you always,' gave the needed strength."

Mrs. Middleton's fine address carried a real challenge to her listeners 'to do as God wants them to do, to go where He sends them to go with no questions asked,' thus helping to establish the World Church.

Mrs. H. S. Robbins expressed the thanks of all for such a helpful message.

Rye Bread

By Mary Moore

In the past week I have made three batches of rye bread working from a recipe given to me by Minnie Ridgway, in Waterlot.

The reason I have done this is because we have so many transplanted Europeans in Canada now. Some of these folks have written to me asking for the recipe for rye bread that has more rye flour in it than the loaves they can purchase.

As you know, rye flour does not contain nearly as much gluten as wheat flour, so the dough has to be given extra kneading.

I have tried making it with one and with two packages of yeast and have discovered that one package is sufficient. The following amounts yield two loaves of full-flavored, first-class economical bread. Toasted it is excellent.

Dinner Menus

by Mary Moore

MONDAY

HOMEMADE RYE BREAD
(3 loaves):

One and one-half cups scalded milk, 2 tablespoons caraway seeds (optional), 1 cake or 1 granular yeast, 1 teaspoon sugar, 2-3 cup lukewarm water, 2 tablespoons shortening, 1 tablespoon salt, 1-4 cup table molasses, 2½ cups sifted flour (bread flour is recommended but all-purpose will do; if bread flour is not available), 4 cups sifted rye flour.

METHOD

I bought rye flour at a large seed and flour and feed store.

Scald the milk until it forms a thin film on top and bubbles at edge. If caraway seeds are used add them to the milk while scalding to soak and soften them. In large mixing bowl measure shortening and salt and molasses. Pour hot milk (and caraway seeds if used) over them and allow to cool to lukewarm. (Slide of bowl should just feel warm to your hand.) While milk mixture is cooling measure the 2-3 cup lukewarm water into small bowl, add the 1 teaspoon sugar. Sprinkle yeast over top, give it one little stir and allow to soak and rise for 10 minutes. When milk mixture is lukewarm stir in yeast liquid and then add to the milk until batter is smooth. Stir in rye flour with strong spoon, being sure that clear white collects in sifter is added too. Turn out on rye-flour-sprinkled board and knead for 5 minutes or 100 knuckle turns. Set in a tall, shape into football-shaped or round loaves. Place 6" apart on greased cookie sheet. Grease lot butter tops. Cover and let rise at room temperature for 1 1-3 hours or until fully doubled in size and light feeling to a pat test touch. Bake at 375 deg. Fahr. about 30 to 35 minutes. Tap top of loaf to listen for hollow sound which indicates loaf is baked. Cool on racks uncovered. Butter top while loaves are warm if desired.

Energetic Club Entertains Other Groups

On Wednesday the Energetic Club of Holloway St. United Church entertained the Tri-M and Chi Rho Circles.

A game which tested the skill of the contestants in matching pieces of magazine advertisements, entertained the guests until the meeting began.

Audrey Brethour and Dorothy Bowes conducted the worship service in the church. The church was darkened and the picture "Light of the World" was illuminated and used as a background for the devotional.

GUEST SPEAKER

At the close of the worship service the meeting moved to the Sunday School rooms where president Phyllis Lucas welcomed the members of Chi Rho and Tri-M clubs. She introduced the guest speaker, Mrs. Cecil Smith who is a missionary on leave from her post in Bonner, Mrs. Smith spoke of the people and customs of the country and related her experience in the coastal mountain and jungle regions of Northern Rhodesia. Pauline Chadwick thanked Mrs. Smith.

The club was reported for brief business periods.

Next on the program was a fashion contest in which the contestants were required to display newspaper costumes for their husbands. This was followed by a mock wedding.

MODERN MANNERS

READERS ARE PET PEEVES

Almost every letter I receive includes the writer's pet peeves." Every now and then I collect some of these together and present them to my readers, asking my question: "Is this you?" Here are a few collected recently.

Do you "drop in" on your friends at odd hours? Unless you are paying a formal afternoon call, it is extremely unfair not to telephone the person you intend to visit, asking if it is convenient for you to call. This gives them a chance to excuse themselves, or to say "delighted, come ahead!" I feel so strongly about this "dropping in" business, that I never, even visit my next-door neighbor (of whom I am very fond) without calling first to make sure it is all right with her. I think this procedure should be followed regardless of how well you know people.

Even worse than the casual "drop by for a minute" visitor, is the one who arrives late in the afternoon, shortly before dinner time. I live in the throes of feeding and bedding down your tired youngsters, and cooking dinner at the same time. This is all obvious to the unwelcome visitor. It bothers her (for him) not one whit. Comfortably ensconced on the living room sofa, she prepares to have a nice chat. Finally, in sheer desperation, you invite her to stay for dinner, even though two pork chops won't stretch three ways! This procedure is inexcusable, and is the height of thoughtless folks who ought to know better!

On the other side of the ledger is the persisten hostess who calls to invite you to dinner on Friday evening. You refuse because of a previous engagement. She persists, "Well, what night can you make it?" This leaves you in the position where you must accept on this same date! Perhaps you don't particularly care for the person who is giving the party, but you feel obligated to call, and let it go at that.

Another pet peeve is contained in complaints about the people who, when you are dining in a restaurant, blithely help themselves to join you. Whether you like it or not, you're stuck. Friends who cultivate this habit should realize that it is much more thoughtful to smile a greeting when they see you at a restaurant. If no invitation is forthcoming from you, they should keep going and seat themselves at another table.

If you, yourself, are guilty of any of the above-mentioned habits — and they can definitely hurt your popularity rating with your friends — be honest with yourself and mend your ways!

GETTING OLDER

At the beginning of the century life expectancy of Canadians at birth was about 40 years but now is 70.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

Trudy B. — I could win a divorce easily.

Carole A. — She should try to save her marriage.

Trudy B. — A person only has one life to live. I've made a mistake in handing my life over to a man like Steve, and I owe it to myself and my children to try to get under and find a little happiness. Even if I can't charge adultery, I can sue him for every kind of cruelty and I'm sure I'd win my case.

The man has abused me physically and mentally. If I think marriage entitles him to a female slave. As to the baby, he's only two but he clings to me like glue when his father's on the scene. I'd better take steps while I'm still in control.

My friend, Carole, however, insists I'm wrong to want out. She says I should hang on.

Carole N. — I've known Trudy for her 27 and I'm 38. I'm trying to save me from going through what I went through and am regretting — the too-hasty winding up of a difficult marriage.

In my case, adultery on my husband's part did enter into my decision. Even so, looking back, I know I had something to do with driving him into it. There was no reason to welcome for him at home. The children was a love three of them — or my parents took priority and I was too blind to realize how we were crowding him out.

Now I feel that with the help of marriage counselling at the clinic, and some real effort on my part first, I'd have given my marriage back on the track. Today, I'm lonely, my children are deprived.

The Council — There's one word that ought never be used in connection with a divorce — the word "win." In the snipping of a bond, physical and legal and emotional, nobody really "wins," and everybody loses a lot. Carole is a true friend to urge the alternative of marriage counselling upon Trudy.

Without going into the grounds which Trudy claims she has for a divorce, we'll assume she has them in sufficient supply to satisfy the laws in some easy-divorce states. We'd rather discuss Carole's "slow down and cool off" advice, while there's still time.

Dr. Paul Popenoe of the American Institute of Family Relations insists, after 30 years of work with warring couples, that "most marriages can be saved with only a moderate amount of effort." By "moderate" he asks for at least some attention and concentration one puts into the care of a car, or teeth, or a garden. He claims, for example, that only four sessions at an institute like his has turned the tide for thousands of weak and shaky married bands like Steve (seen separately at first).

Wading through the high-tension currents here, we would say to Trudy: Certainly you started out with high hopes when you married Steve. You loved each other and had a baby. What you each lacked, obviously, was a true idea of what marriage entitled you to receive, and forced you to give. So you expected too much, held back too much, and crushed the sweetness out of a pulsating, hopeful bond.

Carole raises another reason for a long Think-Session. It's not easy to settle into a new marriage for that "little happiness." Men don't break their necks to marry a divorcee with children. Too many present and future complications in the picture!

So, see your marriage counselor first, not your lawyer!

Successful Living

(A Canadian Social Worker Helps with Human Problems)

Football Hero Poor Husband

DORIS CLARK

DEAR DORIS:—At 20 I quit university, with one year to go for a degree in order to marry a football hero. Then I helped him to get his degree by coaching him.

My reward is a husband who thinks all a wife wants is to stay at home. My two children pin me down enough, without him going out night after night with his gang and leaving me alone.

He is also very sloppy and leaves clothes and shoes any old place. Don't athletes learn anything about being tidy.

I still love the guy but I wish I could raise him. What do you think of this mess?—PUNKINSHELL.

DEAR PUNKINSHELL — How long-suffering can you get?

It appears you are his coach, his mother, his wife and his slave. And you are right—he still needs raising.

He swaggers and walks out on you because the demands on married life are tough for him and he needs the security of his peer-group. This is teen-ager talk; the sign of the adolescent. Some people take a long while to grow out of it.

The secret of unkindness lies in background, not in physical prowess. Many athletes are tidy and well-disciplined; but the training which produces neatness comes from home and mother.

Just grinning and bearing it isn't good enough. Talk him into feeling that you and the children need his company more than the gang does. He can teach the children some games. Get him to help you teach them to be tidy.

He was bright enough to get his degree (with coaching). He may take your ideas to heart. Then, if you can keep on loving him a lot, and long enough, you may make a man of him yet.

DEAR DORIS:—Some time ago you wrote about the predicament of that middle child. It got me to thinking about my second child. Then I read Anne Lindbergh's book "Gift From the Sea" and decided I'd do something about it.

You said each child needed his special place in the sun. Mrs. Lindbergh stressed the importance of doing special things with each of her children to get to know each one individually.

Result: Last week my nine-year-old and I tripped off to another city, took a hotel room, visited the museum, shopped for a new suit for him, had breakfast in bed and dinner in a restaurant.

We cuddled, played and talked together as we've never done before.

Now when he comes to me for some small service his eyes have that we-have-a-secret look and in the family group he speaks up with more confidence. Is this what you meant? It's wonderful what two days away can do!—GRACE.

DEAR GRACE:—Good for you! With many a busy mother it is more a matter of noticing a child's need than it is not caring. When the middle one rebels—or retires into his shell (which is worse)—he may not need punishing but playing up. The wise mother takes the hint.

We can't all take a trip, but a shopping spree or a 20-minute walk as a twosome, or just a good cuddle with a young pal can make him feel special. One swallow doesn't make a summer (worse luck), so keep it up.

Congolese Students Make Teaching a Pleasure Says Teacher From Quebec City

By PETER BUCKLEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LEOPOLDVILLE (CP)—Arnel Larochelle pointed to the mathematics problem on the blackboard and asked in French: "And the square root of 64 is . . . ?"

"Eight," came back the immediate reply—an enthusiastic shout—from the rows of Congolese pupils in the small, austerely decorated classroom before him.

Later, the 27-year-old teacher from Quebec City talked quietly but warmly about his students.

"They make teaching a pleasure. They're sympathetic and work well, and they're eager to learn."

Larochelle is one of six teachers from Quebec province who arrived in The Congo early in February. The leader of the group, Guy Rivet, 28-year-old Chateauguay school principal, remained less than two months before returning to Montreal on grounds of ill health.

ALL IN 288

Rivet had been stationed at a school in Coquilhatville, capital of northwestern Equator province, along with Jean Blanchard, 27, of Quebec and Jacques Lacroix, 24, of Pointe-Gatineau.

Yvon Perron, 25, of Lac-au-Saumon is teaching all Luluabourg in central Kasai province, while Albert Racicot of Montreal is at a school near the Congolese army base of Thysville, 75 miles southwest of here.

All were brought to The Congo by UNESCO—the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization — at the request of the Congolese government.

Faced with a critical shortage of qualified teachers in a country where education was just taking root in the arid soil of superstition and ignorance, Congolese authorities turned to UNESCO.

There now are about 70 teachers from such countries as Haiti, France, Mexico, Switzerland, Denmark, Canada and even Formosa.

PROGRAM HAD SNAGS

The program has been far from a complete success. At one time, nearly half the teachers were wandering about Leopoldville without assignments.

In some cases, bureaucratic confusion kept teachers idle while others were behind-worked into the ground. Some declined to work in the provinces.

Arnel Larochelle has been among the lucky ones. Although harassed by difficulties with accommodation and transportation, he was quickly placed in a school in Leopoldville and given work that proved satisfying.

The school is St. Georges, housing 1,750 Congolese pupils in the heart of Leopold II—the oldest African quarter in the city.

Larochelle is one of six teachers for the 150 secondary school pupils.

"The program is quite different from that in Quebec," he said. "Here, they follow the Belgian system and, for example, the teaching of mathematics involves more demonstrations and theory than actual problems."

He has 23 hours of courses a week in mathematics and drawing, plus four hours of study supervision.

HOURS ARE SHORTER

"I'm the only one among the UNESCO teachers who finds himself with less work than at home. The others all complain of long hours."

The Canadian teachers, were hired after answering newspaper advertisements of UNESCO's appeal for teachers.

CANADIAN CONGO TEACHER — Mathematics teacher Arnel Larochelle of Quebec City, one of six Canadian teachers working in The Congo, instructs a class of native students at Leopoldville's St. Georges School. The teachers were hired by the United Nations at the request of the Congolese government to fill vacancies created by the exodus of Belgian teachers following last summer's rioting. (CP Photo).

Under their contract, UNESCO pays the same salary they would receive in Canada and their transportation to The Congo, with the Congolese authorities providing housing and transportation.

"But two months after I arrived I had still not unpacked my bags," Larochelle said. He has moved temporarily to a comfortable apartment after living monastically in a school dormitory and then in an aged villa miles from St. Georges School.

Despite the drawbacks, Larochelle says he is happy in his new job.

"At the moment, I feel that conditions are satisfactory. I would like to return for another year, preferably after a holiday in Canada during the summer."

Cross Canada Survey

Delays Caused by Heavy Ice And Labor Unrest Combine To Make Predictions Risky

By ALEXANDER FARRELL
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The people who make their living in the shipping business in Montreal—Canada's largest port—had their fingers crossed as the 1961 summer navigation season got under way.

Delays caused by heavy ice in the St. Lawrence River and labor unrest combined to complicate efforts to predict how much business the port is likely to do this year.

In other major ocean ports, a Cross-Canada Survey by The Canadian Press showed, there is restrained optimism. Vancouver is off to a slow start but expects a pickup in activity during the summer. Halifax and Saint John, N.B., both of which do most of their business in the winter months when the St. Lawrence and Great Lakes are frozen, hope to match or better last summer's trade. And Quebec City foresees a repetition of 1960's good summer shipping season.

It was not until late in April that traffic on the Montreal waterfront reached respectable proportions. The first ocean-going vessel docked in Montreal from overseas March 27 but ice conditions — the worst in 40 years in the Gulf of St. Lawrence — imposed two to three weeks' delay before the harbor began to bustle with its usual early-spring activity.

STRIKE THREATENED

Then there were persistent reports of labor unrest that could affect this year's business prospects in Montreal and ports farther inland.

Montreal's 2,700 stevedores, members of the International Longshoremen's Association (CLC), were asking for higher wages and revised working conditions under threat of going on strike. Federal mediator Remi Duquette has recommended that the dispute be referred to a conciliation board.

There was discontent, both in labor and management ranks, caused by the participation of British ships in Canadian domestic commerce.

By treaty, Canadian ships may handle domestic trade in British waters but, Canadian ship-owners say, this is a meaningless privilege because British ships have lower operating costs.

Finally, the St. Lawrence Seaway continues to be a question mark in the minds of Montreal shipping people. Does it menace the future of the port of Montreal?

Manager Guy Beaudet said at least 12 more shipping lines have been attracted to the St. Lawrence route since the seaway opened in 1959 and are making Montreal a regular port of call.

LIKE SHOE STORE

"It is just like a shoe store expanding its lines. The more lines that can be offered to a customer, the more prosperous the shoe store can expect to be."

The seaway, he said, is precisely the reason why Montreal port business has remained steady despite a world-wide recession in the shipping industry since 1958.

"It has kept us on an even keel and this year, because of anticipated heavy grain exports, should be one of our best in 10 years."

Montreal's cargo traffic has been of the order of 17,000,000 tons annually for the last five years.

Meanwhile, the usual summer lull has set in on the east coast. Halifax port manager J. R. Mitchell said business should be as good this summer as last, but this still means a season substantially below the wintertime level.

Halifax and Saint John have an average annual cargo tonnage of 7,500,000 and 2,750,000 respectively, but summer trade rarely accounts for as much as one-fifth of it.

Saint John port manager D. M. Vye said he is "reasonably optimistic" that the pattern of the last three summers will continue. Cargo traffic climbed to 418,000 tons during the 1960 summer season, April 1 to Oct. 31, compared to 252,000 in 1959.

VANCOUVER HOPEFUL

On the west coast, Capt. R. D. L. Johnson, Vancouver port manager, reported that business so far in 1961 has been below the 1960 level.

He predicted, however, that the situation will improve considerably during the summer. He said he expects sharp increases in the export of grain to China and the Soviet Union and of lumber and coal to Japan.

Vancouver's annual cargo tonnage for the last five years has averaged 12,100,000, foreign trade accounting for about 7,000,000 tons a year.

Last year Vancouver was the only one of the six largest federally operated ports to make money. With an operating income of $4,139,000, exceeded only by Montreal, it showed a net surplus of $946,000.

Quebec City port officials expect 1961 to be a carbon copy of 1960, when business was "good." Annual cargo tonnage has averaged 4,300,000 in recent years.

The port set a record last year, its 4,285,123 tons of cargo slightly surpassing the 1956 total of 4,261,246 tons.

Gore

GORE — Centre W.A. held its April meeting at the home of Mrs. Alfred Cairns with a good attendance.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Fox visited Mrs. Fox's brother, Mr. Burr of Burr's neighborhood, on Saturday.

A number from the Gore attended the congregational meeting for the Redneerville pastoral charge, at Redneerville church on Tuesday evening. The Rev. Coleman of Belleville was in charge. Following the business session, lunch was served and a social time enjoyed.

Mr. and Mrs. George Price and Mr. and Mrs. Everett Price of Selby spent Tuesday evening with their sister, Mrs. M. Pulver.

Mesdames F. Townsend, S. Fox, T. Green, W. Pulver and Miss Audra Brickman from the Gore attended the W.A. rally held at Hillier United Church on Wednesday. A good program was enjoyed. Mrs. Dobbs of Belleville and Mrs. Kingsley of Northport were the guest speakers.

Mrs. Gerald Brooks, River Valley, spent Friday with her daughter, Mrs. Morris Pulver and family.

Willie Mays Hit 4 Homers In Game

Sets Record For Giants

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Staff Writer

Ten Giants of other years, including such illustrious names as Melvin Ott, Bill Terry, Johnny Mize, George Kelly and Roger Connor, hit three home runs in one game.

But it remained for Willie Mays, of the 1961 Giants, to become the first in the history of the club to hit four in one game.

Wondrous Willie did it Sunday, a feat accomplished previously by only eight major league players—actually six in a nine-inning game—as his San Francisco mates belped him bury Milwaukee Braves, 14-4.

The victory, coupled with Pittsburgh's split of a doubleheader in Cincinnati, boosted the Giants into first place in the National League.

DOUBLEHEADERS SPLIT

In other National League games, Philadelphia defeated St. Louis 11-7 in 10 innings, and Los Angeles divided a pair with Chicago, The Cubs won the nightcap 9-6 after the Dodgers had taken the opener 2-1. The Pirates beat Cincinnati 4-3 in the first game but the Reds won the second 4-2 to snap an eight-game losing streak.

The Giants set or tied a flock of records. They hit eight home runs, including two by Jose Pagan and one each by Orlando Cepeda and Willie Kirkland, to equal the major league mark for most homers in one game.

With five homers the day before, the Giants set a National League mark of 13 in two games. Henry Aaron had two homers for the Braves to give the two teams a record tying 10 homers in a game.

Billy Loes was the winner. He went all the way, giving up eight hits for his second victory.

Aaron drove in all four Milwaukee runs.

EIGHT STRAIGHT LOSS

Pittsburgh dropped Cincinnati into last place, handing the Reds their eighth straight defeat in the opener. The Reds retaliated by knocking the Pirates out of first place with their second game triumph.

Bob Friend won his fourth in a row in the opener but the Pirates had to call on Elroy Face in the ninth to retire the last three batters. Four hits, capped by Billy Birdon's triple, produced three Pirate runs in the fifth and sent Cincinnati right-hander Jay Hook to the showers with his second defeat.

Bob Purkey hurled a six-hitter for his third Reding victory in the nightcap. Shortstop Leo Cardenas drove in a pair of runs with a double and two singles off loser Joe Gibbon.

CUBS RECOVER

The Cubs, shaking off a tough 2-1 opening game loss to the Dodgers on Tommy Davis's two-run homer in the ninth, scored seven runs in the second inning of the nightcap for a split in their doubleheader.

Chicago reached Dodger starter Roger Craig for five hits in that riotous inning. Billy Williams, Earl Heist, Dick Bertell and winning pitcher Bob Anderson singled and Don Zimmer chased Craig with a double.

The Phillies spotted the Cardinals a 5-0 lead and then scored seven runs in the eighth and four in the 10th to win their second straight from St. Louis. Johnny Callison, Tony Taylor and Pancho Herrera each rapped seven hits and drove in eight runs among them, knocked in the 10th inning tallies.

Tough Test For Drivers In Rally

By HARRY CALDECK
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP)—More than 500 miles of rugged northern Ontario roads faced drivers in the Trans-Canada Rally today as they rolled toward Port Arthur in the second leg of the gruelling auto test.

By morning-time, 106 cars in the 4,100-mile event to Vancouver from Montreal, will find Sunday's 20-mile section from Montreal to here little more than a pleasant Sunday drive.

There were no casualties Sunday as complicated instructions sent entries mainly over paved highways, giving navigators a chance to practise with slide rules. But a treacherous strip of swamp and alpine-like hills less than a half-mile long tested drivers' mettle.

Some cars reached the hill climb at the Morgorn motor racing circuit 90 miles east of here after dark and had to battle mud chewed up by preceding cars. Not all of them made it.

An immaculate white Mercedes-Benz 190SL bogged down in the swamp. Navigator Joe Ambrosy of Philadelphia, also immaculate in white uniform, socks and shoes stepped out to push and sank to his knees in muck.

The car was disqualified when a dozen course marshals had to step in to free it.

The hill climbs, along with driving skill contests at Winnipeg, Regina, Edmonton and Vancouver, will only be used to decide a winner in event of a tie.

The rally is not a race. Instructions given to crews at the start of each leg dictate average speeds and roads to be followed. Penalty points are assessed for each minute late or early at dozens of secret check points.

Drivers and navigators, many of them professionals in the sport from Europe, the United States and Canada, are shooting for 71 trophies and $6,000 in cash prizes.

Defeat Oil Kings 4-2

St. Mike's Game Away From Title

EDMONTON (CP) — Time is running out on Edmonton's fifth bid to capture the Memorial Cup and Canada's junior hockey crown. Up to now, all has ended in failure.

The city's Oil Kings, Western Canada champions, clash with Toronto St. Michael's College Majors tonight in the fourth game of their best-of-seven final. They must win to avoid being knocked out of the series in straight games.

The stage was set Saturday night with the Majors' third straight win, a 4-2 decision that gave them a 3-0 margin in the set. Majors won the first game 4-3 and the second 4-1.

Coach Buster Brayshaw of the Oil Kings played a round of golf Sunday and tried to forget something he couldn't understand.

"It's hard to believe we could play like we have in the last two games and be three games down," he said. "I'm not giving up the ship. With any kind of breaks at all, we should be good for a win.

"I said before the series that their team's a team in Canada that could beat our club four straight games . . . and I still think so."

St. Michael's got the "big effort when needed" Saturday night from Stan (Sonny) Osborne, playing his first game of the series after being delayed in Toronto writing University of Toronto examinations. Osborne scored three tims and assisted in the fourth St. Michael's goal by Larry Keenan.

Coach Rev. David Bauer of the Majors had praise for the performance of goaltender Jerry Cheevers. Cheevers held off Edmonton in a hard-fought second period in which the Kings tied the score 1-1.

Again it was close checking that gave the victory margin to the college club. The Oil Kings had a territorial margin, but Toronto checking prevented many dangerous shots at the Majors' goal.

Toronto got the lone first-period goal while Edmonton forward Dennis Keating was sitting out a penalty. Osborne, just outside the crease, picked up a deflected passout from Terry Clancy.

THE HIT

Kings tied the score at 13:30 of the second on a 40-foot shot by Hextall. Toronto had two men in the penalty box at the time.

Toronto went ahead 3-1 at 8:14 of the third period when Bob Cox of Kings was in the penalty box. Osborne slid Bruce Draper's pass from behind the net into an open corner.

Osborne got his third goal a minute later, taking advantage of sloppy Edmonton clearing. Chis closed out the scoring at 16:26.

"Greatest Day of Career"

Ninth To Hit Homer Four

By DAVE O'HARA

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Willie Mays, San Francisco Giants' great centrefielder, has found a sure way to break out of a slump.

The cure: The most explosive hitting performance of his nine-year career.

The former "Say, hey" kid, now a poised veteran of nearly 30, became the ninth player in major league history to hit four homers in a game Sunday as the Giants buried Milwaukee Braves 14-4 with a spectacular display of power.

Hitless in seven times at bat in two previous games against the Braves, Mays admitted he was concerned about a slump.

"The last couple of days I didn't hit a ball good at all," Mays said. "And now this. It's the greatest day of baseball in my career. Anytime a fella hits four homers in one game it should be his greatest day."

TEAM SETS MARKS

Mays led a San Francisco assault against seven Milwaukee pitchers. The Giants belted no less than eight homers, which added to their five in a 7-3 victory Saturday, equalled major league records for one game and two consecutive games.

Mays crashed his first homer into the centrefield bleachers in the first inning off Milwaukee starter Lew Burdette. Then he hit a second game 400 foot left centre off another Burdette delivery in the third.

In the fifth, Willie lined sharply to centre against Moe Drabowsky, the third Braves pitcher, before he teed off on a 1-0 pitch by Bob Moreland in the next inning.

JUST AS WELL

"It's probably just as well I didn't get another chance up there," Mays said. "I probably wouldn't have done anything as I would have been pressing."

Mays drove in eight runs, four shy of the National and Major League records, tied by Jim Bottomley.

Willie boosted his home run output to six for the season—and 285 in his career. He's hitting .333.

Tigers, Orioles Split

Yanks Hand Donovan Fourth Loss

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Staff Writer

Dick Donovan of Washington has joined the list of the best pitcher in the American League, and the Yankees' worst—but he certainly is the unluckiest.

The right hander has made four starts this year and he's lost all four. All four defeats have been by one run and in none has yet yielded more than four runs. His earned run average is a low 2.75.

Donovan, 33, was charged with his fourth consecutive defeat Sunday when New York Yankees beat him 4-3 in the opening game of a doubleheader that's split by winning the second game, 5-2.

Detroit was held to a split by Baltimore but increased its first place lead over Minnesota to a full game when the White Sox defeated the Twins 5-3 in 11 innings. It was the third straight loss for the Twins, sending them into a second place tie with Baltimore's Orioles. The Orioles won their second game, 6-2 but lost the second 4-2.

Cleveland and Boston also split a pair, the Indians winning the nightcap 10-1 after the Red Sox had won the opener 4-2 on a triumph. Los Angeles won its third straight, defeating Kansas City 6-1 behind Johnny Podres' 12th of the A's took the second game 5-4.

The Red Sox played in Cleveland without Jackie Jensen, their slugging right fielder who had rejoined the club this season. Jensen left the team and left the club without giving a reason.

Boston won the opener on Vic Wertz' two-run homer in the fifth inning and Bill Monbouquette his first victory. He scattered six hits. Cleveland went on a 14-hit campaign in the second game as right hander Wynn Romano pitched a five-hitter. The Francona led the Indians with three hits, including a three-run homer.

Held to two singles through the first six innings, Chicago's new Steve Barber of the Orioles. The Tigers suddenly exploded for eight runs in the next two innings to win the opener. Rookie Mike Sherman Steve Boros had three hits for Detroit and Phil Regan hurled two hitless relief innings for his first major league triumph.

The Orioles won the nightcap on successive seventh inning homers by Jim Gentile, Gus Triandos and Ron Hansen, tying a major league record. The Orioles' Dave Nicholson, Hector Brown his first victory.

DROVE IN WINNER

Whitey Ford, with the relief help of Luis Arroyo, gained his third victory for decision in the Yankees' opening game victory. Clete Boyer drove in what proved to be the winning run with an eighth inning single that scored Bill Skowron. Catcher Dutch Dotterer's double drove in the winning run for Washington in the nightcap as southpaw Hal Woodeshick registered his first victory.

The White Sox snapped a 2-2 tie in the top of the 11th to hand the Twins their third straight defeat. After Jim Landis had broken a 2-2 tie with a run-scoring single, Roy Sievers clouted a two-run homer.

Pinch hitter Lenon Wagner smashed a two-run homer for Los Angeles in the seventh, giving the Angels their third straight triumph in the opener. Rookie southpaw Jim Archer won his first major league game for the A's in the second. Rookie shortstop Dick Howser drove in what proved to be the winning run with a single in the top of the ninth.

Saturday's scores: Cleveland 2, New York 4; Baltimore 5, Washington 0; Boston 2, Detroit 0; Chicago 7 Kansas City 1; Minnesota 1, Los Angeles 4.

Rainbows Dominate Loch

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Big Rainbows, as expected, dominated the opening of Ontario's trout season Saturday.

Low temperatures and snowflurries didn't daunt the thousands who rushed to the southern Georgian Bay rivers where the Rainbows' spring spawning run is in full swing.

Some of the best opening-day catches in years were reported in the Sydenham and Pottawatomi rivers, which flow through Owen Sound, and in Bothwell's Creek a few miles to the east. Trollers in the harbor and bay had only limited success.

Glen Juniper and Floyd Cummings of Owen Sound got eight rainbows ranging up to seven pounds from Bothwell's Creek. Marty Hobkirk, Darryl Blair and Tom Payne collected five Rainbows apiece from the Sydenham, from the Rosmoyne area down to the city.

At Durham, 30 miles south of Owen Sound, Morris Dreith of Durham caught 24 trout, averaging 10 inches and others up to 20 inches were reported.

No accidents.

A record number of anglers invaded Meaford, where the Big Head River flows into Georgian Bay, some camping along the harbor with overnight. No notable catches came to light, however.

Biggest Rainbow reported came from Shelter Valley Creek in the Cobourg area. This Lake Ontario tributary gave up a 10½-pounder to Ray Cooney of Grafton, and a nine-pounder.

In the North, where lakes were covered with ice but not strong enough to support a fisherman's weight, fishing was reported as not spectacular.

Four-Mile Lake, four miles south of Latchford, was stocked with speckled trout this spring and was a popular centre although still largely ice-covered.

Some bush anglers roamed over the ice and at least one took a ducking. Another angled his boat out on the ice, chopped a hole and fished from the boat.

Ed Mantle, Haileybury conservation officer, said 325 speckled trout were caught in the lake Sunday morning but only a handful the rest of the day.

Richmond Hands Leafs Twin Losses

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Richmond Virginians pointed with pride today to three new stars who figured in a double victory that highlighted nip-and-tuck baseball struggles all over the International League Sunday.

The three are outfielder Don Lock, utility infielder George Hasey and relief pitcher Hal Reniff.

Here's what they did in Richmond's 4-3 and 5-4 conquests of Toronto's Maple Leafs: Lock and Risley both hit home runs in each game, Hasey's big blow won the first game: lasly's sacrifice fly won the second, Reniff was credited with the victories in both tilts.

Eight games were played in the IL Sunday. Seven were decided by a single run.

Jersey City nipped Rochester twice by identical scores of 4-3; Syracuse split with San Juan, 3-0 and 3-2, and front-running Columbus split a pair with Buffalo, winning the opener 5-0 before bowing 1-0.

Habs May Take Over Vancouver

VANCOUVER (CP)—Vancouver Canucks of the Western Hockey League, who for 12 years have had a close affiliation with New York Rangers of the NHL, may latch on with Montreal Canadiens.

Top officials of the Canadiens are considering a Vancouver request that Montreal supply players to the Canucks, it is reported.

An overture was made for a working agreement with Canadiens after it was learned the Rangers may switch their main WHL player supply from Vancouver to the new Los Angeles entry.

Eastern Loop Eyes Entries

NEW YORK (AP)—The board of governors of the Eastern Hockey League overhauled the league's constitution and bylaws Sunday in preparation for welcoming applications from new members today.

Tom Lockhart, league president, said applications were on file from Washington, D.C., Knoxville, Tenn., and Jacksonville, Fla.

The principal change in the bylaws is an agreement by which any EHL player who is a United States citizen and eligible for the U.S. Olympic or world teams will help Rochester teams will be released by his club for the period of the championships if he is chosen for the team. The EHL club will be allowed a temporary replacement for such a player.

"We're out to beat the Russians," world ambassadors of sports and the Canadians in the Colorado Springs and we hope its an all-Eastern League team that does it," Lockhart said.

Comets Trim Sailors 12-3

NAPANEE, Ont. (CP)—Napanee Comets revenged Port Colborne Sailors 13-3 Saturday night in the first game of the best-of-seven all-Ontario Intermediate A final.

Two quick goals by the Comets in the opening minutes took the Sailors by surprise and they were never able to threaten the Napanee's fast-steating attack.

Neil Mahon, Port Colbourne defenceman, suffered a severe groin injury early in the game when he hit the end boards. He was taken from the ice on a stretcher. Cecil Gordon, Port Colbourne sectionman, was also shaken up in a goal - mouth scramble but returned after a brief rest.

It was a comparatively clean game with only eight minors till the last minute when Tod Culver and Tom Buck exchanged punches and were chased to the dressing room with majors.

The second game is here May 6.

OHA Retains Draft

Parents Get Brush-Off

TORONTO (CP) — A delegation of parents objected, to junior hockey's draft system Saturday, but made no headway.

The complaints were aired at the annual meeting of the Ontario Hockey Association, which retained the draft system with modifications.

He said: "Present regulations will stand for next year but for the 1962-63 season a new rule will prohibit players from moving players under 16 for the purpose of the draft.

The parents were led by Mr. and Mrs. Ken Black of Sudbury, who claimed the draft maimained the draft infringed on freedom of choice.

Pollock said the draft was put in the rules in the post-war era.

"There was a great resurgence of Junior A hockey after the war and our clubs were suffering outlandish sums to grab off the top players. I know because I was associated with one of the clubs. The draft was put in to protect ourselves."

WELLAND PROMOTERS

Tom Brooke of the Welland Junior B club protested spon sorship of Welland teams.

"We lost out to the Peterborough team that is sponsored by a Kinsmen Club team (Monteal Canadiens) and they had boys from several communities in," Brooke said.

"We can no longer be expected to go up against professional, pro-affiliated teams. It's ridiculous. We had a team made up of completely local boys and it's rough to run up against a pro-sponsored club."

St. Paul's Bob Gerrard was elected vice - president, Matt Leader of Oshawa, second vice - president and Frank Buckland of Peterborough secretary. Executives include Jack Devine, Frank Doherty, Al Thorold and Jack Oakes, Strathroy. W. A. Hewitt of Toronto was returned as secretary.

Gold Sticks in appreciation of service to hockey were presented to Gordon (Scotty) Harper of Woodstock and CAHA President Jack Roxburgh of Simcoe.

Joan Fontaine Says Sickness Makes One Self-Reliant

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Joan Fontaine breezed into town like a fresh breath of air and with some rare remarks about the difficulties of marriage and friendship in Hollywood.

The blonde actress displayed her old zip as she went through wardrobe tests for Tondelayo in the Hight, which she will make in Europe. She said she may do two more films this year as well as some television shows.

Her industry is remarkable, since for more than three years she was seriously ill with a succession of ailments.

"I'm very self - reliant," she said. "That's what being ill taught me. When you find yourself flat on your back, unable to work, to read or do anything, without friends to cheer you up —believe me, you learn self-reliance.

THINK IT'S ACT

"It's the hardest thing in the world for an actress to convince people she's sick. Even her own family thinks she's just putting on an act. The doctors kept telling me fevers can be induced psychosomatically."

Joan spoke without a trace of bitterness. Nor did she mention bitter knock her three ex-husbands (Brian Aherne, Bill Dozier, Collier Young), though she spoke pointedly about the married life of a film star.

"It's a very difficult situation. You work hard from dawn until midnight. Then you go home and your husband expects you to put in half time as a wife. If you don't, he is resentful."

Totems Bow To Portland

PORTLAND, Ore. (CP) — Portland Buckaroos beat Seattle Totems 6-3 Saturday night on 10,804 Sunday night to grab a 2-1 lead in their best-of-seven Western Hockey League final series.

The battle moves to Seattle, where the fourth game is set for Tuesday night and the fifth Thursday. If a sixth engagement is needed, it will be in Seattle Saturday night.

The turnout set a mark for both league and playoff games. Gord Kannegiesser, Bill Gadsby, Arlo Goodwin, Ron Mathews and Larry Keenan scored for Portland. Gord Sinclair, Marc Olleau and Eddie Stankiewicz replied for Totems.

TOGETHER AGAIN

Mickey Cochrane and Jack Cooper will join forces for the first time since 1936 when Mooney appears on the Henneseey TV series in May.

Doesn't Like Flying

Jackie Jensen Walks Out

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Jackie Jensen, 34, Boston Red Sox outfielder, was on his way home by train today after leaving the team without explanation.

Jensen, A.M.'s fan League's most valuable player in 1958, had been trying a comeback after staying out of baseball last year.

But his batting average for 15 games is only .130. The slump, some believe, may be back of Jensen's departure.

He ditched the club in Cleveland Saturday night, leaving only a brief message for manager Mike Higgins.

"Jackie said he would call me after we got to Kansas City," said Higgins, who arrived here with the Red Sox today. "But he didn't say when he would call. I understand he won't get home until Tuesday. I don't know why he left. We'll just have to bide our time until we can talk to him."

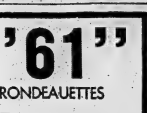
Jensen quit last year because he disliked plane travel and long absences from his family.

He signed this year for a reported $50,000 salary, explaining that a hypnotist had helped cure his fear of flying.

At the Jensen home in Crystal Bay, Nev., Jackie's wife said Sunday night she didn't know what was wrong.

"The children and I were getting ready to move to Boston for the summer. Then this happens. He's still a little bugged about flying, but not to this extent."

Mrs. Jensen said Jackie advised her by telegram: "Arriving on train in Reno. Don't jump to conclusions."



In a copyrighted interview with the Boston Daily Record, Mrs. Jensen said the fear "had just as soon as we can get away together for a few days, we'll be on our way back to Boston."

Dick O'Connell, vice - president of the Red Sox, said Jensen "is too fine an athlete and person for us to take any action against him until we know what his reasons are."

Rademacher Loses by Knockout

Rademacher was downed twice in the fourth round and once in the fifth by left-right combinations before Jones sent him down for the full count with a left to the head.

It was the 18th victory and the 10th knockout for Jones. For Rademacher, 32, it was the fourth knockout defeat in 18 pro fights.

Before referee Harry Kessler finished his count, Dr. Samuel Swetnick, New York State Athletic Commission physician, climbed into the ring to stop the bout. He had been yelling "stop it, stop it" to Kessler but the din of the crowd prevented the referee hearing him.

Science at Work

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

- Topics this week: Growling up, a glowing tail on the earth and the killing of whales.

HELP FOR PRE-ADULTS

One doctor recently suggested three I's for raising children: "Love them, love them and let 'em grow up." Now a Texas physician suggests three A's for helping teenagers over the bumps of growing up: acceptance, affection and approval.

"Two-eyed vision and sound controls and will be glad to accept them," says Dr. George A. Constant of Victoria, Tex.

"For instance they need to be told when they must be in at night. This gives them something to go by when they are chided by their friends to stay out later and later. The curfew must be within reasonable limits, of course."

During your prea with these guides: Preserve the teen — Protect health, insure property against destruction, and respect the legs, moral and religious codes of others.

LAKE DIET

Ohio's walleye has a mean reputation among Lake Erie fish. He eats other fish and almost nothing else.

Ohio State University researchers checked the stomach contents of some 14,000 fish and found the main dietary items of various kinds of fish to be water fleas, small shellfish, aquatic insects and other fish. Of fish the walleye dined heavily on water fleas. He catches eats anything at all.

THEREBY HANGS A TAIL

In the new galaxy at right is a strange lighted patch on the moon's new in the winter and spring.

"Most people don't realize that the moon has a tail like a comet," explains Dr. Edward Brooks of St. Louis University. "But it has a tail in view of the illuminated end of the tail."

The glow apparently is created by the hollow sleeve of gases pushed from the earth's atmosphere by the pressure of sunlight.

This means the earth leaves small part of its air, but it's such a puny amount there's no danger of running out.

ANTARCTIC SLAUGHTER

More than 1,000,000 whales have been taken from the antarctic waters in the last half-century—yielding more than 70,000,000 barrels of oil.

But whaling may be paying for their 60-day hunting season with a depleted stock of whales. There's little doubt the whales are being slaughtered faster than they can reproduce, says a report made to the National Academy of Sciences by Dr. Remington Kellog of the Smithsonian Institution.

Lone Piper Drowns Out Royal Speech

EDINBURGH (AP)—A lone bagpiper marched down the red carpeted ramparts of Edinburgh Castle Saturday drowned out a royal speech with the strains of a Scottish lament.

Her Royal Highness the Princess Royal, 64-year - old aunt of Queen Elizabeth, never got a word trying to make herself heard. But it was a losing battle.

The Princess, colonel in chief of the Royal Scots Regiment was there to open a regimental museum in the castle when the piper started his daily practice session—unaware of the royal presence nearby.

Standing proudly on the battlement came the Skye Boat Song, bursting out all but a few of the royal words. Kilted soldiers set off at a run to track down the piper, but they failed to find him before the princess was finishing her final sentence.

An army spokesman declined to name the piper's name, "He's a fine lad," the spokesman said. "He just didn't know about the ceremony and he's very, very sorry."

New Facilities Will Be Used Says Minister

TORONTO (CP)—Health Minister Dymond of Ontario forecast Saturday that the demand for treatment facilities for retarded children will be met by a combination of new hospitals and new treatment methods.

Speaking at the opening conference of the Ontario Association for Retarded Children, he said provincial officials in the province's hospital schools and the new Queen Elizabeth Institute for Children at London are pioneering new areas of activity, therapy, research and training programs.

Dr. Dymond said the new hospital school for 1,200 retarded children, soon to be opened at Cedar Springs, near London, is the last one of that type built by the province. All new facilities for retarded children will be a part of the community.

Six Baboons Have Merry Time in Airport

DALLAS, TEX. (AP) — A bunch of baboons had more fun than a barrel full of people at the Love Field Municipal Airport Saturday, but the human beings involved weren't laughing.

Six baby baboons huddled in a spooked crate as the creatures' shoulders together, scrambled loose in the American Airlines cargo building and headed for some high rafters.

For three hours they swung rafter to rafter, evading an army of airline employees and a small detachment of experts headed by Dallas Zoo director Floyd Fontaine.

A big game hunter finally lured the last escapee down with a banana on a long stick. When the baboon reached for it, he was lassoed.

Garden Notes

Battle Against Garden Pests

By FLORA M. SAVILLE

Don't wait until you see the holes of theirtrees before you start shooting at those garden pests. Begin now to use sprays and dusts to eliminate the army of bugs, worms and fungi that are still dormant. They'll come to life with the first warm days.

You do not need to know every bug and fungi by name. The new multiple purpose dusts and sprays will take care of most of them. On the other hand it is well to have a working knowledge of the enemy. Lilly-raries carry books with pictures of these pests and the damage they do so that you can identify the culprits. Two books that cover the field are "The Gardener's Bug Book" and "Plant Disease Hand Book" by Doctor Cynthia Westcott called "The Plant Doctor." The Department of Agriculture, Ottawa, and The Agriculture College at Guelph, Ontario have several leaflets on pests and their cures. Write for them.

Weather conditions affect spores and insects. Dry warm weather is favorable for the development of insects and damp weather, cool or warm brings out different types of fungi.

If possible spray for fungi before rain, so that the deterrant is present before the wet condition makes it possible for the fungi to infect the plant. When this is not possible spray as soon as the rain is over.

Whether you choose sprays or dusts is up to you. In dusting you do not have to mix materials and the kit is lighter to carry. On the other side, it is difficult to dust up into trees.

Whatever you use follow directions carefully and stand so that the dust or spray will not blow back onto you. It may be a very painful experience if you happen to get some of the dust or spray in your eyes or inhale it.

Have a spraying or dusting program and be thorough. If the directions call for a weekly spray do not expect to get good results when you spray once a month.

Some of the most frequent complaints come from the growers of roses, iris gladiolus and delphiniums.

In roses it is black spot, aphis, chafer and beetles. An all purpose dust or spray applied every ten or twelve days will keep them free. Look for those devastating little green worms, forlsem. Spray cases now, gather up all dead leaves and clippings and burn them and spray the soil around each plant. The fungi lives over winter on the soil.

The iris borer can be eliminated by cleaning out all old dead leaves as flower stocks. Spray the soil as well.

Delphiniums the cyclamen mite often blackens the top of flower spike, buds fail to open and the stock becomes distorted. Spray very early as soon as the buds begin to form, dilute, poisonous or an all purpose spray.

Gladiolus thrips feed on leaves and flowers leaving streaks. Use chlordane, lindane or DDT every two weeks. Soak corms in solution of DDT before planting.

If you have had trouble with tulips distorted or peonies that did not open, the buds twisted or blackened the cause is botrytis or "tulip fire". Clean up ground around plants, cut off dead stems and spray with bordeaux mixture or an all purpose spray, or dust. Burn dead leaves.

For oyster shell scale on lilacs and other shrubs apply a dormant spray before the foliage appears or use a Malathion spray when the creepers emerge. There are two seasons of hatching late spring and early fall.

Teeth Pulling Proves Fatal

VANCOUVER (CP)—Doctors early today lost a hard-fought battle to save the life of a woman whose heart stopped beating while she was having her teeth extracted.

Mrs. Louis Mitchell, 34, whose life was restored by difficult cardiac massage Friday, died early today, hospital officials said.

Doctors earlier gave her a 50, 50 chance of recovery.

Mrs. Mitchell's heart stopped while she lay under anaesthetic on a physicians' operating table while a dentist removed four teeth.

The physician, who asked that his name not be used, said he was able to restore the woman's heartbeat but got her pumping faintly with the breathing apparatus in his anaesthetic machine.

Bodies of Two Schoolgirls Found in Park

HOLLAND, Mich. (AP) — Police and volunteers searched today the bodies of two schoolgirls missing since Saturday. Pending autopsy and medical examiner, police declined to confirm reports that the girls had been shot to death.

The bodies were about 25 feet apart and covered with leaves, from which form a carpet in this dedicate area. The bodies lay about a four-minute walk from the home of both girls and about 150 feet south of a path crossed by scores of searchers since Saturday night.

Rex Webbert, 22, was first to come upon the body of 13-year-old Mary Jane Stoltz.

He was followed by Sgt. Edward Lemmon, who pointed out the slain police post at Grand Haven.

Webbert shouted, "I've found something." He parted the leaves with his foot and the lookers saw Margaret's red jacket.

Within moments another man shouted, "Here's the other one." The second girl's body was found hid the body of Carol Gee, 11. A foot was protruding from the pile.

State Police Detective William Chandler Sunday night discovered some empty .22-calibre cartridges. A 410-gauge shotgun shell also was among items retrieved from the area.

A neighbor boy, James S. Stephens, 16, was being sought for investigation in the case. A car he reported to have been left by the boy and the discovery of a blood-stained T-shirt and the girls' bicycle were cited.

The girls disappeared in a wooded area of Lake Michigan park near their homes. The last word of them was that they had gone to pick flowers for a picnic area.

Sheriff Bernard Gryson said a warrant was issued for the arrest of the Stephens boy.

Castro Puts Cuba In Soviet Orbit, No Elections

Harsh New Restrictions Placed on R.C. Church

KEY WEST, Fla. (AP)—Prime Minister Fidel Castro today declared Cuba a "socialist" state, ruled out elections and clapped harsh new restrictions on the Roman Catholic Church.

Cuban masses filled Havana's civic plaza for a mammoth May Day demonstration and roared their assent. The audience was estimated by Havana television commentators at 3,000,000. The government has monitored Key West, 90 miles from Havana.

The multitude screamed "No, no" when Castro asked "Do you need elections?" He said Cuba will do without them.

Calling priests "the exploiters who came in the name of God," Castro announced that church schools will be nationalized in a few days and foreign born clergymen will be expelled from Cuba.

Referring to several captured invaders identified as priests, and training in the United States for fostering the ill-fated April 17 attack on his regime, Castro said: "We are in a state of danger of becoming another Vietnam."

He said churches will be allowed to remain open.

LARGEST MAY DAY

Castro said it was a historic May Day because workers who had been unable to vote with all the "so those who were completely free to vote . . . so no longer have to submit to those trials.

"We are forcing the government does or can do has one sole a nd exclusive purpose, which is to aid its class, its people.

The crowd broke into the Cuban revolutionary song. We Shall Triumph.

Castro said "If Mr. Kennedy does not like socialism, we have nothing against him. We don't like capitalism."

"Why do they fear us?

As Khrushchev said, this shows they have no faith in their own people.

It was clear from Castro's outburst that by "socialism" he meant "Communist" or something much like it.

CHANGES HOUSEKEEPER

He used the word "traitors" to describe Latin American nations which broke relations with the United States lead in severing diplomatic relations with Cuba and vilified President Kennedy, who earlier was burned in effigy.

"Kennedy had better get rid of that hate, that phobia against Cuba," declared Castro said in a 3½-hour speech.

The prime minister, wearing a uniform, a beret and a pistol at his waist, spoke after watching for the May Day march by legions of laborers, peasants, athletes, and heavy military equipment—tanks and guns. He said:

"We do not endanger the lives of a single American . . . it is they who are playing at war."

U.S. Postpones Space Flight As Weather Bad

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—The United States' first effort to launch a man into space was postponed today because of bad weather.

The announcement of the postponement coincided with the disclosure that Alan B. Shepard, 37 year -old navy commander had been selected to be the first American in space.

Jack King, a spokesman for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, said the firing of the Mercury capsule was postponed because of poor weather conditions over the Cape and at the down range stations.

The announcement said Shepard, 46, was prepared for flight but held in the pilot's preparation area. A new launch date has been set but the minimum recycle time is 48 hours. The pilot will remain in the crew quarters in the NASA Mercury hangar here.

The selection of the "understudy" pilot for Shepard was not announced.

BEGAN PREPARING

After his selection, Shepard began his preparations for the flight. When it became apparent that the firing was to be delayed during the count down, he went upstairs in the hangar and sat quietly for more than an hour awaiting the decision as to whether the flight would be made today.

The countdown had progressed to within 140 minutes of launch time of the Redstone booster, which was to hurl Shepard 115 miles into space and drop the space capsule 300 miles downrange 15 minutes later. The flight is planned strictly as an up -and-down flight. It is to be prelude to an attempt to send an American space pilot into orbit and return him safely to earth—a feat already accomplished by Russian Yuri Gagarin April 12.

The reason for the at least 48-hour postponement, is because volatile liquid fuel had been pumped into the Redstone tanks. It will take two days after the tanks have been fueled to again ready the rocket for another attempt at the first U.S. space flight.

Parliament At a Glance

Government bills establishing a National Design Council and aiding rehabilitation of the disabled received warm general support in the House of Commons.

Finance Minister Fleming said he couldn't see how the federal budget could possibly be brought down before the middle of this month.

Transport Minister Balcer confirmed that legislation will be introduced this session aimed at assisting Canada's shipbuilding industry.

As the Commons embarked on its new 42-hour, six - day-week schedule, Lionel Chevrier (L — Montreal Laurier) remarked that it will be extremely difficult for opposition MPs to attend committee sessions while the House is sitting.

NEGOTIATIONS REACH IMPASSE ON WAGE ISSUE

Talks to Avert Rail Strike Broken

MONTREAL (CP) — Negotiations between Canada's railways and their 111,000 non-operating railway workers, which somehow managed to limp on with all the formality and predictability of an old fox trot, appeared to have once more reached an impasse.

It was announced Monday the 34 -month -old talks had broken off the high-level talks aimed at averting a nation - wide railway strike scheduled for May 16.

Chief union negotiator Frank H. Hall has called a press conference for 10 a.m. today, but there is little likelihood he will do anything except confirm that the unions have ended the weeklong talks and set out their stand.

One thing seems certain—the collapse of negotiations means the gulf between the railways and the non-ops, all those railway workers not actually engaged in running trains, is just about as wide as it was, for all practical purposes, when negotiations first opened in September, 1959.

BOTH SIDES BURDENED

The very length of time the dispute has lasted imposes a burden on both sides.

It has been Mr. Hall's task to hold together through nearly two years of bargaining, the 15 separate unions which represent the different non-op crafts. He and his fellow negotiators have had to consider the rank and file that they must abide by legal negotiating prjcedures; accept a federally-spoonfed conciliation board; and then accept or reject the board's increases as handed down instead of the 25 cents an hour the union originally asked for.

Then the negotiators had to convince their members they must abide by federal legislation that outlawed the strike called for June 3 when the unions refused to accept the con-

Bodies Began to Scream and Yell When Fed to Extermination Fire

JERUSALEM (Reuters) — A Polish-born American scientist today told the court trying Adolf Eichmann of being forced to burn bodies of victims on a Nazi extermination fire and grinding their bones to hide the evidence of their murder.

Dr. Leon W. Wells of Fort Lee, N.J., fought back tears as he outlined the horrors of working on the "death brigade," which put to death 3 when the Germans knew one body was missing.

Wells testified Monday that he had been walking into the grave to be shot when he was called back and ordered to pick up the body of another man who had been shot at the Janovska concentration camp near Lvov. While he was bringing the body back, he escaped from his Nazi guard and managed to survive the camp.

He described how the bodies

Sale of Wheat and Barley To Red China Announced

OTTAWA (CP) — Agriculture Minister Alvin Hamilton today announced the sale to Red China of 184,700,000 bushels of wheat and 46,700,000 bushels of barley worth about $362,000,000 over a 2½-year period starting June 1.

Mr. Hamilton said the long-term sale is in addition to the $60,000,000 worth of wheat and barley sold to Communist China earlier this year, and also in addition to another sale—which he announced today—of 2,300,000 bushels of wheat worth $3,700,000 for shipment to the Chinese mainland between March and May.

This would bring the total transaction for the years 1960 to 1963 inclusive to 317,000,000 bushels of wheat and 38,800,000 bushels of barley, worth $425,800,000.

By comparison, Canada's exports of wheat to all countries last year totalled around 300,000,000 bushels.

Terms are 25 per cent cash with the balance in 20 years, Mr. Hamilton said. He made the announcement in the Commons on his return from Hong Kong where the deal was signed with the China National Cereals, Oils and Foodstuffs Corporation, a state trading agency.

First contract under the long-term agreement calls for the shipment of 28,000,000 bushels of wheat. 17,000,000 bushels of barley and 1,500,000 bushels of flour to Red China between June 1 and Nov. 30. Estimated value of this order is $86,000,000.

The future contract will be negotiated separately as to price and quantity, Mr. Hamilton said.

It is beyond the resources of the Canadian wheat board to provide credit for the quantities involved, he added. Therefore, the Canadian government was prepared to guarantee up to $500,000,000 of the credit necessary to conclude the transaction on a short-term basis.

Mr. Hamilton said this reflects the government's "intensive efforts to sell grain volume to new markets."

Earlier this year Canada sold 7,300,000 bushels of wheat to Czechoslovakia on a three-year credit basis, with the government ingoaring the Canadian shippers against non - payment. The same amount of wheat was sold to Russia in January for immediate cash.

Referring to the long - term agreement with Red China, Mr. Hamilton said in part:

"A sale of this order will undoubtedly be beneficial to Canada through the Canadian economy.

"It is apparent that new grain sales of the magnitude will add significantly to Canada's total earnings from exports."

Neapolitans Give Rousing Welcome to Queen, Philip

NAPLES, Italy (AP)—Queen Elizabeth, the first British monarch to visit republican Italy, today received a royal welcome in this monarchist stronghold.

Tens of thousands of Neapolitans thronged the hilly streets and flag-bedecked balconies to cheer the Queen as she arrived for a state visit.

Shop girls and office clerks left their jobs early to get the Queen's motorcade drive by after the royal yacht Britannia, escorted by destroyers, docked. Men wearing meat, black and white aprons marched from their classes to vantage points of the Queen's parade route.

The Queen and Prince Philip rode in a partly-open limousine, the Rolls Royce presented to them from Britain especially for the Naples arrival. The Queen and Philip will use Italian cars in Britain.

Their yacht docked shortly before 10:30 a.m. and they came ashore in a half-hour launch as vessels boomed out a 21-gun salute.

The Royal Couple's two-hour visit here was planned so that they would see little of the misery of the poverty that is as much a part of Naples as the beautiful views of volcanic Mt. Vesuvius and Capri.

Red carpets were rolled out at the harbor building and in the Piazza Municipio at the spot where Elizabeth and Philip were to catch their train for Rome.

The Queen and Prince Philip rode in the Italian island of Sardinia Saturday, May 6, visiting the main city of Cagliari.

Emergency Braking Systems Said Totally Inadequate

MONTREAL (CP)—The failure of North American car trucks and generally found inadequate emergency braking system is a sad commentary on safety standards, Harding, a U.S. automotive expert said Monday.

Andrew J. White of South Weymouth, Mass., a consultant on the seventh conference of the Canadian Highway Safety Council that if a car's brakes don't "you may just as well put your foot up into use a manual emergency brake.

He said a random highway check of 100 cars in the United States showed that 80 had an emergency system that for practical effects was useless.

Sgt. Robert McKie of the Ontario Provincial Police said emergency braking systems on cars are totally inadequate. They failed after being used two or three times.

The council, starting a three-day meeting, held a long discussion on brakes in cars and trucks and generally found inadequate.

Regular brakes, the discussion was told, the effective but they overheat and lose power take care of them properly. The braking systems of vehicles should be inspected by experts, the panel decided.

Several members of the safety man group said a secondary emergency system should be built into cars. They suggested this could be done for about $8 or $10.

Roy Haseler, automotive safety engineer with Chrysler Corporation, warned that millions of gallons of inferior and potentially dangerous brake fluid is being sold every year in North America.

Motorists buy the fluid, which could cause brakes to fail and lead to an accident, because it is cheaper. The Society of Au-

PROGRESS BOGS DOWN AT NIGHT HOUSE SESSION

Series of Fill-in Speeches Heard

OTTAWA (CP) — The Commons, in an uneven burst of speed on the first day of extended sitting hours, moved into government legislation at morning and afternoon sittings Monday.

But progress bogged down at the night session.

Half an hour after the evening sitting started, the House had completed consideration of all but one measure scheduled for the 8 p.m. session.

The item was Agriculture Minister Alvin Hamilton's farm rehabilitation bill and Mr. Hamilton at the time was returning from Hong Kong where he signed a long - term agreement with Communist China for the sale of wheat, barley and flour.

Warner Jorgenson, Mr. Hamilton's parliamentary secretary, introduced the farm rehabilitation bill for second reading approval in principle. The House then heard a series of fill-in speeches. Edmund Hamilton's retirement.

VETERANS PROTESTS

J. W. Pickersgill (L—Bonaventure-Twillingate) protested that Mr. Hamilton was making absent, the Commons agriculture committee was holding a night session. It was a procedural point, he said that if the House's business was properly this type of situation would not arise.

Mr. Pickett, chief government whip, said there wasn't a general rule against committee meeting. George McIlraith (L — Ottawa West) replied that "legislation such as that should not be on record.

At the morning and afternoon sittings, the first under an extension of sessions to 42 hours a week from 35, the House gave second reading—approval in principle—to government legislation to:

1. Establish a National Design Council to promote and expedite the design of Canadian industrial products.

2. Permit the Bras d'Or Coal Company of Cape Breton to defer $1,000,000 of the start of repayment of a federal loan for special mining machinery.

3. Increase to four from 3½ per cent the interest rate the government pays on the sale of the $7,000,000 balance of the Trans-Canada Air Lines.

APPROVE COST-SHARING

The House gave final approval to federal - provincial agreements cost-sharing programs between federal and provincial governments for assistance to disabled persons. Legislation to this effect provides for the government to remove the power of federal fisheries officers to close and reopen waters at will by dealing with fishing offences.

The farm rehabilitation bill gives Mr. Hamilton power to make agreements with the provinces for farm rehabilitation in marginal and submarginal farm areas, for projects for development of income and job opportunities in those areas, and for projects for land use and conservation. Research in all three fields is also provided for.

During debate on the design-council measure, Trade Minister Gordon said the council will design distinctive products of

Laotian Truce Talks Commence, Fighting Subsides

Teams of Negotiators Finally Make Contract

VIENTIANE, Laos (Reuters)—The government and leftist rebels have made their first contacts toward arranging a cease-fire in Laos and fighting stopped Monday night on the vital front south of Van Vieng, it was announced today.

Gen. Phoumi Nosavan, defence minister and strongman of the American-backed Laotian government, said further talks were expected today and Monday a cease-fire throughout the strife-torn kingdom.

The meeting between the government and leftist negotiators followed a prolonged dispute over the site of the talks, with the rebels holding out for the Plain of Jars. But the government rightists for a spot three miles south of the village.

Nosavan declared the fighting around Vang Vieng, between Vientiane and the Communist of Loang Prabang, had stopped.

The government sent a negotiating team, made up mainly of army officers, to meet Communist troops in the Laotian conflict is the pro-Communist Pathet Lao rebels do not agree to a peace-talk arrangement announced by a verified cease-fire.

The government of Hooney nor Rusk would comment on their talks, it was understood that Rusk and Gromyko will confer with American policy and that a showdown will be avoided.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Canada and the United States conferred on the Laotian crisis Monday against a backdrop of surprising developments which, American informants suggested, could lead to a fast Communist takeover of the little Indochinese kingdom.

In a 45-minute diplomatic exchange, informants said Canada was given the impression the U.S. is well aware of all the inherent military dangers in the Laotian situation and will do everything possible to avoid a major East - West showdown there.

Canadian Ambassador Arnold Heeney and U.S. State Secretary Dean Rusk discussed the subject just before Rusk attended President Kennedy's National Security Council conference.

There has been widespread speculation in the U.S. that Britain may consider a mercy-dash to the government capital of Vientiane to rescue the pro-Communist Pathet Lao rebels do not agree to a peace-talk arrangement announced by a verified cease-fire.

Heeney nor Rusk would comment on their talks, it was understood that Rusk and Gromyko will confer with American policy and that a showdown will be avoided.

Pirate Hijacks U.S. Plane, Forces Pilot to Fly to Cuba

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—An aerial pirate, armed with a pistol and a knife and dressed in flaunting the name of an old-time buccaneer, commandeered a U.S. commercial airliner over Florida Monday and forced it to fly to Cuba.

The seven passengers and six from to their seats, the self-styled "Captain Morgan" later told the pilot that Rafael Trujillo, Dominican Republic dictator, had offered him $100,000 to assassinate Fidel Castro. But he had no intention of carrying out the mission, he said, because he considered Castro a friend and that he wanted to "spill the beans" to him.

When the two - engined National Airlines plane landed at an airport near Havana, Castro militiamen hustled the man away. The plane was permitted to return to Florida.

Pilot Riley said the gunman sat in the co-pilot's seat and "kept pointing the gun at me the rest of the trip."

Stewardess Inez Harlow said the passengers remained calm when she told them "a man

24 SPECKLED BEAUTIES CAUGHT IN NORTHERN LAKE

Twenty-four speckled beauties fell to the lures of a city quartet of fishermen over the opening season weekend.

The catch measured between 11½-2 and 15 inches in length. They fell for worms and minnows.

They said they caught the beauties in a small lake "15 miles east of Marmora".

The larger lakes were still ice-shackled but the smaller ones were open, they said.

This Friday the alarm sirens installed in various centres across Ontario will be tested as a part of a joint exercise being put on by the Canadian Army and the emergency measures branches of the federal and provincial governments. There is no set time for the siren blowing and when it does blow citizens are not required to take any action. The test is merely to determine if the sirens are operational.

Council Votes to Establish Clerk-Comptroller Position

TRENTON — Trenton council voted last night "to establish the position of clerk-comptroller" the municipality's administrative set up.

The person in this position will actually head the town's administration. He will have general control and management of the town's government and will ensure that the policies of council are carried out.

Councillor Ross Burtt and Councillor N. J. McNair were concerned about whether the creation of this new position would create a vacancy in the municipal staff. Mayor James MacDonald said he thought the duties of clerk-treasurer and comptroller could be combined.

Councillor Burtt jumped the gun by suggesting that while this would be an advancement for the present town clerk-treasurer O. W. Larry, it would also be putting more work on his already full load.

"I want to make this clear that I'm not seeking this," said Mr. Larry. "I merely want to consider me for this position. I would want to sit down with council members and clarify the duties of a comptroller with council carefully. The basic theory of the position is that the comptroller would see to it that all the town's departments co-operate and that council's policies are carried out."

Mr. McNair repeated his question, "Will this create a vacancy? Would you have the same staff?"

Mr. Larry assured him that only a slight re-arrangement of staff in the comptroller could carry on with the same number of persons on the present staff.

Official Plan Is Approved By Minister, Now in Effect

TRENTON — Town clerk-treasurer, O. W. Larry announced to council last night that the town's official plan had received the approval of the Minister of Planning and Development and that the plan was now back in town and in effect.

Council will now consider the formation of a Committee of Adjustment which will deal with minor deviations, as to the town's zoning by-law. Names will be proposed by the various councillors and three persons will be selected to sit on this committee.

A number of persons had applied to council seeking approval of building permits for zoning by-law infringements which they proposed to construct. These will be passed along to the committee of adjustment, or to the Trenton and Sidney Planning Board for consideration.

ROAD PROMISED

An Elizabeth Street resident had written to remind council that he and other persons living on this street had been promised a macadam road last year. Councillor Larue will check on this. The writer said that the present road was "no better than a trail over a field."

According to Councillor Lage, Lloyd Street is the only side of town in its vicinity which is the same condition. He said that he was amazed at the building which has gone on in this area and that the roads were a disgrace.

A local builder has purchased several lots on the vicinity of Rocage St. and Louis St. and requests for town services, water, sewer and macadam roads have been made. Councillor D. R. Lage said that developers in such areas were making a profit and that the rest of the taxpayers had to share the cost of installing town services.

BALLOT SPOILED

"That's one of the faults of the town fathers," said Councillor Burtt, "Somebody else brings, then it gets covered up. The developer should put in the services and sell the lot with these services. In one part of the town we would be the developer to put in these services and in another, the developer builds and then the rest of the whole has to put in the services."

Councillor Burtt asked if the town could not refuse to issue building permits to developers until they had provided services.

"Last year, we made the developer put in the services and in Victoria Ave. at Church Street

Fire Destroys House, Contents Near Wooler

TRENTON — At Wooler yesterday, a home owned by Mrs. Roy Fitzgerald on the outskirts of the town was completely burned to the ground and the contents destroyed by the fire which broke out around 6 a.m.

Members of the Frankford fire department battled the intense blaze but were able only to confine it to the premises. Firemen from the Trenton department were called to the scene but returned to town when it was found that further efforts to save the house and its contents would be futile.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Dubois, a recent bride and bridegroom, who had moved in with Mrs. Fitzgerald on Sunday, lost all their possessions. Mrs. Fitzgerald and Mrs. Gibson are staying with relatives until arrangements for living quarters can be arranged.

PRESENT CONCERT

Next Sunday evening, May 7, commencing at 8:30 p.m., the Trenton Legion Band will present a concert in the Trenton Legion Hall.

A silver collection will be taken at the door and this will be donated to the Trenton Salvation Army corps. The use of the hall is also donated by the legionnaires to assist the local Salvation Army corps in its money raising drive which is being conducted locally this week.

DRIVE SUCCESSFUL

Executive officers of the Trenton Community Chest Association report that last week's membership drive was successful from the point of tickets sold. The campaign was conducted throughout the Brighton-Wooler area.

Trenton residents, who, for one reason or another, were unable to purchase tickets for the 1961-62 campaign series last week, may still get season's tickets by contacting a member of the local association. Miss Lillian MacPhail was chairman of the membership drive while Jack Greene and Stanley members are James Dunnett, Norman Rose, C. W. Wilkins, Mrs. Ken Crewe and Miss Hazel Farley.

Air Pollution Queries Made

TRENTON — In a letter to town council, Mrs. Carol Ellis had a number of questions to ask about the enforcement of the recently passed air pollution by-law. The chief worried that she had been appointed as the "municipal officer," who will see that the by-law is enforced.

"Will the fire department pumper be expected to put out bonfires that this municipal officer permitted?" asked the letter. "Will the municipal officer give permission for lighting fires? Who is to be responsible for such fires sanctioned by the municipal officer?"

Town Clerk-Treasurer O. W. Larry observed that H. S. Hinze, chairman of the board of health, will be the municipal officer responsible for the enforcement of the air pollution by-law.

Approve Adding Rooms to School

TRENTON — Trenton council considered various aspects of education last night.

A suggestion advanced by the North Bay council that the provincial government be asked to consider establishing junior universities, at which students could cover the first two years of a university education, in various Ontario centres, will be turned over to the Trenton Board of Education.

Councillors in the northern community felt that students could gain the first part of their higher education much more economically at a university city located near their home town.

A request that an $86,126 four-roomed addition to Queen Elizabeth school be approved was granted. The approval of the Ontario Municipal Board will be sought. The addition has received the tentative approval of the Department of Education.

Councillor Lloyd Worrell was listed on the agenda to give a report on the town's kindergarten situation, but did not have the report fully prepared.

Coun. Graham Strongly Urges New Fire Hall

TRENTON — Councillor C. V. Graham came out strongly for a new east-side fire hall at last night's meeting of Trenton council. He said that council was in effect, "putting money ahead of peoples' lives." By putting off part of the erection of a new hall and the salaries of the extra firemen necessary to man it, they were above the necessity for such a building.

"Opponents of the new hall say that no town in Ontario of comparable to Trenton has two fire halls," said the councillor. "I can't agree that no town in Ontario is built like Trenton divided by a river with a swing bridge.

"I like your saying, 'putting money ahead of peoples' lives,'" said Councillor Vagn Lage, "But I got my tax bill today and I wonder how long we can afford to pay these taxes. A new hall would add three or four mills to the tax rate.

"I think it could be done for two mills and part of another," said Councillor Graham.

The discussion was sparked by Councillor Burtt, chairman of protection to persons and property, briefing council on a plan to extend the present west side fire hall. The councillor showed a drawing of the proposed addition to which other council members and explained that the cost would be below the $25,000 mark slightly more than $5,000 allowed in the budget.

Council as a whole will visit the west side hall and consider the matter of building an addition onto this hall to house the aerial ladder truck now stationed with Councillor Graham's suggestion that for another $1,000 a new hall could be built on the east side. The councillor said that the members of the fire department were willing to do much of the inside work on such a building themselves.

Council Will Set Tax Rate At Special Meet Thursday

City taxpayers will have to wait until Thursday to learn the 1961 millrate.

This was decided by city councillors late Monday afternoon following a three and a half hour caucus session which saw discussion on last year's audit report and on the current year's budget.

Last week following receipt of the city audit it was hoped that council would be able to go into open session yesterday to strike the year's millrate.

But discussion on the various committee estimates took longer than expected and it was decided to meet again Thursday afternoon to strike the millrate.

Just what this year's tax rate is going to be has been kept a closely guarded secret on the part of council members but it is generally expected that because of "uncontrollable expenditures" the rate will be above last year's rate of 84.5 mills residential, and 91.5 mills industrial and commercial.

Suspend Auto Theft Sentence

Seventeen-year-old John M. Moore of the Moira district today was placed on two years' suspended sentence when he pleaded guilty in city magistrate's court to a charge of car theft.

Detective Harold Reid testified that Moore stole a car owned by R. C. Bailey 33 Woodland Ave. from the parking lot on East Bridge Street, April 24. The key had been left in the ignition. The car was recovered the following day by OPP near the youth's home. A radio had been removed from the dashboard but was found in the car.

GREAT WALL

Plan Revision Children's Aid Family Service

A revision of the Children's Aid Society's policy in the field of protection and prevention services to unmarried parents and family services in general, is to be undertaken at once by a committee under the chairmanship of Dr. S. C. Rose. This move was approved at the regular monthly meeting of the Society, held Thursday with the president, Mrs. E. M. Forrester in the chair.

It was announced that the Society was operating well within its budget for the year and had already recovered a substantial portion of the accumulated deficit in child care.

Mr. J. N. Brown, Reeve of the Village of Bancroft, spoke of his discussions with the Hastings County Council in respect of a new method of assessing the costs of protection and prevention services in the County. He and Mr. V. A. McMurray, Reeve of Tudor and Cashel townships, were thanked by the president for their efforts.

Considerable time was devoted to the role to be played by the public relations committee under the chairmanship of Mrs. S. Lewis in connection with the Belleville United Appeal. Mrs. Lewis' committee is to submit news releases, and other publicity materials from time to time.

Mr. Gordon Davis of Trenton, chairman of the property committee, was instructed to have his committee inspect the receiving home and detention centre and the Society's offices on Moira Street and make recommendations as to the necessity of repairs and maintenance at the next meeting.

Mr. Bruce Kerr, the local director, reported at the end of March there were 178 children in the care of the society, an increase from the beginning of the year. However, there were nothing like the number of this number would not diminish rather than increase. Mr. Kerr stated that during the month six children had been admitted to care and that seven had been discharged. Of the six admitted, three had been for emergency care only during the night at the request of the police. His children's intake covered case histories, diagnosis for the identity of the parents of the children, which need to be done in the course of the work performed by the society's protection-prevention department. Mr. Kerr also outlined the work done in the placement of several children away from the area, them being four adoption homes available locally for them.

14 Experienced Linesmen Are Coming to City

An extensive construction program scheduled by the Bell Telephone Co. in the Belleville area will see 14 experienced linesmen brought to this district for a period of at least two years.

The line construction, made necessary by local expansion requirements, will take place throughout the district served by the Belleville headquarters, but will mostly be in the Madoc-Tweed area in North Hastings.

It is understood the line construction program is expected to last at least two years but could extend considerably beyond this period.

Of the 14 experienced linesmen who will come to Belleville this month, 10 are married men with families, the other four being single workers. It is expected the 14 men will live in Belleville.

The area served by the Bell headquarters in Belleville extends from Brighton to Marysville and from Picton to the Madawaska valley.

Must Sell Own Community Phil Flagler Tells Rotarians

The leaders of a community have got to lead and not let past history govern present day thoughts, Rotarians were told by Phil Flagler, local radio station commentator, guest speaker at the weekly Rotary meeting yesterday afternoon at the Hotel Quinte. Expounding on particular; cause other than a Rotary Club speaker at the Rotary-ettes and beauty spots of the Quinte district made known to travellers so that they might make this area a visiting spot, Mr. Flagler called for more fresh thinking and a revival of some of the initiative which characterized the early settlers who founded this country. The conservation of safety may well be the outward symbol of complacency and dullness, he suggested.

Pointing out that nearly all of the many visitors to Ontario travel the highways between the metropolitan areas without ever stopping to sojourn in the Quinte district, Mr. Flagler suggested that a reorientation of the thinking of local citizens would be required towards the goal of spreading the word about the many natural and historical beauties of this area to travellers from afar.

To sell the Quinte area to prospective visitors as a district of which life is worth while he proud two items were suggested by the World War II Royal Canadian Navy veterans' now the publishing of one, or a few, things which were unique to the Quinte District and second, the co-operation of the citizens to put this across.

TWO MAJOR EVENTS

Two major events in this area this coming summer, the International plowing match and the Hemsworth Trophy races, were suggested by Mr. Flagler as being excellent drawing cards for people who can be shown the advantages of the area as a lovely spot to revisit.

Showmanship is needed to put this objective across, he added and gave a number of examples of other Ontario communities which have undertaken such a project to build up their areas.

Noting that some communities had initially experienced set-backs on such undertakings, Mr. Flagler concluded, "We might get our necks caught in a mousetrap but then again we may build a mousetrap that will have the world beating a path to our doorstep".

The speaker was introduced by Art Francis and thanked by Jim Casey. Robertan Ernie Cantwell was presented with a traditional "bite-size" birthday cake. The meeting was under the direction of club president Bill Hurst.

Use of BB Guns, .22 Rifles Within City to Be Curbed

With warnings and appeals falling to achieve the desired result, prosecutions are to follow the use of BB guns and .22 rifles within the city limits.

That was the order from city police officials today following repeated complaints of indiscriminate damage to the expensive street lights and smash school windows with BB pellets.

"We are through issuing warnings," said Chief Inspector J. Clair Hayes. "In the future we will prosecute persons found carrying rifles and BB guns and also parents or others who permit juveniles under 14 years to have such weapons.

"Rifles or BB guns found in the possession of under aged persons will be confiscated and the weapons will be forfeited."

OFFENCE UNDER CODE

The Inspector noted that it is an offence under the Criminal Code to sell guns or ammunition to persons under 14 years of age, or to permit them to have them in possession.

The Inspector said that parents are liable to prosecution for allowing the under age having the firearms.

The fine for allowing a boy under 14 to have a rifle may range up to $500.

"It is not only an offence to allow persons under 14 to have rifles but the damage being caused is reflecting back against the parents," the Inspector said.

The sixth annual inspection of No. 908 Royal Canadian Air Cadet Squadron is being held Wednesday afternoon on the campus of the Quinte Secondary School. Reviewing officer for the inspection will be Wing Commander Ross Powell, C. D., of R.C.A.F. Trenton.

In addition to the review there will be a full dress demonstration by the Quinte Secondary School gym team while music for the inspection will be provided by the School marching band.

In the event of rain the review will be held at the Belleville Armouries.

Al Drysdale Hooks on to Two Beauties

At least one ardent Belleville fisherman didn't "chicken out" because of the cool weekend over the weekend.

And he didn't have his trip to the north and of the county for nothing as was proved by two big speckled trout which he brought home.

Mr. Al O. Drysdale, superintendent of the Canada Cement plant at Point Anne, got only two fish on his weekend safari. But they were worth while — four-and-three-quarter pounds and four pounds respectively.

"I just about went over my limit," Mr. Drysdale said.

Mr. Drysdale confirmed that the northern lakes are still icebound but are beginning to break up. At the shores and at creek inlets. He caught the two speckles in small areas of open water along the shore.

But the speckles were particular in the type of bait they went for. They would not go for worms or minnows.

They were caught with a weighted single hooked trout fly.

Mr. Drysdale was accompanied only by his two young sons, Ross and Charles.

"We had the lakes all to ourselves," he said.

Canada Goose Sure Spring Has Arrived

Ever since March 31st marked the traditional arrival of spring, the weatherman has been unable to make up his mind, but at least the Canada Goose is convinced the time for spring has arrived.

Since late last week, big flocks of geese on their annual migration to nesting grounds in the far north, have been seen passing over the Quinte district.

One resident said she saw a large flock Saturday morning. Again on Sunday geese were seen and on Monday at least two flocks were seen flying over the city.

Mid-afternoon Monday a flock of about 100 geese was seen flying low over Belleville in a north-easterly direction.

Messages of the geese was marked with loud honking.

The noise resulted in more geese spotting the flocks. Not all timers say the honking is evidence of uneasiness in the flock.

Maybe they've heard that the northern lakes are still ice bound!

Annual Vs. Hourly Wages

The United Automobile Workers of America plans to demand an annual wage, rather than an hourly rate, in the automobile industry.

Some may drift this proposal puzzling. Did not the UAW seek—and announce that it had obtained—a "guaranteed annual wage" a few years ago?

The answer is that the so-called "guaranteed annual wage" is a misnomer. Walter Reuther, the president of the UAW, is reported to have scornfully described the hourly rate system of pay as "a throwback to the social jungle of the Industrial Revolution, when a worker was a commodity to be bought on the market and discarded at the will of the person who bought it."

Mr. Reuther is perhaps fairly accurate about the origin of the hourly-pay system—compared with the long-term apprenticeships and often lifelong associations between employer and employee which prevailed in the days of the old guilds. He is, however, far too clever a man not to realise that the same system can mean different things under differing conditions, and that the hourly rate system, as it has been applied in North American industry in recent years, and under conditions which still apply to much of that industry today, is a distinct and unique advantages for the nation's economy as a whole.

By the same token, however, if the results obtained from the hourly rate system during the opening years of the Industrial Revolution were different from those obtained during the first part of this century in modern industrialized countries, then it is also true that yesterday's results may not be forthcoming from changed conditions which may exist today, or in the years immediately ahead.

The advantages of the hourly wage system are obvious. By paying a worker only when his or her services are needed, an industry keeps the prices of its products down, thereby increasing effective demand and thus increasing employment. Secondly, in a day when skilled workers in many trades were scarce, men and women with such skills had their ability utilized to the fullest advantage as the result of the hourly wage system.

What is true of the economy as a whole, however, is not necessarily true of all segments of it. It has long been questionable whether the hourly wage system in the automobile industry created many jobs or took them away from other jobs during those periods when their services were not required to make cars. Most of the auto workers, when laid off, were unable to find work elsewhere in their home towns, and preferred to wait in idleness for recall to work in the auto plants rather than move to other centres. It is even questionable whether they actually worked efficiently to keep car prices as low as possible, for the union pleaded frequent layoffs as one reason why the men, when employed, should be paid high hourly rates. Despite these high hourly rates, the laid-off men depended on social security payments and the existent limbo between over periods of unemployment, which often in effect has meant that the community as a whole has footed the bill to keep these workers handy until the automobile firms need their services again.

Yet the conditions in the automobile industry because we are discussing the demands of the UAW, but very similar conditions exist in other big industries, wherever there is a high degree of centralization and a substantial fluctuation in demand for such an industry's products.

Under such circumstances, we ought at least to give Mr. Reuther a hearing in his plea for a change in the system of payment, from an hourly to an annual rate. It may well be that this is a fair system for some industries which could relieve the country as a whole of an unfair burden in maintaining men who, while temporarily unemployed, are still in large measure considered a part of the working force of a given industry.

Most emphatically, though, we ought not to condemn the hourly rate system for all types of industry just because it is possible that there is a case for abandoning it in certain segments of our economy.

WHOSE DECISION?

Fidel Castro has announced that the rebel prisoners taken in the shattered invasion of Cuba will not be put to death after all—"the people's great victory should not be belittled by excess."

We applaud the decision, but cannot help wondering whether Castro had a change of heart of his own accord or whether a more astute man, one Nikita Khrushchev, decided that he had so much money riding on the Cuban horse that there was nothing to be gained by whipping the opposing nag—it could only result in it running faster.

Churchill Disappointed

By Dean Acheson
in the Saturday Evening Post

One evening in 1953, President Truman was host at a dinner for Winston Churchill aboard the presidential yacht, Williamsburg. Lord Cherwell, formerly professor Lindemann of Oxford and an intimate of the prime minister, was in the company. He was known as "Prof".

"Prof, have you got your table rule?" asked Churchill. The question was unnecessary, as Lord Cherwell always carried one, and he instantly produced it.

Talk around the table stopped as everyone waited to see what was about to happen. He had been thinking, Churchill said, as he sat at dinner, that from the age of 16 to that evening, about 57 years, he had consumed on the average about a quart of wines and spirits a day, sometimes none, when none was available, sometimes more; but on the average about that.

As he looked about him, a question rose in his mind and would give him no peace until he knew the answer. If all those wines and spirits were poured into this yacht's saloon, how deep would they be?

The "Prof's" slide rule flew back and forth as he made the computations. We waited eagerly. In no time at all he was ready. "Well?" urged Churchill.

As I wrote to Mike Pearson of Canada a few days later, "Prof's" answer was very disappointing to the old man. He had expected that we would all lay swimming like goldfish in a bowl, whereas it would hardly come up to our knees".

Rural Stores Still Prosper

Windsor Star

There is happily, one aspect of rural Ontario which hasn't changed much with the years. This is the country store, the purveyor of a wide range of commodities for the people of the community.

The motor car, the big department stores, supermarkets, etc., were supposed to have spelled finish for the small general village merchant. They haven't done so. Many of them are doing as well as busy and prosperous as ever they were.

They have survived because continued to offer services to their customers by maintaining a wide range of stock and keeping prices as fair as possible. It is true that they have added some modern refinements, such as electric lights, refrigerators for meats, etc. Basically, however, they are doing business in the old ways.

Some of the best of these stores, from the viewpoint of variety, are far from any town of size. They are spread out in just enough numbers to cut loose big around them. They are miniature department stores. They are selling everything from logging chains to fine dress goods to axes.

Oddly enough, the proprietors always seem to know where every item is located in the crowded premises. He never is too busy to show his or that item to the customer who wants it. There is a friendly informality that doesn't prevail in larger merchandising houses.

This is because the country merchant usually knows all his or her years. His customers aren't merely people to whom to sell. They are friends to meet and to chat with. Buying in a country store is almost a social event, as one converses with neighbors.

STRENGTH for the DAY

PLACE OF MINORITIES

Minorities often seem despised in the eyes of men but we can be sure that they are often beloved in the eyes of God.

Perhaps the most great moral and spiritual movement recorded in the Bible began as a minority movement. The patriarch Abraham, unable to endure the idolatry of his household in Ur of Chaldees, went out seeking a new faith and a new country. Jacob and his family went down into Egypt to live first as a privileged minority and later as a hated minority. All through the Old Testament the prophets represent a minority point of view.

When we come to the New Testament we find Christianity emerging as decidedly a minority movement. The little holy group composed of Elizabeth and Zacharias, Joseph and Mary, Simeon and Anna were guardians of it spiritually that was fast departing out of the life of a nation. Jesus and His disciples were a little handful of truthbearers amid a vast ocean of error. The Book of Acts tells how the followers whom Jesus left to carry on His work went out into a pagan and hostile world, apparently, to attempt the impossible.

True Christianity is a minority. God's great spiritual movements are advanced by minorities, usually hated minorities. God is not interested in numbers but in sincerity. There can be, and sometimes are, evil majorities, but always the beloved of God is now in a world order which either loves or outrages the things of God.

Harness Shop Once Busy

Windsor Star

One of the busiest businesses in an Ontario town at this season, only a few years ago, was the harness shop. Farmers would be in town to get what they needed for the spring work, such as perhaps a heavy collar. But usually they brought in their old harness to be repaired.

The proprietor explained most of it came from those who own race horses (trotters and pacers), and some from those who have a penchant for colorcloths as bobbles or for sale. There are also farmers that use horses for farm work.

Most of these few who are left mean, perhaps working marginal acreages, who either cannot afford or do not think it worthwhile for them to invest in a lot of expensive machinery. So they make do with natural horse power. And, as their harness usually is old, they often want some repairs done.

Nowadays the garages and the hardware shops are the busy repair depots.

Mr. Harris' Definition of Mental Health

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

A college student in Tennessee recently wrote to ask me if I could define or describe the phrase "mental health," which has come into such prominence lately.

"We hear the phrase everywhere we turn," he writes, "but I have been unable to find a satisfactory definition. If everyone is a little neurotic, as we believe today, what standards do we employ for the mentally healthy?"

It seems to me that, following Freud and others, we can apply these terms for mental health — the ability to love, the ability to work, and the ability to enjoy.

Unless a person can do all three of these, his or her mental health is not what it should be. This is not to say that lovelessness, workless poverty, or that work is always easy or that enjoyment is uninterrupted. But these are the reaction we are facing, not a goal we achieve.

The seriously disturbed we can easily detect. They are unable to love, to work, or to enjoy; they are unable to work productively and, usually, are unable to love, or to continue to enjoy themselves in some deep and personal sense. Often they are frantic for love, fame and pleasure, but these yearnings are never gratified.

Less severe cases, obviously are much harder to detect. Neurotic illness is said to be a "good" love relationship is based on fantasy, on projection, or on carefully manufactured fiction. Likewise, sometimes what passes for work is but a kind of hysterical compulsion to escape unbearable tension by losing oneself in the details of his work. (The man who is proud of never taking a vacation is a neurotic "work alcoholic.")

Most serious, and warnings, about mental illness miss the mark, for they deal with cases at the extremes, whereas decisions and projections and all kinds of mental maladjustment that do not affect the average person.

What we need to recognise is that nobody is mentally healthy, in a full sense, just as nobody is physically healthy. The seeds of illness lurk in all of us, waiting only for special stress or condition favorable for their emergence. Avoiding such stress is the best we can do, perhaps.

Moreover, a good degree of mental health always displays itself in certain characteristics: humor about oneself, a tolerance of hatred toward other groups; the willingness to tolerate ambiguity and contradiction; the unwillingness to accept it when one should not be; the acknowledgement of our limitations, and the firm belief in our ultimate power to govern.

Nobody meets this ideal, and nobody can be sure, in any case, whether we are moving toward or away from that direction. When we have the power of assessment, then it is time to seek help.

Show MacBeth As Zulu Play

UNESCO Feature

A Zulu amateur theatrical group in Natal, Province of South Rhodesia, recently produced an African version of Shakespeare's tragedy, "Macbeth," in which scenes and characters were transported from 11th century Scotland to early 19th century Zululand.

The play was adapted and produced by an Englishman, Mr. Adrian Stanley, formerly of the Bristol Old Vic company, who found that the themes of bloodshed, tyranny, witchcraft and border-raiding were particularly appropriate to Africa a hundred or so years ago.

The action of the drama remains the same but some knotty points of the script have changed to suit the African setting and the characters have been given African names: Macbeth becomes Nodaki; Lady Macbeth, Nomwezi; Banquo, Sobuza; Duncan, Nkulumane and Norwegians are translated as mercenaries of the Matwa, Qwabe and Nwandwe tribes. The three witches become a trio of witch doctors or sorcerers. Instead of in somber Scottish castles, the action takes place around grass huts, and Lady Macbeth, pacing the stage in her famous soliloquy, wears a towering Zulu headdress.

Neurasthenia Can Be Beaten And a Frank Talk May Help

By Joseph C. Meisner, M.D.

There are various reasons for "that tired feeling." This letter brings up one:

"Dear Doctor: Could you describe the condition neurasthenia? Is it fatigue? Is it a disease, mental or physical, and can something be done for it? — Mrs. C."

Neurasthenia is a psychological disorder. It is not a mental illness in the sense in which we use that term. Although we must agree that a psychological disturbance is more mental than physical, there's a world of difference between mental illness and this sort of problem.

Neurasthenia, write it by psychological rather than physical in origin, has various physical aspects. (Incidentally, "emotional instability" seems to be about as fuzzy a label as neurasthenia.)

The emotional development of a person with neurasthenia has somewhere along the way been warped. Among many possible causes are neglect, disappointment, guilt, jealousy.

Neurasthenia sufferers tend to be chronically unhappy, irritable and nervous. They take a dim view of life, are pessimistic, and have feelings of inferiority. They can't.* They have trouble trying to concentrate.

The complete bio physical aspects, on the order of hypochondria. All of these weakness, headaches, poor appetite, variety of other such things, all of which the victim usually worries about.

Before saying a person has neurasthenia (or deciding that you have it yourself) there's one thing that always should be done: complete physical examination. All of these symptoms can come from physical causes, perhaps "chronic infection, faulty eating habits, pellets, or some defect in the thyroid. And all such thing can be corrected.

In a matter of factual observation, I can safely say how a person can get into a rut in life thinking he/she/it's something is wrong with him, and failing or fearing to find out.

If it is neurasthenia, can anything be done? Often, yes. We can do far more than we once could. Sometimes positive reassurance that nothing physical is wrong is enough of a start to get the patient on the upgrade. Sometimes counseling by family physician or a psychiatrist helps the patient out of the depressed stage, and helps him see his trying to new, hopeful and better viewpoint. In some cases the new drugs combat depression very effectively.

Exercise, and regularity of eating and sleeping are decidedly important. The patient should make some effort himself. He must make himself see and being dependent, and bossing his attention on himself is the very thing that contributes to his misery. The change of view may not be easy to bring about, but it can be done.

"Dear Dr. Meisner: I have had a hysterectomy, but still have my ovaries. Is it dangerous if my doctor is right in giving me estrogen. — Mrs. E. F."

Here's the point you are overlooking, I think: The ovaries (even if not removed) still act in their activity at the menopause age. Use of estrogen is a well-accepted means of helping a patient through the more difficult years.

"Dear Dr. Meisner: When I try for a few minutes or more, my eyes become swollen. What can I do to reduce the swelling? — R. M."

Cold packs should help.

THE PACKSACK

BY GREGORY CLARK

A colleague of mine has a cantankerous streak in him that boils up unexpectedly, often in unfortunate circumstances. Normally, he is a quiet, mild, kind-hearted individual who gets along famously with his family and other associates. Then, out of a sudden, he seems to turn into a very unpleasant person, completely unreasonable, contrary and highly disagreeable. On such occasions, I usually consult a psychiatrist, and he mentioned the matter to me.

"I don't need a psychiatrist." he said. "I know perfectly well what's the matter with me. My old grandfather was a cantankerous crank. He had a terrible temper and bullied the life out of his family. The stories we've been told in the family about him could fill a book. He was irascible, unreasonable and a law unto himself. He was hopelessly, he is dead now, and died without a friend.

Now, I am his grandson. And when I suddenly feel boiling up in me a kind of rebellious, illogical and unreasonable impulse, I realize it is the blood of the old man trying to survive in me. He would desperately to stay alive in me. Actually, he is a stranger to me, because as you know I'm not that kind of person at all.

But it haven't the heart to put an end to him. I let him have his say for an hour, or a day."

TODAY'S TALK

BY GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

BE A CREATOR

One of the great things in this life is to be a Creator. The elder Henry Ford in one of our talks made the day that he found that among the greatest joys in business, indeed in the whole sphere of activity, is where a man is creating something use that also and when a man did something to inspire others to do something, I married him at one of the great men of his time.

Ford said, too, we should watch the man with ideas, not merely the man with money. Ford was quite the medium of money. "Bless a useful person," he said, "and the blessing will always be inspiring another — guiding him along the right lines. And it is leader useful in his time."

Few men did more to make people happy or gave the world more simple and efficient ideas for living than Henry Ford. He achieved wealth — but it was spent

500 Students Will Take Part In Tree Planting

Approximately 500 school students and boy scouts are expected to converge on an 85-acre section of the Colonel Roscoe Vanderwater Conservation Area in the Chisholm's Mills district on Saturday to take part in a youth tree planting day planned by the Moira River Conservation Authority.

About 54 acres are to be planted and approximately 43,000 seedling trees will be required.

The tree planting is planned as an all-day event commencing at 10 a.m. with an hour break for lunch following which there will be demonstrations of mechanical tree planting and forest fire fighting techniques.

A second tree planting session is planned for 2 to 4 in the afternoon.

Plan to Dredge New Kingston Harbor Entrance

OTTAWA — Mr. B. G. Allmark, M.P. for Kingston, announced today that he has been informed by the Hon. David J. Walker, Minister of Public Works, that public tenders will be advertised for dredging of the Wolfe Island Cut about 30 miles east of Kingston. The tender call will close on May 31.

The dredging will be carried out in order to provide a new entrance channel into Kingston harbor. At present vessels use the western entrance to the harbor, but with the new channel ships will be able to enter the harbor from the east. This will provide a short-cut between Kingston and Montreal, a saving of some 18 miles.

Approximately 316,000 cubic yards of silt, sand and clay are to be removed over an area 450 feet wide by an average length of 2,985 feet to a depth of 26 feet. It is expected the work will be completed during 1961.

Mr. Allmark has stated that success in obtaining this project, which is so vital to the Kingston harbor, is due to a large extent to the excellent support given him by Kingston City Council, members of the Chamber of Commerce and Kingston businessmen interested in the shipping business.

Traffic in the harbor has averaged about a million and a half tons over the past few years, consisting mainly of grain, coal, gasoline and petroleum products. The trend since the opening of the Seaway has been towards the use of larger vessels which now have to take the longer route around the upper end of Wolfe Island.

50 Pictures Shown at Art Exhibit

MADOC — In spite of a bad night of snow, rain and wind, the Madoc Art Centre Exhibit, held in the Madoc High School on Friday night, was a great success. A large crowd attended and were much impressed.

There were more than 50 pictures shown and the judge, Mrs. Robbins, a portrait painter, had difficulty to choose only five to be shown in the Toronto Library the first week of May.

FIVE WINNERS

The ones chosen were paintings by Mrs. Lee Barker, Mrs. Grace Bell, Mrs. Vera Sprung-side, Miss Margaret Wright and Mrs. Margaret Connor.

Mrs. Barker's picture was of horses full of spring abandon, galloping in the meadow. Mrs. Nicol's picture was a still life study, a vivid pink shiny vase of pink chrysanthemums, on a red velvet cloth. This was a most unusual combination of colors. Mrs. Burnside's picture was entitled "Mexican Market," a very colorful scene. Miss Wright's scene was a study in traditional colors. Mrs. Connor's scene was of an old mill pond, hillside and sky.

There were five paintings given honorable mention. Two paintings were by Mrs. Burnside, "Tannery Hill" and "Madoc Country Road." Mrs. Atkinson's "Autumn in the Settlement" Miss Wright's "Elms in Winter" and that of Connor's "Zakimo" were also honored.

Tea was served later on in the evening by the Art Centre members.

Madoc is justly proud of their Art Centre's work and success and the congratulations and best wishes for continued success go to them.

'Mission Fields' Topic at Baptist Vota Vita M.C.

On April 18th, Vota Vita Mission Circle met with the Mercy Rae and Senior Missionary Circles, and a combined meeting was held at Victoria Avenue Baptist Church. With Carol Noble's group in charge, Joyce Stovell led the devotional period, using as her theme the four C's in life — "Time, Thoughts, Talents and Treasures." She directed members to some of their time as well as their treasures, in doing the Lord's work, and to make an attempt to do what tasks are asked to do; in this way each may find the joy in doing that which perhaps have not been discovered. She explained the meaning of "Vota Vita" as "devoted life."

Scripture was read by Mrs. Wells and Miss Sewetsky sang "Jerusalem." Special prayers were offered for mission, and for missionaries in Angola who must soon leave their stations there.

GUEST SPEAKER

Speaker of the evening was Mrs. Orrin Rowe, president of the Trent Valley Association, who was introduced by Kay Hall. Mrs. Orrin gave an informative talk on the three Presidents of white women and gladly adorned the chancel and white satin bows the guest pews.

Mrs. Orr closed with prayer. The three groups separated and each held its own business meeting.

Refreshments were served.

Most Schools Set Limit On Number

VANCOUVER (CP)—A leading woman architect says discrimination is one reason so few women take up architecture as a career.

Jane Drew, member of a London firm, said most schools set a limit on the number of women they will enrol.

Another reason was that few women ever thought of the profession as a possible career.

But she never had any doubts. "In deciding to become an architect, I am one of those lucky people who know what they want to be from the very beginning."

A member of the firm of Fry, Drew, Drake and Lasdun, she was here in the course of a visit to Canadian schools of architecture following a teaching stint in Boston. One of her partners, Edwin Maxwell Fry, is also her husband.

Miss Drew has contributed her skill to many of the important jobs, including Premier Nkrumah's he a d q u a r t e r s in Ghana, the R.A.F. Jet Fighter headquarters in Derbyshire, England, schools in Nigeria, part of the new Punjab capital, Chandigarh, and a town in Iran.

Of the latter assignment, she said: "It housed 3,000 people, had a c o m m u n i t y centre, schools and a shopping centre which I designed like a modern Oriental bazaar—with a parking area in the rear."

Woman Collects 800 Sets Salt, Pepper Shakers

HALIFAX (CP)—When somebody reaches for the salt at Mrs. Donald Snope's dinner table, it's unlikely he has to reach far.

Mrs. Snope's hobby is collecting salt and pepper shakers. Since starting five years ago she has collected more than 800 sets.

Mrs. Snope keeps her collection on shelves stretching the entire length of the dining room wall. She estimates the total value at $700.

The shakers take such forms as cartoon characters, tea and coffee pots, books, animals, birds and dolls. One set represents the old-time comedy team of Laurel and Hardy.

Anyone for Economy

By Mary Moore

The following letter is self-explanatory: "D'ear Mary Moore: Your invitation is your readers to send you their own ideas for economical meals and particularly your recipe for Tuna Roll-Ups, have spurred me on to write to you. Here is a recipe for Tuna Rolls, very different from yours and since I find it makes such a hit for evening entertaining, I am forwarding it together with a few other economical recipes . . . I have something to contribute, too, Marianne. I am a serviceman's wife, have a small daughter, and have recently returned from overseas . . . I watched my English mother practising rigorous economies during the War, that is why I have been able to make my food dollar go so far. Although we eat well and healthfully, my food bill, for the three of us, rarely exceed sixty or sixty-five dollars per month. My daughter is seven, has a hearty appetite and does not have to drink reconstituted milk, as my budget allows for whole milk, butter, salads etc. a lot of fresh fruit and only a few of those "filler" dishes one connects with economy dives. (I do use dried milk a lot in cooking.) I live within this budget, helped by my pressure cooker and an electric frying pan, my stock-pot method of keeping water drained from vegetables, utilizing meat drippings, bones from roasts etc. enables me to make good soups for a fraction of the cost of canned soups . . . Fortunately my husband and daughter like liver, heart and kidney, so I take advantage of these less expensive foods. I use hamburger once a week, always in a different way. Chili con carne, Italian spaghetti sauce, meat loaf, meat roasts, for example. I know that a family of three can eat well for less than the dreadful figures quoted by some people. It always seems to me, a pity that so many couples put so much money into colossal food bills and deny themselves other pleasures. I derive great satisfaction from experimenting with new or foreign dishes of the less expensive kind, and from the knowledge that during 16 years of marriage it is my economizing that has enabled us to enjoy the "finer" things of life — good plays, musicals, ballet, holidays, occasional celebrations in restaurants, dances and many other things we enjoy doing together . . . May I take the liberty of starting a few recipes with you? . . . Catherine P.

A REVIEW OF WEDDING OBLIGATIONS

Not too long ago I did a series with regard to the "planning ahead" that was necessary to make the formal wedding the perfect thing it should be. With May and June, the so-called "wedding months," just around the corner, letters are piling up asking the same question that I have answered many times. It merely shows that unless a situation directly concerns you, you pay no attention to it! How to plan a wedding run smoothly and true to tradition, is of no interest, unless you suddenly find that you have the job to do. In order to help the many who find themselves in this position during the coming months, a review would seem to be indicated.

The first, and most generally asked, question is "Who pays for what?" Confusion and even hard feelings between families may be the result if you do not know the customs to be followed in this regard. So here they are!

The parents of the bride have the following obligations:

The complete trousseau; the engagement invitations, announcements, the addressing of them for mailing; the reception of the guest list (co-operation of the bridegroom's family is necessary); all plans for the church services; the reception in the church vicinity, including not only the refreshments, both liquid and solid, the wedding cake, but also tips to the waiters and all decorations.

The floral decorations at both the church and the reception, as well as the bridal attendants' bouquets, are also paid for by the bride's parents. They may also pay for the bridal bouquet, but usually, because of sentiment, the bridegroom assumes this obligation.

The bride chooses the gown that she wishes her attendants to wear, but she does not pay for them. She does, however, present each with a personal gift, such as an initialled powder compact, for example.

The bridegroom also has certain obligations, but certainly not to the extent of those of the bride's family. They are:

The engagement ring. The wedding ring (if he is to be a double ring ceremony, the bride purchases his ring); a personal gift for his bride on their wedding day; her bouquet (if she wishes) and a corsage to wear on her going-away gown; corsages for his mother and hers, to be worn at the wedding; ties and boutonnieres for the ushers, and a personal gift for each; a bachelor dinner, if he decides to have one; and last, but not least, the fee for the clergyman. This is placed in an envelope and given to the best man, who presents it before the services start on the day of the wedding.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, three editors and a women's editor. Each article is a summary of a family disagreement presented to the Council. The Council deals with problems, major and minor, encountered by guidance counsellors and social workers.

Florence J. — He threatens to sell our home because, the children don't help with the maintenance.

Edgar J. — They enjoy the place and they'll own it some day. Why should I do all the repairs?

Florence J. — We have five children, all married, and five grandchildren. We live in a beautiful home that we've been "fussing over," improving, cherishing for the past 26 years. The children love it and spend lots of time on the premises.

But now an issue has come up to a head which may lead to sell it. He objects to the sons and daughters and in-laws to pitch in when there's manual labor to be done around the place. I can't get myself to speak up about it, but he does. He takes the position that it's his property, his home for they'll own it some day.

His attitude makes the visits tense and unpleasant. Is he right?

Edgar J. — I work hard- harder than my sons and son-in-law I think. Besides, I'm 61. Yet on weekends, they expect me to do their rest over at my house, while I give up my precious two days and putter around with repairs and painting and gardening.

It's not that I say no, and I say it loud, even though my wife and the kids don't like it. I'm good to them. They know I believe in helping them out when they need something. I think they should feel the same about me. And I need their energy to start with the house.

After all, after we're gone the place will be theirs. But if they won't help keep it up, I'll just get rid of it.

The Council — There are better ways for Edgar to enlist his children's co-operation in the "caretaking" of the family seat, than by invoking the hereafter! As many a clergyman can tell him, that's a hard selling proposition.

What about the here and now? As we see the situation, the house is Mr. and Mrs. J.'s. The boys and girls have their own places to keep up. By patching and preserving, this fall he must realize he's working on his own property, just like any other householder. He must stop thinking of the reading of the will!

On the other hand, the young members of the family who hang around so much evidently don't object to lending a hand with minor chores. Else, regardless of the Sunday roast and Mrs. J.'s deep-dish pies, they'd make themselves scarce at the old homestead. Along with sweeping leaves out of the roof gutters for Ed, we hope they scour that greasy roasting pan for Florence.

Be honest, Ed: Is it really a little puttering you ask for, or help with a new wing, or a swimming pool? The latter must be optional.

Demanding and insisting won't help here. Neither will efforts to "shame" the kids into pitching in. And, as we've said, promising them their "reward" after you're gone is satisfaction too long delayed. Besides, how can you divide one house among five children, equitably, unless you sell it and divvy the cash? Even then, one or two are bound to feel the others don't deserve as much as they do.

No. Call a meeting and offer your ultimatum. If the upkeep of the house is too much for you, say, "Help me, or I'll sell. If I sell, three changes occur: I lose a home, you lose a place to visit, you lose a family treasure. I keep it, you decide whether you'll help by labor or cash to keep the place in shape for them or selling. Meanwhile, the young J.'s are still welcome and guests, not sub-contractors.

Leaves Port Arthur

Rally On Third Leg

PORT ARTHUR (CP)—A reduced field was to start moving out of this Lakehead city early today on the third leg of the 4,100-mile Trans - Canada Car Rally.

The first of about 85 cars was to leave here at 8:30 a.m. on a 440-mile jaunt to Winnipeg.

By the time the second leg of the rally — from Toronto to Port Arthur—was completed, 12 cars of the original entry of 100 had either been disqualified or dropped out. Most were believed victims of Northern Ontario's rugged roads and poor weather conditions.

Drivers said a snowstorm reduced visibility almost to zero as the cars neared the Lakehead early today. At least one car dropped out because of the blizzard.

The first car to arrive here was driven by Ellison Ripley. He arrived at 3:47 a.m. in a Hillman-Minx. Two hours later more than 50 cars had turned up.

During the stopover, cars were kept in a city parking lot, under the eyes of race officials. No repairs are allowed on a stopover.

The cars left Toronto early yesterday on the 21 - hour 900-mile trek to the Lakehead, considered to be one of the toughest sections of the rally. Only the Rocky Mountain route is expected to take a heavier toll of cars.

One of the cars dropping out Monday was an MG Magnette driven by Joe Wolkowich and navigated by Bill Elkerton, both of Toronto. Wolkowich said he lost four hours near Sudbury when he came down with a fever. A doctor diagnosed his ailment as tonsilitis and recommended sleep.

Rally officials threw a surprise at crews Monday with a 41 - mile dirt section near Parry Sound. It was timed to the nearest second with an average speed of 32 miles an hour required.

Wolkowich said many of the cars found their chassis dragging in mud and the speed difficult to maintain.

Fall or Pushed

Fly Sinks Birdie Three

LONDON (AP) — Golf experts here are debating the case of a fly that putted a birdie three.

The question: Did the ball fall or was it pushed?

The incident happened Monday at Sonningdale, Berkshire, in a match between Michael Lunt and Hugh Squirrell. Squirrell was on the third green in two. His putt teetered on the lip of the cup.

Then a fly landed on the side of the ball. Slowly it crawled up and over . . . and down the other side toward the hole. The ball, rolled forward and dropped into the hole.

Lunt marked a three for Squirrell on his card. At the clubhouse, they were told it shouldn't have counted—if the fly moved the ball.

The rule says: "If a ball at rest be moved or the lie altered by any outside agency except wind, it shall be placed on the spot from where it was moved."

At St. Andrews, club secretary Brigadier E. Brickman said: "There is a similar case. It dealt with a bee."

The bee landed on a ball on the lip of a hole. It was decided the bee was an "outside agency."

Can a fly weighing about 12 milligrams putt a ball weighing 46,000 milligrams?

Said an entomologist: It would depend on the way the blades of grass were lying. A million-to-one chance."

Columbus Tightens Top Grip

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Two outstanding pitching performances were recorded in Monday night's limited International League baseball activity as Columbus tightened its grip on first place and Syracuse sank deeper into the cellar.

Towering Tom Parsons allowed only two hits, a triple and a double in Columbus' 4-3 conquest of Buffalo. The victory widened the Jets' lead over idle Richmond to a full game.

Bob Sadowski gave up three safeties in hurling San Juan to a 7-2 triumph over Syracuse, now two full games behind seventh-place Rochester and seven games behind front-running Columbus.

Parsons, making his record 2-0, was charged with only one earned run, errors giving Buffalo the other two. The 6-5 right-hander retired 13 of the last 16 he faced. The Jets picked up the winning run in the seventh off loser Humberto Robinson.

Sadowski, likewise with a 2-0 mark, got all the runs he needed on one big blow, a three-run homer in the second inning by Ed Olivares, who also singled and scored three times. Ernie Oravetz and Joe Altobelli drove in the Syracuse runs, both in the fourth frame.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By Geo. H. Carver, Sports Editor

Professional wrestling returns to Millennial Arena this week and sports fans who like this form of athletic entertainment are looking forward to a higher good season.

There are some who regard pro wrestling as "phony," but after all it is a form of entertainment, no "phonier" perhaps than other forms of make-believe pastime, say, even the movies.

But there was a time when the fine and ancient sport reached its lowest point in a 20,000 year history. That was some 23 years ago in the southern states when promoters dreamed up "mud wrestling." Sandor Szabo and Prince Ibn Pinda of Indian fame a match and ten minutes later the victor's hand was raised in triumph.

But no one knows, including the referee who was the winner until some half-inch of mud had been scraped from his face. The slime-covered victor was Zz Szabo.

Mud wrestling was never permitted in Canada. Except for a few isolated places far from civilization it is a thing of the past and rightfully so. Like eating cold fish and cramming 20 college freshmen into a telephone booth, wrestling in rings filled with slimy mud was a fad typical of the innocent and slightly blinde 1930's. Yet for a while it seemed important.

It is hard to imagine any of today's champions stooping to the indignity of floundering around in a quagmire where all skill and ability is cancelled out and the whole dreary affair is played strictly for laughs.

But while it was on the craze reached heights that reached the ridiculous. Promoters not satisfied with "mud" alone came up with other goofy gimmicks.

Once at Manitique, Michigan, a brilliant promotorial mind dreamed up a blueberry setting. The ring was filled with six inches of very ripe blueberries and the wrestlers turned loose. But it didn't go as good as anticipated. Soon the berries turned into a sea of blue juice and the combatants found it impossible to retain a hold.

In a certain city in the south another gimmick proved a failure, too. Here the promoters substituted thick molasses for mud and the pace slowed down to thick soggy walk. The wrestlers found it almost impossible to lift a foot out of the mess and another wrestling fad bit the dust.

But instead of stopping the foolish bids for boxoffice intake the craze became more and more ridiculous. With mud and molasses deemed to failure another brilliant mind concocted an ice-cream bout. They put six inches of ice cream in the ring and the wrestlers plowed through it. It was not so "dirty" as mud and treacle but it was just as silly.

The topper occurred in Lake Worth, Florida, in 1935. They bedded down the ring floor with inches of tar and topped it with feathers. Then they tossed in ten wrestlers and blew the whistle. Ten minutes later only one was on his feet and he received the top award of $500.

This city, thank goodness, was never subjected to such fantastic goings-on. In fact some the world's best wrestlers have shown their wares here since the well known Stanislak was one of the more popular big boys.

Whipper Billy Watson enjoys popularity here as he does in many a Canadian community. Then there have been such popular characters as John Katan, Earl McCready, the brothers team of Mike and Ben Sharpe, Lord Athol Layton, the late Masked Marvel, Fred Atkins, one of the toughest, Leo Henning, and of late the ferocious Miller Bros, the Kalmikoffs, and other "bad guys" not to mention the colorful Georgeous George and the taughie, Hard-Boiled Haggerty.

This reporter has interviewed several of the "mastodons" in dressing room talks and very very few of them have proved other than gentlemen. The popular Little Beaver and his midgets were always good copy. The greater majority are vastly different "characters" to those portrayed in the ring.

Oil Kings Shade Irish, Stay In Race

Pull Surprise 5-4 Victory

By LORNE BRUCE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

EDMONTON (CP) — Edmonton Oil Kings are still in the Memorial Cup skirmish, but even they concede that their chances of winning the Canadian junior hockey crown are bleak, indeed.

The Kings, one game away from the scrap heap, pulled a surprise 5-4 victory over Toronto St. Michael's Majors Monday night.

They trail the best-of - seven set 3-1 and in the considered opinion of Edmonton coach Buster Brayshaw: "Beating St. Mike's four times back to back is next to impossible."

The fifth engagement is Wednesday night.

The close - checking Majors, coached by Rev. David Bauer, won the first three games on a combination of good defence and breaks. The Kings played a dashing game and got the breaks Monday night.

SWEATED NEAR FINISH

Brayshaw, who didn't believe his Kings would lose four straight to any junior club in Canada, said the last five minutes were the longest of his life.

Edmonton had a three - goal lead with less than four minutes to go and Toronto missed only by inches several times in getting the deadlocking goal.

The Majors were fired up with a five-minute penalty to Edmonton defenceman Ken Stephanson at 15:39 for drawing blood on Jack Cole's forehead and the college offence was bolstered further when goaltender Jerry Cheevers was benched in the final minute.

Tom Burgess gave Edmonton a 1-0 lead at 1:15 of the second period and other Oil Kings goals were scored by Dave Richardson, Larry Lund, Bob Marik and Roger Bourbonnais. Terry Clancy, Paul Conlin, Larry Keenan and Bruce Draper scored for the Majors.

Brayshaw said if the Kings "keep hustling the way they have been in the last three games, the series could go the limit."

WARNS MAJORS

Said Father Bauer: "If we repeat this kind of game Wednesday night, who knows what might happen to the Memorial Cup."

After a scoreless first period, Edmonton went ahead for the first time in the series when Burgess scored on a bouncing screened shot. The Oil Kings had a manpower advantage at the time.

Edmonton took a 2-0 lead at 17:43 when Richardson scored on a hard drive from 30 feet out. Lund made it 3-0 at 19:17 after picking up a loose puck near the college goal.

REGAIN THREE-GOAL EDGE

Marik scored at 12:31 from 15 feet out and 25 seconds later Bourbonnais showed the puck into the open net after Dennis Kastelan hit the Toronto goal post on a breakaway.

With Stephenson off, Majors swarmed around the Edmonton net and Keenan counted from near the goal at 16:11 after a double pass from Bruce Draper and Paul Jackson. With 52 seconds to go, Bruce Draper tipped in a pass from Keenan.

Cheevers, who stopped 27 shots, had to be taken to the dressing room shortly after the game started because of a face cut suffered in a collision with Burgess.

Buzzers Junior B Champions

OWEN SOUND (CP) — Toronto St. Michael's Buzzers captured the Ontario Hockey Association Junior B championship Monday night, defeating Owen Sound Greys 4-2 to win the final series in four straight games.

It was the 16th straight win in the playoffs for the new champions, who ended the season with an unbeaten streak of 29 wins and one tie in league competition.

The title was the first for St. Michael's since 1945. The Greys were playing in their first final series since 1940.

Another Bad Spring For Robin

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Staff Writer

After an explosive weekend that produced a no - hitter by Warren Spahn and a four-homer run outburst by Willie Mays, baseball fell back into the old routine Monday night.

Philadelphia once more gave Robin Roberts just two runs; Robin lost his fourth without a victory and the Phils plunked back into the National League cellar.

Roberts, after a hopeful spring which he ran up a string of 34 shutout exhibition innings, lost 3-2 at Cincinnati with the winning run unearned. In each of Robin's four defeats, the Phils have scored just two runs.

It was the only game scheduled in the NL and one of two played in the majors.

In the American League, Minnesota Twins beat Chicago White Sox 6-5 on a ninth inning run. The only other game scheduled, New York at Washington, was rained out.

REDS BOUNCE BACK

The Reds, jumping back to seventh place with their second straight success after losing eight straight, beat Roberts with a tie - breaking run in the fourth inning. An error by shortstop Rueben Amaro and singles by Leo Cardenas and Don Blasingame did it.

It was the third consecutive hit for Blasingame, the second baseman acquired from San Francisco last week after going 0-for-12 this season.

Jim O'Toole was the winner for a 2-2 record, blanking the Phils on one hit over the last three innings and finishing with a six - hitter. He struck out nine and walked just two—giving both passes in the sixth before a double play spring him free of the jam.

Roberts, suffering his second straight defeat by an unearned run, allowed 10 hits, walked one and struck out five in his seven innings. All of the Reds' hits were singles, except for a home run and double by Gordie Coleman.

A single by Jim Lemon and a two - out double by Billy Gardner broke up a ninth-inning tie for the Twins against losing reliever Turk Lown of the White Sox. Ray Moore was the winner with one perfect inning of relief.

Harmon Killebrew homered for the Twins' first two runs, off starter Frank Baumann, while the Sox counted their first three of Chuck Hobbs on homers by Jim Landis, Al Smith and Camilo Carreon.

Top Defenceman Harvey Named The Best

MONTREAL (CP) — Doug Harvey, 36 - year - old veteran with Montreal Canadiens, today was named the National Hockey League's best all - round defenceman for the 1960-61 season.

This marks the sixth time in the eight years the James Norris Memorial Trophy has been awarded that Harvey has won it. Along with the trophy goes $1,000 from the NHL.

Harvey received 152 of a possible 180 points in the voting, followed by Marcel Pronovost of Detroit Red Wings 52, Allan Stanley of Toronto Maple Leafs 37 and Pierre Pilote of Chicago Black Hawks 34.

Voting by hockey writers and broadcasters in the six NHL cities was on a 5-3-1 basis for first, second and third choices.

Harvey received 84 points on the first ballot and 78 on the second. Pronovost had 33-30, Stanley 7-30 and Pilote 5-19.

Harvey was announced earlier as No. 1 choice for defenceman on the NHL's all - star first team for 1960-61. He now has completed 14 seasons in the league and has been a member of the all - star first team nine times and the second team once.

Low Batting Average

Jackie Jensen To Quit Baseball

OGDEN, Utah (AP) — Outfielder Jackie Jensen of Boston Red Sox, apparently discouraged by an anemic batting average, says he is quitting baseball for good.

But his wife, former Olympic diving champion Zoe Ann Olsen, said she will try to talk him into rejoining the team.

Jensen, who left the team in Cleveland Saturday, confirmed Monday night that he is retiring again.

"I've had it," he told Ensign Ritchie of the Ogden Standard Examiner. "I know when my reflexes are gone and I'm not going to be any 25th man on the ball club."

It was the first direct word on his walkout from Jensen, en route to Reno, Nev., to meet his wife.

MANAGER AWAITS WORD

Red Sox manager Mike Higgins said he is waiting to hear from Jensen, but added: "I don't think Jackie will ever play again."

The 34 - year - old outfielder, whose estimated 1961 salary is $50,000, retired once before, after the 1959 season. At the time, he was one of baseball's top hitters.

In his comeback attempt this year, he has six hits in 46 times at bat for a .130 batting average and one RBI. His average for 10 previous seasons in the American League is .285. In 1958, when Jensen was the league's most valuable player, he batted .286, drove in 122 runs and hit 35 home runs.

"When he is living by himself on the road, he will start moaning and groaning," she said, adding that she would try to persuade him to return to the Boston club.

Need Coaches In Minor Softball Loop

Over 800 boys from 8 to 16 years of age have registered to play minor softball this season. President Allen Sills tells us that there will be approximately 33 teams; he has only 16 coaches and needs 33 more. He also mentioned that if coaches are not forthcoming that the number of teams will have to be curtailed. It was hoped that some of the boys' fathers would volunteer. Leagues usually begin the first week in June and run two evenings a week. Persons willing to assist are asked to call Allen Sills at WO 8-7531 or the Recreation Office WO 8-1403.

Canadian Press Staff Writer

Canada has a reasonable chance of staging the 1968 Winter Olympic Games and if this happens the organizers must be prepared for a bundle of beefs, squawking and flailing just as an old Olympic custom.

Historians needn't go further back for proof than the 1960 Winter Games at Squaw Valley, Calif. They were born in the barbs, grew up in squabbles. Problems plaguing up over finances and personnel. The location in the high Sierra of California eventually became known as Squawk Valley.

Canadian officials were there and they got a pretty good idea of what to expect if the Games ever come to this country. Banff in the Canadian Rockies is a 1968 contender and a decision by the International Olympic Committee is scheduled for early 1963.

UNDERESTIMATE COST

For instance, the California organizers figured on about $4,500,000 to stage the Games. Total costs were more than $14,000,000.

Sponsors of the Banff site thought $4,000,000 could take care of the 1968 costs. And the bald Parti le British Columbia, which made an unsuccessful bid, came up with a figure of $10,800,000.

An engineering company surveyed the sites and estimated costs of administration, buildings and so much labor. Big figures. The Banff site, it said, would cost about $13,000,000 and Garibaldi $30,800,000.

BUSHELS OF BEEFS

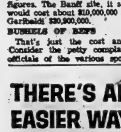
That's just the cost angle. Consider the party complaints officials of the various sports governing bodies and some athletes can dream up. Here are a few that came out of Squaw Valley, although many disappeared early with the running of the events:

A Canadian hockey official manager Bunk Green of the Kitchener - Waterloo Dutchmen, called the one outdoor rink reserved for practice for the nine teams a "barnyard." Other hockey officials were more outspoken. They threatened to pull out of the Games and stage a world tournament in Los Angeles if the organizers didn't do something about the ice in the main arena that was beaten to mudpie and if the organizers would not schedule night games.

Olympic officials put up a curtain of rope that kept out the sunlight and stuck to their original schedule that called for day games. The hockey people cooled out.

BLAMED ICE

A speed skater contended a faulty course caused her to fall and blame the ice. Another racer costing her a gold medal. Officials ruled the fall had nothing to do with ice conditions.



Before the Games, there was much discussion over whether the men's downhill ski run should be cut to 16 miles from 25. The complaints disappeared when the event got under way.

Newspaper, radio and television men, who were forced to travel from 16 miles from Squaw Valley, were loud in their beefs. Athletes complained of their lack of room in the village and some were critical of the accommodations.

When it was all over the figures showed that only an estimated 400,000 tickets were taken in during the 11 days of the Games. The 8-9 rought what officials estimate would be the revenue if Banff got the 1968 Games.

Tax Boys Finger Swedish Star

STOCKHOLM (AP) — Swedish tax officials today knew international track star, Dan Waern, has been charged by the government's internal revenue comptroller with receiving money for running as an amateur and failing to list it as income.

Waern, fourth behind Herb Elliott of Australia in world record - breaking time in the 1,500-metre Olympic run, architected a story last year entitled "I Can't Afford to be an Amateur." Shortly after he bought a $68,000 farm in Sweden.

It was one of the things that brought Waern, holder of the world record for 5,000-metres, to the attention of the federal income tax comptroller.

Milkman Britain's New Bookie

LONDON, (AP)—The milkman called on Mrs. Jones and said:

"There's three bobbies outside the door and what's your bet on the 3:30 at Newmarket?"

The milkman, during many years, had taken small—and illegal — cash bets from housewives. Now cash betting is within the law and the milkman is an agent for a betting shop.

Just off Fleet Street, heart of the newspaper business in London by Fleet Street opened its "bets office" and reported brisk business.

Betting shops are not allowed to advertise in the press or on television. Bettors are not allowed to hang about the shops. No music is allowed. You write out your bet on a slip of paper, collect the receipt and depart.

British Soccer Star Suspended

LONDON (AP) — England's hopes in next year's world soccer championships slumped Monday when it was announced that Jimmy Greaves, one of the country's best players, has been suspended 14 days. Because of the universal aspect of soccer preliminaries in the world meet are held a year in advance.

Greet Britain plays two such preliminaries in the next three weeks and officials said that if the club defeated Mexico here May 10, it would play with Greaves sub May 31 against Portugal and in the world meet although Greaves is rated as one of the world's best.

Instead, he flew to Italy and watched Milan play. The Milan club recently paid $224,000 for his 1962 contract. Although playing for Milan next season he still would be eligible for England's international team.

Robert Preston to Play Role Created on Broadway

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Professor Harold Hill has set up shop out Burbank way, and the irrepressible Con - man is selling at a fast clip.

Hill who is known to millions as Robert Preston and the two seem inseparable, Preston is hard at work filming the film version of Music Man which he created on Broadway. Strangely he has no shoo-in to make the movie.

I'm sure some of the studio minds would have preferred to have Frank Sinatra in the role," commented one observer.

Happily, wiser heads prevailed, they being those of Music Man's creator, Morton Decosta. Preston is among those who believe they made a right decision.

"If you're going to make the film version of My Fair Lady, you want to get the best Professor Higgins," said Preston. "Leslie Howard (who did the non-musical version) pygmalion) is dead, so naturally you get Rex Harrison.

SAYS HE'S BORN

"If you're going to do the film version of Music Man, you get the best Harold Hill. At this late date, there's nobody who can do it better than I can. That is part of me and I'm a part of the role. You can't pick me on overnight."

Warner Brothers is going all out to make Music Man the best. The bill for production will come to $5,000,000. Filming started early this month and will continue through August."

Preston says he's well known. Now he came back from the war to find Paramount had built him up to do the play Alan Ladd's friend. He did play with great success until he took Broadway by storm in Music Man.

The show recently closed on Broadway after 1,375 performances, thus making it the 13th longest run in New York history. Preston's total with it was "somewhere in the 900s."

POSTPONE CHESS GAME

Science Now Shrinks Piles Without Pain Or Discomfort

Finds Healing Substance That Relieves Pain And Itching As It Shrinks Hemorrhoids

Toronto, Ont. (Special)—For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the ability to shrink hemorrhoids and to relieve pain and itching. Thousands have been relieved with this inexpensive substance right in the privacy of their own home without any discomfort or inconvenience.

In one hemorrhoid case after another, "very striking improvement" was reported and verified by doctors' observations.

Pain was promptly relieved. And while gently relieving pain, actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

And most amazing of all—this improvement was maintained in cases where doctors' observations were continued over a period of many months!

In fact, results were so thorough that sufferers were able to make such statements as "Piles have ceased to be a problem!!" And among these sufferers were a very wide variety of hemorrhoidal conditions, some of even 10 to 20 years' standing.

All this, without the use of narcotics, anesthetics or astringents of any kind. The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne)—the discovery of a famous scientific laboratories. Already, Bio-Dyne is in wide use for healing injured tissue on all parts of the body.

This new healing substance is offered in suppository or ointment form called Preparation H. Ask for individually sealed convenient Preparation H Suppositories or Preparation H ointment with special applicator. Preparation H is sold at all drug stores. Satisfaction guaranteed or money refunded.

Successful Living

Mother Painter Upsets Son

DORIS CLARK

DEAR DORIS:—What's wrong with a woman of 60 painting the bathroom? My son says more accidents happen in bathrooms than any place else. He just graduated from college and knows everything about everything.

Just because I took on some painting when he wasn't here to do it he thinks it's all wrong.

Then my neighbor came in and told me how foolish I was. Then my sister. Am I nuts? Years ago, before my son did all our painting, I was mighty handy with a paintbrush.—GRAN.

DEAR GRAN.—You're not nuts. They are. Unless they know more about your health than I do.

Sonny doubtless feels guilty about neglecting what has been his job. He also resents somebody else starting something which he usually does.

Painting walls can be good fun and a change from routine chores. Thank your neighbor and your sister for their concern, and as long as you are healthy and steady on your feet, go to it.

But for goodness sake take precautions. Perhaps you could compromise by having someone else do the ceiling, which is a tough part of the job at any age. We don't want you to fall off a ladder and prove they are right!

DEAR DORIS:—We've been married six months and I am sorry to say the honeymoon is definitely over. When I courted her, my wife was warm and demonstrative, now she hardly has time to kiss me when I come in at night.

She is a fine person and I expected a great deal more of marriage than this off-hand attitude. Hate to see things deteriorating.—ROMEO.

DEAR ROMEO:—They don't have to. But it takes two to make a good marriage.

That first year or two can be tough ones for two people who are adjusting to living with each other. It takes time to get us out of our shells.

These are the years when both partners need constant reassurance, the kind which can be communicated with affection. The wise mate learns to relax and be comfortable in giving and accepting affection.

Has some barrier come between you? Better raise the question and discuss how you can best express your feelings for each other. You set the pattern now for a lifetime of satisfaction or frustration.

DEAR DORIS:—My marriage is planned for a month from now. As my bride comes to Canada from overseas, we are having a reception in my uncle's home. We are trying to limit the invitation list to 50 guests, as there just won't be room for any more.

In spite of this, my mother is insisting that I invite a first cousin of hers (and my uncle's) whom I don't like. She says this person is the only cousin who won't be there, otherwise, and that this could make for hard feelings in the family.

I say this is my fiancee's wedding and mine. I have friends I would like to invite but cannot because of lack of space. My fiancee will back me up, whatever I say. What do you think?—JOE J.

DEAR JOE—Could one cousin more or less ruin your wedding day?

If you had ever lived through the results of hard feelings in a family, you'd realize how bitter people can get. Better take your mother's advice. I gather your uncle would agree with her and he doubtless feels some responsibility for who comes, since he is turning his home over for the occasion.

Have another party later for the left-out friends.

(Doris Clark will be glad to help you with your problems. Write to her care of this paper, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.)

CAMPBELLFORD

200 Attend Regional Scout Conference

CAMPBELLFORD — Some 200 scouters, committeemen and Ladies' Auxiliary members gathered in Campbellford last Saturday to attend the conference of the Ontario Quinte Region of Boy Scouts of Canada. Members were in attendance from the Napanee Valley, Prince Edward County, Belleville Moira Valley, Madoweska, Presqu'ile, R.C.A.F. Trenton, Trent Valley and Trenton Scout Councils.

The theme of the conference "Scouting for Boys" was developed through two major papers and discussions: "Is Scouting for boys up-to-date?" and "Have ideals of Scouting changed?".

While it is true that some of the scouting methods have changed over the years in keeping with the growing membership of the movement and the changing times, those basic ideals and principles established by the Movement's founder, Lord Baden-Powell, are still as applicable in today's society as they were 50 years ago. "With the many adverse influences affecting the young men of the nation, what greater need is there than for a movement dedicated to the development of boys' character and the breakdown of those barriers of hatred and prejudice misunderstanding and intolerance. Those are the barriers that set creed against creed, race against race, and color against color, and keep this world rocking on the precipice of war, at all time".

GUEST SPEAKER

Guest speaker at the evening banquet, the Rev. Father Patrick J. Byrne, secretary of the Bishop of the diocese of Peterborough used the theme "Scouting in the Future" — the application of the aim of Scouting to the needs of youth of today.

Father Byrne said that the basic aims of scouting have not changed since Lord Baden-Powell founded scouting in 1907 to provide for the needs and character of boys. Boys were the same then as now. Scouting provides to Scouts the world over, to 3 1-2 million of them, the facilities for mental, physical and spiritual development.

There are three main sections to the movement, the Cubs, the Scouts and the Rovers. Each activity for each of the groups is carefully planning according to their age group, and their leaders are trained for their particular program. He exhorted the leaders to rededicate themselves to Scouting.

WELCOMED GUESTS

Mayor Rutherford welcomed the guests and Scouts to Campbellford. A highlight of the day's proceedings was the honor bestowed on Scouter Jos Irish of Stirling, for his long and faithful service to the movement. He was presented with the long service medal, which is for over ten years faithful and efficient service, both as a Scouter and later years as District Commissioner.

Conference chairman, Albert Bradley, assistant regional Commissioner, closed the conference with enthusiastic predictions, on the future development of Scouting in this region.

At the moment there are 6,000 Scouts being trained in the region and in the next five years it is expected that this number will double.

BP

give your car the full power you pay for

No matter what the octane rating of the gasoline you now use, other important factors in refining and blending determine whether that gasoline delivers its full power in every cylinder of your car. And because you want the full power you pay for, because you want the maximum mile-gaining benefits of gasolines with superior octane, processed and blended to release maximum energy, then power your car with BP Super or BP Regular . . . the world's most thoroughly tested motor fuels.

BP experience makes maximum energy fuels possible. More than half a century of knowledge and skill — gained in 42 countries and 16 refineries — go into every tankful of BP gasoline. Starting with superior petroleum components, BP refines them to meet the world's highest standards of quality, and season-by-season combines them in perfectly balanced blends that make every engine cylinder a maximum-power unit. Into these balanced blends go all the extra components that assure a clean engine, clean spark plugs and valves, instant starting, fast warm-up, knock-free performance. Each adds to better utilization of the maximum energy released by the gasolines.

To give you further assurance of maximum performance in every tankful of BP gasoline, its components are tested and re-tested 110 times.

Put BP maximum energy gasoline to the final test right in your car. You can feel the difference in acceleration and power. And it will be even greater when you give your engine the maximum protection of BP Visco-Static all weather motor oil.

Castro Orders Most Foreign Clergy Released

Must Obtain Permits To Remain in Country

HAVANA (Reuters) — Most foreign priests, nuns and ministers of the Roman Catholic institution due for nationalization will be allowed to remain in Cuba provided they had been "model citizens" and assisted the counter - revolutionaries who invaded the island.

But, the decree said, the foreign priests had as a rule been opposed to Castro's revolution.

The most important Cuban Roman Catholic institution due for nationalization was the Belen University on the outskirts of Havana with about 300 students.

Senator Terms Cuba Invasion A 'Blunder'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senator J. William Fulbright, Arkansas Democrat, says the U.S. believes the ill-fated Cuban invasion was a blunder for which the White House and several other agencies must share responsibility.

Fulbright, chairman of the Senate foreign relations committee, commented Tuesday after his committee questioned officials of the state department and the Central Intelligence Agency.

He said a decision would be made later whether to call military advisers before either the full committee or the Latin American affairs subcommittee.

"Insofar as I'm concerned, I know all I want to know," Fulbright told reporters after a four-hour briefing by Allen Dulles, director of the CIA, and Richard Bissell, Dulles' deputy director for plans who played a major role in the CIA's part in the invasion of Cuban exiles.

Fulbright said the testimony confirmed his earlier conclusion that "the operation as a whole was a mistake" for which the White House, the state department, the CIA and the state department must take the responsibility.

Fulbright is known to have warned the administration against it when he learned of the planned invasion.

One member of Fulbright's committee, Senator Frank Church, Democrat, reported that the invasion by the Cuban exiles was marked by "poorly conceived military planning."

"A dual mistake was made," Church told reporters, "communism can not be shot down in Latin America; it must be shown up, and this should be the object of our policy."

NON-OP CHIEFS TO MEET RAIL PRESIDENTS

Agree to Request By Labor Minister

MONTREAL (CP) — Top-level negotiators for Canada's 111,000 non - operating railway workers today agreed to meet the presidents of one CPR and CNR for last-ditch talks before a rail strike scheduled for May 16.

Chief negotiator Frank Hall announced the con - op unions had agreed to resume talks with the railways after he met with other union negotiators this morning.

In a telegram to Labor Minister Starr, who had asked the unions to delay vote to further talks, Mr. Hall said:

"In deference to the request contained in your telegram of yesterday . . . the chairman and secretary of the union chief negotiating committee will meet with Messrs. Gordon and Crump at the time and place them a copy of this telegram.

There was little possibility meetings would result. A Hall, secretary George Pawson, and Starr refused to comment and CPR President N. R. Crump could be arranged before 10:30 a.m. at the earliest.

STAND BY DEMANDS

The unions' telegram to Mr. Starr said the committee "have taken a firm and unequivocal stand" on the unions' earlier wage demands.

Today's meeting followed a 10-hour session Tuesday that day which failed to produce agreement on further talks—which would mean freedom after Monday by the unions.

Had the unions not agreed, the government could both Mr. Starr and Prime Minister Diefenbaker would bring still more direct pressure to bear on both sides.

A railway spokesmen said Tuesday the CPR and CNR are ready to meet the unions again but Mr. Hall said the company stand makes further talks "farcical and futile."

His charge was similar to that made Monday-the day the unions formally broke off negotiations — by D. I. McNeill, CPR vice-president of personnel, that the unions' stand made "a mockery" out of collective bargaining.

Queen Honors Italy's War Dead

ROME (Reuters) — Queen Elizabeth placed a wreath today at the tomb of Italy's Unknown Soldier and at the Commonwealth War Cemetery here on the second day of her state visit to Italy.

Thousands of Italians surged around her car, shouting "viva, viva" as she drove through the city. A helicopter of the Italian Red Cross hovered overhead, dropping British and Italian paper flags.

Crowds lined the route from the presidential palace to the massive white monument to Victor Emmanuel II, overshadowing the tomb of the Unknown Soldier.

She and her husband then drove to the Commonwealth War Cemetery where 426 Commonwealth soldiers are buried. The royal couple stood in their cars, acknowledging the applause of the crowd lining the route.

KEY WEST, Fla. (AP)—Capt. Manuel Artime, leader of the unsuccessful invasion of Cuba two weeks ago, was free today. Radio Havana announced.

The broadcast accused Artime of having fled Cuba by the exile army with funds from the agricultural co-operative.

Artime's release was part of Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro's relief army in the succesful revolution against President Fulgencio Batista. Castro later imprisoned Artime with many of his forces for a brief period of days.

Artime told reporters in Mexico City last year that he was representative at Miami-Dade of the National Agrarian Reform Institute, Castro's agency for administering the land redistribution program.

Castro in his May Day speech ordered all foreign clergymen to register with the government.

He said they would be allowed to remain in Cuba provided they had been "model citizens" and assisted the counter - revolutionaries who invaded the island.

But, the Premier said, the foreign priests had as a rule been opposed to Castro's revolution.

The most important Cuban Roman Catholic institution due for nationalization was the Belen University on the outskirts of Havana with about 300 students.

Three Drowned as Tug Sinks In Windswept Hamilton Bay

HAMILTON (CP) — Three men were drowned Tuesday when the 115-foot tugboat Sir Vergie sank in windswept Hamilton Bay while towing a scow.

Dead are David Pollard, 41, of Preston; Lyle Murney, 38, of the tug's crew and Ronald Joyce, 31, of Leeds, England.

At least 13 witnesses on two nearby boats watched helplessly as the small craft tipped and sank like a stone. They said all three men leaped into the water as the tug disappeared. Only Joyce's body has been recovered.

Powerful dragging operations were to resume today. They declined offers from four members of the Hamilton fire station skin divers club to look for the bodies at night.

Laos Rebels Cease Fire, Demand Prompt Truce Talks

HONG KONG (Reuters) — Communist rebels in Laos today ordered their troops to cease fire, boosting Vieng Sai's hopes of settlement of the East-West crisis over the Indochina state.

Capt. Kong Le, whose left wing paratroop forces are allied with the pro-communist Pathet Lao guerrilla organization, told his troops to halt all military activity at 8 a.m. local time (10 p.m. EDT Tuesday). The Pathet Lao issued a similar order to its followers.

Kong coupled his cease-fire order with a demand that the American-backed right - wing government should order all troops to stop fighting and meet without delay" for talks in Laos.

There, the two sides could discuss "regulations governing a cease-fire and armistice," Kong said.

Factors in Canada's Jobless Situation Cited by Experts

STRATFORD (CP) — Excessive income taxes, the attitude of labor unions, harassment of business by government and competition by government in all capital markets are factors today as factors in Canada's unemployment situation by W. P. Gregory, vice-president of Dominion Mortgage and Investments Association.

Mr. Gregory, executive vice-president and managing director, British Columbia Forest Products Company, told the association's annual meeting: "Excessive income taxes, both personal and corporate, are now too high from the point of view of encouragement of savings."

The government should remember that it creates no new wealth. It should never be forgotten that it can create artificial measures decrease the supply of capital needed to develop the country and cause the conditions which necessitate more money for unemployment relief. Welfare measures are necessary but they create a vicious circulation when they require too large a proportion of the national income for the support or level of saving."

Commenting that capital is in industrial expansion because of the continuing trend to narrower profit margins, Mr. Gregory said the big problem is the inflexibility of wage rates and "they seem to be able to go in only one direction—up."

Mr. Gregory's comments were contained in a text made available to the press in advance of delivery.

CITES FURTHER REASON

He said the business building is being constantly harassed by government and that this is another factor contributing to the investment of capital in business.

Government regulations of finance and business in Canada ranged all the way from rules restricting investment discretion to criminal prosecution for alleged combines, he said. Government measures of such a nature as to assume "these risk-takers a favorable climate for getting their money back with interest."

"Otherwise business will continue to coast along with no incentive to step up speed in such ways as searching for new ideas, diversifying into new products or extending into new areas."

Roberts Calls On CCF Leader For Information

TORONTO (CP) — Attorney-General Roberts called on CCF Leader MacDonald Tuesday to assist the department in the fight against crime by naming those is "high places" that he charges have co-operated with leaders of organized crime.

Mr. MacDonald said Monday that CCF Ontario leaders of organized crime have operated sometimes with the active cooperation of persons in high places.

"I certainly don't know of anybody in the category of high places and if I did, we would get them immediately," Mr. Roberts said.

Mr. Macdonald said he wouldn't give the attorney-general's department what he had. "I have given them information before," he said, "and usually all I have got for my efforts is that'll became the butt of great innuendo and attacks from the government inside and outside the House."

CANADA MAY SEEK 12-MILE COASTAL LIMIT

Liberals Favor New Agreement

OTTAWA (CP) — Fisheries Minister Hamilton indicated in the Commons Tuesday night that Canada may seek agreement with "a group of nations" for a 12 - mile zone of fishing jurisdiction off its coasts.

"I think there is still good hope of international agreement being achieved in this field—at least among a group of nations," he said.

Mr. Hamilton laid out the hope in opposing a Liberal bid to have Canada establish a 12-mile jurisdictional zone on its fisheries—unilaterally if necessary.

The Commons gave third and final reading to a government bill that provides for first major changes in the Fisheries Act since 1932.

One of its main changes will be to permit Canadian despots to fish as far as 12 miles to the shore as the three-mile international limit of territorial waters now allows.

Present legislation prevents large Canadian draggers from coming closer than 12-miles off the coast as a conservation measure to protect inshore draggers operate up to the three-mile limit.

FAVORS 12-MILE LIMIT

Opposition Leader Pearson said Canada should impose a 12-mile limit of fishing vessels—even if it must go it alone in the international ocean.

He pointed to Russia's 12-mile territorial waters limit and to Iceland's action in enforcing a similar fishing belt against British trawlers.

"If these countries can do this," he said, "so can Canada."

In reply, the fisheries minister said it was "not wise" to act unexplored, no stone unturned, in order to secure action which will result in greater privileges for Canadian fishermen in the waters adjacent to our coasts."

Efforts to take unilateral action, Mr. MacLean said, would mean that Canada would have to establish first the sovereignty over 12 miles of its off-shore waters, not a simple matter.

Tory Machine Is Charged With Patronage

BURLINGTON (CP) — The forthcoming federal election is being handled on a "patronage basis by the local Tory machine, CCF Leader Stanley MacDonald charged Tuesday night.

He said: "All across the province I have run into reports of people who have been told by a Tory membership card in order to get a job as census-taker.

Wrecked Much Of Britain's Cold War Efforts

Funnelled Information To Russia for 9 Years

LONDON (CP)—A respected British diplomat who turned to communism during three years of captivity in North Korea was sentenced today to 42 years in prison for spying for the Soviet Union.

Reuters said he wrecked much of Britain's cold war efforts.

George Blake, 38 years old and bearded, pleaded guilty to funnelling information to Moscow for nearly nine years.

Blake confessed there was not a single important document to which he had access between 1951 and 1959 "which was not passed to my Soviet contact."

SUPPLIED FOR NAMES

Although the charges were not published in detail, information available in court said Blake gave the Russians the names of British agents.

The informants said Blake was born in Rotterdam, The Netherlands, and entered the British diplomatic service after service in the Second World War with the Royal Navy. He was vice-consul in Seoul when captured by Communists during the Korean War in 1950 and spent three years in an internment camp. The informants said Blake and other internees were subjected to Communist attempts at brainwashing.

Blake was freed in 1953 and re-entered government service.

The informants said he became a British intelligence agent, studied Russian and appeared to be a born-and anti-Communist—student of Soviet affairs.

He is married to a British woman and has three children.

At the time of his arrest three weeks ago he was attending the school of Arabic studies in Beirut, Lebanon. He was not in use by the British foreign office.

REFUGEES WELCOMED

The nature of Blake's government job was not disclosed at the trial for security reasons. But the presiding lord chief justice, Lord Parker, said "the information which is alleged, though not of a scientific nature, was certainly almost more important to this power (the Soviet Union) —and rendered much of this information completely useless."

The judge did not spell out the meaning of "this country's efforts." Court reports specified that it concerned British security measures against So. viet espionage.

Blake was given the longest sentence passed within living memory for offences under the criminal court after a trial of little more than an hour.

MacDonald Irked, He Must Choose Salvation From A-Bomb or Booze

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario government is treating civil defence like a comic opera CCF Leader MacDonald said today.

He said in a prepared statement that the government should not set up "phoney" attractions—a civil defence exercise and opening of an alcoholic clinic both this Friday — if it considered civil defence a serious matter.

"On the other hand, I would like to believe that the government's program to deal with alcoholism is a serious matter, and so, faced with the choice, I am going to attend the opening of the institution for the rehabilitation of alcoholics," he said.

Reform Institutions Minister Wardrope on the same day will open a new clinic for the rehabilitation of alcoholics on the grounds of the Ontario Reformatory at Mimico.

"Whatever may be the real importance of civil defence," said Mr. MacDonald, "the government has treated it as though it were a comic opera.

"In the other hand, I would like to believe that the government's program to deal with alcoholism is a serious matter, and so, faced with the choice, I am going to attend the opening of the institution for the rehabilitation of alcoholics," he said.

South African Police Raid Negroes' Homes

JOHANNESBURG (Reuters) Thousands of police today raided homes of Negroes and political opponents of the racial-ist government after a country-wide police alert was ordered overnight.

Reason for the raids was believed to be a search for "subversive" literature in connection with a planned protest demonstration by Africans later this month when South Africa becomes a republic.

In one of the country's biggest police operations, police searched homes of a number of Liberal Party members and carried out widespread raids in Negro settlements.

Police entered the home of Mrs. Helen Joseph, who was one of the last detainees released by the government in South Africa's recent treason trial.

After a two-hour search, police removed parts of a manuscript of a book Mrs. Joseph is writing about the trial.

PUT ON THE ALERT

Hundreds of white and Negro police were ordered to stand by for special orders overnight. Armored cars were on key positions in Pietermaritzburg, capital of Natal province, and many police were armed with submachine guns.

Three hundred police were on the alert at the central police barracks here and others were concentrated in the entire Witwatersrand area and in harbor ships southwest of here where more than 350,000 Negroes live.

'Variations in Family Life' Topic at Current Talk Series

Mrs. Bruce Kerr, director of the Belleville Children's Aid Society, guest speaker in the current series of "Talks on Marriage, at Education Hall, gave a verbal picture of life 80 years ago, 40 years ago, and now, thus showing the variations in family living as years have gone by.

"In our grandparents' time in Canada, each home was an independent and self-reliant unit. The parents were sure of their place in the family and the work they had to do upon which their existence depended. Children were an economic asset, and large families common in the isolated pioneer family, which was a stable unit bound by companionship and loyalty.

MORE CONVENIENCES

"Thirty to 40 years ago, there were more conveniences, and members of families were becoming less dependent on each other. There was some electricity and running water in the urban areas; but personal satisfaction by the lack of friends or even acquaintances on one's street.

"These factors cause frustration, loss of self, the feeling of belonging which is essential to human for them to be mentally and physically well.

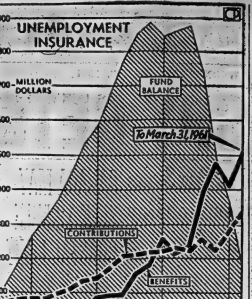
"The world today needs mature adults, and these will develop only from families being only families will provide the sense of belonging and security that will not be found elsewhere.

FOUR-FOLD FUNCTION

"The four basic functions of the modern family are four-fold: to provide emotional security, affection, warmth and warm regard; to provide a training point in those attitudes, how to live in peace and harmony; it should provide social, cultural and economic inheritance; standards of behavior should be established in loyalty, honesty, social views and religion; to provide a philosophy giving life meaning and purpose and also thereby renewing that attitude in one's values as worthwhile.

"The roll of the family today is to fulfill all of these and the environment that will develop healthy personalities. The need for families has continued, and will continue. The need is the same today."

Mr. Kerr was introduced and thanked by Mr. Tom Mitchell.



There will be one more talk in this series on May 8, at Belleville General Hospital at 8:00 p.m. Anyone is invited to the talk which will be by a psychiatrist and marriage counsellor.

Harry McLean, Famed for Giving Money, Dies

MERRICKVILLE (CP)—Harry Falconer McLean, self-made contractor, also widely known for giving away money, died at his home Sunday night at age 78.

He built the Albitibi Canyon power development, the Pine Flos Railway, the Timiskaming and Northern Ontario Railway, the Montreal Aqueduct and other huge projects.

But to thousands of Canadians he was Mr. X — who gave away thousands of dollars in gobs 'in more than 40 years of travelling across the United States and Canada — much of it in the 1930s.

His identity wa revealed in November 1943, after Mr. McLean had been killed in a fall of $100 bills to the war wounded in Toronto Hospital. Thousands more, he and thousands more at Halifax, including a $2,000 cheque to each district.

"I have all kinds of money and it's a lot of fun to distribute it," he said one day. "It's really the way to make people happy.

"Hell, what's the use of keeping it. You can't take it with you."

Mr. X tossed money from railway cars, from hotel windows in Winnipeg and Montreal and other cities and towns. His bankers cut him off after a Windsor driveway spree, but not for long.

His more permanent gifts included a $10,000 donation for a nurses' residence at Digby, N.S.

Born in Hamsonville, North Dakota, of Canadian parents, Mr. McLean was a tall man of striking appearance. He had a mass of curly white hair and the build of a heavyweight boxer.

After working his way through business college by selling newspapers, he began his construction career as a waterboy. Later he built such com panies — Dominion Construction, Grenville Crushed Stone and the J. F. Fraser and Beaubeart Construction Co., which handled $400,000,000 in contracts and made him among the richest of Canadian contractors.

The building of the Flin Flon Railway in nine months helped make the McLean legend. He was given two years to do it, with a $250,000 bonus if it was done in half that time.

Because, too, that the workers are enthusiastic about the need for an adequate YMCA for our city and ever expanding area. It is half a century since Belleville's people had the opportunity to provide a YMCA building and that's a long time for any old structure to be in constant use."

Harry McLean, Famed for Giving Money, Dies

MERRICKVILLE (CP)—Harry Falconer McLean, self-made contractor, also widely known for giving away money, died at his home Sunday night at age 78.

He built the Abitibi Canyon power development, the Pine Flos Railway, the Timiskaming and Northern Ontario Railway, the Montreal Aqueduct and other huge projects.

But to thousands of Canadians he was Mr. X — who gave away thousands of dollars in gobs 'in more than 40 years of travelling across the United States and Canada — much of it in the 1930s.

His identity wa revealed in November 1943, after Mr. McLean had been killed in a fall of $100 bills to the war wounded in Toronto Hospital. Thousands more, he and thousands more at Halifax, including a $2,000 cheque to each district.

"I have all kinds of money and it's a lot of fun to distribute it," he said one day. "It's really the way to make people happy.

"Hell, what's the use of keeping it. You can't take it with you."

Mr. X tossed money from railway cars, from hotel windows in Winnipeg and Montreal and other cities and towns. His bankers cut him off after a Windsor driveway spree, but not for long.

His more permanent gifts included a $10,000 donation for a nurses' residence at Digby, N.S.

Born in Hamsonville, North Dakota, of Canadian parents, Mr. McLean was a tall man of striking appearance. He had a mass of curly white hair and the build of a heavyweight boxer.

After working his way through business college by selling newspapers, he began his construction career as a waterboy. Later he built such com panies — Dominion Construction, Grenville Crushed Stone and the J. F. Fraser and Beaubeart Construction Co., which handled $400,000,000 in contracts and made him among the richest of Canadian contractors.

The building of the Flin Flon Railway in nine months helped make the McLean legend. He was given two years to do it, with a $250,000 bonus if it was done in half that time.

EASTMINSTER CUBS

A colorful "Going-Up" ceremony was held in the Eastminster Church Hall. Parents and friends attended this important event to see Cub John Belyea of "A" Pack, and Cubs Charles McDonald, David Ladouceur and Burton Reid of "B" Pack, received into the 1st Scout Troop. S.M. Gibbons, A.S.M. Gunnell and the Scouts turned out in force to welcome the new Scouts.

Scout Reid Hayes has been awarded his Cub Instructor's badge. His keen interest in this work indicates that he will be a valued leader.

"17" BADGE CUB

We pay tribute to Cub John Belyea, who is the first boy in the 17th to receive 13 badges. The first many, we hope John has also qualified for the new "Pet Keeper's" badge. Heartiest congratulations to John and his leaders for patience and hard work necessary to pass the many tests.

Cubs say "thank you" to 6 Cub Akela Mrs. Bruce Kerr. Cubs raked up the lawn and tidied up the grounds around the church. Then, assembled in the church, they presented Akela with a beautiful bouquet of flowers. Cubs were much growing and grunting in the second individual race. We do hope that Akelas Dodge and Maw will have recovered in time for the next pack meeting. Baloo (Keith Roker) was a little the worse for wear but will probably get well.

5TH ST. MARGARETS

Skip Al Murray and the Rover Crew organized a bottle drive for the Cubs and Scouts. Many of the fathers provided transportation. Rover Carr had two Cubs and two Scouts and a van and they went collecting bottles. A good deal of this kind in itself is news but when we learned that they raised one hundred and twenty-seven dollars, the effort was worth reporting. The boys were also thanked by many householders for their generosity. The money will be used to purchase tents.

Plans were completed for the annual Father and Son banquet. It will be held in St. Margaret's Parish Hall on May 19th at 6.30 p.m. The guest speaker will be Rev. Canon Bedford-Jones, rector of the Belleville Church.

5TH ANNUAL BANQUET

A full course turkey dinner was served to the fathers and sons of College Hill United Church Scout group, prepared by the auxiliary.

After the entertainment and very enjoyable meal, chairman E. R. Dobbs proposed the toast to the Queen. Mr. H. Burley then introduced the guests: Lt. G. Monteith, president District Council; District Commissioner Phil Alcorn, A.D.C. A. Sweet, R. H. Dobbs, Cub Jim Reid, Troop Rutter, Rev. G. Houk, padre, Cub Peter Houk, Scout Vicky Burley and Frank Ray.

Rev. Houk warmly welcomed the fathers to the banquet and extended an invitation to the fellowship of the church. The District Commissioner commended the group on the renewed activity since the change of sponsorship to the College Hill United Church. Lloyd Monteith spoke on a subject he is well versed in, the Scout Promise. He said the living creatures, birds, bugs, flowers, trees, have a purpose in the world and if boys would quietly study our friends in the forest, they would learn much. Before leaving the president's short talk inspired his listeners and gave the Cubs and Scouts something to think about.

Cub Ricky McIlquham proposed a toast to the fathers. This was responded to by Howard Hayes who invited the fathers to attend group committee meetings and share in the work of the group. The two packs were then presented: SM Art Stenabaugh, ASM Wm. Arnott, CM Alf Wagner, ACM's Ron Hennessey, Rex Hayes and Mrs. Daniels. Mr. Frank Ray thanked Mrs. Lois Gill and her ladies for the wonderful banquet and also for their valued assistance in the group during the recent trying days.

The Cubs presented a very amusing stunt of "Surprise" behind the screen revealing the shadows of the surprised fathers as soon wielding hammers and knives. Exactly what was wrong with the "patient" was not explained, but the results were miraculous. A "cut up" one was seen enjoying a "cup of tea" and a "well deserved beer" later in the evening.

The keeping of Cub traditions Cub Carl McMullan had both his eyes opened when he was presented with his Second Star by Akela Wagner.

The grand voices of the Cubs singing their "Farewell" song satisfied the end of this memorable evening.

Do Not Be Alarmed

Sirens throughout Ontario will be sounded on May 5th as part of the Emergency Measures Organization Test.

They are part of the Canadian Army's National Survival Warning System and Organization is manned by the army 24 hours a day. The sirens' tones and their meanings are the same throughout Canada and the United States.

The air raid siren at Belleville's city hall clock tower will be sounded simultaneously with other sirens across the country.

Residents, however, are asked not to be alarmed or to take any action as the exercise is being conducted to practise survival measures on a government level.

Also it is requested that you do not telephone for information when the sirens are heard as a large number of calls could overload circuits and prevent requests for police and fire assistance.

Two different signals will be used and it is hoped the general public is not being asked at this time to take an active part in the Exercise the Ontario Hydro and Bell Telephone Companies hopes that residents in the province will learn to recognize the signals for any future real emergency.

The first signal that will be sounded is the "Alert Warning," a steady three minute siren wail commencing at 11 a.m. and an emergency an attack is probable and the public should tune in to their local radio stations for further information. At the time that the "Alert Warning" is sounded on May 5th the Exercise Tweaks, the CBC will broadcast a half hour radio program on national survival including assistance to rid the Right Honorable John G. Diefenbaker and the Honorable Leslie M. Frost.

Trenton Legion Team Wins Provincial Cribbage Crown

TRENTON — On Saturday, a cribbage team from Trenton Branch 110 of the Royal Canadian Legion visited Newmarket to compete with teams from 30 other Legion branches for the provincial cribbage championship. The Trenton team came home with the provincial trophy and the Labatt plaque. Local authorities think that this is a first victory for Trenton, as no one can recall that a Trenton team ever won top honors before. Arrangements for the meet were made by sports' officer Orville Smith. Team members were: captain Sandy Davidson, "Corky" Corrigan, Don Davidson, Lou Knack, Carl Taylor, Wilson Nicholson, Gordon Nokes, Frank Bursich, Aubrey Green and Garnet Foote.

Planning Board Turns Down Application for Apartments

TRENTON — Plans for Community Planning Week (May 22 — May 27) were discussed by members of the Trenton and Suburban Planning Board last night.

Models of city blocks, before and after planning, display posters and pictures and relative literature will be exhibited in Canterbury Hall for the last three days of the special week.

Elementary school pupils will be encouraged to enter a poster and slogan contests for which there will be first, second and third prizes.

Newspaper and radio coverage will be sought and members of the board will be available as guest speaker to local service clubs.

Present at the meeting last night were the chairman, Dr. W. A. L. McDonald, secretary, O. W. Larry, Mrs. Harriet Simmons, Arnold Hobson, John Forbes and Arie Hoornweerd.

Mr. Larry read out to the board requisites of a Committee of Adjustment which will be appointing locally in the near future. Council will appoint three members to this body. Board members were asked to make recommendations for membership.

Mr. Carl Williams appeared before the board to ask for what authority" the board had designated his property on Dundas St. E. as "green belt". He said that he wished to convert a house at 79 Dundas St. E. into apartments but found it impossible under a "green belt" zoning.

The board will recommend to council that Mr. Williams be allowed to proceed with the conversion.

Council will also be asked to permit a neighborhood store to be built on the site, in the Stanley Heights sub-division on Patrick Street. Approximately 400 persons will be served by this store in this 133 unit sub-division, which is located west of Fourth Ave. in Champlain Heights.

The board also made a recommendation to town council that an application from G. A. Weaver and R. J. White, to erect a 6-suite apartment building at the rear of an apartment block at 84 Queen St., be refused. Deficiencies in lot size, frontage, side yard, and set back allowances were noted as being just cause for this refusal. A similar application on the principals involved was rejected by the Ontario Municipal board last year.

An application from K. Birch of Campbell St. to construct a basement apartment in a duplex dwelling at the address, was rejected, by the board because of an overall shortage in floor area in the proposed apartment.

Rotarians Hear Of Civilization Many Years Ago

TRENTON — Rev Bowen Squier, speaking to the Trenton Rotary Club on Monday night, told the members, "You live in one of the most historic parts of Canada. Here, are unwritten records of a civilization which flourished in this area 2,000 years ago. This record should be preserved for posterity and only this generation can do it."

Mr. Squier said that for the past 17 years he had been making investigations into the archeological history of this area. He said that his findings indicate that within a 10-mile radius of Trenton, there were the sites of 17 Indian villages and five large burying grounds. He produced numerous items excavated from some of these locations, used by the Indians of 5,000 years ago, for details of daily living or warfare.

The speaker traced the trek made by Champlain in 1615 through this area. Champlain had realized the strategic importance of the area and hoped to take possession of it for France. Mr. Squier said that the unwritten records (oottery, weapons etc.) indicate that the Indian tribes who lived in this area indicate that their civilization, thousands of years old, was as civilized as the French, who subsequently settled here.

Mr. Squier was introduced to the club by immediate past president Fred Preston and thanked by Rev. J. T. Irwin.

MONTREAL (CP) — A 24-year-old laborer was still missing today and a fire that it mounted that he may have died in an explosion and fire which rocked an oil refinery in the suburban Pointe - aux-Trembles late Tuesday night.

Meanwhile police and officials of the Golden Eagle Refinery Company of Canada were still sorting out the debris that resulted when a water-filled 12,000-barrel oil tank exploded and collapsed.

"We found the helmet of a worker on a steel ladder," a police spokesman said, "but he hasn't been found or located leading us to believe he may have perished."

A fire which followed the explosion was extinguished quickly.

TRENTON—More than $500 was realized by last Saturday's Trenton Sea Cadets' tag day. At 1:30 p.m. net proceeds were $68, but the boys went to work with a will and by evening nearly efforts were rewarded by the generosity of citizens and the larger sum had been collected. The cadets were assisted with the tag day arrangements by members of the Women's Auxiliary and other interested persons, including the original sponsor of the corps, Miss Marjorie Gothard.

Two Childish Actions

Most of the time, of course, it is used in this sense when speaking of the actions of adults and its use in a derogatory sense is therefore understandable. It is, however, not always true that childish behavior, even in adults, is deplorable.

Of course one feels vexed, if not downright annoyed, when in an international crisis one finds people acting as childishly as the Laotian government and the Pathet Lao, or pro-Communist rebels. Both Britain and Russia had called for a cease-fire, yet on Friday the two sides were squabbling over where they ought to meet to negotiate such a truce. "We are the government," said the Western-backed regime, "therefore the meeting should be held at the royal capital." "We are the victors," argued the Pathet Lao, "so the negotiations should be at our headquarters." Britain advanced the obvious adult solution—a meeting somewhere in no-man's-land between the two forces.

There is, however, another form of childishness which, if it serves no useful purpose, still invites our sympathy. If it is of no help in solving a situation, the blame lies more truly with adult stupidity than with any real fault in the childish solution proposed. By this category of admirable childishness we must place the bickering of Congolese soldiers at Coquilhatville, where leaders of the various Congolese factions were holding a conference.

First reports were that these soldiers had detained President Moise Thombe of secessionist Katanga province, after he had derided "the action of the Leopoldville and Stanleyville Kasavubu in endorsing a UN demand that foreign advisers, except those under the control of the central government, get out of the Congo.

Later reports, however, indicated that, though Thombe's truculence may have resulted in him bearing the brunt of the soldiers' ire, they had treated all the leaders in essentially the same manner. They had placed them under house arrest and informed them that they would not be permitted to leave Coiquilhatville until they reached an agreement on the future government of the land. Only a child, or an eccentric, would follow such a course—yet it has a certain logical insistence on essentials which make one wish that it were possible to substitute these single-minded soldiers for the squabbling political leaders. But, as might have been forecast, adult thinking has since prevailed and Tshombe alone is now detained.

Many of them consider their work a drudgery instead of a thing of even artistic potential; this is particularly true of such crafts as cabinetmaking and woodworking.

Many of these craftsmen can be observed looking elsewhere for gratification in life, Sean O'Casey wrote of this a few years ago; "I got a letter from a man who says he's a cabinet-maker. He begged me to send him used fish tongues, adding as a reason to me, that as well, he collected beer-bottle caps, auto-club emblems, cartoons and bean tins-tons of which he had 500. Carefully, he mentioned that he is a carpenter. Abandoning the calm and really beautiful art and craftsmanship of bed, feverish collection of rubbish".

People will rush chance lower standards quickly — even when they are shown to be rickety. But we have wandered off the subject bear repeating. One is for those of us who are looking down on those who do manual labor; it is by Mr. Gardner: "Dignity and worth should be assessed only in terms of those qualities of mind and spirit that are within the reach of every human being". For those of us who are minding or disparaging our natural vocation, Socrates has a word. Harmony and justice, he says, come both to a city and to a man through each of us doing "our own business".

He adds that "unwillingness truly (a man) must do his own business . . . (he must have managed his own well, and himself have ruled himself, and set all in order) before he come a friend to himself".

Judging Men by Jobs

New York Times

"The natural cobbler", said Socrates, "ought properly to cobble and do nothing else, and the carpenter to carpenter, and so on". Many people agree with this — but too often for different reasons than Socrates had in mind. Many believe that there is a natural scale of individual worth — and that one corresponds to the scale of jobs. Thus, they think the less working a man is the more menial job he has to do and the more worthy he is the higher administrative job he will have.

This attitude has a real effect on our country — an effect that can be seen within our school system. Many of our young people are dogging it, seeking the kind of education they feel is most suited for. They shun what they obviously are suited for — particularly if it is working with their hands. They are driving, they believe, to escape being forced to scrape by a "lowly" occupation.

Arguments by teachers and others interested in their welfare are often unavailing with these youngsters. Men such as Socrates' above are considered over-simple, or their confidence game designed to keep people in their places. As a result, they are in a muddle through studies they shouldn't have been in, or worse, fail to go through life discontented with what they do.

There are several little tragedies being played out in this situation. First is the tragedy of those who are so busy looking down on others, of finagler looks down on the man who paints his office. Eminent physicists (as a former science editor of this newspaper once reported) walk haughtily in the work of electronic craftsmen. As we keep telling ourselves, no job is unimportant. But such condescension is one of the most hurtful examples of our imperfection.

And, worse, it leads to the second tragedy, that of the discouragement of youngsters from entering the trades. Young people want to do something good. When they hear that what they are naturally suited for is looked down upon, they begin to look for a career that isn't. This in turn leads to the third tragedy—the boy with a natural aptitude for being a good plumber becomes a mediocre philosopher. And so Mr. Gardner states in his recent book, "Excellence", a good plumber is just as necessary to our society as a good philosopher; the need is greater.

The low-category rating that so many of us give the manual arts is the chief factor responsible for many students aspiring to be what they are not and also responsible for many workers now in those crafts not fully utilizing what they are fitted for.

Many of them consider their work a drudgery instead of a thing of even artistic potential; this is particularly true of such crafts as cabinetmaking and woodworking.

Many of these craftsmen can be observed looking elsewhere for gratification in life, Sean O'Casey wrote of this a few years ago; "I got a letter from a man who says he's a cabinet-maker. Worship Fun As New God

Milwaukee Journal

What's the fastest growing occupation in the United States? It's "not working." It has nothing to do with involuntary unemployment. It has to do with those who find ways of earning a living without working, who seek shorter and shorter hours and shorter and shorter years of labor, who have lost pride of workmanship and the work ideology, whose main goal is not to do a job well but to retire early.

Mr. Hutchins, president and teacher at San Francisco State College, dealing with this subject in an address to Mardi-emoleelle magazine, asks the question: "Is Work for Slaves?" He is the latest of many Americans think that it is.

"The country that achieved pre-eminence in considerable part through an almost religious dedication to work has become the land where leisure and fun are acclaimed as the new gods," he writes.

Between 18 and 20 percent of all income is already earned by persons who don't work for it — through dividends, rents, social insurance benefits, veterans' payments and many other forms. Soon these sources are eagerly sought, of course, by almost everyone.

In addition, Mr. Swados feels, there are a lot of occupations "so useless that to call to an acre of land on the Island." He promises a long list of occupations which he says do not qualify as "socially useful labor." And quite a few millions who put in their time between amusements on tasks that "cannot be justified by traditional standards in terms of the public utility or personal satisfaction."

Mr. Swados' scathing remarks about occupations are many. There are obviously many Americans to whom work—which can give real meaning to the greatest satisfactions—is a necessary evil. There is a basic challenge, of a sense of working for a great purpose, for the building of a better nation and world.

Whose fault is it? Just about everybody's—and it is the fault of those who hold that the chief goal and amusement his proper end.

Not that work for work's sake is to be encouraged. We want to return to drudgery our forefathers found necessary for survival. But we do want to return to a philosophy of work which can give real meaning to life and purpose to man's existence. There is a basic challenge in these. Too many people simply ignore it.

We are often critical of youth. Yet Mr. Swados says, and it seems to us, with observations, that on the nation's campuses "the flame of idealism burns as brightly as ever . . . (and) the search for fruitful work to which one can dedicate one's life is as strong as ever." But the flame seems to die as youth moves into the adult world. One of our major national needs is to see that it doesn't die.

STRENGTH FOR THE DAY

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

COMPANY IN THE HOUSE

"It's good for us to have company occasionally," a friend of mine remarked to his wife, looking around their living room as they awaited the guests. "It makes us get everything cleaned up."

It is good for all of us to have company in our lives — to have our actions, words, and thoughts exposed to other people living along, rub off from the others, is very dangerous. From time to time, we have all known occasional odd figures who loved by themselves and made only rare appearance in public, queer and strange in their clothing and behavior.

But eccentricity is not the only danger in getting out of touch with others. Selfishness is a danger. The man who lives entirely by himself is likely to end up living entirely for himself. Prejudice is another danger. If we share our ideas with people of different backgrounds and voicing our own, we are likely to get our most extreme follies knocked out of our head. But the man whose thoughts are never subject to the challenge of others may cling to the most childish and unreasonable beliefs.

Have company enough in your home so that you always want to entertain. Have company enough in your life, so that you will always keep your way of living presentable, too.

Wilfred J. "Wicky" Rose, well-known in Belleville rail-way and baseball circles, was killed Thursday afternoon at the Oshawa sub-division in the Belleville Division of the Canadian National Railways, which includes that territory from Belleville to Coboconk inclusive. He was granted leave of absence in May, 1917, to enlist in Country with the Canadian Army from May 1916 until he returned to Belleville in April 1919, after having served overseas with the 38th Battillery. "Wicky" Rose is well known in the sporting circles not only Belleville, but district, but throughout the province of Ontario, he being considered one of the best centre-fielders ever to grace the senior diamond in the Ontario Baseball Association. And was considered one of the speediest players ever to don a baseball uniform.

However, the fishermen are all on hand for the anglers as it is reported that the streams have more trout in them than was expected. It was thought that the fish would destroy a great many of the trout, but apparently such is not the case.

An Airline That Improved GroundService

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

I was pleased to read in an advertisement that Eastern Airlines are at last coming to grips with reality. One of the most flagrant airlines is now "grounding" its own advertising program.

By this I mean that the airline will cease emphasizing speed in its copy, and switch, as it already has on its ground service, to the public.

"The real challenge of the jet age," proclaims the first of the new ads, "is to bring you dependability, speed and quality of service on the ground as well as in the air."

These are heartening words to a confirmed air-traveler like myself. Most airline advertising has been silly, if not specious and false. The emphasis on all lines is pretty much the same, the speed are the same, and the prices are identical.

What distinguishes one airline from another is the quality of service the passenger receives before and after his flight — and this quality is almost deplorably neglected by most airlines. The front of champagne cocktails stuff, or a chicken dinner of meat in each sandwich.

Counter service is still depressingly slow and frustratingly chaotic at most airports. Delays of departure are still unnecessarily enough — and sometimes, indeed, the counter personnel tell downright lies about the time of departure when they know perfectly well that a desperate effort to keep passengers from swelling the no-other line or another mon of travel.

The airline in question is now — several years late — posting customers' representatives in front of the ticket counters to answer questions and direct passengers to the proper boarding gates. The baggage service, flight check plan, timetables, reliability and weather reports are being beefed up, to give the customers the kind of treatment they should have had all along.

This is an overdue recognition of the fact that the flying public of the 1940s is radically different from the public of even 20 years ago, when the chief aim was to get there safely, and approximately on time. Nowadays per cent of the airline complaints today centre on convenience, some ground procedures, not on the trip itself, which is usually smooth, swift and dependable.

Commercial airlines operate on certificates from the government, which also belongs to the nation as a whole. To justify these certificates, and to be profitable use of public air space, the airlines have an obligation to get us off the ground swiftly and pleasantly as they set us down.

Develop Infant's Sense Of Pride in Accomplishment

By Joseph G. Molner, M.D.

"Dear Dr. Molner: How old should a child be before he is told to go up stairs, get washed and brush his teeth? I think some children are told to do this too soon. I would like your opinion.—Mrs. J. B."

There isn't any special age. The answer here is at what age you can tell him to do it. But in being smart enough and doing enough to help him take pride in being able to do these things.

The process starts as soon as a child begins to grab for the soap or wash cloth while you are scrubbing him. You say something like, "Do you want to do it yourself?" and let him have his inquisitive, fumbling, baby-like try at it.

For the first several or many times, he soon loses interest. So you go ahead and finish the chore. But one day, as you do the scrub and say to child, he says, "I do it!"

And he does. You tell him how proud you are of him — even if he leaves smears on it. But this is the beginning of washing the backs of his ears.

The child will recognize the tone of your voice, the pride in it. The praise you give him will feel that by doing things himself, he is getting to be a big boy.

That's the moment he really begins to grow! After that — except for the moments of rebellion that are the birthright of all small people, he understands, vaguely, the meaning of self-reliance. He likes being able to do things.

You only have to say, "Time to wash up now," and off he'll go, pleased as punch.

It starts early. Giving children a quiet sense of pride does what no amount of ordering ever can.

"Dear Dr. Molner: I have had some spotting, and my doctor says I have a polyp at the opening of the womb and should have it removed. What would you advise? I haven't had any spotting since the examination.—Mrs. W. J."

The symptom (spotting) may have stopped just now, but the polyp is still there. Have it removed.

"Dear Dr. Molner: Would you tell me your opinion of using Vitamin E tablets for heart ailments?—Mrs. J. S."

I will. This theory has not as yet produced enough reliable evidence to convince me that it has merit. I reserve the right to change my mind if adequate facts are produced, but so far I haven't been shown.

I'd be delighted to greet any new medical treatment for such a widespread condition as heart disease, but I decline to report that any method has merit until I am convinced.

THE PACKSACK

BY GREGORY CLARKE

An out-of-town lady friend of ours was in the city on a shopping spree, and after disposing of nearly all her money she bought a new purse. It is now at some shoes at one of our most fashionable shoe shops. She really didn't mean to lose it, it is most ladies, she has shoes in those and she was sitting on the inside of the doors of half the closets in her house. But you know. A shopping bag on reaching the sidewalk. The bus made its turn.

It ran over both her shoes, squashing them flat. In her shocked state, she called for aid of kindly passers-by she made it to the shoe store on the far corner. She feels she was really intended to have a new pair of shoes.

Her husband is making a right hand turn. Our friend paused, smiled up at the driver, and nodded for him to go ahead. He nodded her to go ahead. So she sprinted.

She was wearing these pencil thin heels. One of them promptly didn't go down in the pavement. She tripped right out of those shoes, kicked one and stumbling forward under the bow of the bus, she just reached her balance on reaching the sidewalk. The bus made its turn.

It ran over both her shoes, squashing them flat. In her shocked state, she called for aid of kindly passers-by she made it to the shoe store on the far corner. She feels she was really intended to have a new pair of shoes.

TODAY'S TALK

BY GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

ON STANDING BY

We never know when it is most necessary for us to be around.

But we do know that if we plant deep within us the seeds of necessity, we shall be there when appoint when we find ourselves standing by when we are needed.

I have seen a crowd of people standing by a man who has been injured, not, some knowing what to do, we dumbfounded for the time being.

And I have seen a man deserted in his direst need by those who were seemingly most fond of him in his prosperity and success.

What does it mean to stand by, anyway?

Well, the first place, it means trust. You can't stand by anyone you don't trust. And then it means that you believe in that one — you believe he will have a thousand faults and failings.

Many times this standing by presents a great spectacle. For it emphasizes thoroughbredness to the full.

He who stands by his friend cannot present reservations. He stands by — and that settles the matter.

He who professes most, often practices least. So that we find that he who we least suspect as our friend standing by, while in the distance we find figures of him whom we thought most loyal to us.

Standing by is no cultivated art. It's a fact of character.

Therefore, be sure that you believe that he is your friend. You know it — and you alone.

Cushy Beds For Soldiers

Fort William Times - Journal

We note that the British Army has ordered 80,000 "of the latest" mattresses for overseas for the troops. This means that scores of thousands of old soldiers were born too early to rest long on ground sheets or if lucky, bed palliasses, heavy cotton material stuffed with straw — the straw having an uncanny way of getting into everything.

If the authorities keep adding comfort for men in the services, they should only succeed in making them uncomfortable. They won't have anything to grouse about.

gle to establish his own towing business, but things were getting well lately.

Pollard, father of one, owned a service station and lunch counter on highway 9, 12 miles north of Hamilton. He was Hamilton agent for Reoch shipping and had hired Morney to help tow the hulk.

Joyce was employed by Jackson Shipping Company of Ragland and had been a shipkeeper aboard the Jackson Princess which was docked in Hamilton for the winter.

CAN'T EXPLAIN

Officials of the Canadian Vegetable Oil Processing Limited, Hamilton, agent for Jackson shipping, were unable to explain Joyce's presence aboard the tug.

Peter MacLeod shipkeeper living aboard the Portelvis, said he was in the wheelhouse when he heard shouts.

"We ran out and looked down and there she was on her side," he said. There was no splash, no commotion and just a few ripples. It was just like dropping a flat plate into a sink of water and watching it slide sideways, down and under."

Members of the Marconi crew put out a lifeboat and recovered Joyce's body.

A few minutes after the tug sank police found two lifejackets washed ashore, about 100 yards from the scene of the accident. An inquest has been ordered.

LAOS REBELS

Prince Souphanouvong, the Pathet Lao leader, urged their troops to "heighten their vigilance and be ready to smash any provocations by the other side."

Kong said he was issuing the cease-fire order "to create favorable conditions for the 14-nation conference to open on May 12 in Geneva and for a conference of interested parties in Laos and to carry out the instructions of Premier Souvanna Phouma."

Souvanna fled into exile in Cambodia last December after forces led by Right Wing Gen. Phoumi Nosavan recaptured Vientiane, the Laotian administrative capital, from Kong's pro-Communists.

RECOGNIZED BY REDS

The prince still is recognized by the Communists as the legal head of government.

The cease - fire is the first phase of a three-point Anglo-Soviet plan for settling the Laotian crisis.

The three-nation truce supervisory commission—made up of India, Canada and Poland—was standing by in New Delhi to move into Laos to verify the cease-fire.

This would be followed by the Geneva talks on the future of the Indochina kingdom.

Britain, with American backing, acted in its capacity as co-chairman with Russia of the 1954 Indochina conference in proposing the peace plan.

PICTON — An attractive model of the original Christ Church Hillier is on display at the home of Mrs. Walter Nind, Wellington. Mrs. Nind modelled the church in cardboard, then covered it with a paste of flour, bread crumbs and bits of alum to give it a lifelike texture. The Gothic windows and belfry were detailed in gold and amber netting. Cellophane was used as a substitute for glass.

The model of the white church made a pretty setting for a successful tea held at Mrs. Nind's home by ladies of Christ Church Guild recently. The tea table was centred by the model church, tall white candles and pink and white snapdragons.

Mrs. William Norton and Mrs. J. Rodgers assisted Mrs. Nind in inviting the many guests to the tea table. Presiding over the tea cups were Mrs. C. Benway, Mrs. H. Lunn and Mrs. B. Evans, assisted by Mrs. L. R. Wright, Mrs. W. Dafoe and Mrs. A. G. Best, serving the dainties, while Mrs. Lyle Leavens, Mrs. C. Hardy and Mrs. H. Hegadorn efficiently replenished the plates. Mrs. Fred Morton and Mrs. Annie Jones were in charge of the table decorations and the aprons. Mrs. Luella Jordan was in charge of the donations. The lucky one on a ham was won by Mrs. Bruce Irvine.

BUILT IN 1845

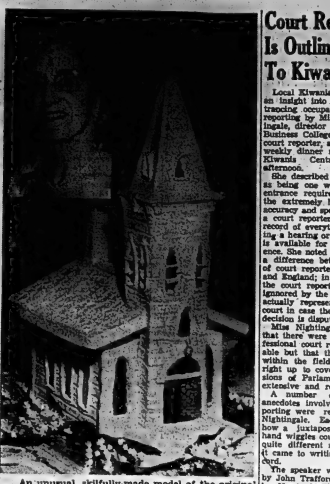
The building modelled by Mrs. Nind was a replica of the first Anglican Church built at Hillier in the year 1845. Unfortunately this old church did not last its centennial year, having been struck by lightning and burned in 1944, a year short of the 100 year mark. This church was built in the fall of 1845 and completed in the following year. Among those present at its opening were Rev. William Macaulay, leader of the Parish of Picton, and rector for half a century of Picton's St. Mary Magdalene Church, also rector of the early rectors, Rev. C. Mockridge, Rev. Hallwell, Mr. King, Mr. Echlin, Mr. Fleming, Mr. Rollins, Rev. J. deSoyres, Wright and others. The Rev. E. N. Grant was pastor when the church burned.

The faith and determination of those strong people did not end, and in the following fall, their first thought was to rebuild. Contributions soon began rolling in and a new and supporting church was erected which stood no mariners and was free of debt — a remarkable achievement!

The church was always well attended and among the old family names are Harry Babbit, Phillip Hubbs, Josiah and Percy Wilson, Paul Levens, John Young, Paul Clapp, Sam and Jimmie Janes, George Turvey, Ernest Terry, Albert Dayers, Lyle Leavens, George Pfaffle, Willet Kirk and many others. Lyle Leavens and King Terry give long service as wardens of the church.

NEW CHURCH DEDICATED

The new church was dedicated by St. Rev. John Lyons of Ontario, one time Rector of Picton, on Sept. 28, 1947, with the former ashes of the old historical church. Rev. Edmund N. Grant, rector of the Parish and Rural Dean of Prince Edward, took the service. The church was filled to its capacity of three hundred, with as many more unable to gain admittance. This was the younger generation to whom the challenge had been thrown down to carry on and see that the new church fulfils its purpose. The quaint old-fashioned organ, a gift from Rev. J. Ormrell and the wardens of St. Philips Church, Milford, was played by Mr. Fred Morton, organist for 25 years. The rector and his two wardens, Walter Nind and Charles E. Margetson, made the formal request to the Bishop for dedication of the new church.



Memorial gifts were announced by Rural Dean Grant: altar missal in memory of the late Louise King; lectern, in memory of Mrs. Sarah M. Jones; prayer desk, in memory of Albert and Gertrude Devern; pulpit in memory of H. F. and Mary Lee; hymn board in memory of Norman Kidd; lighting in memory of Robert and Elizabeth Grant. The furnace was given by members of the Church of St. Mary Magdalene, Picton. Installation of the furnace was in memory of John Richard Crowther; church bell donated by Fred Way; stained glass window given by Rev. Edmund N. Grant; credence table, in memory of Sarah Jones, and the lectern Bible was also in memory of Mrs. Sarah Jones.

GUILD FOUNDED

Christ Church Hillier Guild was founded by Mrs. Rollins in 1897 and the only two surviving members from this original guild are Mrs. Annie Jones and Mrs. Mable Bell, having given a lifetime service to the church. Through the many years Christ Church Guild continues to flourish. Present officers are: Mrs. Walter Nind, pres.; Mrs. C. Benway, vice-pres.; Mrs. Fred Morton, treas.; Mrs. L. Gordon, sec.; Mrs. Lyle Leavens, Sheraz, the cemetery and church yard. Other members are Mrs. W. Morton, Mrs. A. G. Best, Mrs. A. Haight, Mrs. H. Weese, Mrs. L. W. Wright, Mrs. W. Dalnard, Mrs. C. Hardy, Mrs. Edith McFaul, Mrs. R. Margetson, Mrs. Bruce Irvine, Mrs. H. Lunn, Mrs. H. Hegadorn, Mrs. Warner McFaul, Mrs. A. Jones, Mrs. Mable Bell, Mrs. F. Mattison, Mrs. C. Panting and Mrs. B. Benway.

Of the present members, many have given long service throughout the years, Mrs. F. Morton has been treasurer for 23 years; Mrs. Lyle Leavens, the cemetery board for many years; Mrs. Luella Jordan secretary for six years, and as president, Mrs. Annie Jones; Mrs. Herman Weese, Mrs. King Terry and Mrs. Warner McFaul, have given long service.

The present pastor of Christ Church is Rev. J. Gedgers. Wardens are Warner McFaul and Walter Nind, Mr. Nind serving for a second term. Organist is Mrs. Warner McFaul, also in office for 10 years.

An unusual, skilfully-made model of the original Christ Church at Hillier, 18 miles west of Picton, is attracting widespread attention at the home of Mrs. Walter Nind, Wellington. Mrs. Nind (inset) modelled the exact replica of the old Anglican church in cardboard and covered it with a paste of flour, bread crumbs and bits of alum. She used colored cellophane, covered with net, as a substitute for the stained glass windows. This church building was struck by lightning and burned in 1944, one year short of its centennial. Mrs. Nind, who is president of Christ Church Ladies' Guild, used a photograph of the old building in designing her cardboard model. (Hodgson, Picton).

AH, LES GIRLS — Girls of the cast of "Kiwanis Follies 61" are shown here selling slicing to another successful year of music, dancing, and comedy plus, that will be seen on the stage of the Belleville Collegiate auditorium this Thursday, Friday and Saturday at 8.15 p.m.

Court Reporting Is Outlined To Kiwanians

Local Kiwanians were given an insight into the "mode of tracking preparation" of court reporting by Miss Ruth Nightingale, director of the Ontario Business College and longtime court reporter, at their regular weekly dinner meeting at the Kiwanis Centre yesterday afternoon.

She described the profession as being one with quite high entrance requirements due to the extremely high degree of accuracy and speed required as a court reporter in making a record of everything said during a hearing or trial so that it is available for future reference. She noted that there was a difference between the role of court reporters in Canada and England; in the latter place the court reporter is usually ignored by the court since he actually represents the appeal court in case the lower court's decision is disputed.

Miss Nightingale explained that there were very few professional court reporters available but that the possibilities within the field, which goes right up to covering the sessions of Parliament, are quite extensive and remunerative.

A number of humorous anecdotes involving court reporting were related by Miss Nightingale. Each indicated how a juxtaposition of shorthand wiggles could result in a quite different meaning when it came to writing up the record.

The speaker was introduced by Ralph Trafford and thanked by Newt McFaul, assisted who were also entertained by a recording by the Kiwanis Club of Muscatine, Iowa., which was a return visit, so to speak, of an earlier recording which the local club sent to Muscatine.

At Walter's also took place with a number of members from the SCWY Key Club being put on the block to raise funds for their club's activities. The boys were auctioning off a Saturday's work to the members.

Museum Needs Some Showcases

With plans for the opening of a county historical museum proceeding favorably, the museum committee has appealed to local merchants for showcases to help equip the museum in the old Registry Office on Church Street.

Showcases of various shapes and sizes are needed to complete the furnishing of the building, and it is hoped that some merchants may have discarded cases that they would make available.

One or two filing cabinets are also required for the storage of records.

Any person able to help the museum in these respects or knowing where such material might be available is asked to call either Tom Ransom (WO 8-5623) or Gerry Boyce (WO 8-5023).

Lingham Lake Reservoir Not Filled Up

Spring run-off this year has been insufficient to fill the Lingham Lake reservoir in the upper reaches of the Moira River watershed and there are still four clay bins above the water at the dam in the lower end of the lake.

Lingham Lake is an artificial reservoir on the Upper Black Creek in Thurlow township, its operation having been taken over by the province from the Ontario Department of Public Works which constructed the dam back in the 1920's. The lake normally covers approximately 2,200 acres.

Last fall the Authority installed a new gate valve in the base of the dam spillway with the view of having better control of water discharge without regular supervision.

To allow for the installation the lake level had to be considerably lowered and the area about the dam was de-watered.

An exceptionally dry fall coupled with less than normal snowfall resulted in a reduced spring run-off with result the reservoir has not been completely filled as expected.

U.S. Forced to Abandon Plans for Underground Tests

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Sharp diplomatic setbacks in Cuba and Laos appear to have forced the United States to abandon plans to resume underground tests of nuclear weapons in the event the Geneva test ban negotiations bog down.

When the talks reopened late in March with Britain and the Soviet Union, President Kennedy's advisers said they would know within about six weeks whether Russia was bargaining in good faith.

That period of time is just about up and instead of showing progress, the talks deteriorated. The West made new concessions while the Russians declined to yield ground.

But instead of breaking off the talks or raising new threats of underground tests, the U.S. is returning its negotiator, Arthur Dean, to the Geneva conference table for another round of exhausting conversation.

PINNED IN CORNER

In making this move, Kennedy apparently is responding to the private appeals of Canada, Britain and other allies who urge the U.S. to exhaust every channel of negotiation in the hope of maintaining peace.

While these pressures at home to end a moratorium of some 34½ years and start testing again, Kennedy appears to be pinned in a diplomatic corner where he does not risk a further deterioration of American influence in world affairs.

He may not want to engage the Russians in diplomatic conversation when the good intentions of the U.S. could be well published. That would give him room to regain the confidence of the allies and calm the storm of controversy that followed the Cuban invasion attempt.

Meanwhile, despite what might be said publicly, the atomic tests is likely to continue for some time. There has been no new deadline set on the Geneva talks. They may continue for months without Russia yielding a step.

And thus Russia may have won what she always wanted: A test ban without opening her territory to international inspection.

Algerian Peace Talks Likely To Start Soon

PARIS (Reuters) — The French government said today that "all indicates" that peace talks between France and the Algerian Moslem insurgents will start "at a fairly early date."

The announcement was made by Information Minister Louis Terrenoire at the end of a cabinet meeting.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Lyle Bradshaw are pictured following their recent marriage in the Church of the Archangel, Belleville. The bride is the former Miss Frances Faye Cooney, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon William Cooney, of Belleville. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Marshall Bradshaw, of Corbyville, Ontario.

BRADSHAW — COONEY

The church of St. Michael, the Archangel, Belleville, was adorned on Monday, April 3rd, at 10.00 a.m. with pink and yellow snapdragons mingled with lovely Easter lilies for a very pretty wedding when Frances Faye Cooney, of Belleville, became the bride of Arthur Lyle Bradshaw, of Corbyville, Ontario. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Cooney, and the bridegroom the son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Marshall Bradshaw. The officiating minister was Rev. H. Sherwood Mcnaignac J. P. Sullivan.

Sister Mary Joan of Arc, presided at the console of the organ, and accompanied the soloist, Adrian Vogt, who sang "Panis Angelicus," Schubert's "Ave Maria," "Mother at Your Feet Is Kneeling," and "On This Day, O Beautiful Mother."

Given in marriage by her father, Mr. Gordon Cooney, the bride was radiantly lovely in her ballerina-length gown of white silk organza, with fitted bodice having a Sabrina neckline accented with Alencon lace and powder puff sleeves. The long torso extended into full nylon overskirt with rounded edge trimmed with re-embroidered Alencon lace. She wore long, matching nylon gloves and carried a cascade of sweetheart red roses and white carnations. Her regal crown headdress with lace inserts was delicately trimmed with seed pearls and simulated jewels, and held the double illusion silk veils arched with seed pearls.

The bride was attended by Miss Elaine Foley, as maid of honor, wearing a waltz-length gown of yellow silk organza and headress of tiny yellow rosebuds. She carried a matching bouquet.

Mr. William Gordon Cooney, of Bellleville, brother of the bride, attended the bridegroom, and Messrs William Forbes, of Hamilton, Ontario, and Keith Cooney, of Frankford, were ushers.

The reception and dinner were held at the home of the bride, where the bridal table was appointed in the traditional manner with white damask, centred by a three-tier wedding cake, flanked by tall silver candelabra holding pink and white candles. The bridal bouquets completed the nuptial setting.

The guests were received by the bride's mother and the bridegroom's mother; the former wearing a lovely sheath of French crepe of spindrift green, topped by a navy duster with white accessories, and corsage of white and yellow 'mums, and the latter gowned in a silk crepe sheath of powder blue with navy blue duster, white accessories, and corsage of pink and white carnations.

For the wedding trip to Syracuse and Niagara Falls, the bride chose a green silk dress with turquoise coat, beige accessories and corsage of yellow and white baby 'mums.

Mr. and Mrs. Bradshaw will reside at 18 Dunbar Street.

A shower honoring the bride was held at the home of Miss Joan Dickey by the girls of the Stephens-Adamson; a party was given by Miss Elaine Foley at her home with Miss Margaret Evelyn Cooney, when the bride and bridegroom were presented with a cheque; a stag party for the bridegroom was held by his co-workers at the Stephens-Adamson Nickel Club also presented the couple with a gift of end tables and a beautiful coffee table; a community shower took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. Bradshaw held by the 3rd and 4th concession of Thurlow. The couple was also presented with a mirror, smoker, floor lamp and wall plaque.

Quinte C.C. Plans Year's Activities

The executive for 1961-62 of the ladies' section of the Quinte Curling Club met recently at the home of Mrs. V. White, parkerdale, to discuss plans for the coming year.

President, Mrs. R. Smith, chaired the meeting and called upon secretary, Mrs. S. Robb and the treasurer, Mrs. C. Follwell, to give their reports on the club standing, to date.

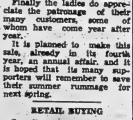
Representatives made plans to attend a meeting of the Ladies' Ontario Curling Association in Toronto of May 2nd and various committee chairmen outlined their plans and suggestions for their respective responsibilities, such as hospitals, catering, social, games, publicity and house. Each brought forth fresh and constructive ideas for an active year.

It was decided to again hold a dessert bridge as a project. Mrs. H. Trepanier graciously volunteered to convene this entertaining event.

Ladies' Aux. ARS Holds Rummage Sale

The Ladies' Auxiliary of the Canadian Arthritis and Rheumatism Society, Quinte Branch held a most successful rummage and auction sale in the Armouries on Friday afternoon and evening under the convenorship of Mrs. W. C. Gault and Mrs. J. A. Jarvis.

A special "thank-you" goes to Mr. Bob Sullivan of Fieldfield, who donated his services as auctioneer also to Mr. Enos David and Mr. Greatrix, who so generously provided the trucks and men to transport the merchandise.



The Auxiliary gratefully acknowledges the unprecedented support of the many Bellleville people who gave clothing and furniture, and the capable assistance of those willing workers who helped with the sorting, selling and packing up.

Finally the ladies do appreciate the patronage of their many customers, some of whom have come year after year.

It is planned to make this sale, already in its fourth year, an annual affair, and it is hoped that many more will porters will remember to save their summer rummage for next spring.

RETAIL BUYING

Canadians spent $16,413,000,000 in retail stores last year, an increase of $130,000,000 over 1959.

Save hosiery bills by treating leftover "dingles" with color remover, then retinting them to match each other with stocking dye.

This - - - and That

By MARRIOTT STEVENS

As we have said before, probably in connection with our initiation to the coin wash dexterity, our first experience in morning is exciting. Friday last was our first rummage sale. It was a revelation, very enlightening and quite a bit of fun. This was the annual rummage and bake sale held by the Quinte Branch of the Arthritis and Rheumatism Society. I heard one woman say: "I help every year and I would not miss it for anything".

However, from limps and the look of tired faces, it is very hard on the feet. A necessity is a pair of comfortable, thick-soled shoes, slacks if you have that type of figure, and warm clothes, as the Armouries is very draughty. And on this particular day, there was also rain in torrents.

To be sure, we had donated a few articles for rummage sales at various times, now we realize that it could have been much more. Perhaps we didn't tell the same very, thinking: "Oh, I couldn't put that in, surely there's possibly worst it". Yes, are mistaken; it seems somebody always wants it. A very draughty, and Ten members and two visitors were present. The treasurer's report was given and the Korcas secretary requested that any one who had any good used clothing to bring some to the May meeting and it would be used to pack a bale. Mrs. Wellman collected the thank offering.

The president read a letter she had received from Trenton inviting the branch to visit them on May 20th.

Mrs. Woodbeck was appointed delegate to the annual to be held at Christ Church, Ballville, on May 2nd, 3rd and 4th.

The community sale which the W.A. will cater to on May 15th was discussed.

The May meeting which was to be held at Mrs. H. Jones will now be held at the home of Mrs. Jack Fraser.

Session three of the study book was given with different members taking part and this proved most interesting. Mr. Barlow closed the meeting with prayer.

The program consisting of several readings and a recital was in charge of Mrs. S. Matthews.

Lunch was served by the hostess.

Department Stores Assist Mothers Shopping for Baby

By DEIRDRE McMURROUGH
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP) — There's more to buying a baby's layette for the first time than most mothers-to-be realize.

But with the help of department stores, which usually provide basic and luxury layette lists, brand new mothers and those who already have a family and are expecting another addition will find their shopping enjoyable and not always expensive.

You can usually count on doting grandmothers and other relatives and friends for beautiful baby clothes that may or may not be practical. Remember to get clothes in comfortably large sizes because babies grow rapidly in the first six months.

Avoid frills that may find their way into the infant's mouth or eyes. And make sure materials are smooth, seams finished and necks and sleeves loose.

NIGHTGOWNS STRESSED

For a basic layette costing only $42.85, Margaret Gerth-wolfe, section head of infant's wear in a Toronto department store, has these suggestions:

Choose four white nightgowns, which come in small - trimmed borders and machine smocking. The baby will live in these until he graduates into regular outfits.

Buy three dozen high-quality gauze diapers. Some of them feature fold lines woven into the material to make diapering simpler and prebleached ones are also available. The most popular size is 21 by 40 inches.

You can get along for a while with a three-piece set of bonnet, bootees and jacket and two packs of rubber pants.

Four receiving blankets are required for feeding and carrying and one blanket of blended viscose and cotton eiderdown for the bed. Other equipment needed for the bed includes three quilted pads, two 17 by 18 inches and one 18 by 21, and a rubber sheet.

Other basic items are two face cloths, a 36 - inch bath towel, a card of safety pins, a package of baby soap, a large can of baby powder, a bottle of baby oil, a package of absorbent cotton balls, cotton-tipped sticks, six nursing bottles, a sterilizer and a formula jug.

Income and personal preference can decide whether the baby sleeps in a small or regular-size crib or on a mattress in a wicker basket. Plastic bathtubs are a good substitute for bathinettes, which can cost anywhere from $27.95 up. And there's a wide variation in price of such items as a car bed, chest of drawers, high chair, play pen or carriage.

Successful Living

By Doris Clark

(A Canadian Social Worker Helps with Human Problems)

Resents Friend's Habit

DORIS CLARK

DEAR DORIS:—My chum and I are both salesmen. We grow up together and think the world of each other. But he has one habit which really bothers me.

We can't have a talk about anything without him interrupting me several times in the middle of a sentence. If I raise my voice and try to keep on, he just talks even louder. I usually give up and let him have the floor. If he does this when he is selling, it won't make sales for him.

Is there any way to break him of such a habit?—EDDIE.

DEAR EDDIE:—Depends. If he is a dyed-in-the-wool, confirmed interrupter, a hint isn't enough. He probably doesn't know he does it,—just gets so interested in his own ideas that he has to air them.

If you are close enough friends, you might bring the discussion around to selling techniques. Then speak of the importance of stopping occasionally for a response from your customer while telling your story. If he agrees that this is part of good salesmanship, you might mention his failing.

That is, if you get that far without too many interruptions.

DEAR DORIS:—My two boys are no angels, but the little girl who comes in to play with them is a tartar! She deliberately drives her tricycle at my little Bobby and knocks him over. And she throws gravel at the children.

This child is new here and I'd like to be a good neighbor to her mother, but pretty soon I'll blow up. What would you do?—BARBARA.

DEAR BARBARA:—You're the boss in your own back yard. Since you can catch more flies with honey than with vinegar, try the cookie-and-milk routine for good behavior.

Then, if she is so anti-social the boys are still dodging brickbats, send her home. Isolation gives a child time to pause and think. Yet to one she'll be back a more amiable and wiser little girl.

If her mother gets to know it, this could be a help. And there are kindly deeds you can do, not associated with the Little Monster, which can show the mother you want to be neighborly.

DEAR DORIS:—I have a daughter 16 who is well below normal in intelligence. She is a lovable happy child who behaves well and enjoys her family. Recently she underwent heart surgery and will never be very strong.

Trouble is, she wants something to do. She could do a sit-down job, but getting to work might be hard. She does baby-sitting for one woman who is quite pleased with her and comfortable to leave the baby in her hands.

Is there any kind of work you could recommend?—MR. R.

DEAR MR. R.:—If she is good with babies and the doctor agrees, why not make this her career? You could help her organize it and keep her working hours down to the amount she can stand physically.

Start by putting an advertisement in the classified section of this newspaper, asking for just what she wants. For instance, it could read: "Will do baby sitting one or two hours in afternoons to allow mother to go shopping." For some mothers such help is a God-send.

GETTING OLDER

At the beginning of the century life expectancy of Canadians at birth was about 47 years but now is 70.

Mr. Wiener: Crab, while quite a persuadable chap, is no more appealing than this delightful Crab Diable. The unusually delicious crunchy topping is made of crushed bite-size toasted corn cereal flavored with marjoram and melted butter.

Crab Diable Delicious Spring Luncheon Dish

Crab Diable is a fancy name for an extra special version of our old friend, deviled crab. It can be made the day before, or early in the morning, and popped into the oven at the last minute. The crunchy topping, made of bite-size toasted corn cereal, is flavored with marjoram, a mild yet spicy herb that is particularly friendly with seafood. The real secret of the dish is the wonderful topping.

As a matter of fact, Crab Diable is just the perfect dish to serve for a late spring luncheon for guests or for a small family celebration. If the weather is lovely and balmy, you'll be proud of this menu because it isn't too heavy for warm days. On the other hand, if a chilly or rainy late spring day is your fate, the menu is still just right.

This is really a "day before" luncheon. For instance, this dish can be prepared the day before and simply reheated at the last minute. Don't put the topping on the Crab Diable until you are ready to reheat it, but you can crush the cereal and season it the day before. While you're about it, prepare a larger quantity and use the crumbs for coating salmon croquettes, fish fillets or toppings for vegetable casseroles. They'll keep in a closed jar in the refrigerator as long as any food that contains butter.

CRAB DIABLE

1 tablespoon and ½ cup butter or margarine, ½ teaspoon dried marjoram, ground, 1½ cups bite-size toasted corn (Ralston Corn Chex), cereal crushed to 2/3 cup, 1 tablespoon flour, 1 teaspoon dry mustard, ½ teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon white pepper, 2 eggs, well beaten, ½ cup light cream, 1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce, 2 cups flaked crab meat, ½ cup chopped celery.

Heat oven to slow (325 degrees). Melt 1 tablespoon butter and marjoram over low heat. Stir in cereal crumbs. Heat and stir until crumbs are coated. Melt ½ cup butter in top of double boiler. Stir in flour, mustard, salt and pepper. Mix well. Blend in eggs, cream and Worcestershire sauce. Heat and stir over hot water 15 minutes, or until as thick as a medium white sauce. Add crab meat and celery. Mix well. Spoon into 8 individual baking shells. Top with cereal crumbs. Bake 20 minutes or until heated and bubbly. Yield: 4-6 servings.

H-S Holds Annual Meet At Collegiate

The Belleville Collegiate and Vocational School Home and School Association held its annual meeting Monday evening in the boys' gymnasium.

A warm welcome was extended to all present, by Mr. M. R. Linscott, president. Mrs. R. Simpson reported on last year's annual meeting.

It was announced the rummage sale held on March 31 was so successful it is to be repeated early in the Fall. Anyone having any articles available could contact Mrs. W. Trouble at WO 2-0488, or Mrs. F. Douglas at WO 8-6397, and they will gladly see it is picked up and stored until the needed date.

Enid Cooper told the audience of a fashion show to be held on May, 9 at 8 p.m. in the school auditorium which is being presented by pupils of the school. There will be a small admission fee this year to aid needy students.

It was announced the annual dinner meeting of the home and schools in the district is to be held Thursday, May 11 at Tabernacle United Church. Mrs. W. Cropper, Provincial president will be guest

SPEAKER INTRODUCED

Mr. A. Wynne introduced Mr. Fred Clarke, Fire Chief of Point Anne expert on fall voltage fire department who spoke to those present on the very important subject "Rescue Breathing," and with summer fast approaching its dangers, and how to take care of oneself and one's family should never invest in from drowning suffocation from smoke or carbon monoxide fumes. Rescue breathing requires no special training, even a child could do it once shown how.

The film, later shown, explained and showed just how to go about it. Due to the fact of some unfortunate people, in artificial respiration the life element is most important. If one can get a patient one minute after he have been declared, drowned or suffering from shock or smoke fumes 90% can be brought back safely to life; at three minutes only 75%; at five minutes, 60% and after ten minutes only 1%.

There are several older methods of artificial respiration as such as the shaver method (forcing air out of the body), walking over a barrel, etc. However, the newest and most efficient way is "rescue breathing", which as stated beforehand is so simple, all can perform it easily. First lay the patient flat, then tilt the head back fingers under the chin. Place thumb in corner of mouth and lift the jaw forward to prevent the tongue from blocking the air passage, pinch the nostrils closed. Begin rescue breathing by taking a deep mouth-directly over that of the patient and breathing deeply and regularly until the color flows back into the nails, face and lips and your patient is able to exhale and inhale for himself. While breathing into the patients mouth, listen carefully for his or her exhaling and if there is none, reach in and force out any foreign matter that may be lodged in the throat. Begin this treatment as soon as possible, as seconds may make the difference between life and death. Also available in most drug stores is a plastic tube used for this purpose put out by Johnson and Johnson.

A question and answer period followed.

Mr. Clarke was thanked by Mr. Linscott following which he read the treasurer's statement and gave a full report of the year's activities thanking the executive for their support and also expressing the hope that next year the membership would multiply.

The report of the nominating committee and the installation of the new executive for 1961-62 by Mr. R. Freeman, past president then followed.

Mr. A. Wynne, newly elected president took over the chair and introduced the committee chairmen.

A welcome guest of the evening was Mr. A. L. Greatrix, member of the High School Board.

Members adjourned to the school cafeteria for refreshments, where the Home Economics class served a delicious array of goodies, bringing another most enjoyable evening and year to a close.

SAY PATIENTS KILLED

CAMDEN, N.J. (AP)—Dr. Albert Weiner, 43, was charged Monday with manslaughter on grounds he "did feloniously kill and slay" 13 patients who contracted serum hepatitis in his office. An investigation disclosed that 41 of the Camden's patients contracted hepatitis apparently through needles used for inoculations.

MODERN MANNERS

Carolyn Hagan Shaw

A CASE OF AMBIGUOUS WORDING

I received a wedding invitation the other day which made me stop and think. The wording was quite simple and clear, also bordered on the ridiculous! It was as follows:

"Mrs. John Phillip Dow and Mr. James Robert Brown, request the honor of your presence at the marriage of their only daughter, Margaret Mary," etc.

Obiously there is a divided family here. A very deplorable one, I would say!

The traditional governing the forms that should be followed in sending wedding invitations, have come down through many, many, years. When these customs, evolved, divorce was practically unknown. Therefore it has become necessary to make a new set of rules to cover this contingency.

The main object in this sometimes confusing situation, is to make every attempt to clarify the different relationships. The above example certainly fails in this respect.

After you figure it out, it would seem that the parents of Margaret Mary are divorced, and her mother has re-married. It is obvious that the parents insisted upon issuing the invitation together. Wouldn't it have been more dignified to follow the rule of having only the parent the daughter lived with send out the invitation? Of course Ill bet Mrs. John Phillip Dow regrets allow their own selfish differences to interfere in the day that should be the happiest of their child's life.

In the case I mention, supposing the daughter made her home with her mother, the correct wording of the wedding invitation would be Mr. and Mrs. John Phillip Dow request the honor of your presence at the marriage of Mrs. Dow's daughter, Margaret Mary Brown, etc." You will note that her former husband is excluded, and the surname of the daughter also. The relationships are very clear in this instance.

Had the daughter made her home with her father (who had also re-married), the invitation should read "Mr. and Mrs. James Robert Brown — of his daughter, Margaret Mary," etc. Her surname is not necessary in this case.

If you are in the position of a divorced parent, do try to use a dignified approach, with only one thing in mind — the happiness of your child.

Question — We have lived in our home for over two years. The majority of both my husband's and my relatives have never seen our new home. They will be waiting for a special invitation. What has brough this to a head is that we have found out that several of these relatives are "miffed" because we haven't asked them to visit. Our only reason has been that we just haven't had the money to entertain this fairly large group. Since we don't want hard feelings, can you suggest how to invite these people to a gathering in our home that will not be too expensive? Many thanks! — Mrs. F. H. Roselle, Ont.

Answer — Why not plan an early Sunday afternoon buffet supper? A ham, hot biscuits or rolls, a nice green salad and a delicious dessert should be plenty and won't hurt the budget too much! If the group is fairly large, we also suggest how to invite these people to a gathering in our home that will not be too expensive? Many thanks! — Mrs. F. H. Roselle, Ont.

W.M.S. Holds Successful Workshop

RAWDON — Miss Marion Thomson, field secretary of the Dominion Board of the Woman's Missionary Society, conducted a workshop on April 26 in the newly decorated Sunday School rooms of Foxboro United Church.

Mrs. R. M. McMullin, vice-president of Belleville West section, welcomed the guests from 14 churches in the area.

Mrs. O. Bertrand, an officer of the Bay of Quinte Conference branch, conducted the devotional and Mrs. George Priest officiated at the piano.

Mrs. Percy MacMillan, literature secretary of the Presbyterial, was in charge of the books and total sales amounted to about $30.

Miss Thomson stressed the importance of books for junior groups and also good programs. She gave helpful information regarding games, song and choral Bible reading. She displayed lovely posters outlining what is being done in various countries by the Foreign Bible Society and urged the leaders to read their guide book thoroughly as it contained a host of information.

The Foxboro W.M.S. ladies served luncheon at noon under the leadership of the president, Mrs. C. H. LaRue.

Other officers in attendance were Mrs. Eugene Carlisle, president of the Belleville Presbyterial W.M.S. and Mrs. Don Williams, Belleville, secretary of the Explorers.

In the afternoon Mrs. Leslie Finkle, vice-president of Belleville East section, opened the afternoon session and welcomed the guests. Mrs. Maurice Clancy, Mission Band secretary of the Presbyterial, conducted the devotional.

Miss Thomson outlined "How to Tell A Story," to the children in your group and gave numerous hints on arranging a meeting that would be of interest. She showed a set of slides in the church and gave out several helpful hints for programs.

The meeting closed at 4.30 p.m. and Mrs. Finkle voiced thanks for the informative sessions.

This workshop across Ontario is sponsored by the W.M.S. of the Dominion Board and at present Miss Thomson is spending some time in each Presbyterial.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

Mrs. T. A. — My poor little grandchild—Tommy—is an only child his parents in an awful automobile accident four years ago. He was only three and I am the nearest of kin, became his legal guardian. I have a lovely apartment in town, and Tommy's uncle, my youngest son, lives with us and helps me watch the boy.

Last summer I arranged for the child to visit my oldest son and his family who live in a two-family house. To my dismay, when September rolled round, Norman announced that Tommy wanted to stay there and that they wanted him permanently.

Norman is a wonderful fellow, but he quit school at 16 and can't offer Tommy the cultural advantages my other son can. He should return him.

Norman A. — My mother is only considering superficial things. Even though she and my brother have a luxurious home for Tommy, full of books, all paintings and push-button operas in every room, we are giving him what every seven-year-old needs most — a happy family life.

Mother exaggerates the help she gets from Jules, my brother. It may be telling tales out of school, but the truth is Jules just subscribes to the best magazines. He never reads them. And even though he's a lawyer with an excellent education, he sat around much to answer Tom's questions or take him places. For one thing, he still takes basketball and in night life fills his spare time.

My wife and I are devoted to three kids now, our own two, and Tommy.

The Council — Mrs. A.'s dilemma resembles that of the wife mentioned about a year ago when a choice arose between foster-homes for a bright child. Life among the intellectuals? Or a normal "average"? The consensus then seemed to be that the intellect can always be fed, and it is more rewarding and effective when the emotions are wholesomely nourished — a hard-to-find condition. The non-intellectual home won out.

While it doesn't necessarily follow that a houseful of college graduates won't be an warm-hearted and outgoing as a bunch of daylight extroverts, this time we pick Norman's home for Tommy.

Even if Grandma takes him to the Planetarium, and Uncle Jules crawls out of bed early enough to watch Captain Kangaroo with the boy, we doubt that Tommy would derive as much benefit from the experiences as he would in the company of Uncle Norman-and his family. In addition to the Festure Attraction, there'd be the wonderful sensations of shared pleasure of give-and-take around a unified group, and the sincere interest of two young adults acting "in loco parentis."

Book learning and degrees are irrelevant factors here. Dr. Robert S. Fox of the University of Michigan finds that a stimulating home enironment can be provided by any parent who:

1. Provide good reading material in the home, and use it themselves.

2. Discuss "meaty" problems with the children (not just who gets the drumstick!) such as the headlines pertaining to governmental matters.

3. Encourage round-robin reading aloud occasionally.

4. Take the kids to interesting places, and really look at historic sites, trade exhibits and sand dune formation!

5. Accompany, not just send, children to concerts and theatres.

Mrs. A. will be doing right by Tommy to invigorate Norman's home as headquarters.

BIRTH RATE

On the average there are almost 9,500 babies born in Canada each week.

Woman Wants To Become Ship's Captain

By BETTY BELLE

WARSAW (Reuters)—There's no disrespect intended when crew members of the Polish ship Kalisz refer to their navigating officer as "the second lady."

The description is apt for the simple reason that the navigator is a woman. Danuta Walasz-Kobrynska, the only female navigation officer plying the seven seas for Poland's merchant fleet.

Her present post on the Kalisz is the result of a long struggle to break down the barriers of anti-feminine prejudice constricted by old Polish salts.

While still in school, Danuta took a part-time job as a deck assistant on a river tug and later got a job as a "deck boy."

But she had to win a battle for admission to the government's navigation school at Gdynia. After two rejections, she finally was accepted.

TURNED DOWN AGAIN

Even after taking a diploma there, Danuta had another battle on her hands before she actually got to navigating.

"Navigation is no job for a woman," authorities said, and turned down her applications as stewardess on the Polish liner Batory.

Finally, after five years casual work on tugs in Szczecin, her break came and she got her present job on the Kalisz.

Danuta, now in her mid-20s, manages to combine a role as wife and mother with her nautical interests. Her husband—who is also a ship's navigator—is in the same ship. They have a six-year-old son.

The sea-going Mrs. Walasz-Kobrynska has two ambitions she wants her son to become a seaman—and she wants to become a ship's captain.

An Aristocratic Cake

By Mary Moore

Still under the influence of a Grand Cayman cookery, I was hungry for a white cocoanut cake.

I was influenced too by the fact that there was a jar containing five egg whites in the refrigerator, leftover from making mayonnaise and Hollandaise. Leftovers bother my thrifty conscience.

Pete and Frances Margaret were going to be here for the weekend and a beautiful cake would satisfy their composite "sweet tooth".

Dinner Menus

by Mary Moore

WEDNESDAY

WHITE COCOANUT LAYER CAKE (8 egg whites)

2 2-3 cups sifted cake flour, 2 teaspoons double-acting baking powder, 1 teaspoon salt, 8 egg whites, 1-2 cup water, 1-2 cup shortening (at room temperature), 1 1-4 cups sugar (second amount), 1 cup sugar (second amount), 2 teaspoons lemon juice.

Measure sifted flour, add baking powder and salt and sift together 3 times. Beat egg whites until foamy, add 1-2 cup sugar gradually, and continuing to beat until meringue will hold up in soft peaks. Cream shortening, add 1 cup sugar (second amount) gradually, and cream together until light and fluffy. Add the flour mixture, alternately with milk, in small quantities, beating after each addition until smooth. Add the lemon juice and vanilla. Then beat meringue into batter with spoon until blended.

I used 2 square pans 8 3-4 x 8 3-4 x 2" and lined the bottoms with foil and buttered the foil and sides of pans. You may use 2 round 9 x 1 1-2" layer cake tins or one 16 x 10 x 2" pan if you wish. Pour batter into prepared pans, smooth top and bake at 375 deg. Fahr. about 25 to 30 minutes. My 2 square cakes required exactly 25 minutes. Allow to stand in pans 5 minutes then invert on cake racks, and allow to cool to room temperature.

Make frosting: Beat 2 or 3 tablespoons butter until creamy while gradually adding about 1-2 cup of the 1 1-2 pound package) of icing sugar alternately with 2 tablespoons lemon juice and 1" teaspoon water. Beat until smooth and light. Spread between layers and on top and sides of cake. Sprinkle top generously with desiccated cocoanut. I used one 4-oz. package. This cake serves 12 generously.

NOTE:

See tomorrow for new Cocoanut Cloud Pie. —

Dozen Nurses Take Survey On Home Care

FERGUS, Ont. (CP)—A dozen nurses have been knocking on doors in Wellington County in a survey to determine what services are needed for home nursing care.

Dr. J. T. Dale, medical officer of health, says it is the first such survey undertaken in Canada and is being watched by medical men elsewhere.

There is no one building capital after hospital to treat people after they are discharged, Dr. Dale said. "The greatest need is for health visits and visiting nurse services at reasonable cost for educated in the prevention of illness.

"Through this survey it is also our hope to educate people concerning the visiting nurse and homemaker services, and to assess their needs."

The survey is being financed by a national health grant and is the first held in an area where services do not already exist.

Under direction of Mrs. Dorothy Munday of Orangeville, the county health nurses were calling on six percent of the 10,000 households to get their opinion on views.

The seven-page questionnaire produced a total of 360,000 answers which are expected to be tabulated by June and will show what services are required in the county.

Last of London's Ancient Snuffhouses Only Stone's Throw From Picadilly Circus

By CAROL KENNEDY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP)—A few steps from the tangled traffic of Piccadilly Circus, you can buy cigarets at the oak counter where Lord Nelson's sea captains ordered tobacco and Regency dandies sampled snuff.

Fribourg and Treyer, last of London's ancient snuffhouses, was founded by a Swiss in 1720, when Canada was little more than a fur-trader's hunting-ground. The crammed, bow-windowed shop is the London.

Peter Fribourg's successor, Gottlieb Treyer, married Martha Evans, an English girl. Her descendants have owned and run the shop for the last 180 years.

Today, as you go up worn stone steps into the dark, aromatic shop, the 20th century seems to fall away. Tobacco is weighed in ancient brass scales. Leaden canisters and old brown jars contain some of the original snuff supplied to the Prince Regent, later King George IV. Royal warrants on rusty parchment line the walls.

In a glass case, a leather-bound ledger lies open at the account of Captain Hardy, in whose arms Nelson died at Trafalgar. His favorite snuff was called Mr. Warren's Mixture.

Downstairs, the barrel-roofed, sweet-smelling workroom, are steeped in history. Sacks of tobacco are propped in winding tunnels against the remains of a Roman bath.

METHOD UNCHANGED

Two or three old men in long grey aprons bend over work-benches. Today, cigarets are largely made by machine, but making snuff is still a craftsman's job.

The method has changed little in 240 years. Four or five different tobaccos go to form the base of a snuff. They are mixed in an antique iron machine full of spiked rollers. Then they are ground to a powder, either coarse or fine, depending on the type of snuff.

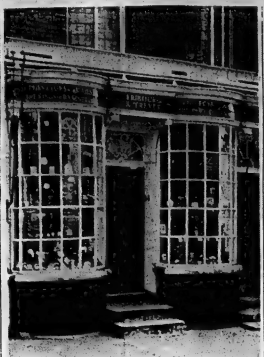
This used to be done on the rasp, which is the firm's trade-mark — something like a large wooden cheese-grater. Later, they used hand-operated gadgets resembling grandma's coffee-grinder. Now the job is done by electric mills.

The powdered tobaccos are then blended with perfumes from the south, of France. An expensive snuff may contain up to 100 floral essences.

This part of the job is done by the head of the firm himself — courtly, silver-haired Roy Bridgman-Evans. Only he knows how to blend the rare oils, a secret handed down from father to son.

After 10 to 14 days maturing, the snuff is sieved several times. The last sieving is done through a mesh finer than a silk stocking.

SNUFF TASTES VARY



Fribourg and Treyer make 23 different kinds of snuff. They range from the moist, coarse Black Rappee of pirate days to Santa Domingo, a rare blend of tobaccos and scented with violets.

Customers in the Haymarket shop usually seem to be dignified, elderly clubmen in black Homburg hats. But Bridgman-Evans says young Londoners take to snuff as easily as their fathers.

Cigars are a different matter. Their heyday was the Edwardian era, when gentlemen of leisure would have their own cigar-rooms, tended by the butler. They would buy "young" cigars and lay them down like wine for smoking six or seven years later.

Today, the names on the "reserved" boxes in the Fribourg and Treyer storeroom are mostly those of City companies and advertising agencies.

"Not like the old days," says Bridgman-Evans sadly.

STILL OPERATING — Snuff is still made by traditional methods in underground workrooms of Fribourg and Treyer, last of the ancient snuffhouses in London. The cramped, bow-windowed shop has been trading in the Haymarket for 240 years and has been run by one family for six generations. (CP Photo).

"Then you'd have seen the greatest names in the country."

The Churchill family have been customers since the first Duke of Marlborough. But Sir Winston has not bought a cigar for 25 years. He has been given more than he can ever smoke.

ONCE SLIGHTED BEAU

One of the firm's most famous clients was Beau Brummel, leader of Regency fashions. Once, Fribourg and Treyer forgot to reserve him a sample of a new type of snuff. The Beau turned languidly on his heel. "Very well," he said, "then I shall condemn it."

Someone else's parcel was rapidly produced, and the new snuff duly became the latest fashion.

The brass-fronted shop has had its share of stormy times. In 1914, an angry crowd threw stones at the German-sounding namesake. Swiftly, a temporary sign went up over the royal-blue door "Evans and Evans, tradition as Fribourg and Treyer."

Bridgman - Evans' grandfather believed smoking was an art, for connoisseurs. When his son introduced Virginia cigarets in 1900, the old man stayed home for a week in protest. In those days a gentleman's cigarets were Turkish, Egyptian or Russian. Virginia tobacco was for pipes.

A few weeks ago, Fribourg and Treyer began to import Russian cigarets again, for the first time since the 1917 Revolution. You can buy 25 of the short, thick cigarets in their long white cardboard holders for 62 cents — the same price they were a century ago.

"It's probably the only commodity in London that has not gone up in price" says the man behind that historic oak counter.

BONARLAW
Local 171 F.U. Holds Meet

BONARLAW — The April meeting of the Ontario Farmers' Union was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Beckett.

The meeting opened with the president, Murray Bateman, as chairman. He announced that a film was available on the seaway and it was decided to make arrangements to obtain this film.

A discussion period was held concerning hogs and the new milk regulations. It was the opinion of those at the meeting that the milk regulations discriminated against the small farmer, and would force many of the out of milk production.

It was moved by George Williams and seconded by Ralph Thompson that Murray Bateman, Fred Beckett and Morton Reid be a committee to look into these regulations and see if they could be modified.

Jeanne Williams read Bill C-77 concerning conservation and tree planting.

Murrey Bateman thanked the Beckette for the use of their home. Jim Spry moved that the meeting adjourn.

Refreshments were served and a social period enjoyed.

PRICES COMPARED — Despite recent increases in provincial taxes, gasoline prices generally are lower in Western Canada than in the Maritimes. However, there is no geographical pattern for motive diesel fuel prices. Graphs compare average prices and tax in each province for regular gasoline and diesel fuel. Premium gasoline is about five cents higher. Provincial tax is shown by boxed figures. (CP Newsmap).

Cross Canada Survey

Lowest Gasoline Prices Are Found in Vancouver, They're Dearest in Newfie

By JIM PEACOCK
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Go West young man if you're seeking lower prices at the gasoline—and don't let those tax increases fool you.

Despite gasoline-tax boosts in each of the four western provinces this year, the cost at the pump remains lower there than anywhere else in Canada except southern Ontario, a Canada Survey by The Canadian Press shows. And in Vancouver you'll find the lowest prices in the country.

Two of the provinces—New Brunswick and Nova Scotia, where pump prices now are among the highest in Canada—also boosted gasoline taxes this year as six provincial governments moved to collect more than $30,000,000 in additional revenue from road users during the 1981-82 fiscal year.

Altogether, the motorist and trucker will contribute more than $425,000,000 to provincial coffers during the year through taxation on gasoline and motive diesel fuel. Tax on the latter was increased, too, in the six provinces that boosted the gasoline levy.

BOOST PARTLY OFFSET

British Columbia's gasoline tax jumped three cents a gallon but thanks to a decrease of one cent a gallon in wholesale rates charged by major refiners in the Vancouver area, the pump price for regular gasoline went up only two cents to 38.9.

That's a penny below the normal prices in southern Ontario, Saskatchewan and Alberta, two cents below Quebec and Manitoba, four below New Brunswick, five below the Lakehead, nine below Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island, and 15 lower than Newfoundland.

These comparisons do not take into account independent operators who often undercut the major companies by a cent or two, or the various price wars that break out from time to time in larger urban centres.

Premium grades are about five cents a gallon higher. And at rural points, the price may be anywhere from two to 13 cents a gallon higher than those in urban areas, depending upon distance from refining centres.

For instance, in Smithers, in north - central B.C. about 500 road miles from the Vancouver refineries, regular gasoline sells for 52 cents, 13 higher than in Vancouver.

QUEBEC DIESEL LOWEST

The range is common across the country. Toronto pays 39.9 for regular, the Lakehead 44.7, and more remote spots such as Kapuskasing, Ont., 51.8.

B.C., Alberta, Saskatchewan, Manitoba, New Brunswick and Nova Scotia also increased the diesel fuel tax. But the end price of diesel fuel across the country presents something of a different picture from that of gasoline.

Quebec's 33 cents a gallon, including a 13-cent tax, is the lowest pump price. Highest price in Ontario at 44 followed by Nova Scotia at 43 and B.C. at 42.

B.C., Manitoba and New Brunswick each raised gasoline taxes three cents while Alberta, Saskatchewan and Nova Scotia boosted them two cents. Ontario's last increase was two cents in 1957; Quebec's was two cents in 1950; P.E.I. three cents in 1957, and Newfoundland two cents last year.

Here's the gasoline picture in brief across the country, using price figures for major urban centres:

	Tax	Reg. Price
B.C.	12	38.9 43.9
Alta.	11	39.9 44.5
Sask.	14	39.9 44.5
Man.	17	39.9 44.5
Ont.	14	39.9 44.5
Que.	13	33.9 44.5
N.B.	22	41.9 47.9
N.S.	22	41.9 47.9
P.E.I.	16	42.9 47.9
Nfld.	19	44.9 50.9

DIESEL TOPS IN N.S.

Nova Scotia boosted the tax on motive diesel fuel by 10 cents to 27 cents a gallon. New Brunswick was next with an eight-cent increase, followed by Manitoba with six, Saskatchewan five, B.C. three and Alberta two. Ontario decreased the tax by one cent in 1958; Quebec's last boost was two cents in 1950; P.E.I., three cents in 1957, and Newfoundland's two cents last July.

Present tax and average prices for motive diesel fuel:

	Tax	Price
B.C.	15	42
Alta.	14	36—38
Sask.	17	41
Man.	17	27
Ont.	15.5	44
Que.	13	33
N.B.	22	41
N.S.	27	41
P.E.I.	16	36
Nfld.	19	44

For seven of Canada's 10 provinces, the gasoline and motive diesel fuel tax is the existing revenue producer, excluding federal-provincial tax-rental agreements.

DIESEL MONEY GOES

In B.C., the five - per - cent sales tax also returns more. Ontario gets more from its corporation tax collections and Saskatchewan and Manitoba through its social security assessment. But the gas and diesel taxes top liquor taxes in every province.

HIGHWAY COSTS

Only in Nova Scotia, where the entire tax is earmarked for highway construction and maintenance, and in Newfoundland, where the two - cent increase last year was designated for roads to isolated communities, will the money not placed into general revenues.

As the tax boosts were applied across the country this year, governments generally said they would have to be seeing taken to make road users pay a greater portion of road building and maintenance costs.

Nearly every province covers its highways spending from general revenues and in many cases the expenditure is well above the amount taken in through gasoline and diesel taxes and car licensing.

The gasoline - tax boosts brought little opposition in most of the provinces, but the B.C. Automobile Association raised a howl over the three-cent boost in the province. It circulated petitions against the increase and obtained 46,000 signatures, but to no avail. The association said gasoline now is a vital necessity in every-day living, not a luxury, and claimed the increase places particularly heavy burden upon persons using their cars to earn their livelihood.

LICENCES UP, TOO

British Columbia truckers didn't protest the diesel fuel tax increase with the same vigor, raising greater objection to an increase made a year earlier in commercial transport licence fees.

In Alberta and Saskatchewan the increases were accepted generally as merely a move bringing their taxes in line with neighbor provinces.

In Manitoba, a trucking industry spokesman said the diesel fuel tax could hurt the industry "very seriously." The board would add a cent a mile to hauling costs and the increase could not be passed along to consumers because railway freight rates are low enough to create serious competition for truckers if they raise rates.

The New Brunswick Truckers Association said the increases there will cost the trucker about 90 cents a day in operating costs and this payment will have to be recovered through increased charges to the consumer.

In Nova Scotia, the Maritime Motor Carriers Association said seven distributors of diesel trucks and engines opposed the diesel fuel increase in a brief to the legislature which said "such a tax is designed to burden highway transportation and retard its progress."

Spokesmen for the trucking industries in Prince Edward Island and Quebec noted with some satisfaction that the tax was the same on gasoline and on diesel fuel. Quebec added: "We're not complaining, so long as the money collected is spent on improvements to the network of Quebec roads," said Camille Archambeault, assistant to the president of the Quebec Trucking Association.

Some industry spokesmen in Ontario, however, raised objection to the present diesel - fuel tax level.

"We don't like any tax," said Jack Hollands, group engineer for Canadian Motorways (Ontario) trucking firm, "but we feel strongly about the differential tax on diesel oil. It's a tax on progress and technical development."

When the provincial treasurers tote up the take for 1981-82, in the six provinces where taxes were boosted, they expect to find this picture, the increase over the previous year in brackets:

British Columbia $29,000,650 ($8,000,000); Alberta $34,320,000 ($3,250,000); Saskatchewan $25,450,000 ($4,500,000); Manitoba $30,725,000 ($5,000,000); Nova Scotia $29,000,000 ($2,000,000); New Brunswick $15,290,000 ($3,000,000).

Prince Edward Island expects $2,700,000 of its $19,000,000 budget will come from gasoline and diesel fuel taxes. Ontario, Quebec and Newfoundland have not made firm estimates for 1981-82 fiscal year revenues, but based on previous year's figures, the taxes likely will produce $170,000,000 in Ontario, more than $100,000,000 in Quebec, and more than $6,000,000 in Newfoundland.

Income Tax Explained

Written and designed for the taxpayer who is not in a position to employ the services of a professional accountant or tax consultant.

By C. A. MILLER,
Former Supervising Assistant,
Income Tax Dept.

Many taxpayers become confused regarding what claim they should make, if any, for foster children. A foster child is one whom the taxpayer has both the custody and control of, and if he can satisfy the tax department that both of these conditions are complied with, then an exemption for such a child would be allowed.

A case in point would be where a taxpayer has taken in an orphan to raise and educate and in no way receives remuneration on behalf of the child.

Under this circumstance he would be allowed an exemption would be where a child is boarded in a private home by the Children's Aid Society, in these cases the Children's Aid Society retain the control of the child and may remove it anytime they wish. The taxpayer would not have full custody and control, thereby prohibiting any claim for exemption on behalf of the child.

There is one child exemption where the child qualifies is: he must be under 18 years of age and $300 if over. If the taxpayer is single, divorced, legally separated or a widow (er) the claim for equivalent exemption of $1,000 would be in order. This would apply where a widow, maintaining a home, took in foster children to raise and educate and had full custody and control of them.

When in doubt as to the validity of a claim consult your nearest Taxation Office or write a full explanation on a separate sheet of paper and attach it to your tax return.

Question—We have taken a child from an orphanage with the intention of adopting it if both of us are mutually agreeable. Can we claim any exemption for the child?

Answer—No. When the child is legally adopted you will be entitled to a claim.

Question—We have been awarded custody of a child from a broken home, as neither parent is considered fit and proper to raise the child. Can we claim exemption for this child?

Answer—Yes. You may claim exemption for such a child until such time as the Courts decide otherwise as to custody.

E.P. Taylor, Roy Thomson Closely Watched by Men In U.K. Financial Circles

By BOBB MISKEW
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP) — Two Canadians are among the most closely-watched businessmen in British financial circles.

Even the slightest rumor that E. P. Taylor is looking for another brewery or that Roy Thomson is interested in a newspaper is enough to send the stock market steaming.

In a "memo to brewery shareholders" the city editor William Davis of The Evening Standard warned that Taylor—"the Canadian brewer" who has caused such a stir in markets this year"—was returning to Britain for a month's long stay. The item was headlined: "Back in action?"

The prices on the London Stock Exchange started jumping Jan. 26, the day after the announcement of a proposal to merge Hillsdown Timmerman's publishing empire with the giant Odhams Press group.

Odhams' shares climbed seven shillings to 40 shillings on the exchange the day before the announcement was made and this subsequently touched off speculation that the stock exchange council into alleged leakage of information.

Though Thomson said his bid to link up with Odhams to the rich Daily Mirror group, newspapers made healthy profits during the five-week battle, the biggest in the history of Fleet Street.

Brewery tycoon Taylor got a foothold in the beer industry in Britain a year ago with a merger of three small breweries.

But it was Taylor's bid at the end of January for Bristol Brewery Georges and a subsequent bid March 9 that jolted the London market and sent the speculators hustling.

The value of Bristol shares shot up by 27 shillings a minute as a result of Taylor's bid and increased to another £500,000 in later dealings that day.

The move by Taylor was blocked by the huge Courage Barclay and Simonds group which topped his United Breweries' bid of £19,000,000 for Bristols.

Despite affection for Canada, many British financiers rejoice when Canadian investors were thwarted in their efforts to gain further economic power in this country.

BEERWERY TYCOON
E. P. Taylor, Ottawa-born industrialist and financier who boosts a Canadian brewery empire, is closely watched in British financial circles. Mr. Taylor, 69, entered the beer industry in Britain a year ago. He is a director of numerous Canadian companies and has substantial horseracing interests.. (CP Photo).

But the fact remains that Thomson's moves forced the Mirror group to fork out an additional £3,000,000 in its Odhams-Mirror deal and that Courage Barclay and Simonds had to increase their bid by a few million pounds sterling before they got Bristol Georges.

The proposed business transactions by Taylor and Thomson have left their impressions on the sensitive stock market and only a mere whisper that one of the financiers is after something is sufficient to set the shares rocketing.

A £21,000,000 mystery bid for Bents Brewery of Liverpool, made by the almost unknown Anglasi Nominees Limited, resulted in a brief suspension by the London exchange of dealings in Bent shares—and a police investigation.

The Anglasi bid, which caused a jump in shares, was made on behalf of undisclosed clients. Rumors, later proved unfounded, suggested that Taylor was back in action.

And since the Thomson-Mirror fight for Odhams several rumors had floated through London's financial world that Thomson's eye was on the lucrative Daily Sketch and even on The Daily Mail, both published by Associated Newspapers.

Anglican Bishop Predicts Move To Church Unity

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Rt. Rev. George N. Luxton, Anglican bishop of Huron, predicts the Anglican and United Churches will establish joint study groups on church unity at the end of this year or early in 1962.

In his charge to the 103rd synod of the Anglican diocese of Huron Monday, he said some impatience is shown toward church unity.

"Although individually we might wish to go faster, in our progress we must carry the whole church with us."

Bishop Luxton hailed as "a tremendous step towards unity of Christendom", the union of Methodists, Presbyterians and Congregationalists that formed the United Church of Canada in 1929.

He referred to a new study guide on church unity prepared by the two churches entitled Growth in Understanding, and urged members of the synod to study the Anglican portion and become informed about their own church.

Build Artificial Lake To Store Atomic Wastes

By JOHN E. BIRD
Canadian Press Staff Writer

CHALK RIVER, Ont. (CP)— An artificial lakebed has been created at Canada's atomic energy establishment for emergency use in storing large amounts of water that might become contaminated with small amounts of radioactive material.

The lakebed forms an addition to facilities of this huge research project for the storage of radioactive wastes from research laboratories and atomic reactors. These wastes must be stored safely to prevent their deadly rays from becoming a hazard to human, animal and plant life.

Up to 3,500 gallons of water circulate every minute through the NRX research reactor to cool its uranium fuel rod and keep them from melting.

Atomic Energy of Canada Limited decided that a special storage facility was required for such volumes of water in the event that contamination took place. When the NRX factor broke down in 1952 upwards to 1,000'000 gallons of water were pumped through the reactor and eventually dumped in a special disposal pit.

The Crown company decided to build a reservoir in which any contaminated water could be stored temporarily until it could be processed to remove the radioactive materials. It then would be necessary only to store a relatively small quantity of waste in concentrated form.

HUGE PIT DUG

An excavation with a length of 180 feet and a width of 175 feet was dug in sandy soil about 1½ miles from the nuclear project on the banks of the Ottawa River some 130 miles northwest of Ottawa. It has sloping sides, a depth at the centre of 18 feet and a capacity of more than 3,000,000 gallons of water.

Workers removed tree roots and stones and covered the bottom of the hole with several inches of fine sand.

Sheets of polythene then were used to line the excavation to prevent the escape of stored water. Rolls of this material 20 feet in width and 100 feet in length were used in the operation.

The sheets were sealed together with a special polythene tape, providing a leak - proof joint. They were bonded in a manner that prevents sand from penetrating the seams.

The operation was a joint effort of Atomic Energy of Canada, Canadian Industries Limited, and Master Industries Limited, Brampton, Ont., which produces polythene plastics.

After this covering was in place it was covered with several inches of sand and then a layer of gravel. The gravel is designed to reduce and wave action by stored water and the sand to prevent animals chewing the polythene covering.

If large amounts of water become contaminated, they can be pumped to the storage basin and stored. After the water has been treated to remove radioactive materials the basin can be used again in the event of another accident.

Officials of Atomic Energy of Canada said polythene is used as a liner because it is cheap, leak-proof and durable. It can be decontaminated easily and will withstand temperatures as low as 40 degrees below zero. Concrete is not used because of its cost and the fact that radioactive materials can become imbedded in its porous material.

New Traffic Control System Is Successful

TORONTO (CP)—A new automatic traffic control system which could mean big savings to large cities has been tried out successfully in Toronto, its makers reported Monday.

The Traffic Research Corporation of New York and Toronto said the system, which uses an electronic brain, was shown to be able to save upwards of $2,000,000 a year in driving costs and $20,000,000 to $40,000,000 a year in road construction costs in a city such as Metropolitan Toronto with 1,500,000 people.

A statement said the system reduces congestion and delay by operating traffic signals under the control of a central high-speed computer that can sense and react to congestion.

The computer, used in a 20-month test here, measures flow of traffic towards and through intersections every two seconds and decides whether to extend or change the green - red pattern.

Uranium Industry Pinning Hopes on Research Scientist To Find Industrial Uses

VANCOUVER (CP) — Canada's $200,000,000-a-year uranium industry, admittedly facing a crisis, is pinning its hopes on the research scientist and his ability to find new industrial uses for the versatile metal.

Researchers who have already set work on the future of uranium lies not in its nuclear properties but in the vastly diversified uses to which it might be put in the world of industry and mass - produced goods.

Aside from any military application, they see new roles for uranium in the iron and steel industry, in electronics, in the chemical, ceramics and possibly other industries.

They say it might help control insects, make a radiation-resistant (and feasible) result in better, less corrosive iron and steel and improve color-fast-ing for materials for pigments and inks as well as paints.

There are many attractive possibilities and to find them the Canada-Canada research program, financed to the tune of $250,000 a year over the next five years by the country's uranium companies, is under way. In 1958 there was a present bulk - purchase uranium contracts signed, for the industry already working at reduced speed. It is hoped that by then new markets have been discovered for the metal.

The position of the newly-formed Canadian Uranium Research Foundation is that of 30-year-old Dr. Peter Ward, head of the University of Manitoba's department of mining and metallurgy.

A native of Ottawa and graduate of the university of Toronto, he spent many years in industry and research abroad before joining the university staff in 1955. He has won many honors for his work in search in the world of metallurgy.

The metallurgical engineer-scientist sees in his new job a challenge comparable to that which faced Canada's nickel-mining industry after the First World War. Widespread new uses for nickel were found then through research and Prof. Forward believes the same can be done for uranium. But it will take time.

He said there is little prospect that any one new use for uranium could consume all the world's production now in the neighborhood of 40,000 tons annually.

But he sees the possibility of this through diversified use of the metal in a number of industries. Thus the research program will be widespread and to this end it is the foundation's hope its work will be extended on an international scale.

"If economic, practical uses for even 5,000 tons of uranium a year could be found, the industry could look forward with a high degree of confidence to a continued nigh level of activity."

The industry, he said, cannot depend on establishment of nuclear power plants for its future. These are far-off promises and their establishment has been slowed by their initial cost, economics of, operation and the fact the world is still finding new sources of fossil fuels and gas and oil.

Not so long ago Canada led the world in uranium production with the 16,000 tons a year. But in 1959 when Canada's 22 mines were worth $333,000,000 she was surpassed by the United States. Then came the bombshell announcement that the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission would not exercise its option to purchase additional quantities after the expiry of contracts which mostly terminated in 1962.

Canadian operators moved quickly to negotiate a spread of production which will allow most of the present contracts to extend into 1966. But it meant a slower rate of production which dropped the value of Canadian output to $240,000,000 cess."

Soon after this, the Paris summit conference collapsed and not long after that the Communists announced out the disarmament talks.

Mr. Green was back before the house on Monday and on the same subject Tuesday.

Disappointed? Not a bit.

He said: "For goodness' sake, don't suggest the whole thing is hopeless. With that kind of approach, no Canadian foreign minister would have any influence at all."

Paul Martin (L—Essex East), in last year, said the facts don't support an optimistic view. No progress had been made on disarmament and there was no indication that progress would be made.

Mr. Green said this was

Israel Requests German Court Question Three

JERUSALEM (Reuters) — The Israeli cabinet trying Adolf Eichmann today announced it will ask a West German court to take evidence from four defence witnesses under threat of imprisonment if they enter Israel.

The four men named by defence lawyer Robert Servatius are:

Eberhard von Thadden, former German foreign office official concerned with Jewish affairs under the Nazi regime.

Hermann Krumey, former officer in the Nazi SS elite corps who was a subordinate of former Lt.-Col. Eichmann;

Franz Six, former SS superior of Eichmann during the mid-1930s when Hitler reached supreme power in Germany;

COULD BE ARREST

Prosecutor Gideon Hausner has told the court the four men would be arrested under Israel's anti-Nazi law if they entered the country.

Presiding Judge Moshe Landau said "We have therefore decided that a West German court should be requested to examine the four witnesses."

(In Bonn, a West German justice ministry spokesman said West Germany is ready to take all necessary steps within German and international law to assist the trial of Eichmann, accused of the mass murder of millions of Jews.)

The court today started hearing testimony from the leaders of the 1943 Warsaw Ghetto uprising.

SPOTLIGHT PRISONER

In the middle of the morning's testimony, a power failure plunged the courtroom into darkness and forced suspension of the trial for 20 minutes. For the first four minutes a searchlight was trained on Eichmann, behind the bullet-proof glass, then he was taken to his cell until the lights came on again.

Mrs. Tivka Lubetkin-Zuckerman described the desperate Warsaw rebellion which was crushed by 2,000 Nazi soldiers. She first recounted the early restrictive measures of German administration in Warsaw in 1940.

She described Germans driving through the streets in convoys of cars, shooting into the crowd and killing men, women and children indiscriminately.

APPROVES SETTLEMENT

LONDON Ont. (CP) — Mr. Justice D. P. C. Kelly Tuesday approved a settlement awarding $150 to a New Liskeard London youth for injuries he received in a car crash in November, 1960, which killed his father, Gerald Robinson suffered when a car driven by his father, John Robinson, was in collision on Highway 11 near Cobalt with a car driven by Jerry Dabrowski. Tuesday Mr. Kelly's settlement was made without admission of liability.

External Affairs Minister Still Holds Point of View

OTTAWA (CP)—Lean, angular External Affairs Minister Howard Green will be around an inch even when the roof falls in on world tensions.

Last year about this time he was telling the Commons external affairs committee about his hopes for East-West disarmament talks.

He said March 4, 1960: "It is of vital importance that Canada should go to the next session of this disarmament question in a spirit of optimism. If we all went into there in a gloomy frame of mind convinced that nothing was going to happen, I think there would be no chance whatever of success. . . . We must have a positive approach to the doctrine of hopelessness which would have Canada give up and do nothing.

"We can't sit back and wring our hands in our despair."

Responsible leaders in both West and East are genuinely interested in reaching a disarmament agreement, the minister said.

The only chink in Mr. Green's armor of hope appeared when he conceded that if there is no progress on disarmament Canada will have to take another look at its declared opposition to the spread of nuclear weapons.

To Mr. Green, Canadian security could be best safeguarded for the Bomarc anti - aircraft missile and other weapons against the spread of nuclear weapons.

In view of the NATO foreign ministers' meeting opening Monday in Oslo, Mr. Green had some fart things to say about various proposals originating in Europe.

He said Canada is opposed to a "non-aggression" pact as major powers even at the price of France joining talks on a nuclear test ban.

He said any NATO nuclear force should not be controlled by a group of three or four alliance members.

And he said NATO shouldn't adopt any bloc policy in the United Nations.

All three of these remarks are likely to be deprecated by some country or another in NATO.

Requirements for School Bus Drivers Cannot Be Made Too Strict, Council Told (MONTREAL (CP)—Requirements for hiring drivers for school ; buses cannot be made too strict because of a shortage of men able or willing to take the job, an Edmonton safety official said Tuesday.

Paul Lamarche, general manager of the Alberta Safety Council who conducted an investigation into the school bus - train collision that killed 17 students at Lamont, Alta., Nov. 26, said officials have to be "practical" in drawing up their requirements. The driver of that bus has been charged with criminal negligence as a result of the accident.

He told a panel discussion on school bus safety at the annual conference of the Canadian Highway Safety Council that there are very few men who can work at driving a bus for two hours during the noon hour and two in the afternoon while earning the maker share of their living for the rest of the day.

Although school boards and citizens' groups naturally wanted drivers who could meet the highest standards of physical condition, intelligence and character, the extremely limited labor field meant it was not always possible to find such drivers.

The discussion was told that regular checks on the mechanical condition of school buses could be implemented. School buses should be built to conform to strict standards, although he said lots of requirements have been drawn up in Canada.

Buses should be adequately and clearly marked and should be equipped with fireproof seats safety glass and adequate emergency exits, including push-out windows.

The council Tuesday presented the top Carol Lass Award for 1960 to the Junior League of Hamilton. Carol Lass Awards were created to recognize women's achievements in fostering traffic safety. The Junior League won $1,000 and a 10-inch bronze statue for a puppet show project which demonstrated traffic and safety rules to preschool children in the area.

The women's committee of the Thorold Township Safety Council in Allanburg received a certificate of merit.

HITS 'ANARCHY'

Society has to work as a unit to solve the "anarchy of the automobile," Mrs. H. E. Vanclief, past president of the Canadian Association of Consumers, said.

She compared the selling of cars "whose very accelerators are open incitements and temptations to law - breaking" to selling a revolver "to anyone who can pay with the attitude that it is up to him to use it within the law."

Schools spent too much time teaching students the names of birds and the capitals of the world while failing to teach "good training in driving is infinitely more important to our children's future and perhaps lives of a future."

More Retarded Will Stay Home Says Dymond

TORONTO — Professional staffs in hospital schools and in the new Psychiatric Research Institute for Children in London, Ont., are making new experiments of activity, therapy, education and training programs for the mentally retarded, Dr. M. B. Dymond, M.D., Minister of Health for Ontario, told delegates to the eighth annual conference of the Ontario Association for Retarded children in Toronto last week.

Dr. Dymond suggested that the present need for hospital schools would decline through a co-ordinated, expanded facilities and as a result of research into prevention of mental retardation. Greater understanding and public awareness of the facts of mental retardation indicate that more and more retarded persons will be able to live in their communities fully and happily employed under varying degrees of supervision.

"The immediate emergency is to provide accommodation, but preventive and active treatment methods may become as important as special education," he said.

A model to the future control of this dread disease is being developed."

The new hospital school for 1,200 retarded children now to be opened at Cedar prings, Ont., will be the last of this type to be built by the government. "And new facilities for retarded children by the province will be a part of the community," he said.

The Minister called upon the nadian Association of Consumers, said.

medical profession, "family physicians and specialists alike, to consider critically the plight of parents of a retarded infant to seek institutionalization as soon as practicable and to abandon the code to such a request would be an infraction of his right by birth of love, care, protection and security only obtained in a family environment."

"We have felt that to proceed slowly ignorant as many of us have been and learning hospital is much to be preferred to locating institutions where children will be more causdially accepted rather than directed toward the development of the training of the whole child," Dr. Dymond concluded.

WILL DISCUSS CONTROL

CHATHAM (CP)—Flood control on the Sydenham River and Sydenham rivers will be discussed at a meeting May 9 between representatives of the Lower Thames and Sydenham Conservation Authorities and the Kent Flood Control Committee.

Keen Sportsman, Ed. W. Bickle, Dies in Toronto

TORONTO (CP)—Edward W. Bickle, who rose from a $5-a-week messenger boy to become one of Canada's leading financiers, died in hospital Tuesday of pneumonia.

The 71-year-old executive retired in 1956 as senior partner of an investment firm but remained active on several company, university and hospital directorates.

A keen sportsman, Mr. Bickle was a director of Maple Leaf Gardens, home of the hockey Leafs, and was proud of the leading part he took in financing that institution during the depression. Things were so tight that contractors and workmen took part of their pay in stock, but the gamble in the end yielded handsome returns.

Mr. Bickle had been associated with many companies, and even after his retirement he remained chairman of Canada Food Products Limited and a director of such firms as the CNR, TCA, Trans-Canada Pipe Lines, Abitibi Power and Paper, Remington Rand, Canada Steamship Lines and the Canadian Bank of Commerce, to name a number of others.

His own firm was Bills, Bickle and Co., a stock exchange firm of Toronto, which he founded in a partnership in 1924. It was during that, he had set up his own firm with as he described it "desk—a desk and a stenographer."

INVOLVED SEAGRAMS

His first big deal was arranging the sale of the Seagram family distilleries which he brought him $100,000, and he was off.

A native of Toronto, Mr. Bickle went as far as high school in the city before, at 17 he had to "go out and make money." When the boss who started him off at $3 would give him only $2.50 at the end of the $6 he wanted, he said he was quitting.

"Quit be damned, you're fired," the boss said.

He was interested in politics and government, though he never ran for office. Ten years he was treasurer of the Ontario Conservative party.

After his retirement he divided his time between his directorates, running a farm at Caledon and fishing in New Brunswick.

He is survived by his wife, the former Helen Pyne, and several children, all in Toronto. He will be buried here Wednesday.

Peking Govt. Second Only To United Kingdom as Big Buyer of Canadian Grain

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada has won a huge wheat market in Red China by offering the same sort of credit that facilitated earlier sales to Russia, Czechoslovakia and Poland.

Agriculture Minister Alvin Hamilton announced to the Commons Tuesday the signing of a 2½-year agreement that will make the Peking government second only to the United Kingdom as the biggest buyer of Canadian grain.

Starting June 1 and ending in December, 1963, the agreement calls for shipments to the Chinese mainland of 188,700,000 bushels of wheat and 46,700,000 bushels of barley worth, in all, $400,000,000 to $450,000,000.

The sales will be made for sterling on terms of 25 per cent cash, with the balance payable in 270 days, on each contract under the Canadian Wheat Board Act.

The contracts bring the combined sales to Communist China to 217,000,000 bushels of wheat and 86,800,000 bushels of barley worth about $425,800,000 during the years 1961 to 1963 inclusive.

Mr. Hamilton told the Commons the credit facilities offered to China — the Canadian government will guarantee the payments to the Canadian wheat board of up to $50,000,000 — "are in volume to new markets."

In the Commons, Opposition Leader Pearson described the latest sale as a windfall, and his personal one. "We sell wheat to our friends for cash," he said. "We sell it now to a government, which we do not recognize diplomatically, for credit."

Agricultural and grain trade officials in Saskatchewan expressed elation at the announcement.

Charles Gibbings, president of the Saskatchewan Wheat Pool, said the sale is excellent news to Western Canada.

Provincial Agriculture Minister I. C. Nollet said he is delighted with the sale.

In Winnipeg, grain trade and agriculture officials welcomed the news of the new wheat deal but with some reservations.

The chief skeptic was a grain trade official, who would not permit his name to be used, who insisted that the deal is only an agreement of intent" and does not obligate the Chinese to buy the amounts announced by the minister.

Mr. Hamilton noted that the agreement calls for sales on individual contracts, negotiated as to qua nity and dependent on price. But he fully expected the full amount would be taken. Red China is a new nation anxious to build up a reputation of "honoring its word," he said.

W. C. McKercher, chairman of the wheat board, said the sale would be a "boost to the Canadian economy."

L. C. Halmrast, Alberta agriculture minister, said the sale is "good news to the nation" but he warned in a prepared statement that there is still a substantial wheat surplus and producers in large acreage into production could cause further surpluses.

G. L. Harrold, president of the Alberta Wheat Pool, pledged capacity operation of the pool's west coast facilities. He stressed that the sale should not be regarded "as a signal to farmers to expand their grain acreage."

The order is expected to bring about 750 ships and more than 942,000 men to Canadian ports.

It was understood that some of the Chinese shipments will move through the St. Lawrence.

Commons Committee Seeks Production Costs Breakdown But Demands Still up in Air

OTTAWA (CP)—The question of whether a company's need for competitive secrecy on its internal affairs should yield to a Commons committee's demand for information remains up in the air.

After two days of questioning by the public accounts committee, the agriculture committee had no assurance the Canadian Wheat Board company would provide a breakdown of its production costs.

Committee members said Tuesday the information is essential to a thorough broad inquiry into farm machinery costs—first such inquiry in years since 1937.

But Company Vice-President Jack Richardson, in a closing statement Tuesday night, reiterated the board's desire to stand by its guns.

He suggested that the information, if required, be provided in secret, or that the committee obtain it from general government statistics on the farm machinery industry.

Mr. Richardson was the first manufacturer to come before the committee. Tuesday night James McBain told a reporter afterwards that he hoped the committee would provide the requested information.

Mr. Emmett said his company's action would depend on what information was provided by others.

The committee's hearing ended a similar topic than prevailed earlier—when Arnold Peters (CCF — Timiskaming) said the committee was going to get this information if we have to use very strong methods."

Deane R. Gundlock (PC — Lethbridge) said if the committee can't get it, "we're wasting our time."

Mr. Emmett suggested it would be a waste of time to try to get it. He said it had taken a year to 18 months to canvass all companies to get the data and the information would not be meaningful in the context you have to use it.

The company wanted to be open and honest in helping the committee, Dean he added:

"We simply have no intention of misleading the committee by providing information which could be meaningless and would only prevent the committee from pursuing its real objective."

During questioning on Massey — Ferguson operations, Mr. Emmett refused at that denial to suggestions that there is a policy of not selling tractors only in some products such as tractors, and new models brought out with minor, unnecessary innovations.

He said Massey - Ferguson doesn't subscribe to planned obsolescence or practise it.

Govt. Measure on Tariffs In for Rough Ride in Senate

OTTAWA (CP) — A government measure proposing highly technical and controversial changes in the tariff legislation appears to be in for a rough ride in the Senate.

Senate Opposition Leader W. Ross MacDonald told the Commons finance committee Tuesday night that the Liberal majority will move to kill a provision in the bill giving the minister arbitrary power in certain tariff decisions.

He was speaking during open debate on a bill changing the definition of imports considered to be the class or kind produced in Canada. On many types of imports, especially machinery, duties are waived or levied if goods fall in such a class.

Senator MacDonald objected to part of the bill giving the revenue minister final power to decide two points without right of appeal. He said the minister would have the final say in deciding the amount of "normal Canadian requirements" and the definition of "machinery" for the purposes of a future.

import should come within a new made-in-Canada classification as being a custom - made product that existing Canadian facilities could produce in a reasonable time.

Senator MacDonald said the government has given ministers the right to tax, a perogative of Parliament.

It is expected that Liberal Senators will move an amendment later in the debate to eliminate the provision from the bill.

Senator MacDonald said he could not accept the bill while it contained the arbitrary and revenue minister such powers.

The provision was wholly unacceptable to the Senate as it violated the fundamental principles of democratic government. The minister of revenue was being granted "absolute power" to fix a rate of customs duty.

Senator MacDonald said he is not sure that the bill will do anything to help solve unemployment or assist Canada's trading relations with other countries.

"Jest a Second"

"I certainly proved the newspaper boys wrong, didn't I?"

"I bought two wonderful mattresses for the nursery drapes," said Mabel. "Real bargains in a sale."

"Thirty dollars," Bob smiled. "What did you pay?"

"Under ten dollars," his wife replied. "I got as many yards of each as its price per yard in cents, and paid just two dollars fifteen more for one than the other."

What were the prices ?

Designs New Paper Money With No Front or Back

By ROBERT RICE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—An ingenious pharmacist has flooded MPs, senators, bank presidents and businessmen with cold, crisp "cash" — a new kind of paper money of his own invention.

Rene Laflamme, 39-year-old owner of a drug store in neighboring Hull, Que., has devised reversible paper money which he claims could save thousands of hours spent in banks and businesses in sorting bills so they're all right side up.

In the Laflamme bill—copyrighted as an unpublished article work entitled Improved Reversible Paper Money Design—there really is no top or bottom.

The bottom half of the bill is an upside-down version of the top. Hence it is always right-side up, no matter how you look at it. The front and back of the bill are similar as well, unlike present currency.

To create a sample of his new money, Mr. Laflamme chopped up $8 worth of bona fide money and pasted the pieces into his new design.

CREDIT ADDED

Instead of the Queen's picture, he used a newspaper shot of Princess Grace of Monaco. And to add style, he snipped from a government brochure all the provincial crests to incorporate in the design.

His bill is issued for a mythical country, called Cadana, by the Bank of Cadana. It has both English and French wording.

"I had 1,500 copies of the design printed," said Mr. Laflamme.

He walked into one newspaper office and handed out about $25 worth of his money—printed in green or yellow, take your choice.

He wants their support in a petition to the cabinet and the Bank of Canada asking that his idea be adopted.

"The new reversible banknotes would save a great deal of time devoted to handling," he said. "They would last longer because they wouldn't be handled as much."

Mr. Laflamme says he spends his evenings thinking up ideas for inventions.

Some people play bridge and ponder whether to play the ace or the king. I think about inventions."

PLANNED BOND LOTTERY

Mr. Laflamme is also the author of a provincial government lottery bonds plan, which he copyrighted in 1941. The idea, he said, was adopted by Britain in its lottery savings bond scheme that provides prizes instead of interest.

"I also invented a new kind of cigaret which has added ingredients that cut down on your desire to smoke."

Wouldn't that defeat itself, with sales dropping as the smoking desire dwindled?

"Ah," said Mr. Laflamme, "I thought of that. I just put in enough ingredients to cut the desire—not eliminate it."

Another invention is a multi-purpose musical instrument which he calls the "unicomagic piano." A flick of a switch makes it play like a regular or honky-tonk piano, organ, vibraharp, marimba, accordion or chimes. The versatile instrument was featured in a CBC French-network telecast in December, 1959.

"Now I'm working on my greatest invention," Laflamme said.

"It'll be a woman who won't interfere with man's work."

HAMILTON (CP) — Four new buildings, part of McMaster University's $12,000,000 expansion to meet the influx of students produced by the post-war baby boom, will be opened and dedicated May 8.

The crash program to fit McMaster to the needs of modern education has transformed it into one of Ontario's major universities. Nine buildings have been erected, two renovated and one enlarged since the program began in 1957.

The four just completed, the arts and administration building, student centre and men's and women's residences, are valued at $5,500,000. Others constructed during the four - year program are the nuclear reactor, the engineering building and Divinity College, first permanent headquarters for the Baptist Convention of Ontario and Quebec.

Almost before the dust has settled from the first expansion phase, the university plans another.

On the drawing - boards are a psychology department laboratory, an earth sciences building, extension of the physical sciences building and further renovations to older buildings at a total cost of about $5,000,000. Definite plans have not yet been made for a new gymnasium and swimming pool.

The arts and administration building is one of the major additions to the university and, at a cost of more than $7,000,000, has given McMaster 85,000 square feet of teaching and administration facilities. It can house 600 students.

The new residences, built to accommodate 370 students, give the university more than double its previous on-campus living facilities. The rooms, double and single, are smartly furnished and have balconies.

The student centre provides the facilities of a country club, with coffee shop, patio, sliding glass doors, kitchens and cafeteria. Its cost was $1,050,000.

George F. Gilmour, university president, says McMaster is preparing for the student boom of the future and is now in its "late adolescence."

"The rush and roar of the last few years is over now," he said. "The dust and mud of the contractors raised will never be seen here to that extent again."

Canadian Army Going to Help Ghana Troops

By DAVE McINTOSH
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP) — The Canadian army may not be able to stand Canada's popularity with new African nations.

Informants say the army may soon be training in Canada instructors for the Congolese Army.

Canadian army instructors are expected to go to Ghana to help in technical training of the army of the sister Commonwealth nation. Nigeria is expected to ask for similar help.

The Canadian army is already short of officers, especially instructors, and added commitments would not help the situation.

The Canadian Army officer, who went to Ghana, at Ghana's request, to assess the training needs of its army, hardly had time on his recent return to Ottawa to make his report before he was sent to New Delhi as senior Canadian military adviser on the reconstituted international truce commission for Laos.

Reconstitution of the commission means that the army will have to send to Laos about 30 persons, most of them officers, as soon as a cease-fire is arranged.

The army, on UN assignment, has similar duties in Egypt and in The Congo.

Canadian army personnel are also serving on the truce commissions in Viet Nam and Cambodia and with UN teams in Palestine and Kashmir.

Despite the beatings given Canadian soldiers by Congolese troops, The Congo government in Leopoldville has apparently been impressed by the way in which some 250 Canadian army personnel handle their work in that country.

PLAN ATOMIC ARMS

CANBERRA (Reuters) — Communist China will take five to 10 years to develop nuclear weapons, Australian Defence Minister Athol Townley told Parliament today. He said China's only reactor of any importance is the research reactor given by Russia in 1957, but the Chinese leaders had disclosed their intention to develop atomic weapons.

3rd Hillier

3rd HILLIER — The Christ Church Guild will be entertained on May 2nd at the home of Mrs. Colin Hardy of Melville.

Miss Joyce Beaney of Kingston, spent the weekend at her home with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Beaney.

Miss Sharon Wood entertained the 4-H Homemaking Club, of Bowerman's at her home last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Bobby Wood and Bruce and Nancy, of Toronto, spent the weekend with his mother, Mrs. Bob Wood Sr., and Sharon.

The Rev. J. J. Rogers of Wellington, held early morning communion at Christ Church on Sunday at 9.30 a.m. Next Sunday service will be at the same time.

Mrs. Charles Beaney spent Wednesday with Mr. and Mrs. Carl Wood, of Consecon, and called in the afternoon on Mrs. Alex Rattray, who has been very ill.

The boys report a poor run of smelts this spring.

The Hillier United Church is sponsoring an amateur show at Hillier Town Hall on May 19th. This will be the show of the spring.

Trans-Canada Rally

Dust Storms Face Cars

WINNIPEG (CP) — Dust-storms driven by 40 - mile-an-hour winds faced some 90 cars heading across the Prairies today on the fourth leg of the 4,100-mile Trans-Canada Rally.

The cars — 108 started from Montreal Sunday—left here at two minute intervals. The two-man crews are expected to reach Regina 400 miles away by nightfall for the compulsory overnight stop.

Still lying between them and 11 trophies and $5,000 in cash prizes are 700 miles, including the treacherous Rocky Mountains. They covered a tough 400-mile haul from the Lakehead Tuesday.

First car to arrive here Tuesday night was the factory-entered Hillman Minx of G. J. Ellison and W. Ripley of Vancouver.

Standings following the Port Arthur-Winnipeg drive had not yet been completed, but on arrival in Port Arthur Tuesday a Volvo driven by Sam Nordall of St. Martin, Que., and Tony Wilson of Dundas, Ont., was leading with a perfect score.

Homer Trotter of Westerlorn, N.Y., two - time Canadian Winter Rally winner, and Bob Mollman of Bedford Heights, Ohio, were second in a Mercedes-Benz sedan. Third was Scott Harvey and Gene Herendeen of Dearborn, Mich., in another Mercedes sedan.

KILLS TWO

A collision near Port Arthur Tuesday killed navigator Bill Roscoe of Montreal.

"It was a weird accident," said Ford manager Peter Hospath. "It was one of those things that just couldn't happen in a rally, but somehow did."

He said the cars, both Austin-350s, were in excellent mechanical shape and handled by veteran crews. It was the first fatality in millions of miles of rallying in Canada.

The rally is sponsored by the British Columbia International Trade Fair and sponsored by an oil company. It is the largest in the western hemisphere and fourth longest in the world.

Crozier Sets Record In Derby Trial

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Fred Hooper's Crozier drew away from the favored Bowl and-Twenty at the eighth pole and won the $15,850 Derby Trial Stakes in track record time Tuesday.

Four-and - Twenty, owned by Alberta Ranches, led until the final furlong when Crozier took the lead and sped on to the wire in 1:34 3-5.

Mrs. Ethel Jacobs' Dr. Miller rushed past J. Graham Brown's He's A Pistol at the wire to get third place in the one-mile race.

The winner, ridden by Braulio Baeza, paid $6.80, $3.40 and $2.60. Four-and-Twenty, the winner of the $105,000 Florida Derby March 4, was the 6-to-5 favorite in the crowd of 13,300 and paid $2.60 and $2.20.

Dr. Miller, with Willie Shoemaker up, was third, paying $2.80 at 4-to-1 and finished $2.00 to show.

HAS FUZZ-LID

What Tuesday's result proved was that the infield is deep discussion. The trial always has been a puzzling race and the wildness often have flopped in the derby itself.

The 36-year-old Longden, who will have the pick between Four-and-Twenty and Flutterby, another filly in the $125,000 entry for the Derby, said he wasn't disappointed with the performance of the trial runner-up.

"We needed the race," Longden said. "It's the first time he's gone a mile in six weeks. After all, a record-breaking performance beat us."

The guessing was that Longden, the millionaire "money-bags" of the jockeys and world record-holder with more than 5,300 winners, will pick Four-and-Twenty in Saturday's classic.

Priest Said Helping Sonny Liston

DENVER, Colo. (AP) — A Denver priest, Rev. Edward Murphy, said Tuesday night he is giving counsel to Sonny Liston, the first-named contender for Floyd Patterson's heavyweight boxing title.

Father Murphy's friendship with Liston was disclosed in Philadelphia Tuesday by the fighter, who said the Roman Catholic priest is helping him in his search for a new manager.

Liston obtained a release for $75,000 from his former manager, Pepe Barone, Patterson said one reason he has not given Liston a title shot is the associates he claims are behind the contender.

Father Murphy said he believes Liston was "just kidding" when he told reporters in Philadelphia that the priest might manage him. "I don't know anything about that part of boxing," Father Murphy said.

"I've a lot of confidence in that guy," the priest added. "In my mind he's the greatest heavyweight on the scene."

And, they're giving him a lousy deal up and down the line."

Carter Bout Tune-up For Cleroux

By MARVEN MOSS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MONTREAL (CP)—Bob Cleroux, ending a 2 - week ring layoff, steps in against Harold Carter, of Linden, N.J., Thursday night and is expected to make it a brief evening's work.

The bout is rated chiefly a tune-up for the bulling Montrealer, who refuses to keep him active. He shapes up so prohibitive a betting favorite no odds have been established by bookmakers here.

Carter is faded campaigner in the heavyweight division although he won't be 27 until later this month. He's had three fights in the last 18 months and lost two of them.

Cleroux's idleness dates back to the night the Canadian heavyweight title was redeemed from him by Toronto's George Chuvalo. He edged Chuvalo for the crown last summer. Both bouts were staged here and went to 15-round decisions.

The 23-year-old French-speaking Cleroux has hammered out a brilliant record since turning pro in 1957—20 knockouts in 27 bouts with two setbacks and a draw.

IN FUZZ-LID

But with his crude mauling style he's still something of a fistic question mark. Most of his opponents have been pushovers, unknowns who have come here to fight him.

His knockout list shows only a sprinkling of veterans.

The setback to Chuvalo last Nov. 23 and subsequent inactivity cost him a title by the National Boxing Association among the world's leading 10 heavyweight contenders.

The NBA dropped him from the rankings earlier this month. Chuvalo is listed sixth. Cleroux, however, holds down ninth spot in the Ring magazine ratings, a notch below Chuvalo.

The Tracks

FORT ERIE (CP) — Anita's Son has been assigned top weight of 126 pounds for Saturday's running of the $7,500 Vigil Stakes at Fort Erie Race Track.

Saturday is the closing day of Fort Erie's spring meeting, the horses then moving to Toronto for a 24-day meeting.

The Vigil Stakes will be run at 1 1-16 miles.

Anita's Son, owned by Mrs. M. J. Boyle's Lanson Farm near Toronto, was rated as Canada's best handicap horse last season. So far this year he has started only twice—winning the Billy Kelly Purse and finishing second in the $7,500 Bold Venture Handicap.

FORT ERIE (CP) — Jockey Charlie Boland piloted three winners at Fort Erie Tuesday. Jockey Hugo Dittfach scored on two front-runners.

Dittfach now has 97 winners and he has four days of racing Friday in which to beat Avelino Gomez's all-time record of 46 winners at a Fort Erie spring meeting, a mark set in 1960. Boland has 89 victories.

Dittfach was the featured Crowland Purse on Druid which galloped in a 1:34-flat victory and paid $6.20, $3.20 and $2.60. Mavis finished second while the Mohawk was third. Dittfach's other victory of the afternoon was scored on Micalena in the sixth race.

Boland captured the second race on War Advice; the fifth on Additional and the eighth on Friar Wright.

The daily double of Chenango and War Advice paid $52.80. The quinella on Additional and Wilwyn Street paid $36.70.

Say Dentist Offered Big Bribes

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Two University of Pittsburgh basketball stars testified Tuesday that a dentist offered them lucrative bribes to shave points during games.

John Fridley and Dick Fitzgerald, both seniors, told a criminal court jury that Dr. Edward Edward Sebastian approached them with his offers in December, 1960.

"He said he would bet on all Pitt games and would give me half of his winnings if I would shave points," said Fridley, one of Pitt's outstanding scorers.

Fridley also claimed that Dr. Sebastian, a former instructor in the university's dental school, offered him a guaranteed admission to the school, a personal scholarship, a $1,000 engagement ring for Jean and a car below wholesale price.

Fitzgerald said he also was promised a scholarship and immediate entry to the dental school if he would shave points.

Dr. Sebastian has denied the accusations.

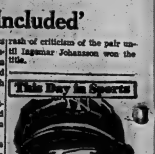
Mr. D'Amato Snaps

'Liston Not Included'

NEW YORK (AP) — Caught in a crash of criticism of the pair until Jacobs Commissioner Johnston won the title.

D'Amato has coupling the answer to Sonny Liston's one-time boxing campaign for a world heavyweight title bout with champion Floyd Patterson.

"Liston is not included in Patterson's plans at all," snapped D'Amato, chief of the Patterson advisory staff, "not at all."



That, of course, brings up the question of how much D'Amato has to say about Patterson's professional activity. Floyd has said he now is making his own decisions.

If D'Amato is talking for Patterson—the champ was unavailable for comment—Liston will not be the only hopeful who will remain on the outside looking in until the end of the year.

"Patterson will not fight anyone this year who has a future," D'Amato said in an interview Tuesday.

This presumably would rule out the likes of Brittain Harris, Cooper, who also thought he deserves a crack at the title. It also could indicate that D'Amato intends to have Patterson go back to a diet of nonentities—the kind that caused a COLLECTS FIREARMS — C. W. (Charlie) Evans, operator of a Kingston milk transport business, holds a finely scrolled and engraved Hallet muzzle-loading pistol, one of his collection of more than 250 weapons dating back to the early 1600s. Mr. Evans, a gun collector since the end of the Second World War, was Northern Ontario welterweight boxing champion in the 1930s. (CP Photo).

Onetime Amateur Boxer Has Taste for Fancy Hardware

KINGSTON, Ont. (CP)—A knuckleduster that unfolds into a tiny pistol with a bayonet-like knife attachment is one of the daintier weapons in the arsenal of C. W. Charlie Evans, a onetime amateur boxer with a taste for fancy hardware.

Mr. Evans, operator of a Kingston milk transport business, has a collection of more than 250 firearms, including pistols that can be concealed in the palm of the hand and rifles more than five feet long.

His prize is a flintlock pistol of the 1750s with a goldplated waterproof firing pan for which he traded $500 worth of guns. The collection also includes a variety of Colts and Remingtons, some Canadian-made weapons and six-shooters of the American West.

The oldest item is an English Cripps matchlock muzzle-loading rifle, more than five feet long, manufactured in 1625. It is designed to take a ½-inch musket ball.

An exotic weapon is a long-handled flintlock pistol once used by Chinese river pirates. Its grip serves as the scabbard for a long and fearsome-looking knife.

Canadian-made guns include a long, double-barreled percussion cap instrument made by the Kingston firm of W. Marsion and dated 1887.

Another oddity is an early automatic called a harmonica because its magazine moves horizontally across the barrel.

Football Television

Says CBC Made No Offer

TORONTO (CP)—John Bassett, chairman of CFTO - TV, Toronto's private television station, said Tuesday the CBC at no time offered a bid comparable to CFTO's for rights to televise Big Four Football League games.

Mr. Bassett was replying in a letter to The Globe and Mail to one Monday from H. G. Walker of Toronto, general manager of CBC network broadcasting (English).

Mr. Walker said the CBC will not take up an offer from CFTO making CFTO's telecasts of games available to corporation stations without purchase charge.

"There are no strings attached to this offer," wrote Mr. Bassett. "Last year the CBC paid $325,000 for the rights. This year no charge will be made for these rights and non-competitive affiliate stations can have the games . . ."

He said CFTO could arrange sponsors who would pay line and time charges for any such stations in Quebec and Ontario.

. . . The CBC was willing to include CFTO-TV in the network to carry Big Four football provided the rights were turned over for a lesser amount to the corporation. This would have meant . . . that CFTO-TV would have had to abandon its partner in the project in Montreal and Ottawa. . . ."

CBC WAS PERSISTENT

Mr. Bassett said the CBC had persisted in trying to purchase the rights for $50,000 less than the CFTO bid.

CFTO paid $275,000 a year for exclusive rights to the Big Four games for two seasons.

Mr. Bassett said Mr. Walker had made "a great point" about splitting the CBC network.

"It should be pointed out that every Saturday night through the winter the network is split and on part of it the home games of the Montreal Canadiens are televised, while on another part the home games of the Maple Leaf hockey team are televised."

Cubans Rate High in Baseball

NEW YORK (AP) — It's a good thing for some major league baseball teams that Cuba's been permitted by their government to play in the United States this season.

From 20-year-old Zoilo Versalles to 35-year-old Minnie Minoso, from Speedy Gonzalez to lumbering Pancho Herrera, the Cubans have made their presence known this spring.

The outstanding performances have been turned in by Minoso, veteran Chicago White Sox outfielder; Versalles, Minnesota shortstop; Gonzalez, Philadelphia Phillies' outfielder and pitchers Pedro Ramos and Camilo Pascual of Minnesota.

Minoso, in his 12th major league campaign, is hitting .356 —third highest in the American League.

Versalles is the American League leader in stolen bases with seven. He has a batting average of .314 with 22 hits—second highest in the AL.

HOLDS THIRD SPOT

Gonzalez, who hit .274 in his rookie year in 1960, had been a pleasant surprise for the Phils. He's the National League's third leading batsman at .360. He has a pair of homers among 18 hits. Ramos and Pascual each have won two games and lost none for the Twins. Ramos is tied for the American League lead in strikeouts with 25.

Herrera, the Phillies' first baseman, has hit safely in his last six games, collecting eight hits in 22 trips, and boosted his batting mark to .321. He has 13 RBIs, three doubles, one triple and two homers.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

Baseball fans here-about will get a pre-season taste of all-Ontario championship fare here on Sunday, May 21, when the youthful Merritton club meets the city Kenmors.

As is known the Kenmors are the 1960 all-Ontario junior "A" champions while the Merritton youngsters hold the all-Ontario junior "B" crown.

The game here on May 21 will be the second of a home-and-home series arranged by Kenmors' manager Ken Soden and officials of the Merritton club. The city kids play in the Niagara peninsula town on May 14 in the opener.

Despite their slightly lower rating, the Merritton youngsters will prove worthy foemen of the Kenmors. They have a record that bespeaks their ability. They were unbeaten in their trek down the playdowns trail and defeated teams that would give the Kenmors a big run for the money.

Remember the cocky Hamilton club that the Kenmors obliterated for the Ontario title? Well the Merritton club played in the same league with this bunch of diamond shooters and cut their combs on more occasions than one.

The Kenmors, if the fates decree, and the South Hastings Baseball League sees fit, will be perhaps the only junior baseball club in Ontario, if not Canada, that will have a farm team.

Manager Soden had coach Vic Morris said today that with the baseball gods willing, the Kenmors will field an entry in the South Hastings loop, the intention being to keep reinforcements in shape and-over-age entries available for perhaps a 1962 up-and-over age squad.

It all depends on the brass of the S-H League which gets together next Sunday. In this department's opinion the Kenmors owe something of a debt of gratitude to the South Hastings League, which, incidentally, is one of the oldest baseball circuits in Ontario, for during the past few seasons they have admirtedly the city entry and the Kenmors' experience in the rural loop, without a doubt, fashioned them for the junior "A" track which led them to their first Ontario championship.

Speaking of championships the question has been asked this department if the Kenmors are gunning for their second straight Ontario junior "A" title. The answer is "yes."

Some criticism has been levelled at the Kenmors' management for not enlisting the services of baseball players here who are over the age limit. When the city entry to the Lakeshore Intermediate Baseball League was accepted, it was the belief of not a few that the Kenmor team would enlist players of junior age.

The Kenmors with the exception of one player Jackie Elliott Jr. are still eligible for junior activities. One or another player, we understand, has left the squad, or have stated so much, and have been wooed to softball teams.

It is strictly a matter of Kenmor policy... Manager Ken Soden informed this corner a few days ago that his players would be 100 per cent baseball players and not fifty-fifty "hardball-softball" athletes.

I think Soden is a visionary. I believe the man has baseball at heart and wants to see Belleville represented in senior baseball within the next few years. He has won an Ontario championship junior-wise and naturally wants to repeat this year. He and Vic Morris gathered this Kenmor club when they were in the low misers and whipped, drilled and brought them into championship shape. It is no wonder then, that he wants to keep the club intact, with possibly a senior championship in mind.

It would be quite a record indeed not only for Soden, Morris and their assistants, not to mention the players, to have a club that was originated in bantam baseball surge through to the heights intact, and come home with an Ontario senior title.

The Kenmors play, as was mentioned, in Merritton on May 14, and we are informed there are seats available on the bus for any fans who should like to visit the Niagara Peninsula.

Reports from the Fair grounds "training camp" reveal that the Kenmors are in hard earnest action. Over 20 players are turning out and with every position up for grabs the competition is keen.

Said Manager Soden:—"It appears the Kenmors are going to have a very strong first club and of the players not catching the first team, it appears there will be a very good club available for entry in the South Hastings League."

Bunning Keeps Tigers Out In Front

Mantle Hits Grandslammer

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Staff Writer

Jim Bunning, an ace who's been in a hole, couldn't have picked a better time to nail his first victory of the season for Detroit. It kept the Tigers a game in front in the American League race.

After two defeats in four starts, the thin righthander weathered an 11-4th attack at Washington Tuesday night for a 6-5 victory that kept the Tigers from having to share first place with New York.

The second place Yankees stayed close with a 6-4 victory at Minnesota on Mickey Mantle's bases - loaded home run with two out in the 10th inning. Cleveland out - lasted Chicago White Sox 3-2 in 11 innings, Kansas City beat Boston 7-4 and Baltimore defeated Los Angeles Angels 7-6 on Jim Gentile's ninth-inning home run.

WALKER TWO

Bunning, who hadn't pitched a complete game although he went 10 innings without a decision in his third start, walked just four batters and struck out seven.

The Tigers staked him to a quick lead on a two-run homer in the second inning by Norm Cash. Billy Bruton hit a sacrifice fly for a 3-0 lead in the third and then brought in the clincher against loser Tom Sturdivant with a fifth-inning single.

The Yankees pulled into a 2-2 tie with the Twins on Bill Skowron's solo homer in the seventh off Camilo Pascual. The Cuban righthander retired the first two batters in the 10th, then gave up a double by Tony Kubek and issued two walks that loaded the bases for Mantle's slam. It was Mantle's eighth home run of the AL, and gave him 22 RBI, tops in the majors.

Jim Coates was the winner as he relieved in the 7th with one out and the bases loaded and got Vic Power to ground into a double play.

BROKE TIE

An error, a walk and a single by Johnny Romano broke up the tie for Cleveland against losing reliever Russ Kemmerer. Frank Funk won his first with three innings of three-hit, shutout relief. The White Sox scored their two in the sixth off Medal Grant on singles by Luis Aparicio and Nellie Fox, a double steal, a wild pitch and Romano's error.

Gentile's fifth home run of the season cracked a 6-6 tie for the Orioles, who flew a 5-1 lead. Gus Triandos and Jerry Adair also homered for the Birds while Earl Averill, Ted Kluszewski and Leon Wagner got home runs for the Angels' first five scores. Hoyt Wilhelm remained unbeaten, winning his third in relief. Tom Morgan was the loser.

A two-run single by pinchhitter Al Pilarick overhauled a 3-2 Boston lead and winning pitcher Bud Daley squeezed in the deciding run for the As as they scored three in the sixth against Ike Delock. Marv Throneberry hit a two - run homer for Kansas City while rookie Jim Pagliaroni tagged Daley for his first homer, with a man on.

Leafs Open In Toronto Today

BY THE CANADIAN - PRESS

Toronto Maple Leafs open their International Baseball League schedule at home today against Jersey City Jerseys but there won't be any shirt sleeves in the bleachers.

The weather office predicted partly cloudy weather with the temperature around 30 degrees.

Advance ticket sales indicated an opening-day crowd of about 13,000 and Tuesday several hundred lucky fans huddled in the stands to watch manager Johnny Lipon put Leafs through a workout. Some snow fell during the two-hour workout.

The Leafs hit town with a record of five victories and four losses, good for fifth place in the league race. The Jerseys were in second spot with five wins and three defeats.

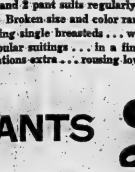
Lipon named veteran right-hander Steve Ridzik (1-0) to start on the mound against former New York Yankee Zach Monroe (1-1). Monroe was beaten 8-5 by Leafs earlier this season.

PASS UP CHANCE

The top teams in the league passed up golden baseball opportunities Tuesday night.

Columbus, the league leader, had a chance to grab a two-game margin but bowed to Syracuse 3-2. With the Jets' defeat, Richmond, No. 2 going into Tuesday night's action, had an opportunity to pull into a first-place tie but was whipped by Rochester 4-3.

Other teams were idle.



Little Jackie Collum was the fellow who proved the Jets' downfall. Collum drove in two Chief runs with a single and a double and pitched five-hit ball until two were out in the eighth.

Richmond jumped out front with all of its runs in the first frame, the big blow being Johnny Jacisk's two-run homer. The Red Wings got four more earned runs, stemming from two infield errors, in the fifth.

DOWNER STOPS MONTANO

Do-or-Die Fifth Game

Oil Kings Face Toughie Tonight

Americans Want Date Changed

EDMONTON (CP) — Edmonton Oil Kings tangle with Toronto St. Michael's College Majors in the fifth game of the Memorial Cup final tonight, aware that defeat will cast them into hockey's discards.

The Kings trail the best - of - seven set for the Canadian junior title 3-1 and the words of coach Buster Brayshaw:

"We're going to play her a period at a time and hope for the best."

The western champions, belted by 4-0, 4-1 and 4-2 scores in the first three engagements, will ride with the same lineup that beat the Majors 5-4 Monday night.

Rev. David Bauer, Majors' coach, plans on benching defenseman Roger Galipeau and moving forward Terry Clancy back to defence, a position Clancy played at the start of the season.

The other man on the forward line will be Billy MacMillan, who will play right wing on a line with Sonny Osborne at centre and Brian Walsh at left wing.

Osborne, who joined Majors for the third game, in which he scored three goals and had up the fourth, has been playing wing and centre.

The college crew had a tough workout Tuesday, Winger Jack Cole took part in the practice although he lost two teeth and suffered a severe mouth wound in a collision Monday night with defenceman Ken Stephanson of the Oil Kings. Cole, who had to have 15 stitches inside the mouth, will play tonight.

PITCHER—Harvey Haddix, Pirates, honored four from bout with flu for six-hit shutout over Cardinals, walking just one and striking out three in 8-0 decision.

HITTING — Mickey Mantle, Yankees, drove in five runs and Roger Maris, Lou Piniella, New York Rangor defenseman, will attend a dance-dance here Friday honoring the Galt Terriers' Allan Cup victory. Officials said the Terriers may contest the world amateur championship in Colorado next winter or make an exhibition swing through Europe.

Totems Nip Portland 3-2

SEATTLE, Wash. (CP) — Defenceman Franz Arnett, who scored only five times during the regular season, came up with the winning goal at 2:38 of the first overtime period Tuesday night to give Seattle Totems a 3-2 victory over Portland Buckaroos and deadlock their Western Hockey League final series 2-2.

Fifth game in the best - of-seven set will be here Thursday-night and the sixth Saturday. If a seventh game is needed, it will be played at Portland at a date yet to be set.

Veteran Rudy Pilous and Gerry Leonard scored the other Seattle goals. Barney Krake and Art Jones replied for Portland.

May Cancel Harmsworth

DETROIT (AP)—The possibility that there will be no Harmsworth Trophy powerboat races between Canada and the United States this year arose Tuesday due to a scheduling contract with the Seattle Seafair Regatta.

The Harmsworth, won the last two years by Canada's Miss Supertest III, is scheduled for Aug. 5-8 on the Bay of Quinte near Picton. It is international power boating's most prized trophy.

The Seattle race is scheduled for Aug. 6 with $40,000 put up by the sponsors in prize, appearance and qualifying money.

"We told the Canadians last February we would challenge for the Harmsworth only if they would change dates," said Lee Schoenith, who had planned to bring the Gale VI against Miss Supertest.

"But our repeated requests have either been denied or left unanswered. Americans can't afford to pass up the Seattle race to spend thousands of dollars on the Harmsworth, which carries only prestige."

Schoenith was the only American boat-owner to re-power his boat over the winter with the idea of giving the mighty Miss Supertest a decent battle.

Supertest, owned by Jim Thompson of London, Ont., ran away from three American challengers at Picton last August in defence of the Harmsworth.

Sch. Genith's Gale V was among the defeated boats.

Home Runs Plunge Braves To Fifth

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Staff Writer

Milwaukee Braves, who started the season looking for a relief man to complete a pitching staff headed by Warren Spahn, suddenly appear to be in need of a staff for Spahn to head.

The Braves, starting behind right-handed aces Bob Buhl and Lew Burdette and touted rookie Don Nottebart, have been banged for 16 home runs in three-game skid—and all after Spahn put them on top of the National League with a no-hitter Friday night.

After a record tying, 13-home run battering in two games by San Francisco Giants, Los Angeles Dodgers picked up where the Giants left off against the Braves, walloping three homers Tuesday night for an 11-9 victory that plunged Milwaukee to fifth place.

Pittsburgh Pirates breezed into first place by whipping St. Louis Cardinals 6-0 behind the six-hit pitching of Harvey Haddix after Chicago Cubs had spoiled San Francisco's debut in place with a 9-4 victory. Cincinnati Redlegs defeated Philadelphia Phillies 5-2.

CANADIAN LOSERS

Frank Howard, John Roseboro and Tom Haller made it three home runs for the Dodgers as Milwaukee off Notebart and losing reliever Ken MacKenzie, a native of Gore Bay, Ont. But it was a six-run seventh inning rally which the Dodgers had just two hits, and neither a homer—that did the job and left the Braves' staff with a total of 32 runs allowed in three games.

A bunt single by Willie Davis started the Dodgers rallying after the Braves had taken a 6-5 lead in the sixth. Davis walks, an error, Charlie Neal's double and a wild pitch completed the Dodgers' comeback for a cushion that stood off a late Milwaukee rally in the eighth. Larry Sherry finally quieted the Braves, who counted two-thirds runs on four Dodgers errors, and saved the decision for Jim Golden (1-0).

MacKenzie, 27-year-old southpaw converted to a reliever in 1959 with Louisville of the American Association, suffered his first defeat of the season. The former student at Yale, who bats Harvard six times before graduating in 1956, is still looking for his first major league victory.

His record with the Braves last season was 0-2, the loss coming at the hands of Cincinnati, but in three previous seasons of professional baseball he never had a losing record.

RELIEVED BY QUEBECER

MacKenzie was relieved Tuesday night by Ron Piche, 25, of Verdun, Que., a partial victim of the seventh-inning outburst by the Dodgers. Although he pitched only one third of an inning and gave up but one hit, Piche walked two and was charged with allowing three runs—one of them unearned.

Haddix, bouncing back from a bout with the flu, walked just one and struck out three for his first victory as the Pirates hung up their fifth success in the last six games. Ernie Broglio, 4-0 against the Bucs in his winning 21 last season, lost for the third time in four decisions as Roby Nelson and Roberto Clemente each drove in two runs, but the Bucs got the only hit. Haddix needed before Broglio faced the third man in the order. Bill Virdon lined a leadoff double in the first inning and scored on Dick Groat's single.

Rookie Billy Williams was 4-for-4 and drove in two runs for the Cubs, completing their scoring with his first home run—a bases-loaded shot in the second inning off reliever Ed Fisher. George Altman's one-out homer had triggered a five-run first against loser Jack Sanford (1-2). Don Cardwell (3-0) blanked the Giants on two hits until the ninth. Then Willie McCovey's two - run homer gave San Francisco a share of another home run record—14 in three games.

The Reds bunched three of their four hits for all their runs in the fourth inning off Dallas Green (1-3). Vada Pinson's first home run touched off the rally. Rookie Ken Hunt was 2-for-2 and, pitching a three-hit shutout until the eighth.

Hair and Prevent Baldness

OTTAWA, ONT. New home treatment methods for saving hair and improving its growth will be demonstrated in Belleville, Ont., May 4th at the Quinte Hotel.

Mr. Mitchell C. A. Tander will be in charge, representing the dynamic Roberts Hair & Scalp Specialists' organization. He will personally examine hair-worried people free of charge 1.00 to 8.00 p.m.

This new treatment is neither a "snail cure" or "cure-all". It is adapted to the individual after a personal examination and progress is checked at regular intervals by a Roberts Specialist.

Who Can Be Helped?

Will the new Roberts treatment cure baldness? "No!" For we cannot help men and women who are already bald or "cue-all". It is adapted to the individual after a personal examination and progress is checked at regular intervals by a Roberts Specialist.

Who Can Be Helped?

Will the new Roberts treatment cure baldness? "No!" For we cannot help men and women who are already bald or have grown years of gradual hair loss. But if you still have fuzz and your scalp is still creating hair, you can at least save and thicken what you have. Some conditions, such as "spot baldness" usually have complete coverage if caught in time!

Other conditions that unnaturally bring on excessive hair-loss —dandruff, itching, over-oiliness or dryness, follicle clogging with sebum or subscribes—can be corrected by the Roberts home treatment if caught in time.

Examine You Free

We want you to make it clear that you incur absolutely no charge or obligation by coming in for an examination.

Your only obligation is to yourself. We do not accept cases that will not respond.

Guarantee Satisfaction

The Roberts Specialists will give you a written guarantee that you must be satisfied within 30 days or it will cost you nothing.

Jensen Maintains He's Done

KANSAS CITY (AP)—An unrepentant but apologetic Jackie Jensen talked to his boss, manager Mike Higgins of Boston Red Sox, Tuesday and reiterated that he's through with baseball.

Higgins, who said Jensen called him by long distance here from Lake Tahoe, Nev., indicated he had hopes the big outfielder's decision may be changed.

Higgins said Jensen called to "apologize completely and sincerely" for the manner in which he left the Boston club in Cleveland Saturday night without consulting the manager.

Jensen told Higgins he was "going away for a few days" with his wife and would call Higgins later this week. Mrs. Jensen has said she and others would try to persuade Jensen to return to the game.

"I just don't feel I can play major league baseball anymore and I want to enjoy their money's worth," Jensen said earlier in Reno.

HIT ONLY .120

Jensen, said to have signed for $50,000, had only a .120 batting average for the first dozen games of the campaign, hitting safely only six times in 46 times at bat and with just one RBI. Going into this year he had a career average of .281 in the major and hit .315 with the Red Sox in 1956.

On his arrival here, he jumped into a car with his batting wife, Zoe Ann, and sought seclusion.

Jensen quit baseball after the 1959 season and didn't play in 1960, saying he needed more time to be with his family. He was the American League's most valuable player in 1958.

NO FUMBLES NOW—A possible football prospect is credited with less abandon than a football by Normie Kwong, 31, former Edmonton Eskimos fullback who says he's not sure whether to retire or take coaching. Kwong's son Gregory Lawrence was born March 2. (CP Photo).

Sport Snapshots

By JIM PEACOCK
Canadian Press Staff Writer

VANCOUVER (CP) — If there's one thing that will keep Normie Kwong out of football it's the next 13 years as an harness, he's practice.

If there's another, it's business.

Right now, the Chilliwack Clipper is thinking about both as he argues with himself over whether he should end his active playing career or try for another season at fullback with Edmonton Eskimos of the Western Football Conference.

These mental arguments go on between changing diapers and warming bottles as he helps his wife, Mary, care for a new football prospect, Gregory Lawrence Kwong. Born last March 2, young Gregory weighed 14 pounds six weeks later, already at that age for a developing fullback.

"I'll miss playing the game," Kwong said as he and his wife discussed his future over a chopstick-eaten luncheon of barbecued pork and Chinese noodles.

"But I sure won't miss the practices."

DISLIKES TRAINING

The Calgary-born Chinese has never relished the pre-season training sessions and the thought of the labor involved in returning to playing condition through strenuous workouts this summer disturbs him more than anything else to stick to his intention to retire.

He also is between business projects, having sold his interests in a car wash here, and his football plans will hinge to an extent on how soon he finds a new line of work and investment opportunity.

Kwong is 31 now, 10 to 15 pounds over his playing weight, a married man with family responsibilities, and a homeowning, mortgage - holding Vancouver resident.

"It's up to him," says Merv of his football future. "The only time I worry is when he goes on the road. I don't like plane rides."

Plane rides don't bother Normie, but retirement has been on his mind for some time. A year ago, following difficulties with the Eskimos over his 1959 contract, he said he was quitting. But he returned — after missing a month of practice — to play in 1960.

NOT SURE NOW

Last November, after appearing in the Grey Cup final for the seventh time, he said again he was determined to quit playing.

Now then, however, he hedged a little, leaving the way open for a change of mind. And he's still hedging.

He was asked how firmly he maintains his decision to retire.

"It's more firm this year than it has been in the past," he replied, adding wistfully that "I don't think Eagle is counting on me this year."

He referred to Eagle Keys, Edmonton head coach, and said he has heard nothing from him since the Eskimos were beaten by Ottawa Rough Riders in last home Grey Cup game.

Pressed further, he continued:

"Gee, right after the end of the season, when I was tired and glad to be finished with practices and all that, I was sure I wouldn't be back.

"But this last couple of months, since I haven't been doing anything but the housework and looking after the baby for me," interjected Mrs. Kwong)—I've been thinking a lot about it and I know I'm going to miss it.

"Maybe if I find another business soon and I get busy, I won't think about it so much. But whether I'm busy or not, I know I'm going to miss it."

He looked back over a professional career that began with Calgary Stampeders when he was 18 and recalled the three times he was league rushing champion, his seven Grey Cup appearances and four national championships, and his selection in 1955 as Canadian athlete of the year.

"It's like any job that you enjoy," he said. "When you've been in it for 13 years, you're reluctant to leave it.

Many Sleepy-Eyed Viewers Waited 3 Hours for Word

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—There are probably more stay-up-lates in the television audience than gel-up-earlies. But Tuesday the ranks of early risers were swelled by sleepy-eyed viewers who wanted to watch the first American attempt at manned flight in space.

We were disappointed, of course, but word of the postponement of the manned missile launching did not come until almost three hours and many cups of black coffee after this reporter had burned out the set.

The May 31 episode of ABC's Hong Kong series sounds like a fictionalized treatment of a real unsolved mystery. Our hero recognizes the face of a long-missing bridge—shades of Judge Crater, who disappeared without a trace some 30 years ago.

The Shirley Booth comedy series, Hazel, is definitely set to take over Tennessee Ernie Ford's sponsors and time spot on NBC in the fall. Miss Booth will return to the kitchen for the series, based on a magazine cartoon character. The actress' first big success came as Miss Duffy on Duffy's Tavern, one of radio's funniest programs in the old days.

Small world note: Huckleberry Hound, the popular cartoon series, has had its sound track translated into five languages for child audiences all over the world—Spanish, Portuguese, German, French and Japanese.

Remarks a Movie Usher Gets Tired of Hearing

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YOREK (AP)—Remarks a movie usher gets tired of hearing:

"The pictures they show here are pretty lousy, but they have the best popcorn in town."

"Why can't I take my dog in with me? He doesn't chew gum or eat candy like you said he'd smarter than most of the people in this audience."

"What time does the feature begin?"

"I stayed and seen this picture through twice, and I still don't understand what it's all about. Is it up for an Academy award or something?"

"His uniform fits him like a glove—a baseball glove."

"If he was in the navy and had all that gold braid, he'd be commanding at least three battleships and a carrier."

"Hey, General Custer, which way to the lounge?"

TOO MANY FRIENDS

"Hi, Mavis. You and our two gal friends are waiting at the side exit. How about slipping you in for free?"

"This is the third time this month you have failed to get by inspection, Melvin. Unless you get that button sewed back on before the next performance, I'll have to ask you to turn in your uniform."

"The next time the U.S. cavalry chases the Indians away, would you mind going down to my son—he's the little boy in the front row—and tell him that you're a policeman and if he doesn't go home now you'll have to put him in jail? I'll be waiting in the lounge."

"Pod'n me, young man, but would you please tell the gen'lman seated next to me to keep his hands to himself—that is, if he don't want to end up with a bloody nose from having this shopping bag bopped in his face?"

CAUGHT NECKERS

"Melvin caught three young couples necking in the balcony last week. He asked for a raise, but instead the management gave him an 0ak leaf cluster to his good conduct medal."

"I just necked—and out they flew. Let me have your flashlight. I'll find it down there. They couldn't have gone much more than three or four rows."

"Who said my job was boring? So what if I was! Why don't you show pictures that keep people awake instead of putting them to sleep?"

"There are nice seats. Thanks, sonny, and here's a dime for yourself. Remember, don't spend it all on one girl."

YM-YW BUY RINK

OTTAWA (CP) — The YMCA and YWCA formally completed Tuesday the purchase of the Ottawa auditorium, the city's only big indoor hockey rink. Selling price was $313,000. The combined organizations announced they would continue to operate the rink as an entertainment and hockey centre for three years. They hope then to raze the sprawling structure and erect a $5,000,000 building on the site.

Despite Loss of Eye, Actor Riding the Crest in Movies

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "Of course you won't be able to do any movies or TV, so you can just forget about that," the agent told the young actor.

That was the first indication Peter Falk had that the loss of one eye might be a drawback in his acting career.

Now he is riding the crest of an Academy Award nomination and a series of topnotch TV portrayals. He has little time to recall the baleful advice the agent gave him six years ago.

Falk, who was nominated for his electrifying performances in Murder, Inc., now is playing a lead role in Pocketful of Miracles. He talked about his eye reluctantly, not because he is sensitive about it, but because he doesn't think it's important.

LIVED WITH IT

"I lost the eye when I was three; it had to be removed because of a growth. When something like that happens early, you live with it, that's all. It was a joke of the neighborhood (in Ossining, N.Y.). If the umpire ruled me out on a bum call, I'd take the glass eye out and hand it to him.

"I never thought for a minute that it would hold me back as an actor."

Falk worked his way up through the TV and off-Broadway jungles, scoring big for the first time in The Iceman Cometh. "I was on stage for five hours; they couldn't ignore me."

There's no reason why his eyes should be a problem in pictures," said Bette Davis, an enthusiast of his. "After all, they photographed one side of Claudette Colbert for 20 years." (Miss Colbert, who is pretty on both sides, insisted one was more photogenic.)

AT THE PARK — Happy things occur when four U.S. sailors take over a geisha house in William Castle' "Cry for Happy". Glenn Ford and Donald O'Connor, left, star in the Columbia release which co-stars Mikko Taka (behind Ford), James Shigeta and Miyoshi Umeki in CinemaScope and Eastman color opening Thursday for its first Belleville showing. On the same program "Gun Fury", in Technicolor, starring Rock Hudson and Donna Reed.

AT THE McCARTHY — Voluptuous Sophia Loren as the rich girl and Peter Sellers as the poor physician who tries to avoid marriage in "The Millionairess, Penny-Wise" in CinemaScope Deluxe Color comedy presentation opening today at the Odeon McCarthy Theatre.

WRECKED—

Parker gave the previous high sentence in modern times of 25 years last March to Gordon Lonsdale, a Soviet spy who masterminded a ring of four other agents in the naval secrets to the Russians.

Prior to Lonsdale, the stiffest sentence in peacetime in British spy annals was handed to atomic spy Klaus Fuchs, a German-born British subject who worked during the war in atomic establishments in Chalk River, Ont., and Los Alamos, N.M. He was sentenced to 14 years and was released in 1959 after serving nine years.

The justice said Blake's conduct "in many other countries would undoubtedly carry the death penalty."

GRAVE CASE

"Your case is one of the worst that can be envisaged in times of peace," he told Blake.

Blake was imprisoned for 14 years on each of five counts of spying during the period from November, 1951, to September, 1953. Three of the sentences to run consecutively and two concurrently.

The specific sentence of 42 years was harsher than a life term which, by custom, means 20 years of which 14 are normally served.

The chief justice said it was not for money that Blake betrayed a Soviet agent but "because of your convictions, your genuine belief in the Communist system."

Justice Parker noted that Blake is "a British subject, albeit his ma and pa were Dutch." He did not reveal the defendant's birthplace.

"Your case is akin to treason," the judge declared. "Espionage is treason."

Blake, dark haired and dressed in a charcoal grey suit, was apparently calm to the end when the sentence was imposed. He then turned with a faint smile on his face to wave to his wife.

Blake, who joined the government in 1948 and served both in Britain and abroad, confessed. There was not a shred of disagreement of any importance to which I had access which was not passed to my Soviet contact."

Britain's attorney-general, Sir Reginald Manning-Sadler, said Blake had "access and to information of very great importance."

Manningham-Sadler told the court that Blake's crimes was "even graver" than those of the five spies convicted in March.

Manningham - Buller said, "Blake betrayed a job "fortunately did not give him access to information relating to secret weapons, secret new nuclear weapons, but he has nevertheless done most serious damage to the interests of this country."

Blake "had been working as an agent for the Russians, spying on them and communicating a mass of information to them."

EVIDENCE IN SECRET

After Blake's plea and Manningham-Buller's opening state, Parker ordered the public and courtroom of spectators to hear testimony in secret.

The attorney-general said Blake furnished the Russians with "a mass of information." So secret that "I can tell your lordship little about it in open court." Preliminary hearings for Blake also had been held behind closed doors.

Manningham - Buller said Blake served in the Royal Navy from 1943 to 1946, when he took a government job and performed valuable service "in this country—and overseas."

The prosecutor said Blake approached the Russians and volunteered to work for them.

Find Gambling In Parish Hall

TORONTO (CP) — Police Tuesday night charged 70 persons as found-ins and three men with gambling following a raid on the west-end parish hall of St. Mary of the Angels Roman Catholic church.

Police said the hall had been rented for a stag for a man getting married this month. They said church officials were unaware liquor was being consumed and gambling taking place in the hall.

Charged jointly with keeping a common gaming house, selling liquor illegally and keeping liquor for sale were Dominic Stocco, 26, Carl Surignan, 24, and Sando Angotti, 25.

GET TWO YEARS

TORONTO (CP) — Norman Henderson, 29, and Eric Layzac, were each sentenced Tuesday to three years in penitentiary for robbing Mrs. Alberta Jackson of a $2,437 payroll March 10. They were arrested a few hours following the holdup. Police recovered about $1,194 of the loot.

Temporary Jobs for Students In Universities Will Be Hard to Find This Summer

By ROBERT RICE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

For many Canadian university students, temporary jobs will be hard to find this summer.

A Cross-Canada Survey by The Canadian Press found that students with special skills, engineers approaching graduation, business administration students, foresters, some medical students — have the best chance of getting a good summer job.

For the rest, the odds are against them, depending on what they want to do, how hard up they are, how far they want to go for jobs.

Almost every university has some sort of agency trying to round up summer employment, and almost every agency reports trouble.

WORST SINCE '35

"It's extremely rough," says Stirling Dorrance, a spokesman at St. Mary's University, Halifax.

"Uncertain at present," says Emile Simard, director of the National Employment Service at Laval University, Quebec City.

"Tougher and tougher," says an employment official at the University of Manitoba.

"The poorest year for summer jobs since 1935," says placement director Larry Isabelle.

On the west coast, John F. McLean, director of the personnel service at the University of British Columbia, says job competition is getting tighter.

Some university placement officers point to the economic picture as a basic reason for the job problem.

Michael Anozol, a national employment officer working with Montreal students, says many employers aren't committing themselves yet—partly because of business uncertainty, partly because of the weather.

P.E.I. DESPERATE

But Rev. E. J. Roche, registrar at St. Dunstan's University, Charlottetown, says the job picture on Prince Edward Island is always desperate.

"Students seeking employment have to leave the island and seek jobs in New Brunswick or Nova Scotia. Some find jobs but many return without any luck."

For many, a summer job spells the difference between returning to university in the fall and quitting altogether, says B. G. Wells, placement officer at the University of Western Ontario. Even some who do find work may not earn enough money to get through another year.

Engineers heading into the north can earn up to $500 a month—with nowhere to spend it until they return to class.

For some 1,200 who find employment at a railway resort hotels in the Rockies, the pay is between $80 and $100 a month with room and board provided. This tallies the amount considerably.

At the University of Toronto, students are encouraged to try for jobs associated with courses they are taking. The trend, says J. K. Bradford, director of placement, is away from menial work such as ditch-digging.

Most Toronto students have a chance to take on selling jobs on commission but they're unattractive because "the person pay takes no risk on a straight commission basis," Mr. Bradford says.

"We usually get a lot of these jobs offered, especially when the economic climate is like it is today. These firms have the impression that students will accept the jobs because they are finding it rough to get better jobs."

George Beck, placement officer at Dalhousie University, Halifax, says more jobs are open in the hotel and resort field than in any other single field."

Forestry students at the University of New Brunswick have good chances of getting work in their field, particularly those in third or fourth years. Freshmen foresters aren't as fortunate.

In Quebec, the provincial government has a special committee working with students seeking government jobs for the summer. About 2,000 jobs are open—600 of them in forest camps. Basic pay ranges from $150 to $300 a month.

Up to 30 third-year medical students at Laval University, their summer work is far afield —in Ceylon and Southeast Asia. They are going there as part of Canada Overseas Medico, a charitable scheme. The federal government pays their fare and the provincial government puts up $300 a month to cover living expenses.

A few medical students at McGill are heading north instead of abroad—as first-aid men in construction and lumber camps.

Out west, engineers have the best hopes of landing vacation employment. Job opportunities in general have improved for students, says one Winnipeg official of the National Employment Service.

He calls it a "matter of prime concern," with more than 10,000 Prairie students registered for work-at-last.

At Saskatoon, Bill Fayder of the National Employment Service says employment prospects are favorable for University of Saskatchewan graduates but not as good for undergrads seeking temporary jobs.

At the University of Alberta, some 2,000 students have signed up for summer jobs and only about one-quarter of them may get work. Best prospects appear to be as clerks and salesmen in stores.

In Vancouver, there are 33 jobs for students as playground supervisors, more as caddies on golf courses. Again the engineering students have the best chances—some have gone into the Peace River country at $400 a month.

Students in the humanities and medicine have a chance to fill some 200 summer openings at the provincial mental hospital at Essondale, near Vancouver.

Alphonse Awaiting End Of Congo's Independence

By PETER GROSE

LEOPOLDVILLE (AP)—One of the stories going the rounds of Leopoldville's cafes concerns Alphonse, a Congolese houseboy struggling to support his wife and five children, slaving to his white employer.

"Oh, patron, when is the 'Independence' going to end?"

The bemused employer, catchword "Independence" once brought hope of a better, carefree life. By now the word means unemployment, insecurity and frustration.

After nine months in the dream world of independence, Congolese in Leopoldville realize the austere and unexpected responsibilities they assumed when they insisted on managing their own country.

Only gradually is this once wealthy capital running down. Some of the outlying provinces are in chaos but Leopoldville's daily life retains its hot and sleepy routine.

PRICES HIGH

One by one, stores in the European city are closing because of lack of things to sell as well as lack of people with money to buy them. A half-dozen supermarkets are still crowded with Congolese and European buyers but the shelves are emptying. Prices are creeping up as difficulties of importing—and paying for the imports—increase.

A familiar brand of American corn flakes is 28 francs (46 cents). A can of chicken soup is 15 francs (24 cents). Six small apples in a plastic bag sell for 42 francs (68 cents).

Prices like these are far beyond the reach of Congolese workers. Alphonse, the Negro houseboy, earns $44 a month and is doing well compared with his neighbors. He has five children. Monthly rental on a tin-roofed, three-room brick hut is $16.

Many newer houses are going vacant because people can't afford the rents.

"GOOD-FEELING, BUT"

Only in the quiet of their own little homes are the Negroes expressing doubts about whether it has been worthwhile.

"Things aren't going very well," a Congolese "skilled-tool worker told a white visitor.

There are so many things I don't know how to do. We have our independence and that's a good thing, I know. But I am in charge of the business and the white 'patron' is no longer here to help me. . . . If only the white people had taught us how to do things before you left."

SHIP FIRED

WINDSOR (CP) — Two tug boats pulled the German freighter Cornelie Schulte from a limestone dock in the Detroit River Monday night. The ship went aground Sunday after hitting an old lighthouse a planning officer. The Schulte proceeded under her own power to River Rouge, Mich., for minor repairs.

BREAKS ZONING LAW

TORONTO (CP)—The Ontario Court of Appeal ruled Monday that a nursery operated by Mrs. Molly Bloom of suburban Etobicoke is a commercial enterprise and violates the township's zoning regulations. The township had appealed after a criminal conviction—and a $300 fine with a 15-month suspension option—was upset in weekly court on an appeal by Mrs. Steiner.

Hangchow Plays Star Role As China Tries to Regain Position as Silk Producer

Clare McDermott, Edmonton Journal newspaper man who now is Reuters correspondent in Peking, recently completed a 2,500-mile tour of eastern and southeastern China. In this story, second of three, he tells of the role played by Hangchow in helping China to regain its historic position as the world's biggest silk producer.

By CLARE McDERMOTT

HANGCHOW (Reuters)—This picturesque resort city of Hangchow is playing a leading role in China's campaign to regain its historic position as the world's biggest silk producer.

Thousands of skilled artists, designers, weavers and machine - leaders are working in small street workshops or modern factories here to produce vividly-colored Hangchow brocades, satins and sheer fabrics for exports to all parts of the world.

China's silk industry today, as in centuries past, is centred in the Tai Hu Lake basin, which stretches from Nanking south to Hangchow and surrounds the great port of Shanghai.

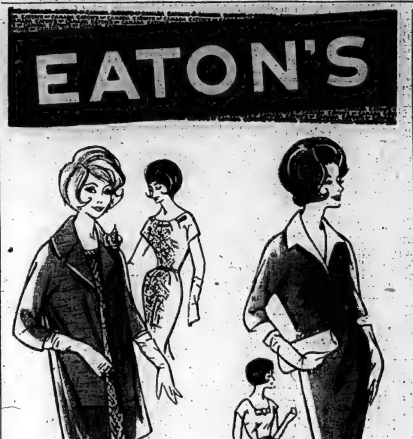
Peasant households and people's communes in this region tend mulberry trees and raise the tiny silkworms to produce cocoons of the fine thread which, even in this age of man-made fibres, makes the most luxurious fabrics.

Pure silk fabrics are available in some stores, but at prices which put them out of reach of most families, except for special occasions. Nor are the cheaper mixtures of silk and rayon available.

When silks are available to foreigners in Peking stores, they usually cost more than they would if bought in Hong Kong after being exported from China.

As in ancient times, when caravans carried the precious fabric over the "silk road" of central Asia to adorn the nobles of the Mediterranean and European countries, the export of silk is a valuable business for China.

In 1958, officials and workers in the silk industry announced their determination to make China the world's leading producer again by 1962. This meant increasing silk production by five or six times to exceed Japan's output.



The People's Daily, the Communist party organ, stressed the value of this export trade in terms easily recognizable to the Chinese people of today. It said that silk exports during the first five-year plan (1953 - 57) were sufficient to pay for 5,000,000 tons of steel or 10,370,000 tons of chemical fertilizer.

Communist press reports say that production declined from the peak in 1931 until 1949, when fi was only one-seventh of the 1931 total. The Communists have made a big effort to restore the industry, and claim that by 1957, they had doubled the output of silkworm cocoons and produced 3.7 times as much silk fabric as in 1949.

Millions of new mulberry trees have been planted in many parts of the country to feed silkworms. Chekiang province, of which Hangchow is the capital, has built 25,000 new silkworm rearing sheds.

The Soviet Union is China's biggest customer for silk while Italy and France are big importers of fabrics, yarns and silk wastes.

Defiant Negroes Plan Protest In South Africa

Raids Will Not Stop Anti-Republic Strike

JOHANNESBURG (AP)—Defiant Negro leaders vowed today to press on with their plans for country-wide demonstrations against the new South African republic despite widespread raids by 1,000 police.

Nelson Mandela, honorary secretary of the All In Africa National Council, called the raids "unwarranted interference" and said word was going around for all non-whites to redouble their efforts to make the demonstrations a success.

Mandela's organization has called a three-day strike beginning May 29, two days before South Africa becomes a republic, and non-violent gatherings protesting the denial of political rights to the non-white majority.

The aim is to bring industry and public services to a standstill and stir up public resentment against Prime Minister Hendrik F. Verwoerd's white supremacy government.

Police said 1,000 non-whites are voteless; and had no say in the referendum last year which voted 52 per cent to 48 per cent for the republic.

Sabotage fires also swept wide police sweep Wednesday mounting tension and anxiety were reported from Durban, Capetown, Pretoria and areas around Johannesburg, the large non-white populations.

The government insisted that the strike call was a failure and there were only in furtherance of "investigation of various forms of crime" and "intimidated crimes." But the raiders concentrated on persons and premises known to be members of anti-government groups, and the apparent aim was to search for the detailed plans for the demonstrations at the end of the month.

The South African Press Association reported no political prisoners had been held, although several persons were picked up for non-political offences.

Both white and non-white political leaders opposed to the republic have protested the raids as intimidation.

Peter Brown, Liberal party national chairman, said the police raids were "a grim reminder of the days before and during the last war when the methods of violence and bloodshed of Hitler's Nazis, that started with a police massacre of Negroes at Sharpeville.

Harry Lawrence, Progressive party leader in Parliament and former cabinet minister, said that "Law and order must be preserved, but Progressives cannot regard these measures as giving our own members suffer the indignity and intimidation of pre-dawn police raids."

Toronto Pastor And Wife Beaten In Their Home

TORONTO (CP) — A United Church clergyman and his wife were beaten and robbed in their home early today.

Rev. Raymond Hord, 56, jumped from his hospital bed later he could think of no reason for the attack except for some strong language he has used against those opposing the teaching of religious education in Ontario schools.

However, his wife, who was not mashandled as badly, said she thought it was a case of mistaken identity.

The intruders, who knocked on the front door of the Hord home in suburban Masholeski, gave them no reason for the mauling.

Apparently nothing was taken from the house.

CITY OFF GUARD

The minister, with Royal York United Church, was taken to hospital with fractured skull.

His wife was kicked in the face several times by one of the men when she went to the aid of other dealt with her husband. She was also taken to hospital.

Mr. Hord said he believed the man who held him carried a blackjack in one hand and a knife in the other.

The attack occurred at about 1:00 a.m.

Mr. Hord got considerable publicity in the controversial school-religion issue last February when he was quoted as saying the main objective of religious school education are Unitarian, non-denominational and some Jews.

He said today he received a large quantity of mail as a result, but no threats.

However, he said, "the religious education matter is the only motive I can think of for this."

But Mrs. Hord said she felt the beating could be a case of mistaken identity since they lived in a home identical to that of the next-door neighbor who had appeared as a witness in a burglary case.

Mrs. Robert M. Johnson, who lives next door, said neither she nor her husband had been threatened as the result of the burglary case.

Two Teachers Die in Flaming Wreck of Auto

SMITHS FALLS (CP) — Two women schoolteachers were killed today in the flaming collision of a car and a bus on Highway 29 near this town 45 miles southwest of Ottawa.

The victims were two elderly sisters, Miss Harriet Cannon, 68, and Miss Pearl Cannon, 65, both of nearby Jasper, who were driving from their home to a school.

The crash occurred at a spot where a long road joins the highway. The oil truck burst into flames.

Garnet Sands, 33, driver of the truck, and his three-year-old son, Gerard, Jr., were taken to hospital in Kingston with severe burns.

RAIL PRESIDENTS TO MEET UNIONS ON WAGE ISSUE

Both Sides Trying To Avert Walkout

MONTREAL (CP) — The presidents of the CNR and CPR will meet top negotiators for the coo-operating rail unions this afternoon in renewed attempts by both sides to avert a country-wide rail strike May 16, it was learned today.

The talks will be private and it was not yet known where in Montreal they will take place.

Representing the railways will be CPR President N. R. Crump and CNR President Donald Gordon; for the 15 non-op unions, chief negotiator Frank Hall, and George Hutton, secretary of the joint negotiating committee.

The ground for further talks was prepared Wednesday when the unions' 15-man joint negotiating committee announced it had agreed to resume negotiations tomorrow (Monday).

Sources on both sides were officially pessimistic about the chances for settlement.

In a telegram to Labor Minister Starr announcing that the unions were willing to resume talks, the labor leaders pointedly added that it was "in deference" to Mr. Starr.

The telegram also reasserted the unions' "unequivocal" stand on earlier wage demands for the 11,000 conductors, brakemen and yardmen — all those not currently engaged in operating trains.

APPEAR DEADLOCKED

Since the unions have not changed their wage demands for railwers, according to Mr. Hall, there appears little chance that highly secret talks last week, which many observers saw as hopefully boosted as it was nearly 48 months ago when the last settlement was made.

Since that time there has been a three-month conciliation board hearing, a conciliation board report, a called strike, a cooling-off period and a report by a royal commission on transportation but the basic situation has hardly changed.

Briefly, the unions want the 70-hour week over a two-year period. The railways say—and privately admit—they cannot afford any increase.

At the moment the only area of agreement appears to be in both sides' desire to see a three-year agreement rather than the one-year deal which would mean going back into negotiation next November.

Parliament At a Glance

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS
Wednesday, May 2, 1961

Trade Minister Hees, speaking in the Commons on his department's spending estimates, warned that Japanese and Western European exports are displacing Canadian goods on world markets in "increasing quantities."

The first progress report of the royal commission on government organization — outlining plans for streamlining government services that perhaps could be performed better by private enterprise — was tabled by Prime Minister Diefenbaker.

Senator David Croll (L—Ontario) accused the government of trying to establish "backdoor protectionism" for Canadian manufacturers by secret and arbitrary revisions in the tariff structure.

Thursday, May 4

The Commons meets at 11 a.m. for general debate on trade department estimates; the Senate meets at 3 p.m.

Neutralist Laotian Prince Tries to Organize New Govt.

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP)—With an end of the fighting apparently in sight, Prince Souvanna Phouma today assumed the dominant role in the formation of a new government.

The 60-year-old neutralist recognized by the Communists as the legal premier of Laos called a conference of the kingdom's political leaders for Friday as both sides went ahead to put into effect a cease-fire in the civil war.

Prince Boun Oum's government did not immediately accept Souvanna Phouma's proposal for parley at the village of San Namone, in the mountains land some 35 miles north of Vientiane. But the regime's strongman, and deputy premier, Phoumi Nosavan, said a report by Souvanna's half brother, Prince Soupanouvong, that they will discuss Laotian problems before he expects political meetings will begin before the end of the week.

The political parley will try to work out a formula for a new coalition government representing Phoumi's right - wing forces, Souvanna's neutral supporters and the pro - Communist Pathet Lao rebels headed by Souvanna's half brother. Prince Soupanouvong. They will discuss Laotian problems before he expects political meetings will begin before the end of the week.

The political parley will try to work out a formula for a new coalition government representing Phoumi's right - wing forces, Souvanna's neutral supporters and the pro - Communist Pathet Lao rebels headed by Souvanna's half brother, Prince Soupanouvong.

"Now we really have to go to peace, and it's not going to be easy," said one Western diplomat.

Boun Oum, easy-going 37-year-old premier backed by the Western bloc, has agreed to the step aside in the interests of peace. Gen. Nosavan, a staunch anti-Communist, has opposed Souvanna because of his collaboration with the Reds, but his bargaining position has been considerable lessened by the reverses his troops have suffered in recent months.

Grain Deal May Gain China Canadian Support in UN

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada's big grain deal with Communist China may influence Ottawa's factors taken into account in Canada's diplomatic recognition of Red China and its entry to the United Nations, External Affairs Minister Green said Wednesday.

He was asked in the Commons external affairs committee by Paul Martin (L—Essex East) whether there is any connection between the grain sale and the current study of the external affairs department of the basis for recognition of Russia and Chinese entry to the UN.

Mr. Green said all such matters were "under consideration" and the government was looking at the whole picture.

The minister declined to be drawn out further, especially about what attitude Canada will take at the next session of the UN General Assembly when, as expected, the issue of China's membership will come up again.

The minister said that possibly developments would affect Canada's attitude in connection with Red China.

This was taken as a reference to China's role in the Geneva international conference on Laos scheduled to open at Geneva May 12.

The other main subject discussed in the committee was Canadian membership in the Organization of American States.

GRIT SENATORS LAUNCH BITTER TARIFF ATTACK

Will Try to Kill Provision in Act

OTTAWA (CP) — An all-out attack was mounted Wednesday by opposition Liberal senators against the government's tariff legislation.

"Back - door protectionism," said Senator David Croll (L—Ontario).

"Autocratic and undesirable isolationism," said Senator Norman Lambert, another Ontario Liberal.

They spoke in the Senate while Trade Minister Hees in the Commons was urging Canadian businessmen to get to work and compete with foreign producers in world markets.

The Liberal Opposition in the Senate — outnumbering government supporters by more than two to one — is expected to serve notice of its intent to try to kill a provision in the tariff legislation that gives the national revenue minister final decision on certain tariff matters affecting imports of a kind or class made in Canada.

The measure survived a stormy passage in the Commons, but it is facing a heavy weather in the Senate now.

CALLS FOR ATTACK

Senator Croll urged all Liberal senators to concentrate their attack on the provisions that permit: "the minister to make secret and arbitrary revisions in the tariff, which can only mean legislative destruction of our protective tariff."

Lionel Choquette (PC—Ontario), who introduced the bill in the Senate for a Father Lou minister, said Senator Croll "did not know what he was talking about" under the Customs Act the Customs Tariff and the Excise Act there is 46 sections under which the minister can give a final decision — 62 of them on the statute books when the Liberals were in power.

Senator Croll said he was aware of them, but that they involved matters of no consequence.

"Ours is a crime and the other fellow's is a virtue," said Senator Choquette.

Meanwhile, in the Commons, Mr. Hees warned that Japanese and Western European products are displacing Canadian goods on world markets in increasing quantities.

WILLING TO WORK?

"Surely we are willing to work as hard as they are willing to work, are just as smart, as the people of Western Europe who have been responsible for their own bootstrap in such spectacular fashion," he said.

He spoke as the Commons resumed debate on the trade department's spending estimates for the fiscal year that began April 1.

"We must do things a whole lot differently than we are doing them now if we are going to successfully to meet and overcome that competition," said Mr. Hees.

He said management, labor and government must work together to bring costs down, improve quality and move sales up.

Ike Believes Cuban Invasion Poorly Planned

Kennedy Is Fallen Hero To Most Ardent Backers

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gen. Eisenhower was represented today as believing that inadequate military planning contributed to the Cuban invasion failure.

The former president, who has given his backing to President Kennedy in the Cuban and Laotian crises, was reported to have criticized the invasion in decisions Monday with Republican leaders at Gettysburg, Pa., the military tactics involved in the invading Cuban rebel forces.

Without attempting to assess any blame, Eisenhower was quoted as wondering if the joint chiefs of staff had been consulted in any detail about the mounting of the invasion.

He was reported to have expressed the view that most of the heavy military equipment was landed in the single Second World War freighter known as a Liberty ship that could hardly withstand any shore battery fire or aerial attack. He is reported to have said that a light vessel is advisable to him.

Eisenhower was representative as feeling that anybody who had studied the battle of Gallipoli would have foreseen the advance that it would be almost impossible to make the kind of landing that was attempted.

In 1915 the Allies attempted landings in the Gallipoli region in an attempt to seize the Dardanelles, but were repulsed with heavy losses after months of fighting.

The former president was said to have made it clear he was speaking from a military standpoint only. He is known to have told the Republicans he feels they generally would criticize Kennedy in the grave crises in the world today.

Some of the leaders said it was Eisenhower's view that whatever happened the United States should avoid acting alone if it is up to it to solve any crisis. They quoted him as favoring co-operation with allies.

Eisenhower's views indicate that much of the military equipment was lost when the freighter ship coincided with information pleced together by a U.S. official in the days immediately following the mid-April invasion. This was the view of sources, it was reported then that the 1,200 men who would become the invasion force would be supported by the United States and went to Guatemala for training.

In March, the sources said, the Guatemalan government ordered a sharp increase in the force it would have the country soon. This impeded the invasion, it was reported then that the 1,200 men who would become the invasion force would be supported by the United States and went to Guatemala for training.

The situation in Guatemala was said to be a very important element in persuading the joint chiefs of staff and defense department officials to go along with the invasion. It was reported that there was some reservation in high quarters in Washington as to whether the force was adequate.

The Cuban revolutionary leaders confidently expected their plan would set off defections in the Cuban armed forces. Those armed forces and result in popular uprisings. That never happened.

Mirror, Letters in Snow Save Four Airmen Downed Near Pole

URANIUM CITY, Sask. (CP) — Letters 30-feet high stamped in the snow and a flashing signal mirror saved four men who crashed in the Canso flying-boat after 700 miles of the North Pole Saturday.

They were picked up by a S-55 Sikorsky helicopter Monday after spending 37 hours on the ice of Lake Athabaska.

Pilot Bert Burry, 35, of Uranium City, owner of the aircraft in which he and 50 injured Wednesday in an explosion at Belgium's Belgium factory in a private home. At least three more persons are missing.

Authorities say it was impossible to determine exactly how many died in the blast because some bodies were blown to bits. Five children were known to be among the dead.

The explosion apparently was touched off, firemen said, by a leaking kitchen gas which ignited when a stove was turned on at breakfast time.

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP)—At least 27 persons were reported killed and 50 injured Wednesday in an explosion at Belgium's Belgium factory in a private home. At least three more persons are missing.

Authorities say it was impossible to determine exactly how many died in the blast because some bodies were blown to bits. Five children were known to be among the dead.

Ike Believes Cuban Invasion Poorly Planned

Kennedy Is Fallen Hero To Most Ardent Backers

WASHINGTON (AP) — A political storm that swept out of the shattered Cuban invasion attempt is battering President Kennedy with the most prolonged and bitter criticism of his career.

Even among his most ardent supporters the troubled Democrat is beginning to show evidence of a fallen hero.

Newspaper columnists who showered him with praise and affection during his hectic presidential election campaign now are demanding to know what went on in the president's mind before he approved the ill-fated venture.

"The record is growing," says columnist Doris Fleeson in the Washington Star. "How the president came to make his fatally hungriest cannot long be secret."

IN TROUBLE

"President Kennedy is in trouble," says columnist Columnist Walter Lippman in a Cuban discussion comparing the Caribbean disaster to Britain's 1956 debacle in attempts to take over the Suez Canal.

Democrats in Congress add their lament. Senator J. William Fulbright, chairman of the Senate foreign relations committee, said the whole operation was a blunder in which the White House must share blame with the intelligence departments.

He quoted State Secretary Dean Rusk as saying the United States suffered a disaster in Cuba and then stiffened only

FAILED TO REMAIN AT MISHAP SCENE, PAYS $100 FINE

A 19-year-old airman, John Edward Grummitt of RCAF Station Trenton, today was fined $100 in county magistrate's court when he pleaded guilty to failing to remain at the scene of an accident April 16.

O.P.P. Constable Warren House testified that Grummitt's uninsured car sideswiped a car driven by Rose May Ellis of Belleville on Highway 2 at the east end of the air station and then drove off. Several hours after the accident was reported Const. House found Grummitt's car in a ditch at Bayside. He said Grummitt admitted being the driver of the car.

The Quinte Naval Veterans' Association will be meeting this evening to make arrangements for the members and the naval veterans who would like to attend the seventh annual Naval Memorial reunion which is to be held this year in Brantford on May 21st and 22nd. The meeting is being held in the Army, Navy and Air Force Veterans' Association Hall on Front Street this evening at eight. All Navy veterans are welcomed to attend.

THIRD POLIO SHOT WILL BE GIVEN AT HEALTH CLINIC

The Belleville Department of Health will hold an evening immunization clinic May 11th, where adults who have previously received two polio shots may receive their third shot. Time for the clinic is from 7:30 to 9:30.

Dr. McColl Metcalfe, medical health officer, and the Belleville Department of Health strongly advise immunization to guard against crippling and often fatal polio. Salk vaccine has proved its worth. For 1960 up to April 9th, 70 cases of paralytic polio were reported in all Canada. For the same period in 1961 only 13 cases were reported.

CHILDREN'S JUDO CLUB DOES WELL AT TOURNAMENT

This past Saturday a number of members of the Belleville YMCA Hasashita Judo Club took part in the second annual Children's Judo Tournament sponsored by the Wilson Heights Club of Toronto.

Taking part in the individual events and competing were: Bill Carswell, Wayne Furney, Gary May, Ian Marshall, Keith Prindle, Dave Hall, Glenn Cole, Ron McIntyre, Bob McIntyre, Kirk Lapierre, Richard Seeley and Mike Connelly.

The boys were accompanied by Sensei Eaton and Sensei Donnell.

Senior Citizens Enjoy Splendid Varied Program

The regular monthly meeting of the Belleville Senior Citizens' Club was held on Wednesday evening in the recreation room on Pinnacle St.

The meeting was opened by the president, Mr. Harry Scales with the National Anthem, Mrs. Shirley at the piano, followed by birthday greetings to all those members who would be celebrating birthdays during the month of May.

The ever faithful secretary, Mrs. M. Drummond, read the minutes of the previous meeting, which were unanimously adopted. Mrs. Scales reported a number of members being ill, two of whom are confined to hospital.

The meeting was then turned over to Mrs. L. Adams, the chairlady of the entertainment committee, who presented a most interesting program, under the direction of Miss Gail Henricks and fifteen of her pupils from the Gail Henricks School of Dance. A large number of people, both old and young, young girls and one boy, were also present as visitors.

The program consisted of the following numbers: Tap dance by Mary Elizabeth Young, Joel Henricks and Betty Bannon. Baton duet by Wendy Drummond and Marie Merritt. Sweet and Low by Lynn Doyle. Dance by eight numbers by six young ladies, The Belleville Geysites. Singing Tea Cups by Carole Pope. Miss Perky, by Debbie Kelly.

Mrs. Chapman and her pupils were enthusiastically applauded by all.

At the conclusion of this excellent entertainment, all members enjoyed a period of penny bingo under the direction of Mrs. Hazel Doyle. The overall prize was won by Mrs. Frank Beddoe. The next meeting of a basket of fruit was won by Mrs. G. Giel.

The meeting closed in the usual manner, after having accepted an invitation to visit the Kingston club in the near future.

Square Dance Members Attend District Convention

This gala event took place over the weekend at the Royal York Hotel in Toronto and over 1800 dancers in attendance.

Those attending from Belleville were: Messrs. Jeanne Hall, Dorothy Shedden, Ann Gail Ellis; Messrs. Dean Pond and Manson Jones; Mr. and Mrs. Norman Hall; Mr. and Mrs. Merrill Gordon; Dr. and Mrs. Paul Foster and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Williamson.

The attractive year system of stocking will include lakes all across the district, interspersed with native alternates. By this method no large blocks of lakes will be left out of the picture from year to year.

The system is designed principally to permit anglers to reflect a more thorough harvest of hatchery stocked trout before the hatchery loading is made. It will also give anglers the opportunity of fishing for two year old fish in these lakes rather than having to contend with the smaller one year olds, normally stocked in all of these lakes every year.

Rainbow plantings are also increased this year with a number of new introductions. These will be shown in the 1961 fish stocking list. There will be no Brown trout plantings made this year because of the shortage of hatchery stock. Angling returns on this species is low possibly because of the wariness of this fish. It is expected that stock will be available in 1962 to stock a limited number of the waters that have produced the best returns to anglers over the past years.

Anglers are again requested to submit trout catches from the various district lakes on the form provided soon on the 1960 fish planting list. This form need not be submitted until the 1961 fishing season for trout ends in the autumn.

Those who submit this completed form will automatically receive a copy of our 1961 planting list.

These completed forms are of considerable value to the Department of Lands and Forests personnel engaged in the task of managing the sports fishery.

This summer the community swimming pool on Dundas Street is to receive a complete new fence-lifting for the coming season. The new protective unit is taking office in September.

One of Ferries In Drydock For Repairs

One ferry, instead of two, will cope with motor traffic on Highway 33 between Glenora, near Picton, and Adolphustown, on the Bay of Quinte, until May 15, it is announced by the Department of Highways. Only one of the Quinte Loyalist", the larger of the two ferries provided as the regular service for transportation between the two points, is in drydock at Kingston for its regular overhaul.

Motorists, who fear a delay in the morning rush period can, of course, travel to or from any point in Prince Edward County on the Provincial King's Highway routes. One way is via Highway 14, which just south of Belleville, crosses the Bay of Quinte over a causeway. The other is via Highway 33 which crosses Highway 2 at Trenton and then skirts the western end of the Bay of Quinte.

Registration of all ferries operating by the Department of Highways Ontario, as well as all others in Canada, is the function of the Federal Department of Transport. Marine Inspectors from that department examined the "Quinte Loyalist" in drydock at Kingston this week and they found that the winter had taken more than its normal toll. As a result the repairs will take longer than in other years.

This year the department will provide a higher level of ferry service than ever before between Glenora and Adolphustown. Beginning on or about May 15 both ferries will operate through til 11 p.m. until mid-October. In previous years only one ferry has been in service after 8 p.m. Under the "Quinte Loyalist" will operate on a 24-hour basis from mid-May to mid-October.

Fish Planting Program Now In Progress

By R. E. WHITFIELD

The 1961 fish planting program is now in progress. The plantings presently are confined to the southern part of the district because of ice conditions in the northern waters.

The first planting recently at sixty lake trout lakes will be stocked with brook trout and forests While Lake Hatchery.

Alternate year stocking in some localities will continue since this year. This means that most of the lakes under stocking management will receive plantings every other year rather than on an annual basis as in previous years.

The alternate year system of stocking will include lakes all across the district, interspersed with native alternates. By this method no large blocks of lakes will be left out of the picture from year to year.

The system is designed principally to permit anglers to reflect a more thorough harvest of hatchery stocked trout before the hatchery loading is made. Careless Driving Charge Brings Fine of $100

William Stuart Stanley of Trenton, today was fined $100 and his driver's license suspended for three months when he pleaded guilty in county magistrate's court to a charge of careless driving.

Stanley was charged following a two-car crash early April 16 at the intersection of Highway 14 and a county road, just north of Highway 401.

Miss Joanne Vandervoort of Stirling, a passenger in one of the cars, was critically injured and died in the Belleville General Hospital about a week after the accident. Five persons in the other car were injured.

OPP Constable Ivan Tinkess, who investigated the accident, said Stanley's car was westbound on the county road and failed to stop before crossing the highway. He positioned car driven by Alex Fleming, of Springbrook, crashed into it at the intersection.

Constable Tinkess said both cars apparently were travelling at "normal" highway speeds at the time the crash involved.

Magistrate T. Y. Wills said Stanley was guilty of momentary negligence by not stopping at the highway.

Const. Tinkness said Stanley was accompanied by a woman companion and that the other occupants of the car were young married couples.

The magistrate said he believed the negligence on Stanley's part was not by intention to the grave damage which resulted. However, he pointed out it only takes a split second for a serious accident to occur.

With the love we cared we suffered too.
For you never seemed what you went through.
So you have a father and mother in Heaven
Cherish them with care;
Now you're home at heartache,
Until you see their vacant chair.

Diefenbaker To Speak on Civil Defence

Prime Minister, John G. Diefenbaker, and many provincial premiers will be heard in a radio broadcast of national interest Friday, 11.00 a.m. on all Canadian stations.

The program is designed to inform the public of emergency planning for civil defence and it will emphasize the importance of individual Canadians learning personal survival methods.

It will coincide with and be titled "Exercise Tocsin 1961".

It will consist of a national and a provincial portion. Taking part in the national portion, Taking part in the national portion with the prime minister will be Mr. R. B. Bryce, Secretary of the Emergency Measures Organization, and Lt. Gen. S. F. Clark, chief of the general staff.

The exercise itself is the second in a new series of annual exercises to test and practise emergency measures necessary for national survival and the continuity of all levels of government in the event of a national emergency. The broadcast will be one-event in the series.

In the last exercise, which took place just a year ago, each of the provincial governments, over 300 municipalities, the federal government and the army participated. At that time emphasis was on manning of emergency government facilities, use of emergency communications and the national survival attack warning system, not including sirens.

This year stress will be tested in a number of cities, including Belleville.

See Need For Trenton Jaycee Group

TRENTON — At last night's meeting of the Community Coordination Council, Mrs. Fayo Jeffery, representing the Business and Professional Women's Club, advised that the Chamber of Commerce be asked to set up a junior chamber.

"The uneducated men who have been in our past councils have tried their best, but I town with the potentialities of Trenton should have educated men in these positions," said Mrs. Jeffery.

She added that she was not referring to "councils of the past two or three years."

"There isn't enough about municipal affairs taught in the schools," said Mrs. Jeffery. "That's one reason for the mess towns like Trenton find themselves in. We have progressed so slowly. We have only just got around to planning. We should have junior councils and train young people to these positions instead of voting councillors in, hit and miss. We're not giving our youngsters enough confidence."

Mrs. Jeffery was ready to agree with other council members that a Junior Chamber of Commerce might be the answer.

While other members of the co-ordination council agreed in theory with Mrs. Jeffery's suggestion, the general consensus was that it was too premature to set up such an organization, with the voiced hope that it would be raised again in the fall.

Mrs. Jeffery took exception to being told by members while the Rotary Club that if other than service clubs were invited to speak at their luncheon times and place of club meetings, the Rotary Club would not participate in the event. She asked upon which the clubs hope to place as the town's service club. Mrs. Jeffery said she had understood that the Business and Professional Women's Club were not allowed to advertise on the signs.

She said that the B. & P. club was intended for the betterment of women, while not being a service club in the strict sense of the word.

A representative from the Toastmasters' Club asked that his club be permitted to advertise its meetings on the signs.

Fred Bailey, Trenton representative, said that signs in other towns advertised service clubs meetings only. He pointed out that the location of any signs was subject to the approval of the Minister of Highways if outside town and to that of the town police chief if inside town. He said that other situation would present problems.

The final conclusion was that a committee consisting of Mrs. Nostrand Sprague and Earl Cruickshank should consider all clubs involved to try to solve the sign problem.

The fee for such listing, in the case of the Legion, will be remitted, as the Legion has the use of a meeting room to the council.

Gordon Davis, Trenton's welfare administrator, will be asked to clarify the exact cost of a lot under consideration for the purchase of a senior citizens' apartment block. Town council has said that if the service time emphasis was on the shores to pay for the lot in question, it will move to expropriate the land, which the owner does not wish to sell for this purpose.

D.D.G.M. Visits Wellington Masonic Lodge

TRENTON — District Deputy Grand Master Harold D. Haggarty made an official visit to the Star-in-the-East Masonic lodge at Wellington, No. 164, Tuesday night.

Mr. Haggarty addressed the meeting on the history and various aspects of religion in seven countries. Many of the world's religious had their beginnings in these countries. Much of today's western culture was born in the east, he said.

Bro. Lewis Wight of Wellington lodge, introduced Rt. Wor. Bro. Haggarty, who is Deputy Grand Master of the Prince Edward District.

Some 135 Masons, including members from Belleville, Trenton and Prince Edward County lodges, were present. Wor. Bro. W. H. Sainsbury of the Wellington lodge, was chairman.

This was the 16th official visit Mr. Haggarty has paid to district lodges since the beginning of his term in September, 1960.

On May 9, he will visit the Trenton lodge.

The Prince Edward district divine service will be held in Wooler United Church on Sunday, May 28. Rt. Wor. Bro. Rev. R. G. Hazelwood, Grand Chaplain, will deliver the sermon. Members attending the service are asked to meet in the Wooler school grounds at 1 p.m. sharp on May 28.

Peanut Drive

TRENTON — Scoutmaster Mervin Dafoe of Frankford said yesterday that Frankford Boy Scouts will hold a peanut drive on Saturday. The proceeds from the sale will be used to pay the expenses of the troop's representatives at the Canadian Boy Scout Jamboree at Ottawa in July.

Scouts John Beach, James Reid and Brock Anderson have been chosen to represent the Frankford troop at the Jamboree. Mr. Dafoe said the $200 would be needed to pay the boys' expenses.

Present Scroll To Fire Dept.

TRENTON — The executors of the Robert Weddell estate recently presented a scroll to the Trenton fire department.

The scroll was given to Mr. Weddell in 1883 by members of the Trenton Volunteer Fire Brigade ,when he was chief.

Written in Spencerian script on the parchment scroll is the following:

"We the members of the Trenton Fire Brigade, beg to tender you our warmest thanks for many favors received at your hands. We would also like to thank you for the solicitude for our comfort and welfare and for the watchful care you have bestowed on us when duty called us to do battle with the Fire King."

A badge was also given to the fire chief. The scroll was signed: J. G. Squier, William Keeler, Thomas Coyne, Thomas Kinnelly, J. A. Fredette, William Duff, E. Sweet, A. Axeline, Charles Crowe, John Adams and D. Duff.

A favorite anecdote with the oldsters who drop into the fire hall from time to time, is that in the latter part of the 1800s and the early part of this century, horses, which were used to draw the fire wagon, were also used to transport passengers to and from the "outer station" to meet trains. If the fire bell rang while the passenger coach was on its way, the horses would turn on their tracks and gallop back to the fire hall to report for duty.

Need Money For Fireworks

TRENTON — Firemen have embarked on a drive to raise money to put on their annual fireworks display on Mount Pelion on the evening of May 22. Parents, who want their children to enjoy a safe holiday, may purchase tickets at the hall with donations. The dollar or two which would be spent by each parent will go a long way towards the superlative display which can be enjoyed by all the town's children. While sixes and factories will be asked to donate towards the fund, Fire Chief Cecil Kills stresses the value of each parent making a donation to give every child a sense of participation.

Fumes Explode Lifting Roof Off Garage

TRENTON (Special) — The proprietor of a Superior gasoline station in the village of Frankford suffered shock, while three men escaped injury last night when gasoline or solvent fumes exploded lifting the corner of the roof off the garage.

The service station proprietor was said to have been washing a car with solvent in preparation for painting it when an electric spark from the motor of a water pressure system is believed to have touched off fumes in the pit.

Members of the Frankford Volunteer Fire Department were attending a mutual aid meeting at Trenton, when the village firemen were called home.

Frankford Fire Chief Mervin Dafoe said today there was no fire, but the force of the explosion lifted one corner of the garage roof up about a foot and a half.

New Nomads

In H. G. Wells' "Outline of World History" he more than once propounds the theme that past civilizations were periodically rejuvenated, (not without such sweeping changes that the rejuvenation amounted to virtual destruction and re-building), by successive waves of nomadic people sweeping westward out of the "heartland" of the Euro-Asiatic land mass.

Our own civilization, though it is feeling pressure from the peoples of this same heartland, can look for no rejuvenation, but only possible destruction, from this source. The days of the nomads appear over.

And yet, at this time, a new species of nomadism has appeared, here in Canada of all places.

It is fashionable to consider Canadians conservative stick-in-the-muds, never welcoming change.

This picture is at least cracked, if not completely fractured, by the reason advanced by the Post Office Department for its decision to deliver a certain type of mail free of charge. Cards announcing changes of address will go through the mails free. The reason—the Post Office has the devil of a time locating some six million Canadians who change their addresses each year.

Of course, it is not the same six million Canadians every year, but, at the same time, there must be a goodly number who change addresses much more frequently than the average.

And the average man is to a degree the address once every three years! Think how many people in Belleville have lived in the same home for years—and remember that in many smaller towns and hamlets there are people who have spent all their lives in the houses in which they were born. It follows that a lot of people must move at least once a year. If changes were a nation of home owners, or mortgage owners. This, one would imagine, would have a tendency to decrease home switching unless it was necessary. Maybe many of these change addresses just move from one home to another in the same city —but there must be a large proportion of these six million Canadians who move from one part of the country to another. This has no similarity to nomadism in the standard sense of the word—but it provides a sharp contrast with conditions in the Middle Ages in most European countries, when families dwelt in the same area, and frequently in the same village or even in the same house, for generation after generation.

The Pace Must Slacken

Scientific progress has been so rapid in recent years that only the dullest person must not sometimes wonder what marvels the future holds in store for the children of the mid-century.

Before the end of the lifetimes of the majority of the world's inhabitants today, there will have to be enormous transformations if the latter part of the century is to keep pace with the first half.

Perhaps, though, there is a danger in expecting future progress to duplicate that of the past five or six decades, in all fields. In some we can properly expect new miracles. But there have been some developments which have been so enormous that matching them carries us into the realm of the unthinkable.

Take transportation, we have moved from the days when going around the world in 80 days was a great feat to the time when the world has been circled in 89 minutes, increasing the speed of travel almost 1,500 times. It may quite possibly become common-place to travel at something near this rate—but who would suggest that we shall see the day when the world will be circumnavigated in less than four seconds, which would be the speed required to provide another 1,500-fold increase?

Or take the enormous increase in the destructive power of bombs. If this increase of the last twenty years is matched in the next twenty, every inhabitant of the earth would have to set off ten thousand Second Great War block-busters at the same time to match the explosive power of one super-bomb of the future. The largest H-bomb tested to date has an explosive power 1,700,000 times that of a block-buster—or 750 times the power of the bomb which dropped on Hiroshima. Imagine a bomb with a destructive power equal to half a million Hiroshima A-bombs —that is what would be required to match the last twenty years' "progress" in this field.

The rung of a ladder was never meant to rest upon, but only to hold a man's foot long enough to enable him to put the other somewhat higher —Thomas Henry Huxley.

Home of Freed Slaves

UNESCO Features

Freetown is the capital of the newest independent State of Africa, Sierra Leone, which proclaimed its independence on April 27, 1961. It was founded at the end of the 18th Century by freed slaves who established settlements on the Sierra Leone peninsula.

Below, Holman Jamieson, Sierra Leone writer, relates the history of the city from its beginnings up to the present day.

The Sierra Leone peninsula, that is, Freetown and its immediate surroundings, juts out like a foot from the West coast of Africa, giving a kick at the Atlantic Ocean. Freetown, on the top of the foot, is our city, the home of the settlers or Creoles, and the capital of our country, the newly-independent State of Sierra Leone.

Its history goes back nearly a hundred and seventy-five years, to the year 1787, and even to 1772, at the height of the slave trade. In that year, a judgment rendered by the Lord Chief Justice Mansfield laid down that as soon as a slave set foot in England he became free. Consequently, many runaway slaves made their way, usually charged from the army and navy at the close of the American War of Independence, found their way to England. But because of the harsh climate and lack of employment, life was hard for them—and they often became a burden on the community.

In 1786, Granville Sharpe and others through whose efforts the freedom of slaves on English soil had been secured, launched a project for taking these unfortunate men to Africa where they could settle and prosper under a royal charter. The site for the Sierra Leone peninsula was chosen and a strip of land brought from one of the local chiefs.

In 1787, the first batch of about 400 ex-slaves arrived together with sixty Europeans, mostly "women of questionable character". The first years were sad and danger; the new settlement was raided by hostile tribesmen, and the settlers driven off their land. But survivors regrouped and settled on another site; and prosperity began under a royal charter. The Sierra Leone peninsula was chosen and a strip of land brought from one of the local chiefs.

In 1787, the first batch of about 400 ex-slaves arrived together with sixty Europeans, mostly "women of questionable character". The first years were sad and danger; the new settlement was raided by hostile tribesmen, and the settlers driven off their land. But survivors regrouped and settled on another site; and prosperity began under a royal charter. However, were still far from safe. Meanwhile 1,100 more settlers had handed in 1794 the settlement, which had been transferred back to its original site and named Freetown, was plundered by French sailors and practically destroyed.

In 1807 an important event took place which profoundly changed the situation: in that year, the British Parliament declared slave - trading illegal and punishable by death, and sent a squadron of warships off Freetown to enforce the law. The law stated that any ship on which a slaver was captured were landed in Freetown. In this way, the number of settlers increased and more land was bought for them from the native chiefs.

The settlement of Freetown with its new citizens grew never more than 25 miles long and 10 miles broad but, in 1808, after many battles, treaties had been signed with the chiefs of the hinterland, Britain declared their regions a protectorate. The city of Freetown, with its colony, with its Creole settlers, found itself in tiny part of the vast territory of about 28,000 square miles under British rule. This is the time episode in the history of our town and must be understood in order to grasp the problems of to-day. Both Creoles and hinterlanders.

Generations of captivity in the New World had deprived the newly-arrived Creole settlers of their African language, their African customs and ways of life, so that returning home again at the end of the 18th century, they appeared and we are noiseeadrabrtstan and were considered as aliens by their former kinsmen of the hinterland. Nor did Creole or hinterlander have any special effort to show that they shared any common ancestry. The Creoles spoke English and had become Christians with a strong puritan outlook. They founded churches and schools where they sang such hymns as "Can we whose souls are lighted with wisdom from on high can we to men benighted, the lamp of life deny?"

They took Christianity into the hinterland and brought many hinterlanders into the Church. But, for all that, these stout-hearted Creoles never accepted the hinterlander on any basis of social equality. They were too proud of their status too jealous of their privileges: they were not only instruments of the Church, they were also civil servants of the State, members of the Legislative Council and the municipal council.

Fourah Bay College founded for them to the east of Freetown by the Church missions over a hundred and fifty years ago, and affiliated since 1876 to Durham University in England, has turned out not a few of the African leaders who today help to steer the wheels of African destiny. No wonder Freetown was once called "the Athens of West Africa" to the great pride of the Creoles.

But history marches on and modern times have seen the emergence of the hinterlander. Animists, Moslems and Christians from the bush country have come into town. They have now gone ahead and seen the world, in the course of two World Wars; and they demanded their rightful share in the control of the city and their country's destiny.

More recently, a constitutional hurricane swept through the country and left freedom dazed: the Government of Sierra Leone adopted a constitution which suddenly brought the hinterlanders into power and put the government of the country into their hands. Africa was seething with the desire for change and freedom and ill afford to lag behind in the race for emergence. Self-government and democracy are a principle and practice in British colonial policy. Failure to bring together people of different racial and cultural backgrounds, in the imminent national independence Fanti and Ashanti buried their enmities while striving to build up a free and independent Ghana, Moslems and Christians in Nigeria, the dominant tribes - Hausa, Yoruba and Ibo — had thrown off their animities and suspicions and harnessed national forces to found a free and united Nigeria for all Nigerians. It was only fitting that the two people of Freetown, our city, should finally join hands.

At first, political parties were organized under the separate aegis of hinterlanders and Creoles, but, in the end, out of "One Country, One People" there has been the merging of both in the new political groupings where representatives of the two communities mix indiscriminately together. Formerly, the hinterlanders' native African name was by names — Kamara, Mustapha or Koroma, whereas the Creoles regarded by the Creoles as a sign of inferiority. Today, the bearers of these names in native dress are State ministers, assuring the welfare of both Creoles and hinterlanders.

Members of both groups work in the Government, in the 12th Assembly of the World Health Organization, for instance, and the legislation inhibit the hinterlander, Taplimah N'Gobeh, Minister of Health of Sierra Leone, and Creole, Dr. Davidson Nicol, Fellow of Cambridge University, a leader for pathologist, Cornaught Hospital, Freetown. Formerly, a Creole would not marry a hinterlander, but today this barrier is being broken and, it can be said, to the advantage of the Creole whose numerical strength in a hundred and fifty years has grown to exceeded 45,000 in a population of about 2,000,000. Today Freetown, at the foot of the former colony, "kicks" with the current and in the right direction.

Sandboxes For Seagulls

Sudbury Star

Engineers may know all that needs to be known about designing a fine airport runway. They don't know much about birds.

Seagulls, for instance, at the end of the airport runway at Nice, France, let aircraft practice their low-flying birds might be sucked into a jet intake and cause a crash. Fireworks, sexy decoys, mating calls and a siren-equipped jeep couldn't keep the birds off the runway.

The bird experts were called in. They decided the gulls did not like the pebbly beach of the Mediterranean seashore close to the runway. The birds preferred the smooth surface of the runway for their nesting feet.

The experts scattered fine sand at one end of the runway. The gulls loved it. Now the airport is in the sandbox business. It will be off the runway and for the exclusive use of the seagulls.

We may yet see the day when bird experts will find a way to lure thousands of starlings away from their roosting areas of cities.

If a bird expert comes up with a solution to the starling problem his achievement will rate equal mention with sandboxes for seagulls.

After passing through the bridge the hospital boat proceeded directly down the bay. The boat will be inspected by Gar Wood, of Detroit, Mich., under whose supervision the boats are being constructed.

The afternoon was devoted to sociability and fraternizing amongst the Shriners. Potentate Stanley A. Marshall, who accepted the hospitality of the Belleville and district Shriners for their invitation to return to Belleville after an absence of twenty years. He gave a short resume of the crippled children's effort of the Shrine which is world-renowned. "We maintain fifteen hospitals for the crippled children, two of which are in Canada; one is in Montreal and the other in Winnipeg. It might be of interest to the newspapers to know that since the inception of these hospitals, maintained solely by the Shrine, over 65,000 children have been released from these institutions to take their place in the business world and seem themselves a living," was the essence of the remarks by Potentate Marshall.

Best Govt. Governs Best Says Sydney

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Purely Personal Prejudices:

It is equally nonsensical to say "that government is best which governs least" as to say "that government is best which governs most". The real question is "that government is best which governs best."

The sentimentalist thinks a man shows his real character by what he says.

Science is devoid of moral values, but scientists are not; and the scientist who does his research in a moral vacuum soon finds himself the tool of immoral men.

A great work of art always has three elements: surprise, recognition, and mystery. I surprises us by working its effect before we are aware of its presence; it recognizes us by unity with it by recognizing in it certain secret thoughts and desires of our own; and it makes us wonder how all this was done so easily.

Many problems that vex the rich are solved for the rest of us by lack of money.

Only truly religious and spiritual values can restrain political positions from sliding into excess: the radical without religion becomes a tyrant, and tyranny under the name of "discipline" is the excuse for the tyrannical without religion becomes a monster of greed under the name of "freedom." "Civil liberties" are so often illiberal in their use because they imagine some future abstract Man more than they value the present concrete men.

Life has not changed in the century since Robert Louis Stevenson observed, "The obscurest speck is today."

A gentleman is merely someone who likes to bet, any more than a drunkard is merely one who likes to drink; the essence of the true gambler is that he is interested in betting larger stakes than he can afford, just as the true alcoholic is more liquor than he can handle.

Those who do not feel pain seldom think it is felt; and, likewise, those who do not feel pleasure, a symphony or a great novel think that those who thrill to it are merely blowing themselves or trying to fool others. It is a natural reflex to deny the existence of what is invisible to us.

By definition of most round tables is a form of verbal activity in which the discussions are circular and the discussants are square."

To Your Good Health

There Is a Wide Difference In Severity of Mental Ills

By Joseph G. Molner, M.D.

"Dear Dr. Molner: You speak of 'insanity' as mental illness or emotional illness. Is being emotionally nervous the same as being insane? When I think of an emotional nervousness, do you think of him as being emotionally ill. Am I wrong? — J. J. G."

Yes, I think you are wrong.

Maybe the whole subject can be wrapped up in the statement that there is no human achievement of perfection. Probably nobody is emotionally "perfect"— nor is anyone physically perfect.

Suppose you stub your toe, or get a cora, or have a stomachache, or headache, or bruise your knee or scratch your finger: Any of these little things, leave you less than physically perfect, and I suppose by definition that you'd have to admit that you are ill, albeit slightly.

It's precisely the same with emotional or mental illness. If you are nervous, upset, shy, lose your temper, or some such thing, you are not perfectly healthy emotionally.

But I wouldn't say you were emotionally ill any more than I'd say you were ill because of a sore toe, the hiccups or a casual headache.

A cold in the head doesn't mean that you are going to develop pneumonia, although some times this happens. Being nervous doesn't mean that you are going to become psychotic, although sometimes this happens too.

When I speak of think of an "emotionally ill" person, I mean somebody who either can't get along in human affairs, or is only with difficulty.

In a dictionary I find this definition of "ill": "Not healthy, being sick; indisposed." And "healthy" is "state of being sound in body, mind or soul."

Then he arrived with a "non sticker," duodenal ulcers, diabetes, kidney stones, sciatica or arthritis keeps on doing his daily stint of work and being a useful citizen.

Is he "ill" or "not ill"?

With emotional or mental illness, in some instances a patient must spend the rest of his life in a mental hospital. Other times he may require only a month or two to carry him past the acute stage, after which he returns to normal activity.

Sometimes a periodic visit to a psychiatrist or to his family doctor may be all the patient needs.

There are all degrees of say illness. If we in a row well enough in terms of physical ailments, but we only beginning to accept the fact that the same hold's true with the emotions.

"Dear Dr. Molner: What causes swelling of the eyelids? — Mrs. K. T."

Usually either chronic infection, if more probably allergy. Chronic infection usually is from streptococcal infection and discharge or crusting from the side. Allergy, suspect anything that touches the face: Cosmetics, soaps, nail polish, hair dyes, tissues are among only known what.

Swelling can be result of kidney disease, heart disease, or trichinosis, but in such instances it usually is more a generalized swelling of the face, not just around the eyes.

"Dear Dr. Molner: What does 'normal' mean? I mean in relation to a normal hemoglobin count? — R. L. F."

It means 16 grams of hemoglobin per 10 cubic centimetery blood. That figure, Normal is around 14 to 18 grams.

THE PACKSACK

BY GREGORY CLARK

A moralistic old friend of mine was helping me do some spring cleaning. We sat in rocking chairs on the front verandah when the swelter came on, throwing the folded papers up on the neighborhood porches. He was a small man, with a bald beaded and burdened by his mail papers. He looked as if he would have preferred to be doing something else.

On arriving in front of the house opposite, he gave the paper a heave and it sailed badly, striking the top step and falling two steps down. The boy flood and watched. We could see that he was in doubt whether to go and pick the paper up and place it properly on the porch. He gave the matter some thought, glanced around to see if smoking and rocking companions were present might encourage him. Then he arose to say to me with it, and he proceeded to the next house, where he made the toss.

"I can foretell for you," said my old moralistic friend, "the whole life of that young man. I can tell you what kind of a man he will be at the end of thirty years. I could write the paper a hero made life from that one little incident."

May be he could. But I thought flood and watched. We could see that he was in doubt whether to go and pick the paper up and place it properly on the

NERVES

What would we do without our nerves? And what are we to do with them?

A good many make us at times. At other times how we are thrilled with the power of their electric force.

It is easy to lay blame on nerves.

Nothing in nature quite equals the marvelousness of the nervous system. Like a delicately woven piece of lacework is this organization of nerves. You can't injure or disturb a single cell of the fabric without getting into trouble with this perfectly put together nervous system.

Controlled as it is from the seat of the mind, it will not stand abuse.

And when it is disturbed we get sleeplessness, unfair and are not ourselves.

An eminent English physician once said that the best possible sleep-producing agent which his profession had ever tried was prayer. He said it would do more than anything else to gently the mind and calm the nerves.

It is not so much praying to God, as to our better natures, our highest sense of right, and our ideals of service that makes through the unloading of our fears upon a higher power than ourselves.

William James says that "One fact of our mind dams up—even dams up! — the tides of other parts."

When you relax and hand your burdens to some stronger agent, your mind believes that the wound you and avail yourself of the joy of free expression.

If you would calm the nervous, get a calm mind.

STRENGTH FOR THE DAY

DR EARL L. DOUGLASS

HOUSEBOATS AND TUGBOATS

Anyone who has lived around the water can tell a houseboat from a harbor tugboat. The houseboat has a suite of luxurious rooms, comfortably provide every comfort. Usually it is painted a spotless white, with a fine ring chrome or brasswork. What a contrast with the dingy tug, whose small pilot house is crowded in above a hot, puffing engine. The houseboat is like a cabins with a little engine. The tugboat is mostly engine with room for the crew. The houseboat is built for pleasure, the tugboat for work.

The society in which we live has its houseboats and tugboats too, figuratively speaking. We all know the houseboat type of person: charming, attractive, glamorous, leisurely — and often idle. Like the houseboat which catches our eye for its beauty, this person automatically draws our admiration and interest. It is much harder to see the virtues of the tugboat type of person, who is hard and constant devotion to duty often makes them appear plain and uninteresting.

But just remember: if you start out to buy one, you will find that tugboats cost more than houseboats. And when the water gets a little rough, there won't be a houseboat in sight. They will be safely moored at the dock. Don't let a little paint and polish fool you about the value of boats — or of people, either.

Anglican Church W.A. Meets In Belleville for 75th Annual

By GLADYS WARD

At Christ Church, on Wednesday morning, the celebration of Holy Communion was observed for the Women's Auxiliary of the Anglican Church who are holding their 75th annual meeting there. The celebrant was the Rt. Rev. Kenneth Evans, Bishop of the Diocese of Ontario, assisted by Rural Dean K. F. Blackford and Rural Dean L. Arthur Apps, rector. The sermon was personally invited to see that the church's functions were fulfilled.

THE CHURCH'S STRENGTH

"The church is no stronger than its weakest link," said the speaker. "Every individual member must fulfill the part that is her responsibility. The importance of the Christian life is in doing God's will in daily prayer-study. Some people tend to leave out of their lives the plain practical ethics of our Lord. The Sermon on the Mount was one of practical things. We all know people who claim nothing for themselves in the doing of practical work for others, even to losing their lives.

"We must never leave out the Cross. We discover in life that we 'need something more than mere ethics. Some people adopt an easy optimism that by Christian effort alone will set the world straight, but even so living, the evil of human nature must be considered. The Cross is the heart of the gospel. It speaks of the love of God which bears the sin of the world. We need the Cross and forgiveness for redeeming love of God.

"The Cross was not the end and we must remember Christ's victory. The Christian must have the calm strength and gladness of that victory. Our lives become fuller and richer every year because we share in the victory of our Lord. If we can make it known by what we say do as missionary people that we have been with Jesus, we can glory in the cross and share in the victory."

237 COMMUNICANTS

There were 237 communicants at the service. Twin bouquets of white flowers gracing the altar were placed there by the Diocesan Board in memory of those members who had passed on during the year.

The delegates were served lunch by the women of the church in the Parish Hall.

At the afternoon session of the Woman's Auxiliary, following a devotional period, Mrs. H. Pitt gave the visitors a sincere welcome, explaining that one meaning of the word welcome was to receive with gladness, and hoping that in St. Paul's words they would forget those things which are behind and press forward to their high calling.

Mrs. Armstrong of St. Pauls' Cardinal, replied with the hope that God would direct their meetings and - inspire them to go forward.

Mrs. W. F. H. Mitchell, Diocesan president, addressed the meeting, stating that the sessions might prove to give a new understanding of the work.

PRAYER, WORK, STEWARDSHIP

"There are three forms of activity clearly before us," said the President. "These are prayer, work and stewardship. Prayer underlines all our activities. Prayer partnership is one part of our work which is receiving more interest. In work our basic aims can never change, first and foremost we are a missionary group. Religious work is one of great magnitude, we cannot forget these neighbors of ours. If we are to encourage candidates we must support liberally the building campaign through the branches. In stewardship, we must express gratitude for the generosity and selflessness of our members as shown in the report of the Treasurer. Raising money is only one part of our missionary work. As the Bible tells us, 'Bear ye one another's burdens and so fulfil the law of Christ.'"

The president paid tribute to the work of Miss Elinor Newman, who was recently appointed by the Bishop to fill time woman's work, and had proved of great assistance in the work of the Diocese.

Mrs. F. M. Bastin, Dominion secretary of Christian social services, gave the main address of the afternoon, outlining the question, 'What is the purpose of my life on earth?' with the answer, to take God's loving concern to all His people.

"When Christ appeared on the earth in flesh, dignity was added to love, and his stature grew. Our duty is to restore that dignity where it is lost. Wherever there are social ills, there the church must act. In the first quarter of the century social ills were referred to professional social workers, now the church, can become valuable in social agencies. The pattern of the Christian is laid on from Christ, His attitude to the Samaritan woman, the loan to the woman who had sinned. He talked with loving concern; to the man on the cross He gave hope. He had love, sympathy and hope. There was no limit to what believers then and his fellow men.

NO BARRIERS

"I would like to give you three words to hang on to, courage, enthusiasm skills, and attitudes", the speaker continued. "In the scope of our work there must be no barriers, whether it is local or worldwide. We must be ready to do what we can, there is no limit to showing our loving concern for others.

"Regarding techniques would you go to a doctor or surgeon who was using the methods of 50 years ago? We missionary must move with the modern world, we must use our skills. We can do a much better job than we are doing at present. In visits to elderly people who long for companionship, we as the Anglican church must reach out and help. We must learn more about the mentality ill, about hospital visiting. There are booklets available on these subjects which are the tools to help our hands to be used.

ATTITUDES

"Our attitudes touch each of us whether from rural or city parishes. Through our attitudes we show God's loving concern, by our attitudes of discrimination of all kinds, and must start with our own family and our young people. What we say and do in our homes forms our children's attitudes. When we judge offenders of the law, let us condemn the act, not the man. We are creating a Christian atmosphere in our attitudes. If you have love in your heart for all God's people you will be guided in how to meet and understand the frailty of human nature."

Mrs. Bastin suggested that the women should have representation with a Christian viewpoint on United Appeal or Red Feather campaigns; that they should support women of Christian character in municipal leadership, and use their influence to promote slum clearance; that they should take part in Government. The only way to show God's love was in love for our fellowmen.

THANKS TENDERED

In expressing thanks to the speaker, Mrs. J. Uttley said that Mrs. Bastin had shared the consciences of the listeners and presented them with ideas and words to think about.

The Memorial Roll book and the book of Remembrance compiled by Mrs. Gage was read.

The treasurer, Mrs. T. H. Parker, announced that the Thankoffering amounted to $3,430.30. Mrs. O'Rafka, Diocesan Thankoffering secretary read the list of recommendations for the use of the offering which included $500. for the Bishop's discretionary fund; $500 for accepted appeals; and the balance to the united Thankoffering.

Miss Elinor Newman, a candidate at the Anglican Women's Training College, gave a resume of her work and an assessment of the youth situation in the Diocese. Miss Newman felt that the position had been strengthened by the recent youth conference. There was a crying need for workers. Young people were asking what their purpose was in life, and needed to be shown the channels of service for their lives. Leaders were those people who were convinced of the importance of the individual, and were willing to give time to take on the task.

There was a rapidly changing situation and older people must be ready to face the facts of that change. Young people had a great deal to offer. The danger in being highly organized was in making the organization the end, whereas it is only one channel of the members of the church. Miss Newman urged the members to speak to the young people around them and pray for them as they made their decisions as to the place God had for them in His service.

A fine display of Pakistan embroideries was placed at the back of the hall. These articles were hand made by the women in the villages who had been trained by the missionaries, and were beautifully done. Organdy tablecloths and place mats, runners and scarves were shown.

Educational books were displayed in one room which included children's books, Bible study and books of prayer and beliefs.

The Dorcas display in charge of Mrs. R. Godden was so interesting, a collection of articles for missionary assistance. For the Canadian hospital, St. Luke's, Ranchi, there were children's clothing, mittens, nighties, socks, bonnets and other knitted garments. For the refugees in Hong Kong there were knitted dolls and adult clothing; other clothing was to go to the McKay Indian residential school in Dauphin, Manitoba and quilts for overseas in India.

The articles represented an outlay of over $6,000. Many fine articles of church furnishings were also shown.

The afternoon meeting was opened with prayer by Rev. Canon A. S. McConnell.

Tea was served to the guests with Mrs. Trevor and St. Margaret's-on-the-Hill Women's Auxiliaries as hostesses. Corsages were held for life members, prayer partners, Junior Auxiliaries, Dorcas, treasurers and Little Helpers.

At the missionary meeting of the Woman's Auxiliary on Wednesday evening at Christ Church rector, Archdeacon J. R. Cressman, conducted the opening devotional service with prayer and a hymn.

Rural Dean L. Arthur Page introduced the guest speaker for the occasion, Bishop K. D. Arnand, who was born in Punjab, educated at Lucknow, took his bishop's training in Calcutta, and was consecrated in England.

Bishop Anand, who was accompanied by his wife, stated that one of the great joys they had experienced in their travels was to find that they belonged to a world-wide community, the Anglican communion. The Bishop brought warm and affectionate greetings from his Diocese in Amritsar.

REMEMBER BLESSINGS

"At this meeting where you are assessing the work you have done, it is appropriate to commemorate and remember the blessings we have received from this Diocese," the speaker also told the Auxiliary members. "Canada is in Northwest India; it covers three important areas and we regard ourselves as a better Diocese. It covers 144,000 square miles and the population is 26 million, which is more than the population of Canada. There are 83 Anglican churches in this vast area. There are 28 primary schools, and we have limited means, but we are grateful for all we have received.

"We feel that the education of children in primary schools is the most important part of the work, because we can instil Christian ideals in their lives which will influence them as adults. There are five secondary schools, supported by mission. There are five important hospitals and one leprosy home maintained by the W.A., which are doing excellent work throughout the Diocese. There are four or five women supported by you, who are spending all their time working among village women, teaching school, needlework and embroidery.

"The people of India are welcoming the help they receive from Canada, and appreciate it. India needs spiritual awakening. There are immense problems of superstition, ignorance and disease. The great leaders have become filled with zeal in claiming India for Christ, pioneers of social, moral and religious instruction."

Dr. Anand discussed the feelings in various sections of India. At the time of India's Indepen dence there was some doubt as to whether Government officials would permit Christians to continue their evangelistic work, but the leaders had declared themselves thankful for the humanitarian work done, and had asked the missions to continue as partners. The Government had excluded all shades of religious bias from its constitution and re-

Tabernacle Comrade Club Holds Dainty Maytime Tea

Intervals of promising May sunshine, interspersed with showers and March winds, hurried the many patrons to the "Maytime Tea" in the pewterday annex room on the home grounds of Tabernacle United Church under the auspices of the Tabernacle Comrade Club. Chilling as was the wind, the warm reception at the door, with its floral mode, made possible by the warm and pleasant welcome from the welcoming committee, Mrs. A. E. Benson, president of the Club; Mrs. R. Hall, convener of the reception; Mrs. H. R. Moorman and Mrs. S. M. McBride, more than compensated for the cool atmosphere.

Lovely items graced the pot-ucial entrance to the tea room where the beautifully appointed tea table made a focal point of attractiveness, as did the Hide pastry panel tables, appointed with white linen cloth, centred with silver creams and sugars, and candlelight ready for the incoming guests.

ATTRACTIVE TEA TABLE

Presiding at the tea table with the silver service and the broidered Chinese ecru table cloth, centred by a most attractive arrangement of the sprays of deep rose and white snapdragons, mingled with pink and blue-tinted "mums and flanked by tall tri-branched candelabra with tall pinks candles rising from white lacey collars and silver and blue silver services, were Mrs. P. A GOURMET'S DREAM

The homebaking table, in charge of Mrs. L. Weaver and Mrs. Mrs. I. Walmsley and Mrs. J. Arnott, was a gourmet's dream of delicious homebaking backed by generous piles heaped high with pastries of every description; cheesy and pumpkin pies; date and orange breads, golden brown buns, fluffy tea biscuits, iron muffins, cream and angel cakes; banana and fruit loaves, and strawberry tarts; coconut almond tarts, light-as-a-feather lady roll cakes, and delicate pinks and reds berries.

The fancy work table held a fine display of many articles suitable for home use or for gifting, pretty bib aprons in black, green and blue prettily appliqued with pink and yellow flowers; aprons in half and all-over styles of prints in plaids, checks, plain and in combination materials. One which held the attention was of a red striped material in darker red bound with blue binding and scalloped at the edges; a cellophane cookbook cover, puppet oven mitts in gold, green, blue and red print-ed material, tea towels nicely embroidered, crocheted terry towels, fringed place mats, bedspreads, shaped, crocheted-edged pillowcases, stuffed animals, children's aprons, hostess aprons, a beautiful picture of the church sanctuary, Christmas wreaths and a number of sets and TV cushions of varying colors, shapes and sizes.

Convening this table were: Mrs. R. Bird, Mrs. W. Brady, Mrs. E. Mossmer and Miss J. Smythe.

NURSERY PROVIDED

There was also a nursery for the tiny tots in charge of Mrs. H. L. Reynolds, where the little ones might play in safety while mother enjoyed meeting with friends and partaking of the delicious refreshments.

Mrs. W. D. Embury and Mrs. C. A. Mott were the conveners, to whom is extended appreciative thanks for a delightful tea, which was also a success financially, as, according, to all others whose willing assistance was of much moment.

More Family Films Needed Says Official

TORONTO (CP) — A survey by the provincial library service in Ontario indicates the need for more children's movies and family films, Mrs. W. O. Relyea of Toronto said Wednesday.

Mrs. Relyea, chairman of the publicity committee of the provincial Council of Women, was addressing the opening session of the council's three-day annual meeting.

There are too many children watching shows up to 10 p.m. and later," she said. "The machinery of films above a child's level; they contain no appeal to the imaginative side of the child. Almost are realistic fighting, shooting, skirmishes, raids, dueling and rides resulting in tense minds with laughter and screaming coming after scaling of a tense crisis."

She was protesting against an amendment to the Theatres Act which lowered the age of admission after 7:00 p.m. to 12 from 16 years as long as the child is accompanied by an adult 16 years or older.

Mrs. J. R. Cott of Orillia has been re-elected president of the council.

Other officers include: Mrs. F. J. Conboy, Brampton and Mrs. F. W. Dewber, Orillia, vice-presidents; Mrs. Gordon Rutherford, Peterborough, recording secretary; Mrs. John C. Duff, Kingston, archivist.

Chairman of standing committees include: Miss K. Mc-Farland, Napanee, history.

VON Elects Toronto Man As President

TORONTO (CP)—T. A. King, a Toronto lawyer, was elected president of the Victorian Order of Nurses (Ontario) at the order's annual meeting here Wednesday.

Also elected to office were: vice-president E. P. Thompson, Timmins; and secretary, Miss Sarah Shannon, St. Catharines.

Among those elected to the board of management were Mrs. Gordon Dalzell, Fort William; Reginald H. Brooks, Cornwall; Mrs. A. E. Thoms, Brockville; T. E. McKay, Peterborough; Mrs. Cary Moore, Iverborough; Alex Howe, Niagara Falls, Mrs. David S. Charlton, Galt; R. S. Mann, Hamilton and Col. Thomas Weir, Chatham.

In his report, retiring president Col. F. M. Gillon said the said several branches have started hospital referral plants. Under this system, a nurse is placed in a hospital where she can talk to doctors, nurses and patients. This means many patients can be discharged to their homes in a day or two or much earlier than would otherwise be possible.

W.I.'s Demand Union Jack In Any Flag

GUELPH (CP)—If there's to be a Canadian flag, the Federated Women's Institute of Ontario wants the Union Jack included in the design.

The institute's board adopted a resolution at its annual spring meeting Wednesday requesting its inclusion.

A resolution dealing with an amendment to the Provincial Charities Act was adopted but board members agreed to forward it to the institute's committees for possible revision.

The resolution proposed publications in local papers of the results of charitable drives within 90 days of the drive, if the stated objectives were more than $1,000. The net yield, after expenses, would be shown as a percentage of the total collected and the names of the three principal officers would be attached to the report.

The group also asked that the Ontario hospital insurance plan cover specified nursing homes.

Members said elderly persons now in general hospitals could be sent to chronic hospitals under such a plan, leaving their beds in the general hospitals free.

St. Joseph's C.W.L. Sponsors Delightful Spring Tea

Although weather conditions were somewhat overcast and cool yesterday afternoon, the atmosphere in the ballroom of the Columbus Hall was warm and cheerful, when the St. Joseph's C.W.L. held its annual spring tea.

Graciously welcoming the many guests at the door were, Mrs. J. Muldoon, president of the organization, and Mrs. R. Bland, convener of the tea.

The decoration scheme for the tea tables was in keeping with the traditional spring colors of mauve and yellow. The focal point of interest was the delightfully appointed tea table with Scotch lace cloth underlined with a pretty shade of yellow and centred by an artistic arrangement of mauve and yellow chrysanthemums with sprays of orchid tinged hackberry leaves, flanked by tall tapering yellow candles in silver holders, resting on tri-branched silver candelabras. The gleaming heavy silver tea services and the pastel yellow serviettes completed this attractive setting.

About the hall were the equally attractive quartet tables with lace cloths and pretty luncheon cloths and pretty centre pieces of artistically arranged plates of petite fours and dainty sandwiches—divided on three tables. Floral preserve containers holding yellow forsythia and pussy willows set on heavy white doilies.

THOSE PRESIDING

Those presiding at the tea table were: Mesdames H. Emerson; R. McGuinness, C. Huck, T. Bowler, L. J. Briand and D. Dunnett.

Those serving at various intervals throughout the afternoon were Mesdames D. Kelly, E. Hilbig, T. Black, R. Rosenberg, C. Whalen, Ben Burley, T. Walsh, J. Canty, J. Pilon, W. L. Berrigan, J. Anton, E. Slaughter, R. Barrett, A. Grignon and P. Kelly.

At the lower end of the L-shaped hall were the sale tables, decorated in an attractive manner, with snow-white coverings, edged with yellow streamers. Here the homebaking table and the handicraft setting with its bountiful supply of goodies including homemade fudges and maple sugar, delicious cakes with peaked boiled icing tiny cup cakes iced in colors of pastel pink, green and chocolate; butterscotch, date and chocolate squares; loaves of fragrant homemade bread and buns, tarts, meat pies, cherry, apple, pumpkin, lemon and small party and berry tarts, and a large assortment of cookies. In charge of the homecooking was Mrs. R. Carr-Brain, assisted by Mesdames J. Kennedy, C. Nicholls and D. Dunnett, Jr. and Sr.

The other display table was filled with novelty articles of various articles which included: bracelet pearl rosaries; pearl bracelets; baby wrist bottles; outwork framed pictures; rosary cases, and a large number of prayer books. These were in charge of Mrs. M. Panting, assisted by Mrs. J. Ryan.

The treasurer for this most successful function was Mrs. B. Beirne, assisted by Mrs. G. Bell.

'Lines on Life'

By Dr. Stuart R. Rosenberg

Nothing we do in life, no matter how vaunted, adds a nuisance or socially courageous, can replace the need each of us has for someone who loves us and who cares. Ideals are indeed important, and in some respect, indispensible, for a full life. But if we lack what we need so deeply as human beings — a sense of being uniquely important because we are unlikely loved — ideals in themselves can not satisfy our profound needs. It is all well and good to tell people who lack love or who have not known it, to lose themselves in their devotion to work or in their dedication to community welfare. Unfortunately, we are not so constructed. We still need people — not just ideas; human being — not concepts alone, to satisfy our human requirements.

Despite all of the love we lavish upon the world, there is no substitute for the love we touch share in our own homes. Jimmy Porter, in the play, "Look Back in Anger," condemns his wife for not sending flowers to the graveside of his friend's mother, because Jimmy Porter loved his friend's mother very deeply. But what he forgot was that no love for a friend's mother can really mean very much, if there is no deep love for your own wife. He was cruel to his wife in his own way, although surely he thought he loved her. But how could his wife love someone whom he wanted her to love when, in the first instance, he did not love her as she wanted him to love her? Our own homes are the laboratories of our lives. What we do there determines basically what we do when we leave home. That is why, despite all new inventions and modern designs, fads and fetishes, no one has yet invented, or will ever invent, a satisfying substitute for one's own family.

USE OPPORTUNITY

If you are fortunate enough to have a family, to have your loved ones with you and near you, do not let the opportunity to through your fingers before it is too late. Unfortunately, some people have so taken their families for granted that they no longer enjoy their possible relations with their own relatives. Brothers argue and refuse to speak. Sisters quarrel and go into temper tantrums. Parents and children divide because of some stupid financial question. And all of us go off seeking new heroes, new examples, new models and new friendships. Some day we wake up and recognize that all that is new may glitter but it may not last.

The eternal anecdotes and jokes concerning in-laws are too often more serious than comical. One wonders how we can expect to achieve respect in the eyes of our own children when we do not accord it to our own parents by marriage. You are a mother — so is the mother of your husband or your wife! Some day they will be gone, gone forever, and then all kinds of guilt feelings will assert themselves — feelings that you did not do what you could have done at the time when these things were possible. Some day when your beloved are gone forever, your own children will reflect in their attitude toward you, the way in which you lived with their grandparents.

All the friends we have acquired, the neighbors we have known, the associates with whom we identify can never replace the need for family love. We need a home because we need a place where we can be just what we are, a place for natural and simple affection; no show, no veneered attempt at impressing others. We need a spot on earth where the door is always open to us, where people can laugh with us, but also grow our tears when we hurt cry. We need the warmth of people who have watched us grow up, who have suffered with us, and who have shared in us one also has our joys and our sorrows.

And if we were wise we would not how on our noblest impulse. For today is all we have. Some day, we, too, will be part of yesterday. Share your love now, while there is yet time!

Successful Living

By Doris Clark

(A Canadian Social Worker Helps with Human Problems)

16-Year-Old Has Problem

DORIS CLARK

DEAR DORIS:—I am 16 years old and am in grade 11. I am also the second oldest of seven children. My parents are Europeans. I have to share my bed with my youngest sister, and in the same room with us are two other beds and three other younger sisters.

I used to hold high honor marks but when I got to high school my nerves got bad. Whenever we had exams, I never failed to come down with some illness. Finding a place to do my homework presents a problem. Finding the time, too, after helping with the housework and getting the children to bed.

By then I am so restless I can't settle down to study.

I have an aunt and uncle up north and they told my mother she would like to have me very much. It is very quiet and I could stay as long at school as I liked for extra help. All I want is just one chance to prove I can be independent and that I can get at least close to the honor marks I used to get.

Please don't try to talk me to stay home. I would only be away for one year in a lifetime and I need help now.—M.F.

DEAR M.F.—If things are as bad as you say—and I have printed only a small part of your letter—you certainly deserve a break. Obviously your heart is up north.

Provided your parents agree, you can do one of two things. You could move to your aunt's home, or you could change the state of affairs where you are. If you go north, you may find you have too much independence for your own good, for, with all the responsibility you have taken at home, you may not be too worldly wise.

If you stay home, you should insist on having help with your brother and sisters. And you certainly need a quiet place to study. One girl I know goes to her local library to study; another, to a neighbor's where there are no children. If you have no such place near you, look for a quiet corner at home where you can close the door, even if it has to be in the basement. All you need is a table, a chair and a light. You will want to get the grades you do under the circumstances you describe.

You need time for recreation, too, because these teenage years are important to you, living in Canada, for learning how to play and how to mix with other boys and girls. This is likely different to what your parents knew.

If your mother fails to understand just how badly you need help right now, how about talking this over with someone at school—your teacher or vocational counsellor?

DEAR DORIS:—I hope you can tell me what to do. I married a man of another faith and nationality, mainly, I think, because my mother neglect at me about him until I denied her and became pregnant.

That was the start of my troubles. My baby is eight months old and hydro-cephalic. My husband is only working part time. My mother wants us to move in with her so that she can help me with the baby and help support me, but her diabetes is developing complications and she may have to stop work herself.—NADA.

DEAR NADA—From frying pan into the fire? Better stand on your own two feet. For one thing, it is not fair to impose on your sick mother. Second, if she nagged before she'd nag again. And it won't help your state of mind to be subjected to the 1-told-you-so routine.

If money is the main problem, there is government help. There is also free or very cheap medical care for your baby. There is budgeting help from your local family or children's agency. These are the modern resources which exist for Canadian families and they are yours to tap. In Belleville, the Public Welfare Department, located in the City Hall, will direct you.

(Doris Clark will be glad to help you with your problems. Write to her care of this paper, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.)

By Mary Moore

You will be surprised to hear that two days after you read this in Peter and Margaret's wedding day.

behind is 8 15 x 10 x 2" pan.

This Cocoanut Cloud Pie may be another "item." If you have bridal showers on your mind clip yesterday's, and today's recipes.

COCOANUT CLOUD PIE

Pastry: 1 1-3 cups unsifted all-purpose flour, 1-4 teaspoon salt, 1-3 cup lard, 2 1-3 tablespoons water.

Combine flour and salt; add lard (room temperature) and cut in with pastry blender or 2 knives until mixture resembles coarse meal. Add water all at once, pressing dough together. Shape dough into ball. Lay on lightly floured pastry cloth, or board and roll lightly to 1-4" thickness, rolling from centre to edges. Fit into deep 9" pie plate, trim and crimp edges. Prick unbaked crust liberally with fork, and bake at 425 deg. Fahr. for 10 to 12 minutes.

Filling: 1 tablespoon unflavored gelatine, 1-3 cup cold water, 4 egg yolks, 2-3 cup sugar, 1 1-4 cups milk, 1-8 teaspoon salt, 4 egg whites, stiffly beaten, 2-3 cup dessicated cocoanut, 1 1-2 teaspoons vanilla, 1 teaspoon lemon extract.

Soften gelatine in cold water. Combine egg yolks and sugar, add milk and cook in double boiler, stirring constantly, until custard coats spoon. Remove from heat. Add softened gelatine to hot custard. Stir until dissolved. Add salt and cool. When mixture begins to congeal slightly, fold in stiffly beaten egg whites, cocoanut, vanilla and lemon extract. Pour into baked pie shell. Chill. When ready to serve, sprinkle pie with additional cocoanut and wreathe with whipped cream.

This pie may be made in advance (not more than 24 hours) and decorated at the last minute.

KUM DOUBLE CLUB

HALLOWAY — The meeting of the Kum Double Club was held on Wednesday evening, April 26th at the home of Rousald and Frances Kelly.

In the absence of conveners Reg. and Betty Workman, Mrs. Harry Morgan presided over the worship service, the theme used was "The Lord is my Shepherd." Mrs. A. Donaldson gave the meditation and a story was read by Mrs. G. Roth, entitled "Mustard-seed People," which told of an act of kindness which led later to the establishment of a college that has been a training centre for the negroes of the south. A reading was given by Mrs. E. Emerson, "If You Ask Me." "The Bible says, bear one another's burden and so fulfill the law of Christ. That is Christianity in action."

In the business period, the minutes were read by the secretary, Mrs. Donaldson and 22 members and two visitors were present. Plans were made for the progressive supper which is to be held on May 10th. The different courses will be served at Mr. and Mrs. Gene Kelly's, the church basement and Mr. and Mrs. E. Emerson's. All to meet at the church at 7 p.m. Mr. E. Hough will provide transportation.

The Howler was read by Mrs. J. Robson and refreshments served by the hostess and her assistants.

'Open Evening' Observed By School

WELLINGTON — "Open Evening" was observed at the Wellington school on Friday evening of last week. The doors were opened at 7.00 p.m. and despite the heavy rain falling, the rooms were soon filled with parents, grandparents and friends of the pupils.

The school rooms all looked pretty with spring flowers of different varieties and all made by the pupils.

The works of art, writing and finger painting were all on display on the walls and work books on desks ready for inspection.

The rooms all had different themes, one had springtime represented; another African relics; one had Chinese costumes and Mexican regalia. Different hobbies were also on display with a group of miniature animals, salt and pepper, paintings by numbers and others.

The boys had their woodworking on show in their rooms and in the home economics room, the home economics class showed its work. The teachers, Mrs. Campbell, grade 1; Mrs. Savacoolas, grade 1-2; Mrs. Swancombe, grade 2; Mrs. Fawcett, grade 4; Mrs. Freeman, grade 4-5; Mrs. Minshew, grade 6; Mr. Barnett, grade 7; Mr. Fawcett, grade 8, and the principal, Mr. Snider, greeted the guests in their class rooms and discussed any problems with the parents of their pupils.

DANCES

The girls of grades 6, 7 and 8 staged an added bit of entertainment by performing three lively dances. The grade 6 girls charmed the guests with a light stepping number, entitled "Dolly Wolly Doodle." This was followed by the Irish colleens of grade 7, who danced the "Irish Lilt." Grade 8 brought back old memories with their toe-tapping square dance "Campbell-Races."

In the auditorium grade 7 pupils put on a splendid musical program which was much enjoyed by all those who could get in the auditorium.

A lunch of cookies and coffee was served by the wives of the board members who were assisted by members of the newly formed Home and School Association.

Summer Special

By VERA WINSTON

Here is the sort of thing we'll be living in ere long—a dress perfect for summer in town or in the country.

Cool it is, sleeveless and collarless, and it sports a brilliant black, blue and white silk print scarf at the neck.

The dress, of silk crepe, has a slightly bloused bodice and a self belt that buttons in back. The pleated skirt is caught at the hem, Bavarian fashion.

The frock comes in black; Capri blue or white.

Woman Can Ask Question In Half Dozen Languages

WINNIPEG (CP)—The chief qualification for Bertha Stoller's job is the ability to ask "where does it hurt?" in half a dozen or more languages.

Miss Stoller, a member of the Winnipeg General Hospital's social services branch for more than 30 years, is the person the doctors call when they have an outpatient who cannot speak English.

Besides her knowledge of German, Austrian, Polish, Ukrainian, Russian, Hebrew and several Slavic dialects, Miss Stoller has a wide knowledge of the social, religious and dietary customs of the various nationalities.

For example, a patient might become ill during a period of religious observance when traditional foods are banned.

In many cases, the doctors ask her to interview patients and prepare case histories on her own although she is not a doctor.

Two afternoons a week Miss Stoller is loaned by the hospital to the Winnipeg clinic to interpret symptoms there.

One of the oddities of her career is that although she was born in Latvia and lived there as a child, she does not speak or understand the Latvian language.

She explains that in the part of Latvia where she was raised, only Russian was spoken.

QUESTION BOX

Question — I am a secretary and am wondering if I am wrong in sending that I do all the time. When my boss is out of the office, after he has dictated letters he wants sent out immediately, I have been signing them as the typewriter. One of my co-workers says this is wrong. Is it? — Mrs. L. Y., Toledo, Ohio.

Answer — It is. The signature on a letter should always be written by hand. Correctly you should sign the name of the man writing the letter, placing your initials underneath it. This indicates that he did not sign it himself but authorized you to do so for him.

Question — It is so seldom that I go out in "high society" that, when I do, I am confused about just how to act. Two of my things puzzle me. When seated at a dinner table, what is the first thing to do? After the food is passed, do you start eating right away or do you wait until everybody has been served? Thanks so much for you help. — Mrs. F.L.T., New York, N.Y.

Answer — The first thing to do when you are seated at the table is to unfold your napkin and place it in your lap. The last thing is to fold the napkin just once and place it at the left of your plate as you rise from the table at the end of the meal. You do not start eating until all are served. Watch your hostess. When she starts to eat, it is an indication that all at the have been served.

Question — When I go into the school cafeteria at lunch time and one of the boys in my class wants to pay for my lunch, should I let him? It embarrasses me to say no, and yet I don't want to hurt him! — Miss H. B. T., Harrisburg, Pa.

Answer — I would suggest saying "no." It can be done diplomatically and in a nice way that shouldn't hurt his feelings. If you don't nip it in the bud, it will become embarrassing to you both. He will eventually feel he should do it every day, and you won't want him to — so what will you have? Hard feelings, eventually. Let him take you on a movie date some Saturday evening instead.

Question — A woman whom I know very slightly has asked me to propose her for membership in a club to which I belong. For several reasons I do not wish to do this. How can I get out of it gracefully? — Mrs. F. W. B., Scranton, Pa.

Answer — My suggestion would be to tell her that, since you have recently proposed several new members, you do not feel that you can do so again at this time. Frankly this acquaintance of yours is in the wrong and is placed you in an embarrassing position. Only an extremely close friend should be approached in this situation.

QUINTE VEGE-VITES

The fourth meeting of the Quinte Vege-Vites was held recently at the home of Mrs. William Lazaritis.

The president, Mary Reid opened the meeting with the 4-H pledge followed by the secretary's report read by Carolyn Mitchell. The treasurer's report was read by Mary Clapp. Discussion included: vegetables in the supper or lunch menu; the oven plays its part; and method for scalloped vegetables.

Demonstration and group work consisted of cooking stuffed baked potatoes, cream of potato soup and scalloped asparagus and eggs.

The home economist Miss Lane attended this meeting.

The fifth meeting of the Quinte Vege-Vites was held on April 24, at Mrs. William Lazaritis's.

The president, Mary Reid opened the meeting with the 4-H pledge. The secretary's report was read by Linda Jarvis. The treasurer's report was read by Mary Clapp. Discussion included: safety program for 4-H Homemaking Club members; salads; preparing selecting of ingredients for salads; salad dressing; garnishes; appetizers and relishes.

Demonstration and group work consisted of making salads and garnishes.

Glamour Afoot

By TRACY ADRIAN

You don't have to be attending a strawberry festival to wear there glamorous jewels because they are a perfect footnote for any after-five costume.

The shoes are of white polished calf with pointed toes, round throats and high, slender heels. The strawberries are made of tiny red beads appliqued midst green leaves.

Mother's Day Program Held At WMS Meet

The regular meeting of Holloway St. W.M.S. was held in the ladies parlor on May 2nd.

After welcoming all members and guests the president, Mrs. Bertrand, announced the opening hymn: "In Christ there is no East or West" after which Mrs. Coulter led in prayer.

Following the roll call, Mrs. Johns, Christian Stewardship secretary read an article on the fine purpose of God's Kingdom.

The treasurer, Mrs. Phillips read the financial report for March and April.

Mrs. Mitchell, Christian citizenship secretary presented a paper on 'Eskimos, the change in their ways and life and their attitude toward it".

Mrs. Townsend reported a fine choice of books available to all and Mrs. Coulter reported that plans are being made for a "Blossom Tea" late in May.

The Devotional was in charge of Mrs. Cook and her group. Mrs. Way recited a beautiful poem entitled, "Mother's Love". Mrs. Welbourn led in an impressive worship service opening with a poem, "Homes and the People Therein", closing with a gracious tribute to mothers.

GUEST SPEAKER

Mrs. Coleman introduced the guest speaker, Mrs. Hoult from the College Hill church, who chose for her timely topic "Mothers", saying in part: "There is much that has been said, that can be said, and should be said, about mothers and I am sure that all would echo the words of Abraham Lincoln when he said: 'All that I am or ever hope to be, I owe to my mother".

Mrs. Hoult gleaned some wonderful thoughts from the book of Proverbs, the manual of "Godly Living", so full of mother's honor, "Strength and dignity are her clothing and she laughs at the time to come".

Thackery once said that people who don't know how to laugh are pompous and conceited.

It is true the tragic events that are no occasion for laughter, do come to all, but countless difficulties would be less hard to bear if one practised her own faith.

One would not be so upset about real calamaties if her courage found daily renewal in her prayer life. Minor trials would not spoil the outlook if serenity was based on belief in God.

Sacrifice is a mother's price for nature's most precious jewel — a properly trained child. There are no writers one shrinks to cross or no mountains she fears to scale.

In summing up, Mrs. Hoult said "Motherhood bends the back, fades the cheeks and whitens the hair — but it is God's way and heaven smiles —to make it the best most rewarding way".

At the close, Mrs. Hoult favored with a vocal solo; "Leave It With Him", accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Hobbs.

Mrs. Hoult was thanked by Mrs. Townsend.

Mrs. Cook closed the meeting with a short Mother's Day poem, after which refreshments were served and a social half hour enjoyed.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

Mrs. I. K. — He has everything, yet he stole from a 5-10-cent store.

Stanley K. — My allowance is just too small compared to my friends'.

Mrs. I. K. — Where have we failed? Our 15-year-old son was picked up last week for petty pilfering in the local 10-cent store. He took a key ring, a pocket comb, and some shoe laces.

How can you explain that? He has those very things at home, and he gets an adequate allowance. The cook packs him a fine lunch for school, he gets driven there in a private bus, and besides he gets a quarter a day. We didn't want to spoil him by making money too plentiful or too easy to come by.

But now that this has happened, we must watch him closely and report to the authorities. What made him do it, though?

Stanley K. — My mother insists a quarter a day is enough spending money for me. All I know is, I'm out of things when my friends go anywhere. They have plenty of money for magazines and party tricks and eats.

It would be different if my parents didn't have it. But they're loaded. We live in the biggest house on the block, and we have our own motorboat and three cars. When they go out to their fancy restaurants, they spend $70 or $80 for one meal. I hear them talking about it. They don't deprive themselves. Just me.

I swiped those things to have extras, like my friends. I was broke.

The Council — Some shock therapy may eventuate here. At least the shock has arrived, and the therapy is being decided upon. The first step will be to lessen the gap, on the parents' part, between precept and example. Stanley has been raised amid an orientalious display of wealth. He's confused by the discrepancy between his diet of "cokes" and his parents' champagne buckets. Their motivation not to "spoil" him, was no motivation for him. He couldn't see why he had to be the only one in the family to "go without."

To avoid trouble, he needed two things: the right example, and moral fiber. The home gave him neither. So, feeling "deprived," and confused by the double standard existing under the same roof for his parents and himself, he tried to make up the difference by swiping.

At an age where the most important satisfaction in his world is to be "in right" with the boys, Stanley was getting in wrong with society. With no firm ideas about Mine and Thine, without the A-B-C's of law and order implanted by home or church, he was indeed underprivileged.

What to do? The Ten Commandments have it best. But as a start, Stanley must be made clear on the law of possession and ownership. What's his, he must know, is only what he's given, or bought or "earned for" himself.

Next his allowance must be computed more realistically by his parents, in keeping with, rather than in isolation from, the practices of his group. If his parents and his pals are part of a heavy-spending set, Stanley must not be singled out as the "budgeteer," to teach him the value of money! This lesson can be conveyed in less surface ways. He can, for example, be enabled to earn a dollar now and then to make up minor deficits in his financing.

Above all, Mrs. K. must stop saying to Stanley: "Do as I say"—and start saying "Do as I do." That will make more sense to him.

Hastings W.I. Changes Date Of Meeting

STIRLING — The ladies of the district are asked to note change of date of the West Hastings district 60th annual meeting which will "be held on Wednesday, May 31st at White's United Church, Bayside, with the Bay of Quinte W.I. as the hostess branch.

There will be morning and afternoon sessions under the direction of the president, Mrs. K. B. Phillips. A special feature will be the gathering of the "Pennies for Friendship". This will be in charge of Mrs. Percy MacMullen public relations officer of the district. Each of the seven branches is asked to place their pennies in a suitable container and on the outside clearly mark the name of the institute branch and the amount. The secretary-treasurer, of the district, Mrs. Harry Coulter will forward the total amount direct to the F.W.I.O. Toronto.

It is hoped to have a large cheque as Ontario's gift to the triennial A.C.W.W. conference in 1962.

Each individual member has the opportunity to display her hobby at the district annual.

River Valley W.I. is holding its meeting on May 4th at 2 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Percy Craighead. There will be a sale of plants, flowers and bulbs. The conveners are Mrs Percy MacMullen and Mrs Ross Hilland.

Health Experts Are Waging Hard Uphill Fight Against Death, Disease in Congo

LEOPOLDVILLE (AP)—Public health experts from 26 countries are waging an uphill struggle against disease and death in The Congo.

In this primitive land which doctors still thrive and superstitious villagers may turn violently on a white physician if a patient dies, Climate and habits of living encourage the spread of disease. .

There are no qualified Congolese medical doctors. Nor are there native x-ray operators or medical technicians of any kind. At independence there was not even one qualified Congolese nurse. Three - quarters of the Belgian doctors, who always bore the main responsibility for public health in their colony, fled The Congo last July.

Only the combined efforts of the Red Cross, the World Health Organization, the United Nations and private medical institutions around the world have been able to meet urgent medical needs in the last nine months.

More than $3,000,000 will be spent by international organizations during 1961 for stop-gap medical assistance.

"I know of no other country that has received so much medical aid," said Dr. Athenas Belerive, a Haitian, chief UN adviser to the struggling Congolese health ministry.

Emergency medical treatment now is available in most areas.

Three months' accumulation of garbage in Lubumbura was cleared in one week. Water supplies throughout The Congo are guarded by UN technicians. Tons of medicine have been flown to the rebel provinces of Kivu and Oriental.

But these are only emergency measures. The general health of the population has deteriorated through accumulated inefficiency of sanitation, vaccination and epidemic controls."

Some doctors in the interior of the country report resistance to vaccination and precautionary treatment. The attitude of some villagers is that they should no longer have to submit to treatment associated with the days of colonialism.

But most places the Congolese seem to respect the white man's medicine, as long as it relieves pain and saves lives.

No major epidemics have been reported since Independence. The danger of sleeping sickness, plague, malaria and leprosy, however, becomes greater each week without the normal health precautions of a highly civilized society.

"Our fear is that logically these diseases—and be spreading without our direct knowledge," said Dr. G. J. Mellbin, the Swiss liaison doctor for the United Nations.

"In the case of sleeping sickness, death may come in six months or so after the original infection. In wild areas we get word of only advanced cases, so from end to end of the country has been building up in recent months, while the normal preventive activities have been interrupted."

Church Unity Given Boost By Synod

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — The 102nd synod of the Anglican Diocese of Huron concluded Wednesday with appointment of a 13-man committee which will invite the United Church to establish a similar committee for joint discussion on church unity.

The move followed a statement on the opening day Monday by Rt. Rev. George N. Luxton, Bishop of Huron, that the Anglican and United Churches will probably establish joint study groups on church unity at the end of this year or early in 1962.

A move to admit women as lay delegates to the synod was ruled out of the synod's jurisdiction by lawyer G. Harrison, chancellor of the diocese.

Lay delegate Frank L. Hallett, sponsor of the motion, resigned in protest, branding the reception of his proposal as dishonest and a filibuster. He later withdrew his resignation but was unable to return after the noon recess because, delegates were told, he had slipped and sprained his back.

Mr. Hallett said the question of admitting women delegates was being considered by a committee appointed at the previous synod and the matter could not constitutionally be discussed until the committee completed its study.

RULES ON LOANS

In a move to make more money available for new churches, the synod ruled that building loans from the diocesan revolving loan fund must be repaid in monthly instalments, with a minimum repayment of 10 per cent of the loan each year.

Rt. Rev. H. F. G. Appleyard, suffragan bishop of Georgian Bay, told synod the board of governors of Renison College, the Anglican arts college affiliated with the University of Waterloo, have pledged $50,000 toward a campaign to raise $300,000 for the college.

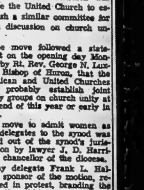
Among those elected to the business sub-committee of the executive were: Ven. J. G. Lightbourn, Kitchener; Ven. Alford Abraham, Sarnia; Rev. Canon A. B. Thomas, Galt, and Stanley Lorriman, Preston.

Royal Couple Place Wreath At Italy's Tomb

ROME (Reuters) — Thousands of Italians gave Queen "vivas" surged around Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip Wednesday as they continued their state visit to Italy.

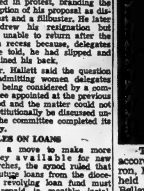
During the day, the Queen saw babies at the Red Cross centre and distributed candy to children outside the Quirinal, went to Frascati, southeast of Rome, and visited agricultural scientists at the nuclear laboratories there.

Then at a civic reception the Queen spoke of the civilized relations that have been recalled links between the city and Britain for over 2,000 years.



The day's program for the couple placed a wreath at Italy's Tomb of the Unknown Soldier, enshrined in the massive white monument here to Victor Emmanuel II.

ACKNOWLEDGED CHEERS



As they left the tomb for a similar ceremony at the Commonwealth War Cemetery, the couple stopped in separate cars to acknowledge the cheers of the crowd.

At the Commonwealth cemetery Field Marshal Earl Alexander of Tunis, wartime Allied commander - in - chief in Italy, walked beside the Queen and Philip out various paths.

The Queen and the Duke dined privately Wednesday night at the presidential palace before going to the opera house to see a performance of Verdi's Falstaff.

Kitchener Official Deplores Number of Traffic Mishaps, 3,273 Killed Last Year

MONTREAL (CP) — Traffic accidents have become such a day-to-day affair no one pays much attention, Ira G. Needles of Kitchener, chairman of the Canadian Highway Safety council, said Wednesday.

He told the closing session of a council conference that if the disaster taking place annually on Canadian highways occurred at one time as immediate action for investigation and prevention would come from all parts of the country.

He noted that 3,273 persons were killed in traffic accidents in Canada last year and added:

"But this is not all the appalling grim though it is—90,152 persons were injured in highway accidents, many permanently disabled, more than the entire population of Verdun, Que.

"The total number of accidents causing damage of more than $100 was 247,693 which, from generally accepted ratios, indicates there are more than 400,000 accidents."

Trying to reduce traffic accidents called for unremitting determination to educate the public and better laws to be passed.

The emphasis of the three-day meeting was on the questions of teaching proper driving habits to teen-agers, keeping vehicles in proper operating condition and ways of improving police and public relations in traffic cases.

One resolution passed said each council should give "vigorous leadership" to a campaign to expand driver education in secondary schools. Another urged an adequate program for the care of all ages.

The council said all motor vehicle legislation, particularly the braking systems, should be checked at least once a year by a government-certified inspector.

The council also passed two resolutions dealing with the problem of drinking drivers.

One suggested an alcoholic content of .05 per cent in the blood should be accepted as sufficient evidence to prove an impaired driving charge.

The other said breathalyser tests should be accepted as an accurate method of determining whether a person has had a drink, provided the tests were conducted by qualified technicians.

The breathalyser, in which a person's breath is analyzed chemically, "is accepted as evidence in many United States courts.

Governor General and Wife To Meet People in North

OTTAWA (CP) — Governor-General Vanier's desire to bring the Crown closer to the people will be met next month when he makes his first official visit to the Northwest Territories.

In communities along the huge Mackenzie River system he and Mme. Vanier will come face to face with the people in a way that isn't possible in formal visits to big cities and towns in the south.

Everywhere he goes during the 16-day tour he will be speaking to children and decorating will follow his practice of awarding school holidays.

As well, his schedule allows a good deal of free time, apart from official functions, for getting out on the spur of the moment to meet people informally.

Not all of the tour of nearly 8,000 miles will be in the Northwest Territories.

General Vanier and his wife will visit the military base at Fort Churchill, Man., June 12 and Uranium City, Sask., on Lake Athabasca, June 15, on their way to the northland. On the way back to Ottawa they will stop at the big RCAF base at Cold Lake, Alta., June 27.

Most of the trip will be by aircraft. But on June 22 a 12-hour boat trip is planned down the lower reaches of Great Bear River and then down the Mackenzie River to Norman Wells.

There are no hotels in most of the communities to be visited, and the Governor-General's party will stay in available accommodations — church - operated hostels, homes of officials of private industry, and government buildings.

When it was found impossible for the Governor - General to visit Fort Simpson, Father Jean - Marie River, some 50 miles up the Mackenzie River, Fort Simpson, Father Latreste Cason decided to bring his people to Fort Simpson.

There is also a possibility that Chief Charlie Peter Charlie of the Old Crow Indian Band in the Yukon will travel to Inuvik to see Mme. Vanier. The small Old Crow band, noted for their strong loyalty to the Crown, donated $700 during the Second World War to help bombed-out children in Britain.

SEES HOUSING DEMAND

STRATFORD (CP) — The demand for housing will again be on the increase by the middle of the present decade, Publicity Director Morris Walker predicted Wednesday night. He told the annual meeting of the Dominion Mortgage and Investment Association that as the pace of urban renewal accelerates, tremendous capital sums will be required to replace slums. Such undertakings would be "a good investment and one that I commend.

CADET OF THE YEAR . . . was Flt. Sergeant Klaus Tulnman seen receiving the RCAF Association "Cadet of the Year" trophy from Lorne Foley, president of No. 418, Belleville Wing. The Association presentation was one of several made following the inspection, including the Strathcona Rifle Trophy and RCAF Association Rifle Crests.

Air Cadet Squadron Makes Fine Showing at Inspection

"Education is the most important thing to you at this time," said Wing Commander Powell, C.D., inspecting officer at the 6th annual inspection of No. 608 Royal Canadian Air Cadet Squadron of the Units Secondary School held at the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment's armouries yesterday afternoon.

Education and skill is the keynote to success in the complex world of today, he said, adding that the pursuit of this goal bestirred not only the individual concerned but the community and the country as well. The staff officer, construction engineering, of Air Transport Command at RCAF Station Trenton, emphasized that the Air Cadet movement was dedicated to the development of good citizenship, mental alertness and discipline and that the RCAF, in supporting this movement, feels that it is supporting the future of Canada.

He complimented the cadets on their neatness, their appearance and the manner in which they executed their drill. The band was especially complimented on its show which, Wing Cmdr. Powell said, undoubtedly added much to the good marching of the squadron. The gymnasts' display, several members of which were Air Cadets, was also praised for its fine show.

The cadets were also addressed by Mr. Douglas Whitley of the Ontario Provincial committee, who urged them to read all they could to broaden their education. Mr. A. Greatrix, chairman of the Bay of Quinte High School Board, which is the sponsoring group for the squadron, also complimented the cadets on their fine showing, as did Mayor Meegan Daly who also brought the greetings of the city.

GUARDS PRESENTED

A number of awards were presented to the outstanding cadets of the squadron. The RCAF Association Cadet of the Year Trophy was presented to F/S Klaus Tulinman by Mr. Lorne Foley, president of the Association's Wing). Cmdr. Tulinman, who was drum major of the band also received an RCAF Association Rifle Crest.

Others who received this latter award were W. O. Gerald Marriott, F/S John Smith, Sgt. Ed Karkheck, A.C. Dave Sprig, A.C. 1 David Riley, A.C. 1 Robert Lake, L.A.C. Doug Manasty, L.A.C. Keith Bamber, Cpl. John Vaulks and L.A.C. Ron McMullen.

The Strathcona Rifle Trophy and the Department of Education Rifle Crest were presented to Mr. Murray Tom, ex-cadet, by Squadron Leader E. A. Craighead, O.C., commanding officer of the squadron.

Wing Commander Powell presented Graduation Certificates to F/S Barton Dunard, F/S John Smith, F/S Randall La More and F/S Douglas White. These certificates are awarded upon a cadet's successful completion of four years of training with the Air Cadets.

Following the formal ceremonies of the inspection a banquet was held for the officers and NCO's of the squadron at St. Andrew's Church Hall.

Fulton Refuses To Give Report On Drug Prices

OTTAWA (CP)—Justice Minister Fulton refused Wednesday in the Commons to reveal the contents of a confidential report on drug prices prepared by the chief combines investigator.

He said the statement, written by D. H. W. Henry, director of combines investigation, is a restricted document and will not be made public.

Mr. Fulton, replying to Frank Howard (CCF — Skeena), said the statement had been made available to interested parties for comment before any official finding under the Combines Investigation Act.

"Any publicity given to the material contained in the director's statement must therefore have originated from some person who had received a copy from the commission for the purpose of preparing submissions," said the minister. "This is unfortunate, but does not relieve me from the obligation of maintaining privacy."

He said that the restrictive trade practices commission will make a full report later to the government. This report, containing all relevant information, would be made public.

Glassco Commission Taking Look at Govt. Services To Get Most Efficiency

OTTAWA (CP)—The Glassco royal commission on government organization reported here Wednesday that it is taking a hard look at government services that might be performed better by private enterprise.

The first progress report, tabled without comment in the Commons by Prime Minister Diefenbaker, said the commission has started its inquiry along 18 lines.

The commission, appointed last Sept. 16, is headed by J. Grant Glassco, vice-president of Brazilian Traction, Light and Power Company Limited. Its other members are R. Watson Sellar, former auditor - general of Canada, and P. Eugene Therrien, Montreal lawyer and business executive.

The commission is to look into the efficiency of government and state industries both in the hiring and paying of workers and in the practices and operations as they affect everything from paper clips to warships.

The investigations will draw comparisons between government and private industry both in the hiring and paying of workers and in the products and services they turn out.

Among the comparisons to be made are the relative merits of rental as opposed to ownership of government buildings and office space, and the relative efficiency of private and government architectural and engineering services.

The present practice of using both commercial and government - owned communications facilities, and the value of direct government research relative to sponsored and shared research, will be reviewed.

The commission also will consider whether the government should provide medical and hospital services for Indians, Eskimos, and its civil and military personnel in its own hospitals and clinics, or use existing private facilities.

One complete study will be made on government undertakings—such as the printing bureau — assigned primarily to provide goods and services for government use that could be provided by private enterprise.

This theme of competition through the outlines of the 18 research projects published in the 20-page first report.

The commissioners said the enquiry is going forward on the functional approach, investigating such fields as financial control and accounting, manpower management, property management, transportation, letting of contracts and specifications — factors that cut across the normal lines of policy responsibility between various government departments.

Studies for commissioners, project directors, and advisory committee members, 130 men made are the relative merits of investigation, which is to be completed by September, 1962.

Appointment of the commission last September followed years of criticism of government waste and extravagance by the Conservative party in opposition.

'One Dog Called Eichmann' Is Organizing Everything' Said Wehrmacht Sergeant

JERUSALEM—A Jewish underground fighter in the Second World War testified today that a German army sergeant told him Adolf Eichmann was "organizing everything" in the Nazi campaign to exterminate Jews in Europe.

Abba Kovner, now a writer in Israel, told the three - judge court trying Eichmann for complicity in the wartime murder of millions of Jews, that his informant, Wehrmacht Sgt. Anton Schmidt, was executed by the Nazis for helping the Jews.

Kovner said he had a secret meeting with Schmidt in Poland in January, 1942, in a Lithuanian village.

Kovner testified:

"I asked him about local German commanders. Schmidt said to me: 'These local command... I can say. There is only one dog called Eichmann and he is organizing everything.'"

Kovner said Schmidt then refused to say more.

CROWD OWN SURVIVORS

Another prosecution witness, Meir Dworzki, told of a bureaucrat named Rahm who created ghettos of eastern Europe. Dworzki said "lebensraum" — living space — were issued to Jews picked for a respite from the slaughters and firing squads but that the Jews themselves had to do the shooting of their own people.

"If a man had a wife, two children and a mother, he had to choose whom to register because only four persons could be counted in a special statistical table," Dworzki, a physician in Vilna, Lithuania, ghetto, testified.

Those who could not be registered were sent away by the family to hide in the woods.

Dworzki described the role as the prosecution took up the activities of the "einsatzgruppen," the Nazi extermination squads assigned to kill Jews in the rear areas of the advancing armies during the campaign against Russia.

My wife and I had no children," Dworzki said. "We were allowed to have two children. So I registered my sister as my child. We had to make her look much younger. We had to pass up a boy who asked 'who wants to play father?' and I registered him as our second child."

Pro-Western Leader Faces Major Fight in Keeping South Viet Nam From Reds

By BRUCE RUSSELL

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (Eastern) — Ngo Dinh Diem, slender, 56-year-old Vietnam president, faces a major fight to keep the Southeast Asian country from falling to Communist guerrillas as he begins his second term of office after a sweeping victory in national elections.

The guerrillas, acting behind the "neutralist" facade of the "national front for the liberation of South Viet Nam," have won a dominating influence over large parts of the nation's ricelands in 18 months of terror tactics and propaganda warfare.

Diem's government still maintains full control of the nation's towns, which up to now have been largely free of incidents, but the Communists exert a powerful influence in the countryside.

Starting with a nucleus of cell leaders who stayed on after the Indochina war, the Communists gradually have built up a coalition of dissident forces authoritatively estimated to number 15,000.

These troops have become powerful enough to spread out to a steady trickle of weapons taken from dead government troops and captured militia posts. Deaths of civilians and government forces since their campaign of terror began generally number about six a day and often go higher.

The renewed Communist upsurge began about August, 1959, and first produced results in the province of Kien Hoa—a number of tactical islands in the delta of the Mekong River—which had been a key Communist base during the war against the French.

The Communists' influence spread quickly to the provinces along the Cambodian border and to the marshy forests in the extreme south of the republic.

But the national alarm was not sounded until February, 1960, when Communist troops overran a Vietnamese headquarters at Tay Ninh, in western Viet Nam and made off with five truckloads of arms.

Homers Win For Leafs Over Jersey

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Buffalo and Toronto celebrated their 1971 International League home baseball campaigns in exactly the same manner Wednesday night—with victories. But there was sharp contrast in the reception the two clubs received from the home folks.

Buffalo nipped San Juan's Marlins 4-3 behind Dick Rickett's six - hit hurling. Toronto, with Ellis Burton and Tom Thompson both smacking grand slam home runs, clobbered Jersey City's Jerseys 15-5.

A throng of 20,619, largest in Buffalo's home history, watched the Bisons perform in their newly-renovated War Memorial Stadium. In contrast, Toronto had its smallest opening day crowd in a decade, an estimated 9,000 turning out for the Maple Leafs' run-making feast that included 10 in the eight innings.

Columbus' game at Syracuse and Richmond's contest at Rochester were postponed, both because of cold weather.

Ricketts fanned 11 Marlins, who may abandon their San Juan stomping ground in the next couple of weeks and move to Charleston, W. Va., because IL admission prices are apparently proving too high for the average Puerto Rican fan.

Buffalo scored the winning run in the eighth when San Juan pitcher Leroy Gregory let loose a wild pitch, outfielder Jim Frey crossing the plate for the clincher. It was Gregory's first loss in a relief role.

The grand slam home run blasts by Burton and Thompson both came in Toronto's 10-run outburst in the sixth when the Maple Leafs batted. Most of the assault came against rookie Gerry Davis, who worked a third of an inning and yielded both grand slammers, a single, four walks and hit one batter.

It was an easy victory for Steve Ridzik, who doled out six hits for his second victory against no defeats.

Jockey Hurt At Erie

ERIE (CP)—Charlie Boland, 31, second leading jockey in this year's Ontario racing season, suffered a severe concussion and probable fractured skull Wednesday when his horse fell. He was riding Wavern, a three - year - old filly owned by J. C. Cowan of Toronto, when the accident occurred in the eighth race. He struck the concrete base of a railing support.

In the 22-day-old Ontario season, the young jockey had picked up 22 winners.

Kentucky Derby

"Carry Back" Is Favorite

By ORLO ROBERTSON

LOUISVILLE Ky. (AP)—Carry Back, who strikes from far back with power in the home stretch, your choice for Saturday's 87th running of the $125,000 added Kentucky Derby?

Or perhaps you favor a horse like Canadian owned Flutterby or Ambiopoise, who prefer to lay closer to the early pace and attempt to overpower the opposition in the final eight of a mile?

But if you like horses who break from the starting gate with a burst of speed, then your preference must be among Canadian - owned Four - and - Twenty, Crozier, Globemaster or Sherluck.

There was strong argument for all of them, even the late-running Dr. Miller, as the names of an expected field of 15 three - year - olds were dropped into the entry box at Churchill Downs today.

Carry Back became the No. 1 nominee when his trainer, Jack Price, dropped in the set Wednesday. He said he didn't want to "get entangled in all the mob" today.

If 15 parade to the post at seemed Churchill Downs late Saturday, the 1¼-mile classic will be worth $183,000 with $120,500 going to the winner. Only one Kentucky Derby has been richer, in 1956 when Needles won.

Post time is approximately 5:30 p.m. EDT. Television (CBS) is 5:15 to 5:45 p.m.

The weather bureau isn't certain yet what the forecast will be. But rain or shine, Churchill Downs is expected to be packed with its usual estimated crowd of around 100,000.

As Derby fever gripped this Ohio River city, visitors to the downs backstretch, where the horses are quartered, heard these remarks:

"I have seen nothing to make me think that Carry Back won't take it all." That came from Jack Price, trainer of the 5-to-5 favorite who races in the name of his wife, Mrs. Katherine Price. "I realize Crozier ran a mighty fast mile in record 1:34 3-5) in the Derby Trial, but we beat him three times in Florida and will do it again."

REAR HANDLEY

Crozier beat Four-and-Twenty by 3¼ lengths in the trial.

"My horse was a little tired at the end of the derby trial," said Johnny Longden. "but the race could have done him good." Johnny, the world's winningest jockey at 56, forms with his son Vance the first father-son combination in Kentucky Derby history. Vance also will saddle Flutterby for Alberta Ranches Ltd., and its co-owners Max Bell and Frank McMahon of Calgary.

Four-and-Twenty will run as an entry with Flutterby, and this combination is expected to draw the next strongest support to Carry Back and Crozier.

Dickie Boon Hockey Star Dies at 83

MONTREAL (CP) — R. H. (Dickie) Boon, one of the all-time greats of amateur hockey, died Wednesday at the age of 83.

Boon, elected to the Hockey Hall of Fame several years ago, was a 180-pound amateur star with the Montreal Victoria team to win the Stanley Cup—the Montreal Amateur Athletic Association squad of 1901-02.

The team itself was composed of players so small and durable that one Montreal sports writer named them "the little men of iron." Jack Marshall, 84, of Montreal, is the last survivor of the team.

Boon never played professional hockey although he was one of the most sought - after men of his time. He later coached the Montreal Wanderers and took them to the Stanley Cup in three seasons—1906-07, 1907-08, and 1908-09.

In recent years, Boon was one of the Montreal area's most popular golfers and curlers. The Boon Trophy is one of the major events at the suburban Outremont Curling Club.

The Boons were a Montreal family and the CPR Wildsor Station now stands on the site of Dickie Boon's estate.

He was an uncle of Lucille Wheeler, now Mrs. Kaye Vaughan, world ski champion of 1958.

Point Towards Calgary

96 Cars Left In Rally

REGINA (CP) — Trans-Canada Rally contestants pointed their cars toward Calgary on the fifth leg of the 4,100 cross-country grind today.

Weather may found the pointers aren't always fast as they thread through narrow, winding, dust-choked hills of the Qu'Appelle River Valley 30 miles east of here.

Of the 106 cars that left Montreal 96 were still pressing on toward Vancouver and Victoria and $6,000 in cash prizes.

Rally officials expressed surprise at the number of cars still competing after more than 2,000 miles. And competition is still fierce—65 cars had fewer than five points against them when they started the Winnipeg-Regina leg Wednesday.

The factory Volvo of Sam Nordell of St. Martin, Que., and Tony Wilson of Dorval, Que., was still leading with a clean sheet. They were being closely tagged by Rosmer Trotter of Watertown, N.Y., and Bob Mollman of Bedford Heights, Ohio, in a works Mercedes - Benz 230SL. Jack Young and Reg Hillary of Toronto were third in a factory Studebaker Lark.

Mercedes - Benz of Canada Limited led manufacturers teams. The rear-engined Corvairs, entered by the Chevrolet division of General Motors, Dearborn, Mich., took over second place.

Studebaker Packard of Canada Limited and the Ford Motor Company of Canada Limited were tied for third spot.

Ice Spoiled Trout Opener

Opening day for speckled trout has once again come and gone leaving in its wake more than the usual number of disappointed anglers.

Many of the lakes north of No. 7 highway were partially or even totally ice locked, which naturally restricted the use of boats, and denied anglers the necessary mobility on those lakes for casting.

Bottom ice posed a perplexing problem for anglers throughout the north central part of the district. A few of the more venturesome were seen treading gingerly on the ice surface, while others who tried it near the shore got an icy dunking.

Bright sunny weather prevailed over most of the district during Saturday and Sunday although heavy frosts were evident at night.

In spite of the unusual ice conditions on district lakes, some anglers made the best of a difficult situation by taking advantage of the narrow areas around the shorelines.

From these narrow marginal areas, anglers on some lakes caught their legal limit of trout.

In the Bancroft, Maynooth area angling was spotty, but over the weekend a few aggressive nimrods were successful in taking near their legal bag limit of trout. In the Ompah, and Canonto areas, conservation officers reported 77 cars along the roads, but their occupants reported fishing difficult. A few speckled trout and Kamloops trout weighing up to five pounds were taken in the area.

The Denbigh anglers are reported to have encountered poor fishing conditions and spotty catches of trout.

In the more northerly parts of the district including Renfrew County, ice conditions hampered fishing efforts and kept the catches to a minimum.

The most recent aerial survey of ice conditions made in the district shows that lakes are still ice locked in, and north of the Townships of Wollaston, Limerick, Cashel, Effingham, Abinger, Clarendon and Palmerston.

Providing the ice disappears from district lakes this week, fishing conditions and catches will probably be greatly increased during the weekend of May 6th, and 7th.

Although the fire hazard was low on Saturday it rose considerably on Sunday.

Anglers are to be commended in that only three fires extinguished by lands and forests crew could be attributed to them.

Will Send Golfers to Far East

MONTREAL (CP) — The Canadian Professional Golfers Association said Wednesday it will send representatives to tournaments in the Far East for the first time next year.

Dick Borthwick association president, said different players will probably be assigned to the various tournaments on the 1961-62 Caribbean and Far Eastern circuits.

The list will be made up of the five top finishers in the CPGA championships, to be held in Quebec City Aug. 18-20; the National Seniors' and match - play champions; the Rivermead Cup winner and runner-up; and the provincial open and professional champions.

It was also announced that a total of $5,000 in prizes — with $1,000 going to the winner—will be awarded at the CPGA championships this year.

The tournament will be held at the Royal Quebec course Aug. 18-20.

Twins, Orioles Beaten

Yanks, Tigers Share Lead

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Staff Writer

Those new American League clubs, Washington Senators and Los Angeles Angels, are at the bottom of the heap as expected, but try telling Detroit and Baltimore that they're a couple of patsies. Between them they've grouped the Tigers out of the undisputed lead and kept the Orioles from staying over .500.

The Senators turned on the Tigers Wednesday night for a 5-4 victory. That gave New York Yankees a share of the lead with Detroit after the defending champs whipped Minnesota Twins 7-3.

And the Angels knocked the Orioles out of a chance to tie for third with a 7-6 job on the Birds, coming from behind on two-out home runs by Ted Kluszewski and Earl Averill in the Cleveland scored a 4-3 decision over Chicago White Sox for the second time in two nights, and Kansas City beat Boston 9-3 in 10 innings.

TOOK HARD ROUTE

The Senators did it the hard way, coming from behind and then breaking a 3-3 tie on Dale Long's two-run double in the sixth off Frank Lary, who had won four in a row.

Rookie Joe McClain won his third, against a lone loss, although giving up a home run by Dick Brown in a three-run second inning and needed Dave Sisler's relief after Larry Osborne's pinch double brought the Tigers close in the eighth.

The Angels came from five runs behind against the Orioles, who scored all their runs on two homers by Jim Gentile and a solo shot by Whitey Herzog. Klu started the winning rally with his sixth home run, only losing reliever Skinny Brown (0-1), and Averill put it away after Ken Hunt singled. The Clevenger won his second in relief.

Clevenger took over from Ted Bowsfield, who pitched the eighth inning. Bowsfield, from Pentiction, B.C., held the Orioles hitless, walked none and struck out one while making a relief appearance for the second consecutive night.

Orioles starter Chuck Estrada left the game after being struck above the right ankle by Ken Aspromonte's line drive in the fifth inning. And the Angels lost shortstop Ken Hamlin, who was carried off on a stretcher after colliding with Hunt while chasing a fly in the ninth.

The Yankees scored three unearned runs in the fourth off Pete Ramos (3-1), then beat the Cuban right hander with another unearned run in a four-run seventh. Hector Lopez' single drove in the clincher and Roger Maris capped the inning with a three-run homer. Bob Turley (3-1), pitching his first complete game of the season, was the winner. He gave up six hits, all singles.

A pinch single by Bob Hale broke it up for the Indians after a two-out double by Johnny Romano in the ninth. Romano also homered with a man on in the seventh. The White Sox, blanked on five hits for eight innings by Jim Perry, tied it 3-3 in their ninth before reliever Frank Funk cut them down for his second victory. Jerry Staley was the loser in relief for an 0-3 record.

The As blew an 8-0 lead when the Red Sox scored twice in the seventh and then gagged up on Ray Herbert for six in the ninth that tied it. Kansas City finally nailed it when Andy Carey doubled in the 10th and Jerry Lumpe singled him home off reliever Mike Fornales (0-1). Don Larsen was the winner.

CAR THEFT UP

Norwegian police investigated 4,823 cases of car theft last year, an increase of 48 per cent over 1959.

Oil Kings Again Halt Irish Sweep

Cut Margin To 3-2

By LORNE BURKE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

EDMONTON (CP)—The Memorial Cup hockey series, which only a few days ago was being written off as a breeze for Toronto St. Michael's Majors, is developing into one of those dramatic battles in which the downtrodden suddenly spring to life.

Edmonton Oil Kings are supplying the heroics — but still have a long way to go.

The western champions whipped the Majors 4-2 Wednesday night for their second straight victory in the best-of-seven series after being beaten in the first three engagements.

The Majors carry their 3-2 series edge into a sixth game Friday night. Nobody can blame them if they have feelings of insecurity. If the Kings pull off another victory, the seventh and deciding game for the Canadian junior hockey crown will be staged Saturday night.

No team in Memorial Cup history has come from the first three games and swept the next four. And Edmonton coach Buster Brayshaw is enough of a pessimist to suggest the Oil Kings are not likely to be the first.

WILL BE TOUGH

"We won two games, but that means nothing," Brayshaw said. "We have to win two more and they will be the toughest ones of our lives.

Brayshaw, displaying one of his rare notes of optimism in the series, added however:

"St. Mike's has started playing our style of hockey. They'll get beaten if they keep it up."

St. Michael's coach Rev. David Bauer said the scoreboard told the story.

"We outshot them 40-32 but couldn't collect a register in the score. We had a few defensive lapses and (goaltender) Paul Szczesny played extremely well for Edmonton."

LEADS SCORING

Dennis Kazzian, a winger almost benched because of poor performances in the earlier games, broke out with two goals to lead the Kings. Don Chic and Dave Richardson added one apiece. Bruce Draper and Andre Champagne scored for Toronto.

The eastern champions started out as though they were going to wrap things up early. The 6,114 customers had barely got settled when Draper batted the puck behind Szczesny at 2:57 of the first period.

The score stood at 1-0 until 13:07, when Kazzian fired a short backhander behind Toronto netminder Jerry Cheevers. That gave the Oil Kings plenty of zip. They took a 2-1 lead at 16:52 on Chic's deflection of a long slapshot and made it 3-1 at 19:12 on Kazzian's close-in backhander.

The Majors scored the only goal of the second period but in the third Richardson produced the insurance goal.

SETS SWIM RECORD

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — Jane Cederqvist of Sweden defeated U.S. Olympic champion Chris von Saltza Wednesday and set a European record in winning the 400-metre freestyle swimming title of the Hapoel Workers Olympics. The 17-year-old Swedish girl, second to the Californian in the Olympic 400-metre final at Rome last summer, was timed in 4:46.8 yesterday, the mark of 4:52.0 held by Corlene Schimmel of Holland.

Canada Will Win by Default

Won't Change Harmsworth Dates

TORONTO (CP)—The chairman of the Harmsworth committee in Canada said Wednesday the powerboat race will still be held Aug. 5-6 at Picton despite a complaint that it is scheduled at the same time as a big - money event in the United States.

Commodore R. A. Finlayson, also executive director of the Canadian Boating Federation, added Canada—will win by default if no American competitor appears because the U.S. issued a challenge in December, 1960.

The Harmsworth, won the last two years by Miss Supertest III of Canada, is international power-boating's most prized trophy.

Commodore Finlayson was commenting on a statement in Detroit Tuesday by Lee Schoenith, expected to be chosen by the Yachtmen's Association of America to enter his Gale VI against Miss Supertest.

Schoenith said the Seattle-Seafair Regatta—carrying $40,000 in prize, appearances and qualifying money — conflicts with the Harmsworth race. It will be held Aug. 6.

"Americans can't afford to pass up the Seattle race to spend thousands of dollars on the Harmsworth, which carries only prestige," he said.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

Gorgeous George, the gym-hating blonde beauty of Rasputin Row, dubbed the "Cheyboat of the Ring," opens the wrestling season here tomorrow night.

The owner of a hundred dazzling gowns and a dozen different kinds of perfumes, not to mention insecticides, meets Tony Marino, a dashing young newcomer who is as tough as George is brash-talking.

But George has added to his entourage. With him will be his brand new "valette", beautiful Cheryl Dupres. George's comely assistant goes to it that no nasty germs invade the dressing room of the noble Caesar of the ring, and also eliminates any bugs, ants or what have you who might flit about the ring itself.

The bobby-pin tossing blonde has a new hair-do. It seems some time ago George appeared in a bout which stipulated that if he lost he would shave his golden locks to be shorn. It required about seven people to hold him down while he was forced to pay his debt.

It has taken more than a year to grow those golden locks to normal length, and Gorgeous now has a new coiffure which should be the envy of the weaker sex. He has luxury plus.

Marino, the handsome 24-year-old opponent of Gorgeous, has been adopted by promoters as one of the wrestling finds of the year. The Rochester-born Tony has some 25 awards in his trophy room. He was junior Mr. America, a title won against 57 opponents. He is a shotput and football star and represented his school in track and field.

Another new face to this city is Pat Flanagan's partner in a tag-team match against two bearded Russians, Nikita and Ivan Kalikoff. He is Man Mountain Campbell, a six-foot-eight, 240-pound wrestler from Bear Creek, Kentucky.

MAN MOUNTAIN

Man Mountain is 24 and has been wrestling professionally for about three years. He has a pet bull that follows him around like a dog and enjoys being his sparring partner in wrestling workouts.

He is remarkably nimble for a man of his size and weight. He is a capable wrestler whose favorite holds are a "bear-hug" and a flying tap-spread, called the "Big Splash."

Then, topping off the card are Karl Kalmikoff, who is a world beater here for his skullduggery and Farmer Boy Frank Townsend. Looks like a fine opener all around.

THE SALLY ANN

For fifty-one weeks of the year the Salvation Army extends the famous "helping hand" to the poor, the needy, the less fortunate. It does not decrease its humanitarian efforts in the Red week but does take a little time out in an effort to refurbish a very needy exchequer.

In other words this is the week the "Helping Hand" needs helping hands like yours and mine.

The work of the Army never ceases. "No" is an unknown word in the Army vocabulary. We, who carry memories or experiences in the armed services, some of us over two wars are fully cognizant and appreciative of the work done by the Army for us while we were over there and for a lot of us, since we came back.

These days there are more requests for financial aid than ever before. The "one appeal in a year" is a thing of the past. Television and radio brings appeals almost daily. Stage, radio and screen stars give their moral support.

The Salvation Army is asking humbly and in full appreciation of what has been done before, for financial help so that its fine work can go on without interruption. If ever an organization is worthy of the support of the public it is the Salvation Army.

A nickel or a dollar, all will help. And you won't forget the sincerity in the voice that utters the familiar "God Bless You."

So when the man in the familiar uniform or the girl in the familiar blue bonnet calls at your home, please do not say "no" to those who in their work for humanity do not know the meaning of the word.

Beats Dodgers Jinx

Spahn Spins Two-Hitter

By ED ELSEN
Associated Press Staff Writer

If there is any one thing that has detracted from the greatness of Warren Spahn it's been his inability to beat the Dodgers — a jinx that hung on even when their once right - handed power lineup gave way to age.

It was a jinx honored by three Milwaukee managers — Charlie Grimm, Fred Haney and the present Bravest boss, Charlie Dressen. Grimm and Haney juggled their pitching rotation whenever they could to keep Spahn free of facing the Dodgers, Dressen didn't start Spahn against them at all last year.

Wednesday night, Dressen, perhaps out of desperation after the rest of his staff had been shagged for 16 home runs in three games, finally went against his book and Warren the Wonder went to work.

Making his first start since pitching a no-hitter against San Francisco Giants Friday, Spahn spun a two - hitter for a 4-1 decision over Los Angeles, walking just two and striking out nine for his 361st career victory and first over the Dodgers in seven decisions spanning four seasons. He allowed Junior Gilliam a pop-fly double in the third and Tommy Davis a single in the ninth.

In other games, San Francisco rapped Chicago Cubs 8-4 and regained first place when St. Louis Cardinals spilled Pittsburgh Pirates 3-2, Cincinnati Redlegs defeated Philadelphia Phillies 9-3.

Spahn, stopping the Braves' skid at three games, had lost six in a row to the Dodgers since July 20, 1958, and hadn't started against them since mid-June, 1958. His lifetime mark against them is 15-20. No other club has an edge on Spahn, who has won three straight after a 3-1 loss in 100 innings to St. Louis.

Spahn, whose earned run average is 0.97, scored the clincher himself, doubling in the second inning for the first of his three hits and scoring in on Lee Maye's single. Stan Williams (1-3) lost.

The Cardinals, shut out for 14 innings, jumped on Vinegar Bend Mizell (3-1) for all three runs in the fifth inning. Ken Boyer and Daryl Spencer opened with singles and scored on catcher Smoky Burgess's wild throw.

Ron Gibson won it, with Lindy McDaniel's mop-up relief after Rocky Nelson's homer broke up a four - hit shutout in the eighth.

A three - run seventh, with two runs unearned, broke a 3-3 tie for the Giants. Willie McCovey's single drove in the deciding run and tagged rookie Jack Curtis with the defeat in his first decision. Billy O'Dell (1-1) won, relieving Mike McCormick in the first inning after the young lefty suffered a gashed lip when hit by Don Zimmer's bouncer.

Ernie Banks hit two solo homers for the Cubs and Orlando Cepeda rapped a two - run shot for the Giants, who fell one shy of the record of 16 homers for four consecutive games.

The Reds won 11 four in a row, three over the Phils, with a two - run fifth off Johnny Buzhardt (0-2). Jim Maloney (1-1) won, with relief by Bill Henry after Clay Dalrymple's three - run homer in the eighth.

Henry Morgan Swaps Horse For Model T Car on Show

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—I've Got a Secret, a CBS game show dedicated to playing practical jokes on its panel members, enjoyed a golden harvest of gags Wednesday night.

Last week, panelist Henry Morgan was given a horse in order to test what kind of horse trader he was. The horse was an aged equine acquired from the New York police department. But there was a catch. Host Garry Moore invited the viewers to send in cheap offers for the horse by postcard.

By Tuesday night, the program's staff was swamped with postcards—more than 100,000 of them. Moore said Wednesday night.

Included among the offers is exciting—for the city of Boston—almost 5,000 automobiles, most of them Hupmobiles but two all-most-new sport cars and 15 classic Model T's.

Morgan also received bonafide offers for a yearold airplane in good working condition, a small atom smasher, acreage all over the country, vacations, shares in oil wells, bonds, turtles, birds and other pets.

Rolando offered their wives in trade, and one small boy wanted to swap his older sister for a horse.

Morgan finally decided against a sale but a high totem pole and chose one of the Model-T cars.

Dentist Denies Hoop Bribes

PITTSBURGH (AP)—A dentist maintained Wednesday that he never offered bribes to any one to shave points in basketball games.

The testimony came from Dr. Edward Sebastian, accused of offering money and other bribes to two University of Pittsburgh basketball stars to cut points in Pitt games.

The players involved are John Fridley and Dick Falenski, both seniors.

Dr. Sebastian, a former instructor at the Pitt Dental School, charged that Fridley and Falenski first came to him in 1959 "to use me" in an attempt to assure that they received passing grades and to assure their entrance into dental school.

"He (Fridley) even said he was thinking of throwing a few games," the dentist testified.

"I said if you ever do that, let me in on a good thing," Dr. Sebastian told the court. "I thought he was joking."

Fridley and Falenski claim Dr. Sebastian approached them and offered money, scholarships and a guarantee that they would be admitted to dental school if they shaved points in games on which he bet.

Sebastian is charged with bribery in athletic contests. He was convicted in a non-jury trial earlier, but won an appeal for a new trial.

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. (AP)—Doug Moe, star basketball player at the University of North Carolina, was suspended indefinitely from school Wednesday for failing to report bribe attempts in the current basketball fix scandal.

Moe was suspended for not reporting that he had accepted $75 last September from a New York gambler now under indictment in the nation's latest basketball point - shaving scandal.

Moe admitted last week that he accepted the money but did not agree to become involved in point-shaving. He also admitted that Lou Brown, a fellow North Carolina player, attempted to bribe him on two occasions last year.

Will Move San Juan Ball Club

BUFFALO (AP) — Tommy Richardson, president of the International Baseball League, says the new San Juan club will move out of Puerto Rico within a week or two, probably to Montreal or to Charleston, W. Va.

"We regret very much leaving San Juan," said Richardson, here for Buffalo's home opener, "but the economics of the situation make it just too tough for our ball club.

"I have been in touch with both Charleston and Montreal and expect definite word from one of them within 48 hours," said Richardson.

Movie Column

Laurence Harvey Playing His Third Angry Role

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Laurence Harvey, the angry young Briton in Room at the Top, is playing his third angry young southerner.

He's fought through the Alamo and Tennessee Williams' psychotic jungle Summer and Smoke. Harvey now is the Nelson Algren hero in A Walk on the Wild Side.

Where else but in Hollywood would one of England's finest young classical actors be spouting southern drawls?

This is Harvey's fifth American film. Despite some mishaps, he seems happy with the experience.

HE LIKES IT

"I like it here," he said. "The living is wonderful and the people are great. There can be no doubt that Hollywood has the best facilities in the world for making films."

Having doubted that he's not achieved the dramatic heights in Hollywood that he did in England, Why?

"Censorship," he commented. "You simply can't make films here that deal with human problems in complete honesty. Pictures like Room at the Top, Expresso Bongo and The Long, The Short and the Tall couldn't be made in Hollywood.

"Don't get me wrong. I've done plenty of bad films in England, too. But the good ones are better than those made here because they can be frank. It's impossible because of our classification system in England, which limits certain films to adults only or children if accompanied by adults.

"The system can be costly; we lost thousands because Room at the Top couldn't get a family rating. But at least we were able to treat the story in utter honesty."

AT THE PARK — Lovely Millie Tuhi and Glenn Ford team each other in the William Goetz production, "Cry for Happy", now showing at the Park Theatre for its first Belleville showings, a Columbia release in CinemaScope and Eastman Color. The comedy also stars Donald O'Connor, James Shigeta and Miyoshi Umeki. On the same program, "Gun Fury", in Technicolor, starring Rock Hudson and Donna Reed.

At the Park

First Showing

"CRY FOR HAPPY"

Glenn Ford, one of the most popular stars on the screen today, teams with Donald O'Connor in "Cry For Happy", the new William Goetz production for Columbia Pictures, opens at the Park Theatre for its first showing. The comedy, filmed in CinemaScope and Eastman Color, co-stars Miiko Taka, James Shigeta and Miyoshi Umeki.

Producer Goetz, who made "Separate Tables" and "Jet Pilot" with "Cry for Happy," the comedy reunites Miss Taka and Miss Umeki, who were, respectively, Marlon Brando's sweetheart and the Japanese girl who marries Red Buttons in Mr. Goetz' earlier film. They play geisha girls in "Cry for Happy."

"Cry for Happy" is based on George Campbell's hilarious best-selling novel, a joyous record of the happy happenings in an "off-limits" geisha house when four U.S. gobs move in. The sailors have their own ideas about geisha girls and the luxurious pampering of the male animal by Japanese women, and they are rudely, firmly and happily shaken into reality from their dream world when they discover the geishas, while talented and beautiful are also dependable, also are eminently respectable.

"Cry for Happy" was filmed in color on location in Japan, in Kyoto and Tokyo. Highlights of the comedy include the scenery of the Land of the Setting Sun, a Japanese version of a Hollywood cocktail party, "the last night" in the geisha house, and a party for the youngsters of the neighborhood thrown by the embattled seamen and their girls in a desperate effort to stave off official discovery of their happy home away from home.

The players are uniformly excellent, with Ford as an "operator" who manages almost everything to hilarious advantage, and Shigeta as a "wolf" who enjoys being tanned by the pistol-like Miss Umeki.

George Marshall directed "Cry for Happy" for producer William Goetz, making it a "must-see" comedy for the entire family.

"Cry for Happy" is fun!

The Second Feature

"Gun Fury," in Technicolor, stars Rock Hudson and Donna Reed.

AT THE McCARTHY — Female tycoon Sophia Loren and her wily solicitor Alastair Sim make an important decision in "The Millionairess", 20th Century-Fox CinemaScope Deluxe Color comedy release, now playing the Odeon McCarthy Theatre, Peter Sellers also co-stars.

Furious Squall Sinks Vessel, Six Feared Dead

KEY WEST, Fla. (CP)—An Cuban squall in the Gulf of Mexico Tuesday sank a stately, square-rigged brigantine serving as a floating classroom. Presumed lost were six persons, including a sailing youth.

Three other teen - agers, a cook and the wife of the sailing vessel's skipper also were feared dead.

The missing Canadian, a Chris Cornstine of Montreal.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Corstine were told late Wednesday of their 18-year-old son's death.

Their son, a graduate of Ashbury College, Ottawa, and Selwyn House School, Montreal, was attending the summer school cruise preparatory to attending university next fall.

Mrs. Corstine is an executive of imperial Tobacco Company.)

Thirteen survivors — including 11 students between the ages of 15 and 17—were the ill-fated, seagoing school, named the Albatross, were picked up by the American freighter Cerra Rio.

The end of the 92-foot vessel, from Mystic, Conn., was sudden and tragic. When the sub-tropical storm struck at 8 a.m. Tuesday she went down in a matter of 15 minutes, Captain Peter B. Ten Eyck Jr. told newsmen. Only a day before, the 42-year-old veteran of 23 years at sea had combined the rugged work of seamanship with instruction in educational subjects.

The skipper, Prof. Christopher B. Ten Eyck of Mystic, Conn., had a long list of degrees and a background of several nations. His wife was reported saved but his wife was reported lost.

at Isachsen, 175 miles south, as the base radio was busy with other aircraft.

Isachsen is the base camp for the polar continental shelf project and is 2,200 miles north of Winnipeg.

BAD PLENTY

Mr. Gardiner said Mr. Burry had told them over the radio his survival gear and rations to have lasted 20 days on short rations. He said the men also had not expected to be rescued in fewer than 10 days.

After the four sleeping bags, a package of sandwiches, a five-gallon can of drinking water, about a gallon of gasoline and a box of survival rations had been taken from the plane, three of the men built an igloo while Mr. Burry stamped out the message.

The message read: "OK. Need tent, stove, gas, clothes, food."

Seven aircraft attached to the project flew 10,000 air miles during the search and SARAF search and rescue aircraft were not used.

Mr. Burry returned to Uranium City Wednesday.

CONVICT FATHER, SON

STRATFORD (CP) — Peter Nagtzaam and his 18-year-old son, Louis, both of Milverton, were convicted Wednesday on charges involving the theft of 28 head of cattle, milking equipment and tools from the Milverton Creamery Company Limited. The two were remanded until today for sentencing.

Atlantic Free Trade Area Proposed by Liberal Leader

KITCHENER (CP) — Canada should take the lead in developing an Atlantic free trade area and not allow herself to be frozen out of overseas markets by isolation from the European free trade area, Liberal Leader Lester B. Pearson said here on Wednesday night.

He was addressing about 250 party supporters at a rally climaxing a day-long visit to Kitchener and Waterloo.

In urging the development of an Atlantic trading area he said Canada cannot get out of its difficulties with out expanded markets.

Within a few years, six European countries will have complete free trade and another seven will be joining together, including the United Kingdom.

"This is one area where we should show leadership. We should be at the forefront to make it an Atlantic development."

On defence, Mr. Pearson said Canada should not jeopardize the disarmament talks in the United Nations by accepting Bomarcs with nuclear warheads.

"I don't believe in Canada becoming a nuclear power. Three nuclear countries is bad enough; it would be horrible beyond description if we had twelve.

"How can we go to the United Nations and speak for abolition of nuclear weapons if we become a nuclear power?" he asked.

DISCUSSES CUBA

He did not feel it is necessary to create bad feeling with the United States or to take any active criticism over its recent position on Cuba.

"If we had a Communist base 90 miles off our coast we would be worried, too."

"What I would suggest is that in their anxiety they should work with all their friends and all their actions should be taken collectively and not unilaterally."

On the national scene, Mr. Pearson declared that the Conservatives had hoodwinked the people into thinking they had all the solutions and then failed even to recognize the problems existed.

He referred to the New Party as Socialists "afraid to talk socialism and who take refuge in something called the New Party. The Liberals have been the new party since 1867 and will continue to be because they have new ideas."

Mr. Pearson was introduced by Ontario Liberal Leader John L. Wintermeyer.

Tax Rate, Up Five Mills, Highest Ever

89.4 Residential Rate
95.9 Mills For Industry
Are Set By City Council

Fire and Police Costs Account For Quarter of $315,391 Boost

As was generally expected the 1961 Belleville tax rate has gone higher.

Yesterday at a special budget meeting called to give final approval on the year's estimates, a tax rate of 89.4 mills, residential, and 95.9 mills, industrial and commercial, was set by city Council. The rates are the highest in the city's history.

The rate is up nearly five mills from last year and is the second similiar increase in as many years. Last year the tax rate was 84.5 mills, residential, and 91.3 mills, industrial and commercial. A year ago there was a five mill increase, while also in 1960 city taxpayers were called upon to pay a special rate of over 13 mills to pay off the city's floating indebtedness and to enter the city's hockey losses.

"That means city taxpayers have been called upon to pay an additional 23 mills in about 18 months," stated Mayor A. M. Haig. "It is not a record to be proud of."

NOT UNANIMOUS

Yesterday's tax rate agreed upon by council was not unanimous and was carried by a 9-4 majority with two members absent.

In approving the roughly five mill increase council last night ed there is a second motion which would have added another 1.6 mills to provide a cushion against future deficiencies, which Aldermen Jack John. Barlow said would double the city's per capita debt in another five years.

In urging the additional 1.6 mills for the year's tax rate Alderman Barlow said he was with the completion of currently proposed capital works the per capita debt would be increased to over $800 by 1965.

SHOULD BE PAYING

"The only way we are going to get the services is to start paying for them now," he said.

But other councillors felt that capital works should not be debentured until they are started and then should be paid for by the people who use them.

Alderman Barlow disagreed with long term debentures being sold for services which would be used by the time the debentures were retired.

As an illustration he noted that the city had only had year ceased paying for debentures on the old gas plant which ceased operation 13 years ago.

Mayor A. M. Haig made it clear that he was disappointed that council had not seen fit to accept a lower tax rate and went on to say that a city cannot function on the "pay as you go policy."

"By and large, capital costs should be paid for by the people who enjoy the services," he said.

RATE TOO HIGH

Claiming that proposed tax rate was too high, Alderman Jack said that one or two mills could have been pared if all councillors had appreciated the budget with open minds.

He pointed out that Belleville had suffered "severe financial reverses" in the past few years and said a municipality was no different than individuals.

"We cannot expected to recover in one, two or three years. A longer term will be needed, and it will be done only with the co-operation of everyone," he said.

He said that all city departments should take a "serious look" at their operations to justify all costs.

Alderman Education would soon have to examine themselves to see if new buildings or new rooms were required every time there were a few extra pupils.

"The economy cannot stand those ever increasing costs," he said.

"Soon," he said, "double shifts of school pupils may be necessary to obtain more effective and more efficient use of school buildings."

REVENUE & REPAIRS

The year's budget provides only an expenditure of just $15,000 for the interim year of College Street.

Of that sum this amount of money will be provided by paring other city budgets and earmarking the funds for the necessary minimum work to remedy the present danger points on College Street.

Alderman Ben Corke said it would be foolish, even to think of spending $127,000 to widen College Street when it would have to be torn up again in a year or so to install sewers and underground.

In proposing the millrate eventually accepted by council, Alderman Lorne McDougall asked that street planing be eliminated from the public works budget, and installation of crosswalk signals from the traffic committee to provide the necessary funds for the proposed 914-DOT College Street project.

Later this was amended to exclude installation of specific projects being eliminated in the works and traffic committee budgets.

Mayor Haig pointed out that committees could spend their budgets in any manner they wished as long as the whole was not overspent.

Alderman W. E. Jarvah noted that the bulk of the increased expenditures in the city for 1961 would be made up of increased electrical costs and increases in the police and fire budgets, items "over which council had no control", he said.

He said there were many desirable projects for the city which had to be excluded but that these estimates are executive and legislative, city manager, purchasing and purchasing, assessment, clerk, planning, treasury, election ex-

Provision of the multitude of services required in the city of Belleville in 1961 will cost an estimated $3,802,019.

This is the total estimated figure for municipal and education costs as approved by the city council yesterday, when it set tax rates five mills higher than last year.

The year's estimated expenditures are up $315,391 from last year. The bulk of this increase, $162,236, will be met by higher taxes, the result of the rate increase and of an increase in taxable assessment, now $201,612,242, up $1,231,698 from last year. Increases in subsidies and other revenues will take care of the remaining increase in expenditures.

There are increased expenditures in all city departments, especially in the fire and police budgets, and increased costs of education.

Last year the city finished the year with a $32,900 surplus.

PROTECTION COSTS UP

A breakdown of costs provided by City Manager J. R. Reynolds showed that protection to persons and property was going to cost the taxpayers $1,125,084 more this year than last; education costs are up $52,031; general government is up $40,732; public works up $28,696; health services are up $14,923; debt charges are up $11,921; and social welfare is up $30,752.

A further breakdown of protection costs shows the fire budget is up $44,329, police $39,957 and traffic and light is up $31,134.

Mr. Reynolds noted that the increase in the fire budget was due to higher administration costs, with salaries and fringe benefits the largest factor, up $38,000. The salary increase effective last year is due to a reduced work week resulting in eight new firemen being employed.

Police costs were also said due to higher administration costs with salary revisions and the addition of three new constables with another five $27,000 of the overall increase.

Street lighting costs have increased over the year last year, while $10,400 is being provided for private roads and last year's traffic study costs were $14,500.

Seventy five per cent of the traffic study costs are being paid by the provincial government.

Education is the largest single item in the city tax bill with $1,136,289 being provided, an increase of $52,031 over last year.

General government costs are estimated at $240,597, up just over $40,000 over last year. Some of the departments included in these estimates are executive and legislative, city manager, purchasing and purchasing, assessment, clerk, planning, treasury, election ex-

Federal Cabinet Gives Approval To Assent for Saskatchewan Bill

OTTAWA (CP)—The federal cabinet has ordered royal assent to be given to the Saskatchewan legislature bill on which assent was reserved April 8 by Lieutenant-Governor Frank Bastedo, Prince Minister Diefenbaker announced today.

He told the Commons that Mr. Bastedo had reserved assent on the bill without instructions from or consultation with Ottawa, and that the cabinet is considering a formal instruction to all lieutenant - governors to avoid such action.

Canada's Cost of Living Steady at First of April

OTTAWA (CP)—Gasoline tax 100. increases in five provinces caused hardly a ripple in the overall level of Canada's cost of living at the start of April, a bureau of statistics report indicated today.

The consumer price index held steady at 129.1 between early March and early April—less than one point above the 128.3 mark for April 1960. The living-cost yardstick is based on 1949 prices equalling 100.

Gasoline tax increases in Nova Scotia, New Brunswick, Saskatchewan, Alberta and British Columbia were largely offset by "substantial" gasoline price cuts in several cities, particularly Toronto.

Food and recreation costs were down too, balancing increases for clothing, health and personal care, tobacco and alcohol. There were no over-all changes in costs of housing and transportation.

The consumer price index is calculated by the value of a sizeable increase in industrial wages. The index of average industrial wages and salaries at March 1—latest date available—was 181.1, up one point from a month earlier and 175.4 a year earlier. This index is also based on 1949 wages equalling

The food component of the consumer price index slipped fractionally to 123.9 from 124. Eggs, beef and turkey, bananas and grapefruit were cheaper but prices rose on most fresh vegetables, fresh and frozen fruits and potatoes.

The housing index, which accounts for almost one-third of the total index, held steady at 133.2. Rents were unchanged and prices of some items of home ownership rose fractionally but not enough to change the index.

Clothing prices were higher for men's, women's and children's wear, and that index rose to 101.8 from 101.3.

The transportation index, which includes gasoline prices, stayed unchanged at 141.

Higher charges by dentists, doctors and opticians pushed the index for health and personal care to 155.3 from 154.4. An increase in beer and liquor prices in Saint John, N.B., increased the index for tobacco and alcohol to 115.8 from 115.7.

Lower prices for TV sets, radios, phonographs records and bicycles caused a decline in the index for recreation and reading costs to 145.5 from 146.8.

Queen and Prince Received By Pope in Throne Room

ROME—Pope John today received Queen Elizabeth in audience and told her that her visit crowned the friendly relations that have existed between the Holy See and Britain since the start of the century.

It was the second meeting between the Queen, temporal head of the Church of England, and the head of the Roman Catholic Church. Pope Pius XII received her and Prince Philip in private audience in 1951, before she succeeded to the throne.

The 79-year-old Pope received the royal couple alone for 26 minutes in the Vatican Throne Room, then led them to his library where the Queen's party were waiting. Afterward, the Pope and the sovereign talked about in private was not revealed. But in the library afterward the Queen's party, also briefly in French, recalled other visits of British royalty to the papes, including that of Elizabeth to Pius XII.

The Pope again expressed his hopes for "the realization of the Christian ideal of peace, liberty and fraternity among men and nations."

The Pope spoke of the loyalty to the Crown of Catholics in Commonwealth countries.

Reds' Southeast Asia Drive Shifting to South Viet Nam

WASHINGTON (AP) — The major Communist drive for control of Southeast Asia is reportedly shifting from Laos to South Viet Nam, with the prospect of a prolonged struggle, U.S. officials said today. United States are involved to some degree.

Even before a cease-fire in Laos is nailed down, there is increasing talk in diplomatic circles here of the possible use of U.S. forces in Southeast Asia if Communist efforts to take control of Southeast Asia is reported shifting from Laos to South Viet Nam, with the prospect of a prolonged struggle, U.S. officials said today. United States are involved to some degree.

Even before a cease-fire in Laos is nailed down, there is increasing talk in diplomatic circles here of the possible use of U.S. forces in Southeast Asia if Communist efforts to take control of Southeast Asia is reported shifting from Laos to South Viet Nam, with the prospect of a prolonged struggle.

President Kennedy has an opportunity at a press conference later in the day to set forth his views on the newly developing crisis.

Kennedy conferred Thursday night with Senator J. William Fulbright, Arkansas Democrat who is chairman of the senate foreign relations committee, Fulbright said later that in his judgment the administration stands ready to offer direct support to Diem's forces if that becomes necessary to block Red conquest of the Southeast Asian nation. Both countries border Laos.

State Secretary Dean Rusk told a press conference Thursday that Communist guerrilla forces in South Viet Nam now number 12,000 men. They are supported by Communist North Viet Nam. In 1960 he guerrillas had assassinated and kidnapped 3,000 Vietnamese.

Max Kaminsky Dies of Cancer In New York

ST. CATHARINES (CP)—Max Kaminsky, former American Hockey League coach who took this city's hockey club to Canada's top junior honors in 1949, died today. He was 49.

Word of his death in New York's Presbyterian Hospital was received here. Cause was given as cancer. He had been ill for more than a year.

In the 1950-60 season, when he took over as coach of St. Catharines Teepees, he led the club to the Memorial Cup. He was forced to give up the job after the 1951-52 season but was persuaded last finished when he entered hospital.

A native of Niagara Falls, Ont., the quiet, soft - spoken Kaminsky played for the last 13 years in Niagara Falls, N.Y., before he operated a restaurant.

BEGAN IN MINORS

His hockey career began in the minor leagues of Niagara Falls. He also played with Boston and St. Louis in the NHL before helping Cleveland Barons to two AHL championships. The three years saw him as playing coach of Pittsburgh Hornets. Then he managed Philadelphia Rockets, also of the AHL for three years.

During the 1955-56 season he was coach of Niagara Falls Canadiens of the OHA Senior B series. He then stepped out of hockey temporarily until 1959 when he took over as coach of the St. Catharines Juniors.

MEMBER CLAIMS CENSUS TAKERS GOVT. 'HEELERS'

Attack Launched On Wide Fronts

OTTAWA (CP) — The government sustained attacks in the Commons Thursday on widely different fronts.

Arnold Peters (CCF — Timiskaming) charged political patronage in appointment of census takers.

CCF Leader Argue maintained the grain deal with Communist China isn't what it's cracked up to be.

In the Senate, Senator A. K. Hugessen (C — Quebec) said in a statement supporting the granting of absolute power to the national revenue minister in certain tariff decisions "is the kind of argument advanced by the dictators throughout the ages."

Commons, despite the upheaval over the census and grain, approved the $38,465,062 spending estimates for the trade department in 1961-62 and began discussion on the $38,707,000 appropriation for the northern affairs department.

Mr. Peters began an old-time political fight by stating that "political hacks" of the Progressive Conservative party are posted as census takers would influence information they obtained in the census for political purposes.

DENIES CHARGE

Trade Minister Hees, the minister responsible for this year's census, said the charge was "ridiculous, irresponsible," "deplorable" and "unfair."

All census takers took an oath of secrecy and could be fined or imprisoned or both for breaking it.

Frank McGee (PC — York-Scarborough) said Mr. Peters was "guilty of character assassination" with charges that would be libellous if made outside the Commons.

Mr. Peters said the census takers in his riding include the defeated Conservative candidate in the last election, a Conservative party organizer and the wife of the president of the Conservative Association.

In neighboring Timmins riding, he said, the census takers include the defeated Conservative candidate and two other church and outspoken Conservatives.

Mr. Peters advised his constituents to "use a little common sense" not to answer the census questions.

"STUPID"

"Anybody who gives information to political hacks is stupid," he said.

No predictions were being held in Ontario now because the Conservative "machine is out running the census."

The "whole hierarchy" of the Conservative party in the planning was running the census for political purposes, "politicking than census taking."

Allister Grosart, national director of the Conservative party, had been in his riding—perhaps to arrange the appointment of Conservatives as census takers.

"I take violent exception to these appointments," he said.

Mr. Hees said that questions by Mr. Peters nobody could be Screaming Sirens Herald CD Exercises Held Across Canada

By JACK VAN DUSEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Sirens screamed today across the mythical aircraft dropped — in theory — several nuclear bombs on clear bombs on Canada's major cities.

Only the sirens were real but the giant Exercise Tocsin which they heralded was deadly serious for thousands of civil defence workers and government leaders across the country.

Political leaders — including some premiers—rushed to provincial "wartime" headquarters also map the survival of the country at the outbreak of nuclear war.

Tocsin — the alarm bell — was rung to help national survival experts determine whether organized government can survive and continue operations after a major nuclear assault.

By the end of the day officials of the Emergency Measures Organization hoped the new weaknesses in their master plan

U.S. Astronaut Soars 115 Miles Above Earth

Quickly Taken From Sea Alive, Well and Jubilant

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — The United States' first spaceman, Alan B. Shepard, rocketed briefly across the threshold of space today and landed safely after a 5,100 mile-an-hour journey that carried him 115 miles high and 302 miles down range.

The pickup occurred at 10.53 a.m. EDT, 19 minutes after the Redstone booster rocket blasted off from Cape Canaveral at 10.34 a.m.

The flight reached an altitude of about 115 miles and lasted 15 minutes.

The 37-year-old navy commander's good condition was evident throughout the flight when Shepard reported such things as:

"What a beautiful sight" in describing the earth below.

WHOLE COAST VISIBLE

He radioed back that he could see the outline of the entire east coast of the United States.

Throughout the rest of the journey, he said everything was "OK."

Ships, planes and helicopters raced to intercept and recover the astronaut when his cabin plopped into the water.

Shepard was recovered at once to the aircraft carrier Lake Champlain, flagship of a seven-vessel recovery force.

Crew members of the Lake Champlain were told not to speak to the astronaut. Doctors and psychologists wanted him to tell his story without having it colored by ideas conveyed to him on his return.

The unusual shot appeared to put the United States back into the space race with Russia.

RUSSIA WAS FIRST

Soviet scientists copped the first big prize 23 days ago when they boosted the world's first space traveller, Yuri Gagarin, into a 188-mile-high orbit and returned him to earth 108 minutes later.

Today's suborbital shot did not match the Russian achievement but was a major step toward orbiting an American, which the national space agency plans to do later this year.

Purpose of today's flight was to determine whether man can perform useful chores in space.

Shepard proved conclusively it could be done.

He reported constantly throughout the flight that he was able to do certain tasks, such as reading off dials, buttons and operating manual controls.

All the way through he told the control centre at Cape Canaveral by radio that everything was okay.

GAVE NORMAL REPORTS

During the flight, Mercury official Sheppard was reporting facts and figures as a test pilot normally would.

The National Aeronautics and Space Council announced in this official announcement:

"Test No. 3 has been terminated. This was the pioneer U.S. man in space flight. The Mercury astronaut was picked up by aircraft carrier Lake Champlain and the helicopter is now en route land. Shepard is about to come out of helicopter."

Shepard's reports on the "beautiful view" came only three minutes following launch, after a periscope in the capsule protruded to give the space pilot a view of the earth.

Shepard had entered his space cabin at 5:15 a.m. after a final medical examination and a

Judge Reserves Judgment in Damage Suit

Mr. Justice J. M. King reserved judgment Thursday in a case against the registrar of motor vehicles for damages on behalf of 15-year-old Carl Vanslyke of Foxboro, who suffered severe head injuries last July. He was struck on the head by a bottle tossed from a moving car. Identity of the car and driver has not been learned.

Appearing for Wilbert Vanslyke, the boy's father who launched the suit, was Thomas Lally of Belleville. E. H. Silk, QC, was counsel for the registrar of motor vehicles.

The Vanslyke boy underwent brain surgery at Kingston for injuries suffered when a bottle was thrown from the left front window of a car travelling north on Highway 14 last July 8. The boy was travelling south on a bicycle accompanied by a chum, who was riding a bicycle behind him.

O.P.P. Constable Ken Williamson investigated the accident but was unable from the description of the driver given by the Vanslyke boy's companion, to locate the car or the driver. Hence, under a provision of the Highway Traffic Act, the boy's father sued the registrar of motor vehicles and sought damages from the Unsatisfied Judgment Fund.

Damages have not been assessed.

It is understood that Mr. Justice King will not pass judgment in Toronto in about a month's time.

The case was tried during the non-jury sessies of the Supreme Court of Ontario currently being held in Belleville.

to keep Canada's governing system operating after an onslaught of such bombs.

Planning centres set up in Ottawa and in front of the provinces will evaluate the whole system of a national survival technology. This will be handled by some sort of communications-by-letter in reality, telegrams or telephone is a secret.

In most cities the "attack" would be heralded by wailing sirens. Some 300 municipalities have such sirens.

A special radio program—ordered carried on all Canadian stations by headquarters at the east Governors—was to explain the last plan and advise the people about survival techniques. A special civil defence booklet on survival was also to be issued today.

Military and a special train was to move a nucleus of the federal government to the federal headquarters at the army's Camp Petawawa, 100 miles northwest of the capital. The Commons, however, was to sit as usual.

Across the country provinces and municipalities were testing their radio and tv operational centres.

In Ontario, 26 members of the provincial legislature, including Premier Frost were to meet at Camp Borden at the sound of the alarm. They will receive a two-hour briefing on what to do if this were a real nuclear attack. Premier Frost will make a radio address to the people.

J. F. MacFarlane Of Shannonville Dies in City

One of the first funeral directors in the province and operator of a general store in Shannonville for over half a century, J. F. "Fey" MacFarlane died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Wilbur Sherry, Queen Street early this Friday morning. He was born in Hastings county 86 years, 80 years ago, being the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Donald MacFarlane who came to the entire life in his native county.

As a young man he entered the business of funeral director and followed in the footsteps of his father and brother, the Pegan family, who conducted the business in the county. He went to school in Toronto and was one of the first men in Ontario to receive a licence as a funeral director. He returned back to Shannonville and opened a general store in 1896 and for 51 years successfully carried on business in that community. He retired from business in 1947 and came to Belleville to live and after his wife, the former Mary Maria Sills, died in 1956 he went to live with his daughter with whom he resided at the time of his death.

Mr. MacFarlane enjoyed a wide clientele in the district. He was a man of fair dealing, a firm friend and a staunch resident of his community. He took an active part in community affairs and was always ready and willing to assist in worthwhile projects. For many years he was connected with the Fair Board in the community and helped raise the status of that fair in the district. He was a member of the United Church and active in the work of the congregation. Fraternally he was a life member of Craig Lodge A. F. & A. M., Shannonville, and also was a member of the Canadian Order of Foresters.

Surviving are one daughter, Mrs. Wilbur (Susan) Sherry of Belleville, two grandsons, John Ferguson Sherry and James Earle Sherry both of the city, and two sisters, Mrs. William (Maude) Coulter of Tupperville, Ont., and Mrs. William (Elizabeth) McLaren of Melrose.

The funeral will be held on Sunday afternoon from Shannonville United Church.

Kiwanis Club Presents Premiere of 1961 Follies

What had promised to be one of the most outstanding events in the entertainment field, in his area, was proven justly so last evening in the Collegiate auditorium, when the Belleville Kiwanis Club presented the Kiwanis Follies for 1961, featuring the Rondeaunettes.

The production was produced and directed by Bill Long who did a magnificent job, as well as having written the music and lyrics for many of the scenes. He also supplied background music on the organ and accompanied the chorus and soloists, on the piano throughout the complete performance.

Choreography throughout was planned and splendidly performed by Miss Barbara Thrasher and many of the comedy skits and material were supplied by Doug Bannon, who also assisted Bill Long in the writing and direction of the Follies.

From the opening number "Curtain Up," which featured vocal soloist Nora Stout, to the final number "Good Night Good Luck and God Bless You" the entire cast gave an excellent fast-paced performance of song, dance and comedy, with something in the form of entertainment for those of all ages. There were some very clever skits and new - some with safety in the modern manner others with a hint of nostalgia, particularly in the group of World War One songs.

SPECIAL HUMOR

Bob Burke added his own special brand of humor as he portrayed a hilarious part in "Poor Dud Is Bald" as well as his performance vocal renditions. He and Doug Bannon gave an excellent performance in the portrayal of a Wild western, which the large audience thoroughly enjoyed.

Pretty Judy Lynn McKnight gave a splendid performance in several toe-taping numbers as well as her fine performance in a skit entitled "Cadillac Barbara Thasher entertained in professional fashion throughout the complete production. Glenda Jeffery in her sweet personality portrayed with several vocal selections nothing were well received by the audience. The teenagers in particular enjoyed the fine performances of the Twitchtones (Ron Flindall and Larry Wood) who gave several selection in Everly Brothers' fashion.

Everyone enjoyed the gentle spoofing of "Manitoba" by the Belleville vocal quartet and the portrayal of a TV western in a rollicking skit, "Shakespeare Rides Again." The cast in this number appeared to be enjoying the fun as much as the audience, as much as the audience.

FASHION SHOW

The number which extended from the stage into the auditorium was a decided asset to the show. Dressed for the Can-Can dancers, the high-stepping dance routines and the participants in the fashion show. The rib-tickling revue, which Al Hall, as emcee, joined with the "models" cavorting in the latest "Paris creations", brought this performance to a worthy of admission ticket alone.

The trio of Barbara Thrasher, Judy Lynn McKnight and Judy Ann McCloskey excelled in several dance routines also the number "Kids, Kids, Kids," when four little girls appeared taking part with a group of the Rondeaunettes was another fine performance.

The cast collectively and individually put on an outstanding evening's entertainment and it was interesting to note that almost every one in the cast is made up of dancers, singers and comedians from Belleville. The members of the cast were: Barbara Thrasher, Gary Wilson, Diana Cleaver, Tim Cook, Fran Bannon, Jo Mascaro, Pat Marson, Lynda Hayes, Linda Holmes, Glenda Jeffery, Bonnadette Logan, Marg Westfall, Linda Hogle, Phil Bennett, Bill White, Tom Flindall, Al Hall, Nora Stout, Bob Burke, Judy Lynn McKnight, Doug Bannon, Larry Wood, Ron Flindall, Geneva Wilson, Sharron Wilson and Mary Lynn McConnell. Choreographer Joanne Kemp, Jane Purdy, Elma Sharpe, Patsy Courture, Jackie Terry, and Anne Short, did the beautiful and colorful costumes - Mrs. Blain Young.

Dr. Moller challenged his audience to prepare themselves for positions in the top management team by a program of personal study such that "indifer to the" designation. The accounting concept has matured rapidly in the past thirty years and the industrial accountant must now be versed specially in planning for he future, rather than an auditor checking on past performance.

Speaking on office automation, the speaker was introduced by Ronald Sutherland technical chairman. Appreciation was expressed by David Hodgson, R.I.A. General chairman of the meeting was Patrick Callery, R.I.A.

TAX RATE

country as a whole that the city can not spend beyond its means.

The renovations planned for city hall were desirable but it was pointed out the city was reaching the saturation point on what its taxpayers can pay.

RATE REASONABLE

Alderman Barlow said the 30.4 millrate recommended was a reasonable one and it provided for maintenance of city services, but with no provision for reserve.

Alderman Barlow agreed the suggested rate provided for maintenance but claimed the city must soon provide a reserve to help pay for its proposed capital works program.

He proposed an additional 1.4 mills on the tax rate to provide a reserve for capital works costs.

His motion was seconded by Alderman Jack Ellis.

Alderman Ben Corke agreed that something had to be done this year for College Street but said a new street was out of the question, when it was needed sewers and watermains would have to be installed in a year or two.

He agreed with the millrate proposed by Alderman McDougall only because he could see the point in halving the increase only to be forced to levy an eight-mills increase next year. He said there would be more new assessment next year and suggested that re-assessment might soon better equalize the load.

Alderman Robert Temple said the proposed 89.4 residential rate was really a "standpat" budget.

He admitted there was a close call but there was very much of this was from boards over which council had no control. He said it was unfortunate that the rate did not provide any reserve.

He approved of the suggestion but said he would still like to see pedestrian walk lights and the street planning committee revived.

Alderman Walter Elliot also approved of the 89.4 rate but asked that reference to the elimination of walk lights be deleted. He said they had acquired money might be found to spend on other expenditures.

Alderman Ellis protested the elimination of street planning which he felt would be a great disservice to the city.

SHOULD DEBENTURE COSTS

Also some of the money would go to pay for work already completed.

He could not see where the additional 1.6 mills would mean much of a hardship for taxpayers. He said the extra rate of 1.6 mills would mean only about 80 cents per month for a residential owner with property assessed at $3,000.

Alderman Does Bailey asked that the money be provided from revenue rather than proposed renovations at city hall, which would provide needed accommodation. He said the city welfare department and the city manager's office were in desperate need of more space.

Alderman McDougall claimed the city hall renovations should be debentured.

"People use the services and must pay for them. We cannot continue to pile on and pile on the taxes."

ONLY THREE PAYMENTS

Also at yesterday's meeting, council decided there will be three payments of taxes this year with the due dates being June 30th, August 31st and October 31.

The 1961 budget was said by City Manager Reynolds as the earliest that has been prepared at the first instalment of taxes.

A date of August 15th the tax payments now running is suggested but to even out the dates, penalty on the first date was finally approved.

Alderman Elliott favored the earlier date instead of interest charges for money borrowed at the bank, and now running close to $4,000 per month.

At next Monday's meeting the city's capital works program budget will be before the council.

Mayor Haig said this should receive council's consideration as soon as possible as several by-laws were being held up by receipt of the capital works program.

Asks Co-operation in J.O.B. Project to Help Cripples

TRENTON — The story of a Trenton resident whose record is: "It is our heritage to stand erect, proud and unafraid," was told to members of the Kiwanis Club last night by Wade Hampton, a consultant in rehabilitation with the Canadian March of Dimes committee.

The speaker told the club members of a factory north-west of Toronto, "Operation Reliance Incorporated," where a large sign placed above the door, "Only The Physically Handicapped Need Apply," strikes the keynote of this unique project, a pacemaker in an effort being made in Canada and the United States to relieve the dynamic concept that the physically handicapped person is incapable of living a full life in a competitive world.

Mr. Hampton said that the workers in the factory are all crippled but that they work on an output, per quarter. They must make their own arrangements for getting to and from their job and they are paid prevailing wages scaled to their abilities.

The mechanics of setting up such industries in any community were described by the speaker. He said that the J.O.B. committees conducts training courses in a number of centres, where crippled persons are taught trades, then returns to their own community to earn their own living by working at the trade they have learned or other crippled persons. (Jim Patterson, a member of the Quinte Disabled Persons Club, has recently completed such a course.)

Mr. Hampton asked that the members of the Kiwanis Club help in any way they could participate in a J.O.B. project ("Just Open Brains"), sponsored by the March of Dimes. This would be a club operation in this area. Crippled persons working together, would seek out disabled persons who are unemployed, and send an outline of their abilities and skills or pertinent information to a rehabilitation consultant, connected with J.O.B.

ONE IN 16

The capabilities of these persons would be assessed by the consultant, and a place of employment in this area suggested. Then, the plant managers would be contacted and an effort made to place those people, whose "burning desire is that they are not to be considered as "expendables".

Mr. Hampton said that one out of every 16 people in Canada has a physical disability. He said he hoped to see the day when the word "crippled" would be dropped from the dictionary through the progress of medical science and the efforts of such groups as the March of Dimes.

Mr. Hampton was introduced to the club by past lieutenant governor Ted Parker. Mr. Parker commented on the speaker's REAL" career, and said that Mr. Hampton had been a ski instructor for several years at Mont Tremblant, Que., before he was stricken with polio in 1951. Following two years in hospital and rehabilitation, he became connected with the March of Dimes committee and now lectures throughout Ontario on rehabilitation work.

The speaker was thanked by Wayne Simmons and by Lorne Swanis president Norman Davis.

Special guests at last night's meeting were Fred Tremblay (Rotary) Roly Whitley (Lions) Bob Wright (Lions), Alex and Jennie Wills (B. & P.) and John Rotmans of Holland.

John Sayler conducted nominations for the position of lieutenant governor. Ralph Fantham who has resigned. Next week, members will be asked to choose a vice-president from nominees Howard Aits and Carl Weese.

Lincoln's Guide to Governments

At his Gettysburg home, General Dwight Eisenhower has on his desk a plastic-enclosed quotation from Abraham Lincoln.

"The legitimate object of government," said Lincoln, "is to do for a community of people whatever they need to have done, but can not at all, or can not so well, do for themselves—in their separate and individual capacities. In all that the people can individually do as well for themselves government ought not to interfere."

This is a much more profound observation on the functions of government than the more familiar "government of the people, by the people, for the people" of the Gettysburg address, which is obviously far too indefinite to provide a safe guide to the science of good government. It ought to be added, though, that even the quotation cherished by Eisenhower needs some interpretation and is, indeed, open to many interpretations which explains why men who start from the same premise, agreeing with Lincoln in principle as to the legitimate object of government, can arrive at such widely varying conclusions as to what governments should do in practice.

Before attempting any analysis of the various interpretations open to us when considering this principle, it might do no harm to consider Lincoln's simple but practical approach to the idealism of the Declaration of Independence. "All men are created equal," we are told, and this phrase, at the best so vague and at worst so nonsensical, has been elevated almost to the level of Holy Writ by the most powerful nation on earth. But we all know that, in any real sense, men are not created equal. Even at birth, there are differences in their physical health. Later, even if given equal care and instruction, marked differences in their intellectual ability will become evident. To our minds considered as an axiom that equality is desirable, even if it were attainable, which it is not. Variety is not only the spice of life, but the life of progress. So many different skills are needed if a community is to prosper and grow and no man is capable of encompassing all these skills. Inequality of capabilities is, essentially and will invariably lead to an inequality of achievement and an inequality of needs. Not in conformity but in diversity lies the secret of the good life, for a community as well as for an individual, but the community, because it is composed of individuals who are not equal, needs and can achieve a greater diversity than can any individual himself.

What the Declaration of Independence means, if it means anything at all, is that all men have certain equal rights and it is the genius of Lincoln that, without even hinting at equal rights, his outline of the legitimate object of government accepts this fact, while recognizing man's natural inequalities. Government ought not to do what the people individually can as well for themselves, says Lincoln. Notice that he speaks of what the people as a whole can do, not what some of the people can do. Though unequal in capacities, they have equal rights to have certain needs met.

But of course, it is possible to consider his principle from either a negative rather than a positive, side; we then make the criterion what the people can not do at all or cannot do so well for themselves as the government can do for them, and demand that only when none of the people can match the government's performance shall the government act.

If Lincoln's principle is most often quoted by those opposed to government action in any field—and it probably is—it is because this negative interpretation is most frequently used.

But Lincoln's rule is a good rule for those of widely differing political beliefs. Indeed, by adopting the positive approach, and carrying this to its true extreme, there is scarcely any enterprise which is a legitimate field of government, except for there is hardly anything which all the people can do for themselves as well as government can do it for some of them. Obviously, common sense, which Lincoln demonstrated aptenly, is required in the application of his rule. Here men may differ, and only trial and error may prove which side is right—but any time a government does something which the mass of the people can do as well for themselves, or fails to do something of which it is capable but the mass of the people are not, then we have poor government.

The dismal history of man's attempts to lay down his arms and to live in peace is not encouraging . . . I sympathize with those who look upon disarmament negotiations as an elaborate mintuet. But we dare not yield to cynicism or despair.—U.S. State Secretary Dean Rusk.

U.S. Copies Red Methods

Toronto Globe and Mail

Nearly two weeks have passed since President John F. Kennedy made his address to the American Society of Newspaper Editors. That was the address in which he made the now famous statement:

"If the nations of the free hemisphere should fail to meet their commitments against outside Communist penetration and control, I want it clearly understood that the Government will not hesitate in meeting its obligations which are to the security of our nation and the safety of our people."

At the time these words were spoken, there was a disposition—shared, I think, by newspapers to view them charitably, as an angry personal reaction to the Cuban fiasco of a few days before. Later developments, however, suggest that the President was in fact laying down a new and ominous United States policy.

This was made clear by an interchange last week. President Osvaldo Dorticos of Cuba announced that the Cuban government was willing to discuss its differences with the United States and to resume diplomatic relations. Premier Nikita Khrushchev's reply, delivered by the official State Department spokesman at a press conference, first stated that "the basic problem in Cuba is Communism in this hemisphere" and that this was "not negotiable". He added that the United States would not accommodate itself to whether Fidel Castro as long as he keeps his present ties to the Kremlin.

There is the "Kennedy Doctrine" in all its blinding clarity. It is a sharp contrast to the Monroe Doctrine under which the nations governed the relationships of the United States with its Latin-American neighbors. The original Monroe Doctrine was a warning to the European Powers that the United States would resist any attempt by them to conquer or dominate the Independent States of Central and South America. In the Kennedy Doctrine the warning is aimed at the Western Hemisphere nations themselves. The Monroe Doctrine was defensive. The other nations of the hemisphere were told that the United States will not permit them to adopt a Communist form of government, or to maintain close relations with the Communist bloc. Finally, the Monroe Doctrine was directed only to Latin America, while the Kennedy Doctrine apparently covers the whole hemisphere—including, presumably, Canada.

This is drastic and dangerous enough on the face of it; but the "Cuban doctrine" is a thing in its tall which will not be bounded by the Western Hemisphere Grande, and should not be overlooked in Canada either. The UN Charter forbids Communism is varied and flexible. In the time of Mr. John Foster Dulles, anyone who failed to give the United States diplomatic support were lumped together as Communist or "pro-Communist". These epithets have been applied to Egypt, India, Ghana and indeed to all the Afro-Asian neutrals even though only this group which balked Premier Nikita Khrushchev's attempt to pack the United Nations. There is also a school of thought which holds that it is useless to talk of Communism when a country nationalizes a U.S. controlled industry. The Kennedy Doctrine could be construed as a warning to Canada that U.S. political and economic policies —or else.

Nor is this an idle threat. This week Secretary of State Dean Rusk publicly told what the world has long known unofficially: That the United States has openly trained and financed the Anti-Castro exiles now in Central Cuba last month. Nor does anyone believe that this was the last expedition of its kind.

The tragedy of the Kennedy Doctrine is that it shows how the stresses of the Cold War can erode the moral standards of a nation. For many years the United States has, deservedly, the American Society of Newspaper Editors. That was the address in which he made the now famous statement:

"If the nations of the free hemisphere should fail to meet their commitments against outside Communist penetration and control, I want it clearly understood that the Government will not hesitate in meeting its obligations which are to the security of our nation and the safety of our people."

The tragedy of the Kennedy Doctrine is that it shows how the stresses of the Cold War can erode the moral standards of a nation. For many years the United States has, deservedly, won the respect of the world for its policy of insisting that the rights of even the smallest and weakest nations are upheld, while condemning any attempt to impose the will of the mighty on the helpless. That was the attitude which led to the United States' support of the United Nations in the Korean War. Now, suddenly, we are told that we have the right to intervene in the affairs of any nation which we consider to be dominated by Communists.

Alcoholism is becoming one of the most serious problems in our national life. The cause of alcoholism is beverage alcohol, therefore the solution is simple. It is to make it appear that the cause of alcoholism is not alcohol at all but psychological tendencies which lead man to drink immoderately. Of course, these tendencies complicate the situation, but only a small percentage of cases do they actually cause alcoholism to occur. And of course, they cannot tell the picture eventually. There can be no alcoholism with alcohol.

One hundred deaths occur on the highways of our country every day. In the case of half of these, alcohol is the prime way involved. Two-thirds of all the arrests reported by the F. B.I. are in some way associated with drinking. As a homebreaker and as the case of discord between husband and wife, friend and friend, alcohol clearly holds a place of first importance.

Why do people drink? The best answer is, "Because they want to." Other things may enter in to complicate the situation, but the desire for temporary relief from frustration, tension, and despair leads people to take the solace of alcohol.

But in the case of so amazing number a habit is formed, and all too frequently this habit becomes an addiction.

We may not like to face this problem, but face it we must. It becomes increasingly so serious that we must do something about it or we will do something disastrous to us and to our civilization.

Double Job Standard Used In Hiring

BY SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Many, if not most, institutions that deal directly with the public seem to have a double standard in hiring employees. Those whose work brings them directly in contact with customers or clients are submitted to a much more rigorous test of character and temperament.

The receptionist, for instance, cashiers, are often given the same Aptitude Test—SAM stands for "Scowl and Mutter." If the applicant does not wear a chronic scowl, and mutter at least a few caustic remarks with a surly manner, he or she is summarily removed from consideration.

Building guards, elevator starters, people who take your money at parking-lots — anyone at all, indeed, who represents the company to the consumer — are put through a severe examination to see if they can successfully avoid the three terrible P's — pimples, pessa, Promptness and Politeness.

A company doesn't care how cheerful or civil an employee might be if he were in a job where the public cannot get wind of this; but it is a rank violation of the business procedures to let such a person come in contact with the customers. An elite corps must be specially trained for such positions.

I have managed to obtain an undercover peek at some of these highly secret tests, and I assure you that only the most qualified candidates get by the muster. Most of us would flunk with ignominious ease.

For example, one question goes: "If a customer makes a mistake and hands you a one dollar bill for a $1.85 bill, what do you say?" Acceptable answers are given as: (1) "Never, sir, that's close enough." (2) "May I please have an additional quarter?" (3) "Whachu trine to do, buy?"

Obviously, (3) is the only correct answer. Answers (1) and (2) immediately mark the candidate for a back-room job where he will not be liable to contaminate the customers with courtesy.

Another real stumper goes as follows. If you complain about a scratch on your car in a parking lot, the alternative replies are (1) "I'll be glad to call the manager, sir," (2) "If you'll come in to the office, we'll make out a report," and (3) "I just work here, bud."

Again, strangely, (3) is the only correct answer, in fact, "I just work here, bud" turns out to be the only answer to almost a dozen of the test questions, strolling in pompously each gambits as "How should I know?" "The manager's out to lunch" and "You can't park here, bud" and "that ain't my department."

Winners, of course, are given a lovely framed Certificate of Sullenness to hand proudly to their bosses.

Subnormal Thyroid Gland Can Be Factor in Weak Nails

By Joseph G. Molner, M.D.

"Dear Dr. Molner: What should I do for brittle, dry nails which resemble fish scales? No other doctor has helped. M. R."

A very common complaint and since others have tried and failed in your case, maybe that takes me off the hook because maybe I can't either. But then again, maybe I can give you some tips that will be helpful.

Here are some frequent causes, not necessarily in order:

Nail polish — so many women wear nail polish these days. Most of them, I should judge, suffer no ill effects. But some do have trouble. Try going without it for a couple of months. If you see any improvement, then stay away from it longer.

Nutrition. This has a bearing on nail formation. More protein in the diet, and Vitamin B, are helpful. A daily ration of plain gelatin sometimes aids. (Gelatin is a form of protein, although it does not contain as many of the amino acids as does lean meat, fish, eggs, cheese, etc.) Take at least a tablespoonful. Remember that injury to the nail as it is forming will show up later. Avoid, for instance, metal to press back the cuticle when manicuring unknowingly damage the matrix as it is forming. That's why it's better to use the orange stick instead of a nail file, scissors, etc.

Subnormal thyroid. This can be a factor in weak nails. In fact, many subnormal physical conditions contribute to fragile nails. If your thyroid is not to blame, by all means have a check-up. Improvement of your nails will in such case be only one advantage compared to the greater good of regaining robust health.

Use of the hands. While the scientific reason is not clear, we do know one thing from observation: People who are engaged in hard work with their hands have strong, tough nails. If you don't have to scrub floors, a summer of grubbing in the earth every day, keeping a garden going, may do a lot — although, of course, if you take pride on your nails and you'll without doubt break 'em all.

Of course, it doesn't have to be gardening, but any type of manual labor.

In any case, remember this: It takes months for nails to grow. When the weakness originates in the nail bed, where the tissue is being formed, that's the usual case, there is absolutely no point in expecting anything to strengthen the part of the nail that has grown out far enough to be of use to it.

I know this must be discouraging to you, but it's the fact. In wide rail strike which was just 12 days off — a strike which would have closed down every railway in Canada except British Columbia's provincially-owned Pacific Great Eastern.

But the terms of the agreement made one fact depressingly clear—the whole process may well begin again next November since the new contract expires at the end of this year.

The agreement was announced in a brief statement by CNR President Donald Gordon in the downtown hotel suite where the railway and unions met in afternoon and evening sessions.

Mr. Gordon simply said the railways had agreed to implement the recommendations of the Milvain conciliation board in full, and the unions had therefore agreed to call off the strike immediately.

Then Frank Hall, the man who has led the non-op unions through negotiations since 1947, said the unions were "glad to confirm" the dispute had been settled and "the strike is hereby called off."

The new contract — not yet signed—means the 111,000 non-ops, all those railway employees not actually engaged in operating trains, will receive a wage increase of 14 cents-an - hour over their present average wage of $1.77 hourly.

And since the contract is retroactive to Jan. 1, 1960, it will mean each union member gets a handsome lump sum in back wages.

Under the terms of the conciliation board award which was handed down last September and refused by the railways, the increase was to be paid in three stages—two cents hourly retroactive to Jan. 1 1960, five cents on Sept. 1, 1960 and a final four per cent May 1, 1961.

In other words, the whole increase would have become effective four days ago.

Only the bare terms of the agreement were announced at the end of the meeting. But several hours later, Megart Crump and Gordon issued a joint statement setting out their side of the dispute and making the events leading up to the sudden and surprising settlement somewhat clearer.

The statement said the railways had offered the unions a three - year contract on the terms of the conciliation board report.

This would mean the 14 cents would be spread over three years instead of two—2½ cents retroactive through 1960, seven cents retroactive to the beginning of this year and a further seven cents hourly next Jan. 1

The unions countered, the statement says, with the demand that any three-year contract would have to be effective Jan. 1 1960-61 and provide for a further 10 cents hourly Jan. 1, 1962.

"In round figures," the statement says, the union proposal would result "in an added cost to the railways of $27,000,000 a year" making a total increase cost of $65,000,000 annually.

They estimate the cost of the agreed increase at $36,000,000-a year.

HAD TO REFUSE

"The railways had no alternative but to refuse this exorbitant demand," the statement says. "The unions were unquestionably determined to enforce their strike call for May 15 next regardless of the consequences either upon the real welfare of the employees or the railway industry or the economy of the country."

It continues:

"It is only fair to say that the public will have to realize that the power of these unions cannot be resisted by the railways so long as existing legislation gives no protection against arbitrary action on their part."

The general feeling of observers after the agreement and the railway statement was that government pressure had played no direct part in the compromise' sudden decision to agree to the union demands.

Undoubtedly the railways felt they might have a settlement more favorable to the unions than the companies forced on them by the government if a strike seemed imminent.

But it also appeared they felt they would be in better shape than the unions to re enter negotiations next November, perhaps because they will then have a definite picture of their financial position over the next several years and will be able to present a more forceful case.

But the settlement was also eminently acceptable to the unions, and perhaps particularly to Frank Hall.

He had taken the 15 unions through the long months of negotiation and in the end got them the conciliation board award, and without a strike.

In Ottawa, Labor Minister Starr, informed by telephone from Montreal, described the settlement as "pleasing news."

He immediately telephoned the news to Prime Minister Diefenbaker who declined to comment to reporters.

Mr. Starr said the agreement was "the result of collective bargaining."

"This proves we were right when we passed the railway continuation bill," he said. "They kept talking and now they've settled the dispute."

EVERYBODY RUNS — The annual harrier held at Quinte Secondary School was run yesterday and everyone, including the teachers got into the act. Because of their seniority the staff members were allowed a handicap start. A group of them may be seen above with one looking back anxiously at the huge field of runners which is soon to start after them.

In the inset is Alex McNaught, grade 13 student, who won the event in a time of 12:52 minutes. Second was Bruce Symons. The winning class was 10D with 212 points for participation, followed by 9D with 193 points, 50 of which were earned by the class teacher, Robert McLaughlan, finishing second in the teachers' division. Top teacher was Mrs. Stobbs. There were 263 entrants in the event.

penses audit and legal fees, insurance, debenture charges, bank loan interest, maintenance of city property, including city hall and the city's share of pension subsidies and hospitalization.

Increased costs here result in part from the adoption of a salary schedule and adjustment of salaries. The establishment of a department under purchasing and personnel is a new expenditure this year.

The public works budget estimates of $483,000 are up almost $30,000 over last year. Of the total $300,000 is designated for roads, $39,550 for winter control; $61,028 for machines and equipment; $20,000 winter works; $10,500 for sidewalks and $69,188 for administration.

Included in the year's road program is an expenditure of $30,000 for asphalt and patching; $32,000 for bituminous patching and repairs; $20,000 for stone road patching and grading; $37,000 for street oiling; $34,500 for built-up roads in the annexed areas and $18,000 for repairing a section of Front and Bridge Sts.

The Ontario Department of Highways pays the city a one-third subsidy on construction and maintenance of roads, and a 50 per cent subsidy on repairs to Front and Bridge Streets.

The estimated cost of sanitation and waste removal is $143,750 is up only slightly from last year. This expenditure includes garbage collection, sewer repairs and cleaning and street and pavement cleaning.

Health department costs are up nearly $18,000 this resulting from the appointment of a supervisor of nurses, an additional nurse, a meat inspector and the annual adjustment of salaries.

Estimated expenditures for social welfare are given as $327,000, up $21,000 over last year. Included in this budget is $210,000 for direct relief, with the provincial government subsidizing the amount by 80 per cent.

The Corby Public Library this year will receive $31,810 up $600 from last year. Included in the budget is $1,815 for debenture costs.

The arena deficit for this year is estimated at $10,300, a decrease of $3,200, from last year. The decrease is the result of revenue of $3,400 received from the recreation committee for minor hockey.

The city parks board receives one mill on the tax rate, amounting to $29,116.

Recreation will cost the city roughly the same figure — $29,808—an increase of $1,437 over last year.

Grants will amount to $48,455, an increase of $6,640 over last year. Included in the above expenditure is the annual grant of $32,430 to Belleville General Hospital as the city's share of the hospital debenture costs.

A subsidy of $11,680 has been provided for the Belleville Transit Commission, this being the difference between operating costs and revenues for 1960. Council is hoping that changes in the bus routes (will result in increased bus revenue and that a subsidy will not be required this year.

Debenture debt charges and bank loan interest take a big slice out of the year's budget. The estimated expenditure for this item is $650,877, an increase of $12,600 over last year. Bank loan interest increased by approximately $2,000 while debenture debt charges increased by about $10,000.

Total city debenture debt as of December 31st last year is given as $5,066,902.

County and suburban roads will cost the city an estimated $12,500. This represents the city's portion of a total expenditure of $54,600 with the county and province assuming the balance. This is for work done on main county roads leading into the city.

Sawdust Fire Extinguished

DESERONTO—Possibly heavy damage to Hawley's furniture factory was prevented on Monday night when R. Hawley made an inspection of the plant shortly after 7.00 o'clock. When he entered the building he found it full of smoke and immediately called the Fire department. Then he went into the building to find the source of the trouble. He soon found a pile of sawdust below one of the saws smouldering merrily and ready to burst into flame very shortly. He used an extinguisher on the pile while the fire department were responding. They used a small line of hose to soak the sawdust and afterwards Mr. Hawley and one of his young boys moved all the debris and sawdust out into the rain. Had the fire not been noticed for another 15 minutes the results could have been disastrous for the industry.

U.S. ASTRONAUT

breakfast of filet mignon, scrambled eggs, shrimp and peaches.

He remained there four hours, 18 minutes, during a countdown that had been delayed several times by technical troubles and weather.

The Redstone came to life after a countdown directed by former German rocketeer Dr. Kurt Debus.

Debus was assisted by Dr. Werner von Braun, head of the NASA space flight laboratory.

The slender rocket, stretching 83 feet tall with the capsule and 15½-foot escape tower, on top, flew a true course as it knifed into a clear sky before the anxious eyes of thousands.

Millions of others watched on live television.

As the missile accelerated, forces six times the pull of gravity pushed the astronaut against his couch.

At 141 seconds after launch, the capsule separated and the escape tower—designed to jerk the capsule free and parachute it safely to earth in case of trouble—was jettisoned.

Automatic controls then flipped the nine-foot tall capsule over 180 degrees so the blunt heat shield was fed the way, with the pilot riding backwards.

About four minutes after launch, Shepard tumbled, as though over a precipice, into a brief and weightless world—an exhilarating experience that lasted about five minutes.

Officials did not say whether Shepard had reported on his reactions during the weightless period.

But during the time he would have been weightless, the reports were that he was performing his tasks.

As swiftly as it came, the weightless feeling left and Shepard once again was tripped by "G" forces—twice the tenacity of an acceleration—as the capsule plunged back toward earth.

The pilot reported he was subject to 11 "Gs" during the reentry period.

Ten minutes after launch, at an altitude of 40,000 feet, a small parachute opened to stabilize the space craft. At 10,000 feet, a 63-foot main chute unfurled to lower the capsule into the water, presumably with no more force than if it had fallen off a 16-foot wall.

Recovery ships in the area reported sighting the large red and white parachute as it lowered the capsule toward the sea.

Two helicopters from the Lake Champlain sped to the scene. One lowered a hook to raise the capsule upright. It was on its side in the water.

When this was done, Shepard climbed out an escape hatch and was pulled into the other helicopter.

Minutes later he was on the deck of the carrier.

Officials on 'board said he walked from the helicopter under his own power and went to a medical facility below deck.

Here, doctors examined the pilot. Then Shepard was to be taken by helicopter to a hospital on Grand Bahama Island, about 31 miles southwest of the recovery ship.

He is expected to remain there at least 24 hours for extensive examination and psychological tests.

Then he will be flown to Washington, probably Sunday or Monday, for a hero's welcome at the White House from President Kennedy.

Those chosen as census takers were "highly respected" and "very fine people." They had been chosen with great care for their education, professional experience, knowledge of the district, etc. he said.

In another part of the trade debate, Mr. Argue said the 21st year grain agreement with the firm purchase contract for only 28,000,000 of the 186,700,000 bushels of wheat involved, although the impression was left from Tuesday's announcement that it all was a sale.

China has made no commitment to buy the rest of the grain, he said. But Canada had made a definite and clear commitment to provide storage on favorable storage for which farmers and the federal treasury would pay.

He also said Agriculture Minister Allin Hamilton, in his statement to the Commons Tuesday on his return from Hong Kong, made clear that it was a long - term agreement under which one contract had been signed and that future contracts would be negotiated on price and quantity.

BELIEVES IT GOOD

Mr. Hees added:

"On behalf of the government may I say that we believe this agreement is a good agreement, which will benefit greatly our wheat and grain farmers and the Canadian economy as a whole."

(In Moncton Thursday night, Mr. Hamilton denied Mr. Argue's charge that there is a "big joker" in the wheat deal with Communist China.

"As usual, Hazen Argue is wrong," said Mr. Hamilton in an interview. "The agreement does not end Nov. 30, as Mr. Argue claims and what China is anxious to establish its credit rating." He said new contracts would be signed for each sale at the current world price.

Mr. Argue said he borne by the government, he said. Credit has been given for four years to both Czechoslovak and Polish with no loss.)

Senator Hugessen told the upper house that the power that Fidel Castro gives the revenue minister in a tariff bill "is exactly the kind of arrangement that Fidel Castro is forcing down the throats of the Cuban people at the present moment."

He was speaking in the continuing Senate debate on a government bill to change the definition of imports to be designated as free of tax or duty made in Canada.

The liberal majority in the Senate has said it will try to kill a provision in the bill giving the cabinet extraordinary power in some tariff decisions.

BPW Club Holds Annual Coffee Party

The home of Mrs. M. E. Branscombe, 94 Queen Street, was the scene of the annual coffee party of the Bellevville Business and Professional Women's Club, on Wednesday evening.

The party, which was convened by Mrs. Charlotte Stephen, assisted by her committee, was one of the most successful held by the club, and the fine spring evening helped to bring out a gratifyingly large number of guests.

Receiving at the door along with Mrs. Branscombe, were: the club president, Miss Middle Hall, and immediate past president, Miss Hilda Collier.

Assisting with the sale of tickets at the door were: Colombe Both, Mary Newman, Shirley Woodcock and Enid Adams.

The guests were invited into the spacious living room and tea room by Eva Doolittle and Dorothy Ellis, while Charlotte Lockyer assisted in making the refreshments enjoyable.

SPRING HAT DRAW

Attracting a great deal of interest was the table where tickets were sold on a beautiful spring hat, donated by a local merchant, with the ticket sale in charge of Arlene Bowerman and Dorothy Ellis, lucky winner of this lovely article was Miss Addie Cournoyer, of Belleville.

The tea table was beautifully appointed with hand embroidered linen cloth, long tapers in club colors, held by beautiful silver candelabra, and a lovely centre-piece of yellow carnations.

Presiding over the silver coffee services were Mrs. Irene Haig and Miss Joy Nicols, who poured for the first hour, and Mrs. Grace Mercer and Mrs. Simone McFadden, during the second hour.

A large variety of sandwiches, relishes and delicious cakes and cookies, helped to enhance the flavor of the traditional coffee, which was made by Miss Marjorie Sherman.

SERVING GUESTS

Miss Muriel Johnson was in charge of serving the guests, and was assisted in serving by club members, Helen Christine, Dorothy Brown, Vickie Bawden, Mary Byers, Evelyn Coulter, Rose Doherty, Joe Farnsworth, Wynne Quinney, Eva Dustin and Margaret Booth. Helping to replenish the cups and plates were: Winifred Middleton, Marie Hutchman, Jeanne Stephenson and Enid Richards.

No party of this kind would be possible without the help of many willing hands in the kitchen, and Ruth McMullen was in charge of this group which included Annie Arnott, Marie Buckley, Florence Fitzgerald, Vera Keegan, Annie Mackintosh, Rena Sternbach, Betty Anderson and Phyllis Hutchinson.

Carrying on what has become a club tradition, Mr. E. Pinkie kindly drew the winning ticket for the door prize and Mr. Hall, the door prize being won by Mrs. L. B. Lemy of 7 Alfred Drive, Belleville.

The grateful thanks of the club are extended to Mrs. Branscombe, who once again opened her home for this occasion and without whom no party would be complete.

GRATEFUL THANKS

The coffee party is the only fund-raising event held by the club on a regular basis, and makes the nursing scholarship possible. Club members wish to thank all those who attended, and made it the success that it was.

session of this present time. Division weakens our witnessing, but still we are one in Christ and pray that everywhere men may turn to Jesus Christ who makes us one in spite of divisions.

"We pray that the world may find peace and unity in Him, to whom be glory for ever."

Mrs. O'Neil closed the worship service with prayer.

Mrs. Demeza introduced the theme, "The Long Stride," and thanked Mr. and Mrs. Keeting for giving of his time to show the film.

"The Long Stride" brought out all the suffering, all the hunger, all the poverty throughout the world in countries such as Korea, Hong Kong, in the Jordan where Christ walked. It gave a clear picture of the work of Protestant churches, their help among the refugees, feeding and clothing them, rebuilding and giving medical care to the sick and crippled, teaching and financing people in their jobs, a true picture of the church's stewardship.

LINKS' AIM

Mrs. C. Fuzzen, newly appointed Girls' Auxiliary Links Secretary, explained the Links of the Links was to draw into fellowship girls in remote areas, or where there were too few to form an ordinary branch, so they could still have a part in the Anglican girls' program. The program was open to girls from twelve to nineteen years and it was hoped to develop leadership and talent. Mrs. Fuzzen asked the members to look into their parishes to see if the Links program was needed, to talk it over with their Rector, and then get in touch with the Secretary. There are about 7,100 members of Girls Auxiliaries in Canada, and about 45 are Links. In Ontario Diocese about 41 have been added to this number, 19 in Maynooth parish and 22 in Parham.

Mrs. McCullum read a report of the Christian social service, compiled by secretary Jane File, showing services rendered by many citizenship served monthly to cancer patients at Kingston General Hospital, and dressings done at the Lilli Red Door; shut-ins provided with reading material; assistance given to Eskimos en route home after treatment in T.B. and in hospital visits. The "outstanding project for the year was World Refugee Year ,with a generous response from all branches for clothing for dressings made.

The Candidates' secretary report was by Miss Elinor Newman. Mrs. Curry gave the report for the Life Members of the Diocese, stating that seventeen memberships were received during the year, and six members had passed on.

JUNIORS SUCCESSFUL YEAR

A successful year was noted by Mrs. A. R. Treadgold for the Junior Auxiliaries. The pledges were well over their objective, and the Juniors sent a generous bale to the Yukon.

Miss Newman read the report of the educational secretary. This year's study is "Towards the Centre" and is designed to help the Church to cover their own church as the world-wide ecumenical movement has done in recent years.

Mrs. Axford reported for the publicity of the Diocese, explaining that accounts of Diocesan activities were sent out to our newspapers. The Living Message Editor Laura Secord born, asked for items to be identified for insertion in the letter.

Mrs. Noonan described the exquisite shadow embroidery and the Deaneries of Frontenac and Lennox and Addington were given by Presidents Mrs. Clark and Mrs. Butler respectively. All reports showed an active year with bales sent to missions at home and abroad; Christmas gifts given to missionaries and prayer partners; birthday prayer work and visits to sick and needy and entertainment and refreshments served at the Homes for the aged.

Funds were raised in a variety of ways, by voluntary giving, banners, teas, rummage sales, meeting, sale of cards, pot luck suppers, catering and talents money.

In giving the report of the Girls' Auxiliary, Miss Margaret Poole announced that the festival was to be held on May 8 at St. George's "Cathedral,"

Values of UWC Scholarships To Be Increased

At a recent meeting of the University Women's Club it was decided to increase the sum of the scholarships awarded each year. These scholarships are given to two girls attending Belleville High Schools or other high schools in a 25 mile radius from Belleville.

The two scholarships known as the University Women's Club Scholarship and the Manly Macdonald Scholarship will be raised from $100 to $200 each. These scholarships are won by two students obtaining highest marks in nine grade 13 papers and who are not already receiving $1000 from other scholarships or bursaries.

FIVE YEARS' SERVICE

Mrs. McCullum reported for the Constitution committee. A motion was made to amend a section of the constitution to read, "No officer shall serve for more than five consecutive years in any one office." This amendment was accepted.

Rural Dean Rev. L. A. Page conducted mid-day devotions for the assembly.

A short afternoon session, the singing of a hymn opened the program, followed by prayer led by Mrs. LaRue Boyd. Secretary Kate Dowdell gave a report of the Little Helpers, showing a membership of 137. The Dorcas report given by Mrs. R. Steward proved that the amount of assistance given at home and in the mission fields had been an auxiliary to the whole church. Christmas gifts were sent to 30 Clergy families in the Arctic, five families in the Arctic, and 16 teachers and nurses in Pangnirtung and Aklavik. Besides these bales were shipped to many places, a complete bale of clothing was made and donated to a new basket at Fort Simpson, and cash and furnishings were given to churches in the Diocese of Ontario.

Mrs. G. H. Willoughby in presenting the Prayer Partner report, showed a map on the wall with red lines joining many parts of the world, marking the lines of praying people.

RESEARCH COMPLETED

The results of two years of research into the history of the W.A. have been completed, said Mrs. Platt, archivist for the Diocese. In 1885 two important things in the history of Canada happened, the Canadian railway was finished and the Rev. Frosh Wilcox founded the W.A. "We cannot imagine Canada without the railway, and we cannot imagine the Anglican Church without the W.A. which gives immeasurable service to the church," said Mrs. Platt. "The books go to the printer in the fall, they will cost $1.00, and the money for the books ordered should

QUESTION:

. . . the recipe of a cake known around the year 1915 as a "Royal George Cake". This recipe is one used in the early days in Ontario and contained "One whole nutmeg grated". It was made in the form of a layer cake and had a boiled raisin filling between the layers. . . . A favorite in those days to take to picnics and gatherings My mother often speaks of this cake and wishes she hadn't lost her recipe . . . Audrey R.

FRIDAY

ANSWER:

Help readers; I'm clueless. Recipe for Royal George Cake wanted.

NOTE:

On April 7th I asked our readers for a recipe for Hop Yeast. I also had several requests — the most specific of which, came from M. E. C. (Barrie). Thanks to all others who answered my S.O.S.

HOP YEAST

Take a handful of hops and boil for 20 minutes in a quart of water, then strain. Pare 6 large potatoes and slice into the hop water, add half a small cupful each of salt and sugar and boil until potatoes are soft, then mash all through a colander and let cool. When cool add two yeast cakes soaked in warm water and set in a warm place filling between the layers. Put into and put away in the cellar. This yeast is warranted never to sour.

QUESTION:

. . . a recipe for those delicious Almond Cookies served at many Chinese restaurants? I have several Chinese recipes and cookbooks, but none features this cookie. Perhaps it is one of those things perfected by the Chinese for our Western palates- . . . Catherine F.

ANSWER:

The Almond Cookies you refer to are:

RICE CAKES:

4 oz. plain flour, 1 oz. ground rice, 1 oz. cornflour (cornstarch), 3 oz. sugar, pinch of salt, 1-3 level teaspoon baking powder, 2 oz. lard, 1-3 egg, 7 tablespoon water, 1-4 teaspoon almond essence, few shelled almonds to decorate.

Sift the plain flour, ground rice, cornflour, sugar, salt and baking powder together in a mixing bowl. Rub in the lard until the mixture resembles fine breadcrumbs. Then mix to a smooth dough with the 1-3 egg, water and almond essence. Form the dough into small balls and place on a greased baking tray. Place an almond on the top of each cake and brush with the remaining egg (Note: To measure 1-3 egg beat 1 egg and measure in measuring cup. An average-sized egg measure 1-4 cup so use about 3 tablespoons in recipe and what is leftover for scrambling (opa.) Bake at 375-400 deg. Fahr. for about 15 15 minutes.

We are pleased that people appreciate this parking convenience.

MODERN MANNERS

YOU AND YOUR PHOTOGRAPHS

Giving one's photograph is a big step and is a matter that should be considered carefully. Except when presenting one to a boy friend or wife, a close relative or friend, it really isn't wise to offer your picture as a gift. Unless specifically asked by someone else, keep that likeness of you under wraps!

In passing, a word to the bread line: Mothers, don't let little Mary and Jimmie are unsurpassed in beauty and cuteness. But don't pass around their photographs to anyone but relatives or very close friends! Let Jimmie taking his bath may be priceless to you, but a picture of him doing so in only something to add to the odds and ends in the bottom desk drawer when the snapshot is presented to the neighbor down the street.

Even when giving a photograph to a relative or friend, do not put it in a frame. In the class family circle it is all right to do so. Otherwise, by framing it, you put the recipient in the embarrassing being more or less forced to display it.

In the fashion years ago to exchange photographs with one's friends and acquaintances. Well the husband my mother and her frantic efforts to have a good-no's picture on the table because "so-and-so" was coming to see us finally mother solved her problem. She bought a leather folder, large enough to hold all the photographs she had received, and put the folder on the piano for all to go through, if they wished. In this way all were treated alike.

Another thing to be careful of when you recall your photograph is the autograph you place upon it. An inscription such as "To darling Sammy, with all my love," may, in future years, become a subject of ridicule. not to mention acute embarrassment. This warning applies particularly to those who are young in heart — and years!

A bride should be careful not to infer that she will be hurt if the members of the bridal party do not purchase photographs of the wedding group.

Snaps may do as she pleases, of course, but those who attend her also have the same prerogative. It is up to them whether or not they wish to buy any of the photos.

Question . . . Is it lawful to a bridge club. We have twelve members. Each year we put names slips in a hat and the one drawn gives the Christmas party. Last year we had a blizzard on the Saturday we were to have the party. The girl who was to have given it called and said it was off because of the weather. Actually we could all have made it without much difficulty. We were all sorry, because we had looked forward to it. Ever since, then, we have thought we could make it a date, but she hasn't. We all think she should do so. What is your valuable opinion in this matter? Mrs. M.M., Hackensack, N.J.

Answer — I would certainly be the gracious thing for her to have the party. By not doing so, it seems that she is trying to get out of it entirely. Why not be frank with her about it. If, for some reason, she does not wish to, or can not, be the hostess, draw another slip from the hat and be the get-together that you have looked forward to. If you do that, you will be big-hearted enough to invite the erring lady!

Three New G.G. Enrolled At Carmel

On Monday evening last the Church Hall at Carmel was the scene of a most delightful recolment ceremony of three new Guides, Linda Ross, Nancy Huffmen and Linda Way.

As the sending glowed, each one representing a Guide law, and the mock camp-fire shone radiantly in the back-ground, the Guides of the 129th Carmel Company formed horse-shoe formation.

Opening the ceremony was the presentation of the colors —color bearer — the Union Jack was P. L. Susan Hill, Escorts Guides, Gail Dawson and Elizabeth Howes.

Color bearer for the world flag—Senior Member, carole Linda Piperni and Cynthia Howes.

Patrol leader of the Iris Patrol—Linda Ashton, brought up the three recruits and introduced them to the District Commissioner, Mrs. R. Settle, who enrolled each one and welcomed her into the great sisterhood of guiding. They were then congratulated by District Commissioner, Mrs. Sinnett and Mrs. Bowerman under test cards. The Lord's Prayer was then said in unison and followed by the enrolment prayer read by Mrs. Harold Howes, captain of the Company.

Following the marching out of the colors a short program took place: a song "Land Where Rodney Badgeley; a song, Miss Gessa Scorr, accompanied by Guide Linda Dawson; a song by little Miss Janet Ross and a song and dance by Miss Brenda Badgeley; baton exercises, Guide Gail Dawson and a number of guide songs sung around the camp fire.

Following the commissioners remarks, the Guides sang their evensong and "taps" and were marched off by the patrols.

Lunch was served by the Guides and Guide mothers

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

Mr. G. O. — My wife has made me a happy man, and I don't like it!

Mrs. G. O. It's like the song, he's my everything.

Mr. G. O. — I married ista in life. I did so with my eyes wide open, knowing I'd have to give up some of my freedom in return for some companionship, a few kids, and a new circle of friends. But I never bargained for losing all my freedom! I haven't even been married a year, but already my wife has dropped all her old friends, her bridge club and sorority. She's switched from full-time to part-time on her job, to attend to our home. But now she has quit entirely. Why? To stay close to me!

Suddenly, from being interested in many things and so busy, my wife's only busy with me. I'm a traveling salesman who's become a laughing-stock among the boys. They say, "here comes the guy with the two bags — one on his arm!"

* * *

Mrs. G. O. — We have no children and I get lonely. I, too, have friends and interests. I'm an escort, and — since George travels a lot — to see the world a bit.

I love fussing over him, layout his clothes, check that they're pressed and mended. On trips, when he's tired I go down to a delicatessen and bring hot food up to the room for him.

* * *

I'm learning the business, too. I'm George's private secretary and I enjoy every minute of a sales call. I help George set up his display, then I direct clients at for him. Why should I hire a girl for him, when I'm perfectly fitted for the job? I'm living with some hanky-panky he never told me about!

All my friends warned me about traveling salesmen and, after watching some of them, I see how fast they can forget they're married.

The Council — Poor George doesn't know what hit him. After a lifetime of liberty, including the right to wink at a pretty receptionist, he now finds that he must fill the roles of husband, business partner, and baby, in the life of his wife.

Immediately let us add our cease and desist plea to his and say to Mrs. G.: It'll never work. Some men just don't like wife who makes her husband the sole purpose of her life. George, however, finds this oppressive.

There's a hint of suspiciousness tacked on to all that wifely solicitude, and even though the part of business Mrs. G. O. is primarily interested in is the home business she's heard about. And digging George in isn't going to help either the business or the marriage.

Who doubt there are eager beavers on the road who'll stop at "nothing" to make a sale.

Wining and dining the "live" prospects, male or female, has long been okayed by the Hoyles of the game, as a Jenny-come-lately, Mrs. G. must trust her husband's code of business ethics. Surely she has no reasons for worry, save the alert issued by her by friends who might well have wished to place a fly in the smooth ointment of her marriage.

So, how's this for a ticket on Year No. 2 of this September marriage? Take Mrs. G. along a George, when her motive is clearly the expansion of her horizons." That way, there'll be plenty of trips alone, too. After all, how many times can she look at Camden?

And Mrs. G. is to get back quickly to some of the hobbies and pursuits that filled her life before George. While he may well be her favorite "pursuit", she must balance her life with outside contacts and community service. Occasional trips are all right, for the novelty. The spy-angle is out. If she did't trust George, why did she marry him?

No offense intended, but let your salesman come and go — with one bag!

Young Couple Feted by Community

CENTENARY — On Monday evening a number of relatives and friends met in the Centenary Church hall to honor Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Marsh (nee Betty Murray), who were recently married.

Mr. Fred Edmunston acted as chairman and welcomed all those present and wished for Betty and Raymond a happy married life.

Dorothy Edmundson led in sing-song; Teddy Mellburn played a number on his guitar; Mrs. K. Nobes gave a reading, "A Maiden's Prayer"; Mrs. Marion Hancock and Irene played a duet on the piano; Helen Hart gave a reading, "What He Said"; Mr. A. Christopher read "When a Wife's Away."

Patsy Sargent read the address and the gifts were presented by Ralph Lowry, Doreen Pearson and Mr. and Mrs. Christopher.

Betty and Raymond opened the lovely gifts and thanked all their friends for their kindness.

Lunch was then enjoyed by all.

JOBS FOR WOMEN

Of the 5,644,000 persons employed in Canada in February, 1,606,000 were women.

Society Demands Certain Approach From Women

TORONTO (CP) — The married career woman must strive to be "somewhat more competent than men because public confidence in her competence has not yet wholly caught on," a Toronto education official said Wednesday night.

J. R. H. Morgan, superintendent of secondary schools, told delegates at the annual meeting of the provincial Council of Women, that "even in the fundamentals of purely vocational skill, society demands a certain approach from women."

"Somehow she is expected to weed the garden without getting her hands dirty."

Because of her role in life, a woman's education "should be fundamentally and unequivocally of that flavor which we call liberal."

Her roles are economic, as "keeper of our culture," educator and religious counselor.

Her influence is felt beyond home and school. "No politician will remain in office long if he underestimates the power of the woman elector," he said.

Cartridge Is A Vital Unit Of Good Hi-Fi

While you're shopping for amplifiers ,speakers and record changers, don't overlook the cartridge. The phono cartridge is the critical component that holds the needle.

"Because the cartridge is tucked inside the tone arm, it's easy to miss," says R. E. Ward, engineer for Shure Brothers, Inc., maker of electronic components. "Yet it is perhaps the hardest working component in a stereo high fidelity system."

Not only must a single needle and cartridge pick up the sound from two separate sound channels on the record, but the tiny .0007-inch diamond needle is constantly under a pressure equivalent to tens of thousands of pounds per square inch.

Mr. Ward advises that the following factors be checked when rating a cartridge

1. Is it the magnetic type? Magnetic cartridges are generally superior to the ceramic type.

2. What is its frequency response? From 20 to 15,000 cycles per second is recommended to match the best components.

3. Does it have high needle compliance? Compliance refers to the needle's flexibility. The more flexible the needle, the greater is its response and the less wear on the record and needle.

4. What is the tracking force (stylus pressure)? A very light pressure is necessary for most cartridges to maintain responsiveness and to reduce record wear. One special unit, the Shure Stereo Studio Dynetic integrated tone arm and cartridge, will track at one and one-half grams, virtually eliminating all wear and making it possible to scratch records.

5. Does the cartridge minimize cross - talk? Since one needle is used to pick up sound from two channels on a stereo record, the cartridge must keep the sounds separate.

6. How much needle talk is there? The needle should produce little or no sound itself on the record. Turn the volume all the way down and if you can hear sounds coming from the cartridge, you have "needle talk."

7. Is the cartridge compatible? If you have monophonic long-playing records, you will want your stereo cartridge to be able to play them.

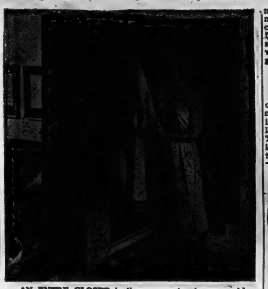
MULTIPLE PURPOSE basement storage wall built of fir plywood solves the problem of "where to put things" and at the same time gives the family a new living area. The unit goes against a concrete end wall and breaks for a ground level window. Included are a wardrobe, record player and speaker, open storage cupboards, TV shelf, bookshelves and "home office" (see right).

Walls Offer Potentialities For Creating Storage Space



Suppose you've combed the entire house for some place to add storage, to no avail. How about the interior walls and partitions? In newer houses, they seldom bear the weight of the ceiling and can be replaced by a storage wall. In older homes, where rooms are likely to be larger, the additional storage facilities to an existing partition will take only a little more than a foot of the adjoining room's dimension.

One plan for such a storage wall call for five vertical sections, with several adjustable shelves within each. Texture-One-Eleven, the fir plywood with deep parallel grooves, provides the flexibility; it's used for the sides of each section, with the grooves running horizontally so shelves can slide in and out.

Since a storage wall consisting only of open shelves would be dull to look at (and at limited value), you'll want to plan a few fixed units to relieve the monotony. These might include a small, compact desk, with a fold-down door; storage units with sliding panel doors; a bar cabinet; a section for magazine storage, with vertical dividers between top and bottom surfaces; and a three-drawer unit. Another possibility is to use all or part of the space for a music wall: hi-fi components built right in, and record storage in the magazine unit.

If you have a room that's too long, and you want to divide it in two, a well designed room divider will solve the problem neatly while giving you a welcome extra dividend of more storage space.

If your front door opens directly into your living room, with no entrance way or foyer, a closet that in effect creates a little entrance hall can easily be built. This will not only prove a decorative asset, but will provide additional storage space. It can follow a simple, functional design that won't clash with your existing décor.

AN ENTRY CLOSET is the answer to storage problems in a small home without suitable division of the entry area. It provides definition of this area and a place to hang coats and hats and keep rainy-weather footwear. Cantilevered bench can serve as auxiliary coffee table for the living room.

Stain Repellent Protects Brightly Colored Fabrics

Until recently, couples with young children have had to sacrifice their decorating dreams and hope the future would find their homes the way they really want them. But this is no longer necessary.

According to J. Alan Tarr, stylists for a leading furniture manufacturer, practicality need no longer play the main role in decorating a home where there are youngsters.

"The latest stain repeller for fabric, scotchgard, provides an invisible slip cover for upholstered furniture. It makes fabrics resistant to both oil and water-borne stains as well as dry soot, without changing the fiber at all, says Miss Tarr.

Because of this new development, the homeowner can achieve exciting decorating effects through color, but still keep things practical in her choice of fabrics. With scotchgard treated fabrics there is no need to worry about food stains on light colors.

When liquid is spilled, it can be blotted away without leaving a stain. If the liquid should get embedded between the fibers, a slight stain will remain, but it can be removed with an application of cleaning fluid which will not leave a ring.

If the fabric is not already treated, many a homemaker will feel that the savings in upkeep are well worth the small additional cost to have it done.

In addition to having fabrics treated for soil repellancy, Miss Tarr, of the Kroehler Manufacturing Company, advises the young family to pay close attention to the type of fabric chosen for furniture that will get heavy wear.

"One matter how interesting they may look," she says, "stay away from loosely woven fabric. It's an easy for the yarn to get caught in clothing or toys."

With young children in the house, textured high pile or tweed fabrics should be selected because these do not show dirt as quickly as satin or silk.

For economy, scotchgarded cotton and cotton blends are recommended. Homemakers get the inherent benefits of the cotton fiber, softness in appearance and touch, without the inherent problem of dirt absorption.

To keep upholstered furniture clean, Miss Tarr advises that it be brushed at least once a week, using a whisk broom. Dirt embedded in fabrics weakens the fabric more quickly. A dusty surface is also more likely to become stained than a clean one.

Have your furniture cleaned professionally once a year. And since the arms of chairs get the most wear, have arm slipcovers made of the same fabric as the chairs to protect them. These fit easily and won't slip or slide off, yet they can be whisked away in a jiffy when guests arrive.

TO MEASURE PIPE

To get the outside diameter of a piece of pipe, tighten a monkey wrench lightly around it. Slide the wrench off without loosening the set of the jaws. The distance between the jaws is an accurate measurement of the diameter of the pipe.

Canadian Garden Service

By Gordon Lindsay Smith

Many experienced gardeners make it a regular practice to add something entirely new every year. In this way they discover flowers and vegetables that they never knew existed before, or would grow in their garden, and they discover new favourites, too. There are all sorts of new things listed in the seed catalogues today that were not there five years ago or ten or, in a few cases, even in last year's publication.

Usually there are a few pages especially devoted to these introductions. Some of them come from the All-American trials, where the most promising new varieties of flowers and vegetables are tested at trial grounds all over North America, and special awards made to the very best. One or two of these planted in the garden will add fresh interest.

And there has been steady improvement in run-of-the-mill things too. There are brighter, bigger more fragrant flowers; there are crisper, earlier, more disease resistant vegetables.

The varieties of corn, peas, carrots, potatoes, tomatoes, and almost everything else are not the same as grandma used to grow. If grandma were here herself and tasted them she would be the first to admit it. Today's vegetables have far more quality. Moreover there are far more of them that Canadians everywhere can grow. Thanks to earlier and hardier varieties we can grow tomatoes, melons cucumbers, and such things in lots of places where they wouldn't have had a chance to mature ray 30 years ago. Not so long back even garden corn could only be grown safely in a few of the warmer sections of Canada. Now it can be grown almost up beyond the Arctic Circle if one is careful.

When planting trees, shrubs, or even what will eventually be good sized annual flowers and vegetables, many people seem to forget that those things will grow. As a result they crowd far too closely together and far too near sidewalks, walls and fences. Then when the shrubs or trees really start to develop they have to slash them back and make them look unsightly. Also if shrubs or trees are planted only a foot or two from the wall of the house, they are sure to die out at the roots and the main stem or trunk will grow away at an angle from the wall seeking the light. Shrubs that will reach 3 to 5 feet at least, and trees that will 10 to 12 feet between if they are to develop in normal and beautiful fashion. As for trees in the small city lot and with a one storey house especially, big ones have no place at all. Far better to select small sorts like the Mountain Ash, Japanese Maple or some of the many blossoming ornamentals and leave the big fellows to the parks. And most fair sized annual flowers and vegetables want room too, at least half as far apart in the row of garden as they will be tall at maturity.

On balance, most birds do far more good in the garden than any possible harm. They help to keep down bugs and cut weed seeds, and they are beautiful and interesting to have around. Shrubs and trees, bird houses, feeding stations and watering or bathing pools, all will help to bring wrens and orioles and robins. But we can do more than this. There are certain bright flowers that have a special appeal for humming birds. There are all sorts of shrubs with bright and edible fruit or seeds that will invite cardinals. There are others that are particularly attractive for the goldfinch. It pays well to study the special likes of the birds, to plant things that will produce food and shelter in winter as well as in summer.

Good garden seeds cost but a few cents per packet, but of all the factors that go to produce a successful garden it is the most essential. Soil, fertilizer, weather and care may be perfect, but without good seed, true to variety, failure is certain. Beginners in gardening, (the others don't need to be reminded) are strongly advised to let the plant breeders save the seed and get theirs from a Canadian Seed house.

Air-Conditioned Basement Easy To Complete

Chances are that many home owners who "sweat out" the hot weather this summer will overlook a good bet for quick relief – an air conditioned basement.

A sunken living room or recreation room is already partly cooled by surrounding earth. It takes a small further investment to air condition it completely.

Many basements in houses built or bought today are of concrete block construction. If you are planning to buy or build this type of house, here are some things to look for.

What To Look For

Is it well insulated? A concrete block basement should give excellent insulation value, since blocks contain dead air spaces. If the basement is cold and damp, it may indicate faulty construction.

Is it dry? A properly constructed concrete block basement is dry and damp proof. If water is leaking through it may indicate that the exterior below-grade construction outside the wall. This can be corrected in several different ways.

How much extra does the basement add to the cost of the house? Average cost of a full basement under the average house is one-tenth the cost of above-grade construction. Finished recreation rooms, of course, add considerably to basement appearances.

Is the workmanship good? The concrete block should be uniform in shape, pleasing in color, with all the corners intact. The mortar joints between them should be neatly finished. There should be no excess mortar on the face of the block.

Children's Aid Societies Will Study Adoption Fees To Defray Agency's Costs

TORONTO (CP)—A move to charge a fee for adoptions in order to defray the agency's cost of about $200 per child will be studied by the Ontario Association of Children's Aid Societies.

At a conference here Thursday, delegates voted to study the subject of fees but took no immediate steps to seek any changes in the Child Welfare Act of Ontario.

Two delegates welcomed the idea of fees because, one said, "some parents would actually feel better if they could contribute."

E. J. Lazarus of Kapuskasing said many were startled and disappointed to find no fee was charged, because they had no way of expressing gratitude.

Other delegates felt fees would not benefit the agencies since they would just take the place of government grants, and that they would appear to be payment for babies.

"The joy I get putting a child into a childless mother's arms is all the reward I need," said Mrs. Elaine Patterson of Stratford. "Isn't it nice we can do something for nothing."

Laughter erupted when A. R. Haywood of Port William asked whether adoptive parents would have to write the three-per-cent Ontario sales tax which comes into effect next September.

Delegates unanimously supported a resolution supporting court sessions under the Child Welfare Act on Sundays in the case of children refused medical treatment when health or well-being are in danger.

Dr. Karl Spence, chief psychiatrist at St. Mary's Hospital, Montreal, said the cause of many crises faced by the modern family is a lack in the child's ability to love. Arresting the development of love can result in juvenile delinquency, drug addiction, alcoholism and other character defects.

The association voted unanimously to request the government to have general welfare assistance on the actual needs of the family so that public assistance would be sufficient to permit families to live in decency.

The General Welfare Assistance Act allows municipalities to supplement relief allowances, but the Ontario government shares the cost only up to maximums set by the act.

Jack Pike of Hamilton said: "Municipalities invariably say they are paying all the regulations of the relief act will permit."

H. E. Dymond of Renfrew claimed the government never admits to any ceilings, but passes it off as municipalities.

Mrs. Nora Fox o fBrantford asked whether support for a royal commission to study the entire field of welfare services in Ontario could be read into the resolution. She said the association should do so and recommend more than just an adjustment of relief rates.

Mr. Dymond, referring to Welfare Minister Louis Cecile's announcement of a committee to study child welfare, assured Mrs. Fox the association still is supported as over-all study of welfare.

Delegates also voted for a four-part resolution which suggested that: The government investigate the high death rate; finding that housing authorities unite with health and social agencies in considering child and family needs; that Ontario unite with health and social agencies in considering child and family needs; that Ontario unite with health and social agencies in considering child and family needs; that Ontario

Jets Bomb Syracuse In 14-1 Win

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Columbus Jets bombed the hapless Syracuse Chiefs 14-1 with a 17 - hit attack Thursday night, to give jets a 9-3 record so far and a two - game lead over Toronto and Richmond in the standings of the International Baseball League.

Rochester Red Wings pushed Richmond's Virginians down to third, trailing the idle Toronto Maple Leafs on percentages. When Herb Mofard pitched three - hit ball for a 4-1 victory.

Cold weather caused postponement of the San Juan-Buffalo game and limited the other upstate New York crowds to 1,005 at Syracuse and 1,272 at Rochester.

Coupled with the Columbus power was the wild but effective two-hit pitching rightbander Earl Francis who won his second straight decision. Francis gave up his only run in the third on two walks, a hit batsman and an infield out.

For the Jets Larry Elliott belted two home runs and catcher Don Leppert hit two singles and drove in three runs to lift his league-leading batting average to .500.

Mofford, who had an 11-11 record for Miami last season, brought his current mark to 2-2 with a strong performance that included eight strikeouts.

'Carry Back' Favorite Fifteen Enter Derby

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—Fifteen horses, registered by owners from nine states and Canada, were entered officially Thursday for the 87th Kentucky Derby and the track oddsmaker says two Florida colts are the ones to beat.

They are Mrs. Jack Price's Carry Back, the 5-to-2 favorite, and Fred W. Hooper's Crozier, next in line at 3 to 1.

The $125,000-added derby, the 1½-mile glamor gallop of American racing, will be run Saturday at sprawling Churchill Downs.

If all 15 go Saturday, the pot will gross $183,000 and the winning owner will go into the rose-bordered horseshoe to stash away $120,500 and a $5,000 gold cup which may be used for sipping mint juleps.

Carry Back won the two Florida $100,000 races for sophomores—Hialeah's Flamingo and Gulfstream's Florida Derby. Crozier, who finished second in those races with only a head separating them, popped into the Louisville limelight when he broke the track record in Thursday's derby trial.

ARE CANADA'S HOPES

Canada's hopes rest with a two-ply entry, Four-and-Twenty and Flutterby, third choice at 5 to 1. They are owned by Max Bell of Calgary and Frank McMahon of Vancouver. Four-and-Twenty, winner of the $100,000 Santa Anita Derby, is a Kentucky colt, while Flutterby was bred in California.

Others going for the roses are Sherluck, Dearborn, On His Mental, Loyal Son, Ronnie's Ace, Jay Fox, Globemaster, Back Cleff, Light Talk and Dr. Miller. Sherluck will be ridden by Eddie Arcaro.

Dearborn drew the No. 1 post position. Among the top contenders, Carry Back was No. 14 Crozier 11, Four-and - Twenty 4, and Flutterby 13.

Johnny Sellers, who leads U.S. jockeys in wins, handles Carry Back, Braulio Baeza copped the blue grass with Sherluck, but is contracted to pilot Crozier.

Johnny Longden rides Four-and-Twenty, with Hank Moreno aboard Flutterby. Willie Shoemaker steers Dr. Miller, Longden won the derby with Count Fleet, Moreno with Dark Star, and Shoemaker with Swaps and Tomy Lee.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

The preliminary round of the Harmsworth Trophy "trials" is over. In this corner Mayor H. J. McFarland, who left-hooked with "American speedboat owners have cold feet." In the other corner Lou Schoenith, Detroit challenger, who countered with a demand for $40,000.

The Americans who challenged last December discovered recently that the Harmsworth dates set by the Canadian Boating Federation are not to their liking. The Canadians say there will be no change and the non-appearance of a challenger will give Canada the Harmsworth by default.

It seems the Seattle Seaboard Fair is scheduled for the August 5 weekend. The United States Harmsworth entry, "Gale VI", according to owner Lou Schoenith, will enter the Fair. It seems there is some $40,000 loot emitted. In Picton and the Harmsworth there is prestige only. And you can't eat that.

The question is, did the Canadians play directly into American hands by setting the Harmsworth dates the same as the Seattle regatta? And did the Canadians partially forefite the American ambition to race by deciding on and laying out a three-mile course?

One of the more important facts of Harmsworth competition is that the boat must be specially designed and prepared for the rigors of a tough 45-mile course. Last year three American boats failed to stand up under a tough 9-lap five-mile raceway. What can they be expected to do over a 15-lap three-mile course this year unless specially equipped?

"Miss Supertest III", the Canadian champion, was exactly designed for racing at 45 miles over long straight-aways. With her new overhaul she should be ready for the "many-turns" race over the shorter course.

Perhaps the overall question is one of power. The Supertest boats are powered by Rolls-Royce Griffons which are much more powerful than the American Allisons. This adds another problem to American ambitions.

To meet the Canadian competition the American engines must be mightily supercharged. Outstanding engineering is required and even this is not a guarantee of success.

Bill Waggoner's "Maverick" was the only Allison-powered boat designed for Harmsworth competition. She blew her supercharger in the third and deciding heat of the 1959 Harmsworth. She defeated the Canadian boat in the second race.

Waggoner, a tremendously wealthy cattleman, spent huge sums in powerboat racing. He hired Allison engineers who "X-rayed" every nut and bolt that went into Maverick's engines. Bill Stead, Maverick's driver, now retired, last year (1960) stressed the fact that the Waggoner operation is the only one capable of meeting the challenge of the well-organized Supertest team.

Stead told newspapermen at the Long Beach pits that he was not surprised at the results. - "How could I be!" he said, "these boats (the American challengers), are not in the same league with the Maverick, let alone your Canadian boat."

Stead went farther than that. He said he saw nothing on the horizon to bother the Canadians, "not for two or three years, at least. All the money in the world won't get you anywhere in this business unless you can hire the brains and the testing facilities. I doubt if anybody, except Waggoner, can do that."

Schoenith issued the initial 1961 challenge on behalf of the United States. After the 1960 experience with "Gale V" he re-powered his "Gale VI" during the winter with a Packard engine. A report from Detroit some weeks ago stated that under brilliant engineering the new "Gale VI" would be a worthy foeman for "Supertest." It must be remembered that all American Harmsworth boats must be powered with American engines.

If the United States declines to fulfil its 1961 challenge for the Harmsworth as now seems probable, it can be construed to nothing more perhaps than a logical marking of time. Without a new boat, a new engine or a new idea the American challenge would not carry much significance.

True, "Gale V" failed to start in the second heat last year but world hydroplane experts on the scene stated that it was extremely doubtful if she could give Supertest a real run for the honor. Her only hope, they said, lay in pushing the Canadian boat to the limit and trusting to a breakdown.

The quality of the new "Gale VI" and her Packard power plant is yet to be proved. It could be that Schoenith wants a year of testing and racing to determine what the boat can do.

Perhaps the condition of race dates played into his hands.

"American Owners Have Cold Feet"

Challenger Asks $40,000

H. J. McFARLAND

DETROIT (AP) — Powerboat owner Lou Schoenith challenged the mayor of Picton Thursday night to put up a cash prize to preserve the 1961 Harmsworth Trophy race.

"Let him put up $40,000 and I'll go to Picton," barked Schoenith, whose Gale V was beaten by Canada's Miss Supertest III in last year's international challenge race on the Bay of Quinte near Picton.

Schoenith said earlier this week he wouldn't enter his rocket-powered Gale VI in the Harmsworth scheduled for Aug. 5-6 and that other American boat owners also wanted to compete in the Seattle Seafair Regatta the same weekend.

"American boat owners can't afford to take up the Seattle race which has $40,000 in prizes to compete in the Harmsworth which carries only prestige," Schoenith said.

"Why should I support a race at Picton when the biggest race in history is at the same time in the United States?" he asked.

At Picton, Mayor Harvey McFarland said American drivers want the date changed because they have cold feet.

"I don't understand that," blurted Schoenith.

DIDN'T LIKE PICTON

"I can't say that the treatment I received in Picton was the best I ever received. It was poor hospitality. The mayor didn't invite me, my driver (Bill Cantrell), or any of my crew to any of his social functions.

"I don't think he's qualified to speak about raceboating and tell racebout drivers when they can race."

Mayor McFarland also said the Americans were afraid they wouldn't be able to get the trophy and wanted the race on their own waters, He said that while Picton is a speed course the Americans feel they have a better chance on rough water where they can manipulate their boat and cut around buoys.

Portland Nips Totems

SEATTLE (CP) — A goal by Larry Leach into an open net broke the back of a Seattle Totem last-period rally and gave Portland Buckaroos a 5-3 victory before 4,414 fans here Thursday night and a 3-2 lead in games in the Western Hockey League finals.

Gordon Fashoway, Bill Davidson, Art Jones and Barney Kraik split the Portland scoring in the first two periods with Ed Ehrenworth, Don Chlupka and Bill MacFarland counting for Seattle in their third period drive.

Mossi Wins, Mantle Homers

Tigers, Yankees Neck-And-Neck

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Staff Writer

When Don Mossi finally had to give up because of arm trouble and missed the last two months of last season it appeared the longtime southpaw-ace was washed up. That was one reason Detroit Tigers were overlooked in the pennant picks. At the moment, it looks like an oversight.

Mossi won his third without defeat Thursday night. He did it with a two - hit pitching job that beat Washington Senators 6-0 and kept the Tigers in a tie with New York Yankees for the American League lead.

The Yankees made off with a three - game sweep by beating Minnesota Twice 3-2. Baltimore, after scoring three runs in the ninth for a tie, beat Los Angeles Angels 8-7 on Ron Hansen's home run single in the 13th. No other games were scheduled.

GOOD PERFORMANCE

Mossi, 31, walked three and struck out five in the best performance of his eight - year career, which has included a trio of three - hitters.

He had a no-hit game until Gene Green singled with two out in the seventh inning. The other hit, also a single, was by Willie Tasby with two out in the ninth.

The Tigers handed winless Bennie Daniels his third defeat with a run in the fourth inning on Al Kaline's triple and sacrifice fly by Rocky Colavito.

A bases - loaded walk to Mossi and a sacrifice fly by Jake Wood counted two more in the seventh. Norm Cash, who had three of Detroit's 10 hits, singled in an eight - inning run, and Billy Bruton brought in two more with a single in the ninth.

Mickey Mantle blasted his ninth home run, tops in the majors, for the Yankees, but it was a lone hit first inning that sent the defending champs to their seventh victory in the last eight games.

Whitey Ford was the winner, but wildness got to the effects of a cold. Jim Coates came on for a one - hit shutout mop-up over the last three frames. Ford allowed five hits, Jim Kaat was the loser.

Hansen drove in four runs for the Orioles, who twice came from behind, and triggered the ninth inning rally with a one-on homer. His winning single off reliever Ned Garver, followed a walk and a double by Gus Triandos, who also belted a two-run homer. Unbeaten reliever Hoyt Wilhelm won his fourth. He allowed three hits, one a 13th inning home run by Ken Hunt, in five innings.

Kelly Wins Lady Byng

MONTREAL (CP) — Leonard (Red) Kelly, 33-year-old centre of Toronto Maple Leafs, was named the player best combining ability with sportsmanship and gentlemanly conduct during the 1960-61 National Hockey League season Thursday.

This marks the fourth time Kelly has won the Lady Byng Memorial Trophy and the $1,000 award that goes with it.

Kelly received 106 of a possible total of 180 points in the voting. Closest, with 59 points, was Norm Ullman of Detroit Red Wings. Andy Hebenton of New York Rangers, a former winner of the trophy, was third with 50 points.

In the 1960-61 season Kelly had 70 points on 26 goals and 50 assists and was considered a big factor in the 62-goal product of linemate Frank Mahovlich.

The veteran redhead played in 64 of his team's 70 games and served only 10 minutes in penalties. During his 14 seasons he has served only 273 minutes, an average of less than 20 a season.

HOW VOTING DONE

Voting for the award was done by hockey writers and broadcasters in the six NHL cities. Points were awarded on a 5-3-1 basis for first, second and third choices and the voting weighted to give each city equal voting strength.

At the mid - season balloting Kelly received 48 points, getting 38 in the second half. Ullman had 32 and 27, Hebenton 28 and 22.

Don McKenney of Boston, in fourth place, had 24 points, Bernie (Boom Boom) Geoffrion of Montreal 22, Camille Henry of New York 21 and Jean Beliveau of Montreal 15. Nine other players received points, ranging from one to six.

Joey Jay Flips One-Hitter

Barely Misses Perfect Game

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Staff Writer

In three starts for Cincinnati, in which the Reds didn't score a run in 18 innings, Joey Jay lost three. But the young right hander finally won Thursday night by pitching a one-hit National League shutout.

He barely missed a perfect game in a 4-0 victory over Philadelphia. The only hit by the Phils was a one-out single in the first inning by Johnny Callison. And the only other man to reach base for the Phils was Ruben Amaro, when drew Jay's lone walk, leading off the third inning.

After that Jay retired 18 in a row, with Amaro rubbed out as losing pitcher Art Mahaffey hit into a double play. He struck out seven.

The lone night game gave the Reds their fifth straight victory —four against the Phils—since plunking into the cellar last Sunday. Now fifth and back at .500, the Reds are 2½ games behind first place San Francisco.

FADDED THEIR LEAD

The Giants padded their lead over idle Pittsburgh to a full game by rapping Chicago Cubs 9-3. Milwaukee grabbed third place from Los Angeles by beating the Dodgers 3-0 in 10 innings on Joe Adcock's grand slam homer.

The Reds scored in two-run bursts in the first and third innings off Mahaffey, (2-2), who allowed seven hits and five walks. A sacrifice fly by Gus Bell brought in the first run and Gordie Coleman drove home the other three with a double and a single.

Adcock's slam, the eighth of his career, put an end to a frustrating afternoon for the Milwaukee's first baseman. The homer capped a five-run 10th off loser Jim Golden (2-1) after Los Angeles had taken a 6-5 lead on Gil Hodges' homer in the top of the 10th. John Roseboro also homered for the Dodgers.

Carl Willey (1-0), the fourth Milwaukee pitcher to follow starter Bob Hall, won it after losing five in a row to the Dodgers since June 26, 1958.

A five-run fifth inning gave it to the Giants, who came from behind on Orlando Cepeda's two-run single off loser Glen Hobbie (1-3). Sam Jones (3-1) went all the way for the Giants, blanking the Cubs on two hits after they scored their three in the first inning on Don Zimmer's double, a single by Ernie Banks, a walk and Ed Bouchee's two-run triple.

Memorial Cup

Record Set Tonight

EDMONTON (CP)—A record will be set in tonight's sixth game of the Memorial Cup finals no matter who wins—Toronto St. Michael's College Majors or Edmonton Oil Kings.

If Rev. David Bauer's Majors win, it will be the first time any club ever won the Canadian junior hockey championship four times.

If Buster Brayshaw's Oil Kings win, it will be the first time since the best-of-seven series began in 1943 that a team has tied the series after losing the first three games.

There will be no tie. If the score is deadlocked at the end of regulation time, there will be a 10-minute overtime period. If the score is still tied, the game will be decided by sudden - death overtime of 20-minute periods.

St. Michael's, winners of the first three games 4-0, 4-1 and 4-2, now are tied at three cup wins with three other clubs.

Edmonton set a record when they won the fifth game 4-2. No other team in a best-of - seven series had ever won two games after losing the first three. Kings had won the fourth 5-4.

Majors went through a mild workout Thursday night and were scheduled to have a light skate today.

Coach Brayshaw gave his players a day off Thursday.

They seemed a little tired towards the end (of the fifth game) and I thought a rest should help."

Trotter Leads Rally

CALGARY (CP)—Drivers and navigators faced new problems of teamwork today as they headed into the rocky mountains and the sixth leg of their trans-Canada auto rally.

Early starters were to rise in darkness and drive through almost 700 miles of twisting mountain passes, back into darkness before they reached Penticton, B.C.

An eight-hour stopover in Calgary followed a relatively easy 184-mile direct stretch from Edmonton Thursday evening, where the 83 car field passed through its fourth spot test.

The rally began with 106 cars in Montreal Sunday. By the time they reach Vancouver Saturday, they will have travelled 4,100 miles over the longest Rally course in the western hemisphere.

The overall leader after standings were compiled at the Regina stop was Homer Tyoter of Waterlown, N.Y., and navigator R. Mollman of Ohio. They were without a penalty point in a Mercedes - Benz of Canada Limited factory - entered car.

Jack Young and Reg Hillary of Toronto were second, also with no penalty points, driving a Studebaker factory - entered Lark.

At Regina, prior to the dust-choked 500 - mile stretch Thursday to Edmonton, Studebaker-Packard of Canada Limited led among the manufacturers competition entries, with four penalty points.

Gorgeous One And Valette Here Tonight

Gorgeous George puts his bobby-pins, a new coiffure, a dazzling gown and his ability on the wrestling line here tonight.

He will also show his lovely young valette Cheryl Dupree who says to it that no vicious bugs, ants or mosquitos sink germ-coated fangs into her wrestling lord and master.

Tony Marino, handsome young Italiano will provide the opposition for the Golden Boy, and as he has no use for feminine foi-de-rols the bout should stack up as a good one.

It is a fine card all around.

There's the two Kalmikoffs, as tough a pair as ever entered a ring here who stack up against Pat Flanagan and Man Mountain Campbell, a 240-pounder built like a tank and who knows a lot of wrestling answers.

Opening the first show of the season is another Kalmikoff, Karol, by name who faces a big boy, Farmer Frank Townsend. This promises to be a jolter, too.

Geo. Schaefer One of Lucky Young Men in Television

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — George Schaefer is one of the lucky young men of television. At a time when dramatic programs are diminishing in number, when original dramatic scripts are talented professionals are just not being written, Schaefer has a budget, a sponsor and network time which allows him to produce and direct just about anything he fancies, from Shakespeare to new plays.

Despite his own fortunate position as the man in charge of NBC's Hall of Fame series, Schaefer is worried about the future of dramatic shows on television, particularly new shows.

"There is, of course, the short age of originals," he explained. "And you must look at it from the viewpoint of the writer. Let's say he has spent three years writing and polishing a play. There is absolutely no way in which TV could compensate him if the show also is a possibility for Broadway.

APPEAL LIMITED

"From every aspect — financial return, challenge, excitement, and from the artistic viewpoint, television today provides limited appeal for the writer."

Schaefer believes that one of the reasons that new, good writers are so rare in television is because of what he calls "spoon-for-thinking."

"A lot of them figure if it made a good book or if people liked it as a movie, then the wise thing is to re-make it for television. And, you know, that's not always true."

Bing Crosby Story on CBC Radio May 7

"I'm not a great entertainer", says Bing Crosby, "People like me because they hear me sing and they feel that they could do just as well".

In An Hour with Bing Crosby, on CBC radio, May 7, Bing reminisces with broadcaster Tony Thomas about his career and life and plays some of the many songs he has recorded.

The program will be heard on the Trans-Canada network at 6.00 p.m. EDT.

Bing's first record, I've Got a Girl, was made in 1926. During the next few years he worked with Paul Whiteman's orchestra and the Rhythm Boys, recording such hits as Mississippi Mud and Side by Side.

In 1930, he married actress Dixie Lee.

"They didn't know my name then", Bing recalls. "The column read: 'Twentieth Century Fox star Dixie Lee married singer Bing Crovine'."

In the same year, he was to have sung in the movie, The King of Jazz, but he never got on the screen.

"I got juiced up and was involved in an auto accident. The judge asked me if I was aware of prohibition. Sure, I said, but nobody pays much attention to it. 'You'll have 30 days to think about it' the judge replied, and I never did get to sing in the movie".

One of the perennial stories about Crosby is that he is the richest man in show business.

HIGHER SPEED AT SPORTS

"This story is spread by people like Bob Hope who seeks to throw suspicion off himself", says Bing. "Hope, not me, is the richest man in show business. Bob has the first dollar he ever made and the first dollar he ever found. The stories about my money are like the tales of Dean Martin's drinking. I saw Dean perform in the Las Vegas this year. During the performance he drank steadily from a large glass of amber fluid. The audience thought it was bourbon. I knew it was apple juice".

During the interview Bing comments on the popular belief that he "has been heard by more people than any other singer.

"I think", he says, "people like Sinatra, Doris Day and Al Jolson have more claim to that title than I do. Jolson was the greatest entertainer who ever lived. He had a fabulous set of pipes, this fella".

In his career to date, Bing has received 30 gold record awards, representing disks which sold a million copies or more. His own favorite recording is not among these.

"The record I like best", he says, "is a comparatively obscure one called "My Isle of Golden Dreams". I think my voice sounded good on that one".

Heifetz Will End Two Year Educational Experiment

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Late this month violinist Jascha Heifetz, who has appeared in several movies, will end a two year educational experiment which he terms "both a success and a failure."

Heifetz is resigning as regents' professor of music at the University of California at Los Angeles, Chancellor Franklin D. Murphy announced the university's regret and added: "He has contributed significantly to the musical and cultural life on the campus."

The violinist is more qualified in his remarks. Always a circumspect man, he chos e his words carefully because I don't want to offend the university."

But he said: "I think I may have had success as a teacher, but I failed as a boper—a man with hope.

"I had hoped that I could change things. When I took the assignment, friends warned me that it would be difficult dealing with a government organization—UCLA is a state university. But I still had hope. Now I realize I was wrong. I couldn't change things."

HEIFETZ TALK

What did he want to change?

"I was hoping there would be less talk and more practice" he said.

During the two years, Heifetz conducted a master-violin class and visited music departments of other University of California campuses. He admitted that he found no young violinists of concert stature. "But you will not find them every day."

The experience hasn't discouraged him about teaching.

"I'll continue giving private lessons", he said. "But here are two students who are very promising. And concert work—it has been the field for the violin. There is work in orchestras, in the performance he finds exciting and in teaching—we need more violin teachers than players."

Jockey Dies In Hospital

PORT ERIE (CP) Jockey Charlie Boland, 21, injured at Fort Erie Race Track Wednesday when his horse fell, died in hospital early today.

Boland, native of Old Chelsea, Que., was second among leading jockey's in this year's Ontario racing season with 22 winners. He was considered one of the most promising jockeys developed in Canada during the last 10 years.

Boland suffered a severe concussion when Wyvern, three-year-old filly, fell during the eighth race Wednesday. He was also believed he had suffered a fractured skull.

After the horse's spill, Boland struck the concrete base of a railing support.

Boland had probably the best record ever held by a Canadian apprentice." He won 122 races during his 10-month apprenticeship which started April 19.

Astrological Forecast

Saturday, May 6

By CARROLL RIGHTER

General Tendencies: Make sure you eliminate whatever is confused in your life today and avoid being taken in this Saturday by a designing individual who is pretty greedy for more of the good things of life —and this could occur at your expense. An attitude of charm and understanding tonight can relieve pressures and bring real happiness.

Aries (March 21 to April 19) —Remain loyal and true to good partner though an advisor may suggest that you make a radical change at this time. Then get out and accomplish a good deal since you are filled with enthusiasm and imagination. Don't commit yourself in any important matters.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) —Do everything in your power to stop that unpleasantness between family ties and one in the outside world. Be the peacemaker by not taking sides, but by praising each to the degree deserved. Use that beautiful smile to good purpose.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) —You could very easily get into some serious argument with co-worker today over some new acquaintance. This would be foolhardy. Be loyal and just. Also, be very sure you carry through religiously on any commitments made.

Moon Children (June 22 to July 21) — You can have real success today if you are not stubborn and refuse to follow the suggestions of higher-ups, particularly in business or financial matters. Evening is fine for pleasure if you are not extravagant and careless.

Leo (July 23 to Aug. 21) — If you add fire to that argument instead of cooling water, figuratively speaking, at home, it can reach serious proportions. Later, get going on those constructive plans with intelligent associates. You have procrastinated too long.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 23)— Important you are most careful to write out driving or in conversation with anyone today. Also, improve more efficient methods into your daily work. Buy the gadgets you need that will save time and conserve your energies.

Libra (Sept. 24 to Oct. 22)— Strive for better understanding with the one who means most to you. Don't be so independent that you refuse help you will please. Then off to good times, but don't be extravagant.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) — Be very careful in the business world today, or some angry higher-up can cause you to lose much of the good will and prestige you now enjoy. P.M. Get personal matters on a more satisfactory basis by being very co-operative. Know what you want.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — Don't become so upset because of some private anxiety that you neglect any important outside duties that await your attention. Besides, you could become ill over it and then be confined for some time to come. Be strong. Grow.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — Be steadfast and don't follow the advice of new acquaintances who do not really know your exact situation and could steer you into investments or ventures that are far above your means and for which you have no previous experience.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) —If you keep yourself busily occupied with business or personal affairs today, you avoid that new-comer who can become quite unpleasant for some unexplainable reason. Make big headway now by serious and diligent application. Expand.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) —While many individuals may call on you for assistance right now, don't take the time you need for own personal welfare to go all out for them. Await a better day. Use your imagination and you can make real progress today, tonight.

If your child is born today .. there is an early possibility of confused interest between theory and practical application the modern system being used. It is, so be very sure you teach your offspring to study with thoroughness, to build on a firm foundation, and give five fine spiritual training. Then the chart becomes wonderfully successful owing to logical planning and wise execution. Make prosperity and happiness in this chart.

CHILD FOR ADOPTION
At 14, GINO yearns for the security of a permanent home. But we believe he could be adopted more easily if he had a sister. He is a youngster of French-Italian background, who is dark-haired and dark-eyed, and small for his age. Temperamentally, he is friendly and unafraid of people, but has had difficulty with school work. Those who know him think a change of his trouble is the result of the unsettled life he has known. The youngster is a real athlete and he would be happy with any family who would be happy with him. Parents who have known teenagers will appreciate the qualities of this Roman Catholic couples with a view to CHILD'S adoption. Apply to

EMO Survival Booklet Describes How to Survive Without Fallout Shelters

By JAMES NELSON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP) — Survival of people caught on the fringe of a nuclear blast without proper fallout shelters may depend on precautions outlined in a booklet published today by the Emergency Measures Office.

The booklet, entitled Self-Survival, is the second issued by the federal agency which coordinates civil defence measures to meet a national disaster. Its first told how to build a basement fallout shelter and another is expected soon on building a garden shelter.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker says in an introduction that despite all the efforts of peace-minded nations to prevent war and maintain defences to deter aggression, "a nuclear war is possible either by the intended actions of evil madmen, or by miscalculation."

While death and destruction may be heavy, "many hundreds of thousands of Canadians who would otherwise perish could survive a nuclear war if preparations are made," he adds.

The booklet urges all Canadians to begin 11-step survival plans now for themselves and their families.

FALLOUT CHIEF DANGER

"Hope and pray that you will never have to put your family plan into actual operation, but if you do, remember that your chances of survival are much greater than if you had done nothing."

The booklet, to be distributed to the public through provincial civil defence organizations, says the greatest danger is from fallout, but protection can be improvised in a home basement.

Fallout drops like snow on everything exposed to it. Its radioactivity, which fades away in time passes, can penetrate most substances. A properly built shelter is therefore the best protection.

The most likely target areas in Canada, the booklet says, might be St. John's, Nfld., Halifax, Saint John, N.B., Quebec City, Montreal, Ottawa, Toronto, Hamilton, London, Niagara Falls, Windsor, Ont., Winnipeg, Edmonton, Calgary, Vancouver and Victoria.

It outlines the siren warnings to be used in many communities—a long steady note for "alert," and a rising and falling wail for "take cover." In some areas, telephones and bells may be used and the warning signals explained locally.

Wherever a person is, he will need a battery - operated radio to receive broadcast signals. The "all clear" will be given only by radio. Extra batteries should be stored and the set tested for reception inside the shelter.

STORE FOOD

Food and water supplies for 14 days should be kept on hand.

The booklet says that fallout could be the greatest danger to the largest number of Canadians because it can travel so far on the wind and cover such a large area. Even if Canada were not hit directly, bombs exploding in the United States could result in serious fallout in many parts of Canada.

For those who lack a fallout shelter but have a basement in their homes, it advises:

"Block every basement window with earth, bricks, concrete blocks, books or even bundles of newspapers.

"On the floor above the center of the basement, re-inforce as your refuge area, pile any heavy articles you may have available—for example, bricks, trunks filled with clothes, books and, at the right time of year, even earth from outside."

For those without a fallout shelter or basement, it advises:

"Go to that part of the house (centre hall or clothes closet) which will keep you the greatest distance from the fallout accumulating on the roof and ground. If there is time, you could increase your protection by piling books, trunks, dressers as deeply and as high as you can."

PROPER SHELTER REST

Persons caught in a likely target area without a blast shelter, the booklet says, are able in their homes with such objects as bed springs, boards, work benches, heavy tables and mattresses.

"Or you could, if you had sufficient warning of attack, dig yourself a trench in the yard—not too close to any buildings which could collapse into it."

But these people, if they survived the blast and heat of the explosion, still would have to find other protection against the later fallout. Those five to 15 miles from the centre of the explosion would have about half an hour before fallout started coming down.

However, the booklet strongly advises building a proper shelter.

"If you stay in a shelter during the first days after an explosion, you escape the strongest radiation. You should stay in the shelter until you have been told over the radio that it is safe to come out."

A five-megaton weapon, with the explosive force of 5,000,000 tons of TNT, is considered the "most likely" size nuclear bomb that would be dropped on Canada. It could destroy the largest Canadian city.

The 15-second blaze of light could blind a person. The heat flash could start serious fires nine miles away, and smaller fires 20 miles from the point of detonation.

The blast wave would blow in windows 25 miles away.

Radiation could seriously affect 7,000 square miles.

Successful Living

By Doris Clark
(A Canadian Social Worker Helps with Human Problems)

Neighbor Dislikes 'Help'

DORIS CLARK

DEAR DORIS:—I have a peculiar problem, and it may sound a bit silly but I just don't know what to do. My nearest neighbor is a theology student, and we have lived in the same duplex for over six months on excellent terms. looked after their children when their new baby came and have really tried to be a good neighbor.

Then last week he and his wife dropped in on me one evening, and he launched into a religious discussion. I tried to avoid it, believe me! Because I was well aware that our ideas were very different. But he insisted.

I have my own well thought out convictions and I could easily refute his arguments, which are very childish, but what good would that do? He doesn't think logically, he simply repeats clichés. I have told him that I find this distasteful, but he says it is his duty to save my soul. I know it embarrasses his wife, but she feels she must support him. It is ruining a very pleasant friendship. What on earth can I do?—HUMANIST.

DEAR HUMANIST:—"By their works ye shall know them."

For my money, one test of faith is the way it helps in day-to-day living. You have been more than kind to your neighbors. You are managing your own household (as a working widow with one child) and doing it with good cheer. Your letter (of which I have published only part) shows poise.

A student is characteristically an enthusiast. Heated debates on religious or philosophical topics take place in college dormitories at all hours of day and night. When he gets into the field, your neighbor will find you don't convert people by forcing religion down their throats.

He should be learning right now that most great church leaders, even Peter and Paul, had to gradually work out the meaning and application of their faith. None of the answers is pat.

Perhaps it would stop him best if you said that, after you have sold lived another 10 years, you'd discuss it again. Meanwhile, enjoy each other's friendship.

For your own comfort, here are a few lines from Henry Van Dyke which I have always loved:

"Who'seeks for heaven alone to save his soul
May keep the path but never reach the goal;
While he who walks in love may wander far,
But God will bring him where the blessed are."

(Doris Clark will be glad to help you with your problems. Write to her care of this paper, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.)

Sunday School Lesson

In a Spiritual Recession

By ROY L. SMITH

There is trouble ahead for the nation, or for the individual, who grows frantic in the midst of a business recession, and remains complacent in the midst of a spiritual recession.

The Old Testament prophet-philosophers watched their hearers with considerable frequency against their spiritual losses, as though they were as serious as any financial losses might be. Jesus said, quite plainly, that a man's life is not made out of an abundance of possessions.

IT'S THE INNER SPRINGS

The author of the proverbs of this week's Sunday school lesson is anxious to make it plain that the sources of life lie very deep — that he who gets the best out of life must stand guard over his great spiritual resources.

The Uniform Sunday School Lesson for May 7: "Out of the Heart", I Kings 3:3-9; Proverbs 3:1-8; 4:20-23; Luke 6:43-45.

Every man ought to live so that, when trouble comes, he has something deep inside himself upon which to draw for help and strength. He is poor indeed who, in the presence of disaster, cannot draw up from the deeps of his own heart those inspirations and convictions upon which serenity and security depend.

It is all very well to say, in the midst of good days when there is not a cloud in the sky, that "if you will be good you will be happy". But when we fling ourselves overwhelmed with disaster, and when the defenses of life are all down, we know that it takes more than a sense of innocence to restore the fountains of life.

One must believe in something higher even than his own best, stronger than his own strength, greater than his own efforts. One must believe that some things are true, some things are eternal, some things are invincible, some things can stand the erosion of life.

WITHOUT HEART IN FUTURE

One of the poets has said that "he has the strength of ten men whose heart is pure." And it sometimes happens that he has the strength of even a hundred.

The writers of scripture knew nothing about the so-called social psychology, but very many times they wrote like skilled psychologists. They knew unwise man who cautioned his hearers to "Keep your heart with all diligence" was one such. It is the inner doubt, the secret fear, the hidden angers, the buried resentments that erupt and set all life askew.

A marriage counsellor who was codeavoring to assist a young couple in the midst of their first adjustments said to the young husband who was having a hot time with his temper, "Don't think ugly and bitter things, for if you think them you are liable to say them, and if you say them you can never quite repair the damage. The beginning of trouble is in the mind. When we allow ourselves to indulge in bitter thinking, harsh comments, sullen resentment, there is a mighty tendency for these to issue in foul fruitage".

WATCH YOUR FACE IN REPOSE

At a meeting of the women's club we watched one of the leaders. A known leader of the town as she sat alone, and in repose. Under ordinary circumstances she presented a vivacious appearance and her conversation was bright and clever comment. But in repose and very attractive otherwise we had the feeling that she was extremely unhappy. Even as we watched her in repose we could see the deep bitterness and cynicism with which she was obsessed.

It was not long afterward that the scandal rocked the town. For years she had been living in a state of mental and spiritual revolt. She had permanded herself by devious means that she was the victim of rank injustices, many misunderstandings, and cruel critics. In the belief that she was exercising rigid control over her emotions, she had poured spiritual poison down into her soul through a period of years. But no one knew until, undone by a fit of anger, she erupted all the venom of the years and ruined her peace and prospect.

The doctor was right. It was a case of heart trouble.

Tornado Lasts Only 10 Seconds But 13 Killed

Oklahoma Family Meet Turned Into Nightmare

POTEAU, Okla. (AP)—A tornado that didn't last 10 seconds killed 13 persons and injured 89 late Friday as it tore through two tiny towns in eastern Oklahoma.

A family reunion turned into a tangle of horror when 13 died or were hurt as the twister smashed Reichert. Then it tore away half of Howe, a community of 500.

Nine died in Howe, four at Reichert.

The death toll may go higher. So could the number of injured. Both figures fluctuated Friday night, with victims taken to a half-dozen nearby cities.

"It didn't last 10 seconds," said Charles Lewallen.

But in those 10 seconds the big, happy reunion turned into a nightmare. Four members of the family were killed and nine injured, including two children.

WORST OF MANY

The storm was the worst of many that blanketed most of Oklahoma for the second straight day. It came on the first anniversary of a tornado that killed 13 and injured more than 100 at Wilburton, 40 miles to the west.

Twisters struck in neighboring Arkansas, a few miles from Oklahoma. One person was killed near Dover and eight injured near Lake Hamilton.

There was little warning as the twister smashed out of torrential rain.

Lewallen said his brother-in-law, Wally Lloyd, raced up to the home in a pickup truck. He and his father - in - law, Jack Brown, ran out of the fierce wind.

"There it was, about 50 yards in front of us."

"We jumped into a ditch. Just as we did that, I looked up and saw the house go.

HUNTS CHILDREN

"I jumped up and starting hunting my children."

The man found their family strewn about the yard, covered in debris.

Most of here were Jack Brown's father, Charles; Mrs. Wiley Lloyd, a daughter of Charles; Preston Lloyd, Mrs. Lloyd's infant son, and Alvin Brown, Jack Brown's baby son.

USE EMERGENCY CENTRE TO KEEP GOVT. WORKING

CD Exercise Held Throughout Canada

CAMP RETAWAWA (CP)—A force of about 200, mostly civil servants, prepared to emerge from a crowded underground hideaway today after a gruelling 24 - hour "war" in which it was called upon to keep a devastated nation's governing process intact.

The crew of including three cabinet ministers, a general and a flock of top officials—sent into the emergency centre Friday afternoon after Exercise Trimtex 1961 unleashed a simulated nuclear assault across Canada.

This was a key phase of the nation - wide civil defence test in which a nucleus of government staff in the provincial capital and scores of major cities headed off to remote centres to set up emergency operations.

Trimtex 1961 posed the question of whether organized government can continue to work effectively after a major nuclear attack. It will be weeks before an answer can be hitted from the mass of reports now pouring into the national headquarters of the Emergency Measures Organization in Ottawa.

Defence Minister Harkness, who acted as prime minister or the government which set itself up here, told a press conference:

PRESIDENTS AGREE

WASHINGTON (AP) — Presidents John Kennedy of the United States and Habib Bourguiba of Tunisia agreed Friday that the Algerian problem should be solved peacefully on the basis of self-determination for the Algerians. A joint communique, issued after the second conference between the two presidents, said they further agreed on the right of all nations to remain neutral.

LONGER HOURS, SHORTER BREAKS AIDING PROGRESS

Dinsdale Defends Contract Given

OTTAWA (CP)—With longer hours and shorter mealtimes, the Commons seems to be plunging into its work with renewed vigor.

After 36½ hours of their first six-day, 42 - hour work week, MPs had passed four bills—including a major revision of the Fisheries Act.

They also wrapped up their item-by-item study of the trade department's $39,483,000 spending program for the fiscal year that started April 1.

Finally they moved into their first Saturday sitting of the current session, there was some doubt as to what today's business would be.

The Liberal opposition, opposed to Saturday work this early in the session, refused Friday to give Veterans Minister Churchill, government House leader, the necessary unanimous consent to make a motion that would have put government business at the head of the agenda after routine opening proceedings.

Looking back at the first five days' work, a cold recital of bills and money grants approved does not capture the ardor and anger the debate has often surrounds the process of parliamentary action.

STARTED WITH BANG

The week started with a bang. Two bills were given first readings—they were considered a second reading and one was enough to final Commons approval.

By week's end, the pace had eased somewhat—with MPs almost caught up to legislation on the books for consideration.

Besides the Fisheries Act amendments, the Commons approved legislation dealing with vocational rehabilitation of disabled persons, a National Design Council and the Cost Production Assistance Act.

Still among them with the parliamentary mill was legislation to bolster the rural rehabilitation program, the Army Benevolent Fund, harness racing under the Criminal Code, a Nor-

Eskimo Duck Hunters Fire On U.S. Agents

JUNEAU (CP)—Seven Eskimos duck hunting near Bethel, Alaska, have been jailed for conducting a waterskylark gun battle with United States fish and wildlife agents.

Fish and wildlife regional headquarters here said the Eskimos were spotted shooting birds in a nesting area. The agents were flying in a Cessna light plane and landed on the ice near the hunting party.

As they stepped from the plane, the hunters opened fire on the agents with shotguns and rifles.

Technically Second But Morally Champs, British Praise for Yankees' Space Feat

LONDON (CP) — Alan B. Shepard's ride into space gave a lift today to lagging U.S. prestige in the world and the wide-open display of the adventure brought cheers.

Western Europe praised both Shepard's courage and the courage of the United States in unwrapping its first manned space shot in secrecy.

British newspapers reflected the West's relief that the United States had achieved success of the kind it so long has been denied after a long and anxious wait. A London Daily Sketch editorial voiced a feeling widespread in Britain:

"Technically, they were runners - up. Morally, the cup is theirs. Every setback, every heartbreaking postponement was mercilessly exposed. "This is the kind of achievement we understand in our part of the world."

Shepard's wife made the front page beside her husband in photographs in two London papers. They got whole pages of pictures on Shepard.

Chancellor Konrad Adenauer of West Germany, Prime Minister Harold Macmillan of Britain, President de Gaulle and Premier Amintore Fanfani of Italy called congratulations to President Kennedy.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker of Canada sent Kennedy a telegram asking the president to convey to Shepard and those associated with him in the project "our appreciation of all Canadians on this courageous exploit."

It was only back-page news in the Soviet press and Premier Khrushchev said in a speech at Erevan, Armenia, that Soviet astronaut Yuri Gagarin made the first space trip "in a cosmic ship all the way around the earth. . ."

Most Moscow newspapers gave the bare facts of the flight under the headline "launching in U.S.A. of rocket with man."

JFK Drops Idea to Support New Rebellion in Cuba

WASHINGTON (CP) — President Kennedy appears to have decided to concentrate on achieving Latin American solidarity through economic aid and put aside any thought of supporting a new Cuban invasion attempt by rebel forces.

Emphasizing to a press conference that the United States has no plans to train Cuban exiles "at this time," Kennedy announced Friday that he has called for a July 15 meeting of Latin American finance ministers to prepare a program to fight poverty in Latin America.

The U.S. has pledged $500,000,000 in aid as an initial effort to co-ordinate the battle against illiteracy and low living standards in the Latin American countries.

Kennedy gave no indication what results he is getting in trying to marshal Latin American support against Cuban Premier Fidel Castro.

State Secretary Dean Rusk, however, gave a hint of policy when he told reporters Thursday that after the Cuban invasion failure, the U.S. should take a deep breath and seek the main road to solidarity of Latin America its countries agree they need more economic help.

Looking over developments since the ill-fated April 17 Cuban rebel invasion attempt, Kennedy said he is no pessimist.

Encouraged by Cmdr. Alan Shepard's brief but successful flight into space, the president

Union Members Of Non-ops Will Get Windfall

MONTREAL (CP)—The wage agreement reached Thursday between Canada's railways and their 115,000 non-operating employees means the average non-op union member will receive about $125 in back wages.

Giant computing machines here Friday are soon to figure out the precise amount of money owed to each employee under the new agreement and cheques will begin flying as soon as they complete their work.

Under the terms of the agreement, the non-ops—all those rail employees not actually engaged in operating trains — receive a two-cents-an-hour raise retroactive to Jan. 1, 1960, five cents retroactive to Sept. 1, 1960 and a further four per cent going back to May 1.

Not Enough Mayor Whittons Citizenship Council Told

OTTAWA (CP) — Canadians fought and died to protect the right to vote but only relatively few take advantage of this right, especially in municipal elections, the Canadian Citizenship Council said Friday.

Delegates to the council's annual conference decided to make publicity to boost interest in civic affairs one of their main studies in the coming year.

Norman Hebert of the Montreal Trades and Labor Congress executive secretary, said the fact that relatively few citizens vote in most municipal elections doesn't seem right in a democracy.

"Voting is something we fought to get and now fewer than 50 per cent of those who care who's in the mayor's office or who is running the province," he said.

A woman delegate said she feels this is true generally, but not in Ottawa where Mayor Charlotte Whitton's running battle with controllers, aldermen, contractors and newspapers kept the public deeply interested in local government

"But there are not enough Charlotte Whittons," Council Executive Director Alan Clarke of Ottawa interjected.

Mr. Dowd said he feels that the ordinary citizen is apathetic because he feels helpless—considering that his one vote isn't going to change things.

"We have to find places where the individual impact can be felt and point them out," Mr. Dowd said.

Jean Boucher of Ottawa, director of citizenship in the citizenship and immigration department, said he believes Canadians are more interested in national and international affairs.

Chairman Norman Hebert of Ottawa said Canadians use their votes as protests—"when things are going good, they don't vote."

The council said its new campaign will not duplicate the "get out the vote" drive waged by Chambers of Commerce. It will attempt to find out why people don't take a closer interest in civic government and how they could be persuaded to use the right to vote.

Council delegates also asked for a study of "the threat of big government to the individual."

Rusk Leaves For NATO Meet

WASHINGTON (AP) — State Secretary Dean Rusk flies to Europe today to confer with foreign ministers to take notice that the strongly aggressive operations of the Communist bloc in such places as Laos and Cuba make greater unity and military strength imperative.

Rusk was to take off from Andrews Air Force Base this morning for a meeting of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization foreign ministers council in Oslo, Norway, beginning Monday.

External Affairs Minister Howard Green of Canada also is flying to Oslo.

President Kennedy told a press conference Friday that he will "probably" be satisfied by the meeting in Oslo and that we will make a more determined effort."

Spaceman Given Extensive Tests On Bahama Isle

Sealed off From World As Reactions Studied

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (Reuters) — Space man Alan Shepard today remained sealed off from millions of his fellow Americans waiting to give him the biggest welcome since Charles Lindbergh flew the Atlantic 34 years ago. Shepard was recording a second-by-second account of his 15-minute, 5,180 - miles - an - hour plunge into space.

The 37 - year - old astronaut—the first Westerner to hurtle through the fringes of the silent regions beyond this earth—found himself in a one-bed hospital built solely for his use in a corner of British - owned Grand Bahama Island.

While the world waited to hear his own account of his voyage 115 miles above this planet, Shepard faced a team of medical men, psychiatrists, engineers, technicians and scientists who are carrying out what was probably the most exhaustive and intensive study of one man in history.

Their aim—to record for posterity every thought, action and physical change Americans first space voyager experienced during his suborbital flight which rocketed him more than 300 miles in less time than it takes to say slowly "one thousand."

IN EXCELLENT SHAPE

Shepard, already reported "in excellent health and spirits" after his initial medical checks, was expected to stay in the hospital until Sunday when he is to be flown to Washington for a hero's welcome and a visit to the White House Monday to see President Kennedy.

To members of the Atlantic range missile base on the 85-mile-long island and its other 5,000 inhabitants, Shepard had already gained the title "Christopher Columbus." Columbus set foot on nearby Watling Island 469 years ago in a craft far different from Shepard's.

Grand Bahama took on a carnival atmosphere when Shepard was flown there from the aircraft carrier Lake Champlain Friday.

Flags appeared and a barman at a local club was reported to have concocted "Shepard cocktail," which was claimed to have the kick of a rocket.

Only crucial personnel in the building, built last November, was Hans, the chimpanzee who voyaged into space last Jan. 31.

Only 71 people including Shepard—are known to possess the gain admittance to the two-room clinic. A policeman is suspended above Shepard's bed to catch every utterance the spaceman might make in his session with the "debriefing" officers.

JUST A START

Shepard himself regards his flight as "just a start" in manned space travel. He told Cmdr. L. E. Donner, executive officer of the carrier, in a message sent before flying 65 Grand Bahama that his 15-minute space trip was "merely the beginning."

Donner quoted him as saying: "I think that the next step may look back on my flight as a kind of excursion." (Content Ford car) of the space age."

Complete Calm Reigns in Laos

VIENTIANE (Reuters) — A six-man Laotian military delegation had further cease-fire talks with pro - Communist Pathet Lao representatives today at the village of Hin Heup on the road to Luang Prabang.

The delegation, expected to return to Vientiane later in the day, was headed by Gen. Sing Rattanasamy, inspector - general of the Laotian army.

A statement issued by the pro - American government of Prince Boun Oum said the delegation went to Hin Heup at a request from the "communist side" received Friday night.

The government representatives had expected to find senior Pathet Lao representatives at a meeting Friday but the leftist delegation was headed by only a major.

A government statement Friday reported a de facto cessation fire in operation throughout Laos. It said complete calm had existed in all former operational areas since 10 a.m. local time Thursday.

Northern Affairs Minister Dinsdale said there was nothing sinister in his department awarding an account in December to a Progressive Conservative family as advertising agency in his hometown of Brandon, Man.

Mrs. Pickersgill (L—Bonaventure-Twillingate) and Douglas Fisher (CCF—Port Arthur) said the minister gave an unsatisfactory explanation of why the account was transferred immediately after he entered the cabinet.

Mr. Diefenbaker said legislation will be brought forward in line with Friday's "not all" of the recommendations of the MacPherson royal commission on transportation.

External Affairs Minister Green said the safety interest of Canadian missionaries may endanger one of the valuable contacts between the two countries.

Bill of Frank Howard (CCF—Skeena), designed to prevent job discrimination against older workers because of age, was "talked out."

Two Ministers Go to Jerusalem For Conference

By DR. ALAN E. HAW

Two Belleville ministers, the Reverend Dr. R. M. Smith of Calvary United Church and Reverend W. B. Greenwood, district superintendent of the Pentecostal Assemblies of Canada for Eastern Ontario and Quebec, together with Mrs. Greenwood, left Malton Airport on Thursday, en route to Jerusalem to attend the sixth world Pentecostal conference which will convene in Jerusalem the new convention centre in Israel's capital May 19-21.

Over two hundred delegates are going from Canada, and during the next week thousands of delegates from all over the world will be gathering at the "city of David" to participate in the first international Pentecostal Conference to be held in Jerusalem since the pentecostal experience of the early Christian church. The "city of David" has special significance to pentecostal people, for it was here on the day of Pentecost, about A.D. 33 that the Holy Spirit was poured out upon the infant Church of Jesus Christ. The dates of the Sixth Pentecostal World Conference have been arranged to coincide with the annual observance of Pentecost Sunday.

CONTAINS SACRED SHRINES

Jerusalem contains the most sacred shrines of Christianity, Judaism and Islam, and all three faiths are represented in its population. Among Arabs observe Friday as their holy day; the Jews observe Saturday as their sabbath; the Christians observe Sunday as the Lord's Day. The Pentecostal World Conference will agree with all three of these holy days.

David Ben-Gurion, Prime Minister of the State of Israel has accepted an invitation to address the delegates on Saturday, May 20. In a statement to the conference committee recently Mr. Ben-Gurion said: "It is our fervent belief that the ancient glory is destined to return to Jerusalem, 'Zion of Zion shall go forth the Law, and the word of the Lord from Jerusalem'. It is good that Jerusalem shall become an international meeting place from where groups like yours may pronounce your faith to their followers. This is why we attach so much importance to your convention here and why we are most anxious to be of help. As I mentioned in my letter of invitation, you can count on our full assistance in your arrangements."

WILL MAKE TOUR

Since the announcement at the fifth world conference, held in Toronto in 1958 that the next conclave would be held in Jerusalem, the slogans of the convention of Pentecostalists has been an echo of the words in Acts 1:8, where it is said of the Apostle Paul, the first Pentecostal missionary to the Gentiles, that he "purposed in spirit, when he should go to Jerusalem" the way of Pentecost."

Arrangements have been made for the Canadian delegates to enjoy a comprehensive eight-country tour which will include London, Paris, Rome, Egypt, Lebanon, Syria and Jordan as well as Israel.

Delegates visiting Israel will find the land restored to an amazing degree. It is a land of modern cities, of bustling factories and workshops, of commercial activity, of flourishing farms even in remote desert areas. Over half the land area of Israel is in the Negev desert. This area, once a centre of thriving civilizations, was eroded by wars and neglect, and virtually unfashioned for the past thousand years except by wandering groups of Bedouins. Israel is now concentrating much of its energy and finances to revive the Negev.

By means of irrigation systems and new wells, about seventy-five new villages and agricultural settlements have been established in this desert area. Many minerals are being extracted and factories have been established to process them. Cities are being sunk. Beersheba, "capital" of the Negev desert, has become a boom town of 50,000 people. Truly, the desert is blossoming as the rose, as foretold by Isaiah the prophet.

MORE THAN DOUBLED

The population of Israel has more than doubled in the past ten years as a result of vast immigration from scores of lands. The little state has received more than 1,200,000 exiles from 73 countries — a mass immigration unparalleled in history. The present population of more than two million is a veritable microcosm of cultures, a melting pot of nationalities, and tourists may hear fifty different languages spoken on the streets of Jerusalem. Yet Hebrew is the official tongue.

In addition to the rich spiritual fellowship that will be enjoyed at the convention, the delegates will be inspired by visits to many historic places of Biblical interest. They will walk together through the ancient streets of Jerusalem and Bethlehem. They will make a pilgrimage to scenes made sacred by Bible characters in the long ago. Leaders of the tour and the many missionaries and ministers who will be met along the way will help make the historic places come alive so that the Scriptures will become much more real and personal forever afterward.

High School Activities

To those of you who may have just screaming from the doors of B.C.I.V.S. last week, come back! The posters, hanging from every imaginable spot and the long parades of campaigners carrying signs, wearing hats and screaming (several those whose cry was "Davis For Prime Minister") have disappeared and B.C.I.V.S. students have settled down to prepare for finals. Our new Students' Council executive is as follows: president, John Frenette; first vice-president, Steve Forrester; second vice-president, Karen Satemann; recording secretary, Donna Spencer; corresponding secretary, Faye Courtemanche; and treasurer, Alan Slavin.

We would like to add, at this time, a note of thanks to this year's executive who did a truly commendable job.

Wednesday morning's assembly was by common consent, one of the best. Hon Hotchkiss and Jim Davis portrayed the two different characters in a side-splitting skit entitled "Two Days Till Xmas", among the hours while members of the entertainment committee did details of the accident and speakers were made to his car. The fight broke out when the car was broken. Mr. Vercoe's police will check with Trenton police on their return trip to Toronto today or Sunday.

Congratulations are in order for 12B who have captured the boys' hockey school basketball championship.

The publication committee feels that these talks have been helpful to the students, as yet, are undecided about their life's work.

IN MEMORIAM

COOKE — In loving memory of our dear father, Frank Cooke, who passed away May 6th, 1956.
His task is done,
He's gone home.
They are but few;
The golden memory,
We keep of you.
Sadly missed by his daughter, Ruth Cooke.

Ann Cooke whose memory is dear,
As the ones who never forget.
Sadly missed and remembered by son and daughters.

DOXTATOR — In loving memory of Percy, who passed away May 7, Doxtator, who passed away
There is a link that death cannot sever,
There is a love that lives forever,
There is a memory that will remain,
Till we meet again.
Sadly missed by mother, Helen Doxtator.

FORD — In loving memory of my dear husband and father, Percy, who passed away May 8th, 1960.
The time was great, the shock was severe,
We little thought the end was near;
And only those who have lost can tell
The pain of parting without farewell.
More each day we miss you, dear husband,
Friends may think the wound is healed,
But they little know the sorrow,
That is within the heart concealed.
Sadly missed by wife Edna and family.

FORD — In loving memory of my dear father, Percy, who passed away May 8th, 1960.
Dad's memory is dear to me,

Memories are all I have left now,
Of one I dearly love.
Sadly missed by daughter Ruth.

Stamp-Orama

Editor's Note: Mr. Macdonald, a resident of Lonsdale, has been a stamp collector for forty years. He was an active dealer from 1940 to 1957. Inquiries and comments would be welcomed by Mr. Macdonald to his Lonsdale address. His stamp column will appear each Saturday.

By AL MACDONALD

Henry Hechler of Halifax, a dealer but the latter part of the last century, was responsible for the 2c bisects of 1884. These were vertical halves of the 2 cent small Queen stamp, on Bank Notes mailed during September or October 1884, and were cancelled "Halifax, Canada".

Henry Hechler did not stop at bisects, but produced many bogus items. He was an enterprising journalist, with a vivid imagination, and with the help of simple printing devices overprinted many envelopes and post cards. While these were of course unofficial, the overprinting did not affect the postal value and used copies are not scarce.

Henry Hechler was a Captain in the third Rifles' regiment of Halifax and at the outbreak of the Riel Rebellion, in the North-West Territories, his regiment was ordered to the scene of the outbreak. It was at this time that Hechler's first bogus overprints appeared, and it is thought that he produced them at Winnipeg.

On the 25th of December 1957, Trinidad and Tobago placed on sale a quantity of the current 2 cent stamps surcharged "One Cent". These were released on sale less than six hours and were then withdrawn as a new shipment of the similar one cent stamps arrived. Forgeries of the "One Cent" surcharge exist. The originals, although poorly printed, were more difficult to imitate than one would think. The height of the letters in the genuine surcharge are under 2½ mm, they have a squat appearance, particularly the "Z"s and "N"s, the "E"s have long thin arms. In the case of the forgeries, the letters are about 2½ mm in height, the "E"s and "N"s have a taller appearance and the arms of the "E"s appear thicker.

Did you know that the 5c Queen Elizabeth stamp of Kenya, Uganda and Tanganyika has been found with inverted centre. The view of the Crown Falls Dam under the portrait of the Queen is completed inverted. The stamp was discovered by a schoolboy in the United States and it was thought to have been used on a letter to the boy by his father, who is in the heavy construction business and was for a time employed in Kenya, Uganda and Tanganyika. The stamp by the way was used in 1955.

Canada's first Christmas stamps were issued in 1900. They were sold in the Toronto area by school children with the proceeds going to the Muskoka Hospital. The sales for the first year realized $6,100.

—All stamp collectors know of Sir Rowland Hill as England's pioneer in cheap Postage." How many are aware that another Hill could lay claim to the same distinction? Read on:

This was John Hill, and he could truthfully be described as the "Father of Cheap Postage" in the United States.

John Hill was born at Caledon Hill, N.Y., on June 10, 1811. He lived there until he reached the age of twenty-four, when he moved to Scenton, N.J. In 1849 he was appointed postmaster of Scenton and when the first dime or ten cent stamps were issued in 1847 he was asked to the state capital as a member of the assembly, and was returned in 1856 and made speaker of the House. The year 1870 saw him enter the Congress of the United States, where he remained almost until his death in 1884. In 1851 the postal rate had been reduced to 3 cents on letters not going over a certain distance, this did not satisfy Hill, and in 1863 he was instrumental in securing a flat 3c rate. Shortly after entering Congress John Hill introduced the 1 cent postcard Bill, it was adopted and became law in 1872. It is to John Hill that the people of the United States owe the 1872 "Liberty Head" post card and all its descendants to the present time. After this success, John Hill rolled up his sleeves and started to fight for his most important reform—1 cent postage. It was not until 1881 that he was able to introduce a successful bill and not until 1883 that the bill came to pass.

There is no doubt that John Hill's reforms and successes should place his name alongside that of Sir Rowland Hill as a "Father of Cheap Postage."

A Record—A superb, uncover, lightly cancelled copy of Canada's 1959 St. Lawrence Seaway stamp with inverted centre, realized $40 for $2.-800 at auction in New York. This established a new high for this stamp. It is thought that only one other such cover exists, but who knows?

Ghana—A new one pound stamp released in March completes the definitive issue, the first part of which was issued on October 9th, 1960. The stamp is quite attractive, being a large (39.15x48 mm.) in size and is printed in yellow, green, red and black. It portrays an antelope making a graceful leap.

110 St. Michael's Students To Tour RCAF Station

Two Toronto RCAF Auxiliary squadrons showed their appreciation Saturday to a gunner, for the past five years, has had her high school classes offering daily prayers for the safety of squadron members.

Sister Mary Fleurette - and 110 students from St. Michael's Academy, Bathurst at Fort York, given a special tour of the RCAF Station at Trenton as guests of No. 436 City of Toronto) and 611 squadrons. She and her students will see every phase of operations at the sprawling base while, is the home of the RCAF's Transport Command. Representatives of the Toronto squadrons will fly to Trenton Saturday morning to meet their guests.

Sister Fleurette's interest in the two squadrons began nine years ago, when No. 436 squadron jets collided over a school at King City where she was teaching.

Under her leadership, students helped collect the bits and pieces of wreckage as valuable to crash investigation officers, assuring them that she and her classes were still thinking of their interest and welfare.

Each year squadrons representatives landed in the yard of the convent school where she was teaching — This established a new high for this stamp. It is thought that only one other such cover exists, but who knows?

Water Safety Address Given Home and School

An address on water safety by Ron Lee featured the session's last meeting of the Prince of Wales Home and School Association. Mr. Lee told the parents about the safety measures they should exercise while at the beach this summer and stressed the importance of knowing three techniques of artificial respiration.

Mrs. Lena Murray, second vice-president, was chairman of the meeting in the absence of President Mrs. K. Bushell. The devotional was read by Mrs. Don Stanton.

Room count was taken and parents of Mrs. Slack's grade 1 class completed an unbroken record of eight months, winning the junior attendance banner. The award was presented was won by Mrs. Hodgen's room.

A letter was received from Mrs. Hodgen's grade 7 class, thanking the Home and School Association for its donation of a large dictionary.

The annual report of the secretary was read by Naomi Hoare.

After discussing the Home and School project for the year it was decided to buy a fan for the auditorium and kitchen, an outdoor speaker for the P.A. system and to sponsor a child under the CARE plan.

Mrs. Hunter, chairman of the nominating committee named the executive for the coming year:

President, Mrs. Bushell; 1st vice-president, Mrs. Moyer; treasurer, Mrs. Parkhurst; recording secretary, Miss Hunt; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Welbourne; publicity, Mrs. Fox; advisory, Mrs. Stanton, Mrs. Mulvey, Mrs. Goodfellow, Mrs. H. Burley and Mr. R. Sergeant.

Police Officer Guest Speaker At Camera Club

Corporal Harold Howling, photographer for the Ontario Provincial Police in this district, was the guest speaker at the May meeting of the Belleville Camera Club. He showed a side of photography that not many would have the courage to follow. Supporting the theme of Corporal Howling's talk, Mrs. Howling showed factual slides of traffic accidents. The majority of fatal car accidents involved drinking drivers. Corpo.-al Howling pointed out that if motorists take that one for the road, they will be the one OFF for a chaser.

Photography is also used in police work for crime detection through the tracing of tire tread by differences, type of shoes, fingerprints, using infra red rays to produce pictures which burned photographs and recording scenes of accidental death, murders and suicides. After the slides were shown, Corporal Howling answered many questions about the different phases of police work.

During the business portion of the meeting it was announced that the Trenton Camera Club had agreed to judge the slides entered in our May competition, the subject being "The Sea and Ships". The winner will be announced at the June meeting. Election of officers for next year will also take place then.

EXPORTS TO AFRICA

Hope to Start Garden Planting Within Few Days

"Just a few more days, we hope".

That was the comment of a few district farmers who attended today's outdoor market, but most were asked if they started seeding yet.

"Some of the men did some work yesterday with a light cultivator", said one farmer. "But the ground is too wet yet to do very much. If we use a heavy cultivator, we'll turn up too much stiffy stuff".

If the rain holds off for a few more days, the freshly turned soil will be dry enough for farmers to really get exercising pains this year's crop of garden produce.

"The spring weather has been a little unusual this year", said another farmer. "But there's a planting time and a harvest time. We'll get them yet".

It was the opinion of some farmers at market that late planting may see the larger farm operators run into a bit of trouble getting help with planting.

"It seems that it's difficult these days to get sufficient farm help during the planting and harvesting seasons", said a farmer. "I find that rather surprising, particularly with plenty of unemployment. It wasn't so long ago that men took pride in being able to work. Now they seem to be interested in drawing unemployment insurance if they can. And if they do work, they have to have plenty of time off for coffee breaks".

The scarcity of produce on the market was good and prices remained steady at last week's level.

Carrier Boy Fatally Hurt When Hit by Pickup Truck

A 14-year-old newspaper carrier boy was fatally injured late Friday afternoon when he stepped in front of a pick-up truck on Dundas Street, East, near his home at the eastern outskirts of the city.

Dead is David Hall, R.R. 4 Belleville, son of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Hall, who police said was walking east near the C.P.R. crossing when he suddenly turned to the left into the path of the eastbound pickup truck driven by Donald L. Smith, 34, of 317 Coleman Street.

The lad was taken to hospital by Bush's Ambulance where he died shortly after admission. The accident occurred just before six o'clock.

A carrier for The Ontario Intelligencer, David was just finishing his evening paper route and had only a few more deliveries to make.

He had only one more delivery to make on the highway" the father said.

Because his bicycle was broken the boy was doing his paper route on foot.

The boy was in grade 7 at Bayview Public School and attended Bellaway Street United Church.

In addition to his parents, he has a sister, Eleanor 8, and David was born in Belleville and was a lifelong resident of the city.

Mayor Proclaims Next Week As "Navy Week" in City

Mayor A. McLean Haig has proclaimed the week of May 7th to 14th as Navy Week in Belleville. This corresponds with the observance of "Battle of Atlantic Sunday" being held tomorrow in communities across Canada and of general observances of the roles of the Royal Canadian Navy and the Navy League of Canada during the remainder of the week.

The purpose of Navy Week," Mayor Haig's proclamation reads, "is to focus the attention of all citizens on the growing role of the Royal Canadian Navy and Navies of the Free World, as the safety and security of even free communities now depend upon their ability to check and counter the enemy before nuclear missiles can be fired from surface and underwater craft. At the same time, Canadians are requested to pay tribute to the memory of those who have sacrificed their lives for Crown and Country".

The local Navy League and the Royal Canadian Sea Cadet Corps "Quinte" have planned a schedule of activities to honor Navy Week in this city. Representatives of the "Senior Service" will be speaking at several of the service clubs' meetings and the Sea Cadets will be parading on several occasions during the week.

Although there will be no special local parade on "Battle of Atlantic Sunday" since the Sea Cadets will be attending a combined inter-corps parade in Picton, there will be an open house at the local Sea Cadet building Saturday afternoon from 3:00 o'clock. A special church parade will be held in this city the following Sunday.

During the week the Sea Cadet Corps will be inspected by the local Navy League chairman, Mr. Peter, Wills, and a representative from HMCS Cataraqui, Kingston, on Wednesday evening at the Hastings and Prince Edward regiment armouries. A show parade has also been planned for later in the week.

Misleading Reporting

The other night Jack Paar, of all people, expressed deep concern about misleading news reports on the Cuban situation. The opinionated Paar, no intellectual giant if one is to judge from his normally frothy, though lively, nightly "conversation" TV program, is not the type one would have expected to become overly alarmed at such a development, unless it had been carried to outrageous extremes.

Evidence that such a development may have occurred was not long in forthcoming. Castro addressed a May Day rally in Havana. Here is the Associated Press report: "Prime Minister Fidel Castro today declared Cuba a 'socialist' state, and cut elections and clapped harsh new restrictions on the Roman Catholic Church . . . The multitude screamed 'No, no' when Castro asked 'Do you need elections?' He said Cuba will do without them."

And here is the account of the same portion of the same speech, according to George Bryant, Toronto Star staff writer who was in Havana: "Prime Minister Fidel Castro told cheering mass last night there would be no elections in the immediate future. Speaking to more than a million in Havana's civic plaza, Castro said elections would be a waste of time with the work his revolution had to do. 'Do you want elections?' he asked. A thunderous crowd answered: 'No, No!'"

Now there is an enormous difference between stating that elections have been "ruled put" and saying that there will be no elections in the immediate future.

Here is another example:

Associated Press:—"Calling priests 'the exploiters who came in the name of God,' Castro announced today that priests will be permitted in a few days and foreign-born clergymen will be expelled from Cuba. Referring to several captured invaders identified as priests and blaming the United States for fostering the illfated April 17 attack on his regime, Castro warned that U.S. cities are 'in danger of becoming another Guantanamo'."

Toronto Star's Bryant: "The edict on the priests came after the prime minister revealed three had landed with invading counter-revolutionaries two weeks ago. Describing them as Spanish Fascists, he said the invaders came in the name of God, but, he said, 'they came to establish not God's temple but sugar mills and family estates'."

Once again there is an enormous difference between "calling priests 'the exploiters who came in the name of God' and declaring that three priests with invading forces were Fascists and came to exploit the people.

With conflicting reports like these, we are faced with the task of judging between them. Here the average Canadian, and that includes the average editor of the average Canadian newspaper, must ask himself certain questions, such as "Would the Star be likely to water down a sensational story if it were true?" The answer is an immediate negative. Perhaps somebody will point out that the Star had a ready vigorously attacked the Kennedy administration's policy on Cuba and its aid to the invading forces. Bryant's story is not so favorable to Kennedy's case as is the Associated Press story. But would the Star deliberately soften a story to support an editorial stand? Once again, the answer which immediately comes to the experienced newspaper man is "No". It is against the practice of the men on the Star news desk to play down a sensational news story.

Consider, though, the case of the reference to the priests? Does not the planned expulsion of foreign-born clergymen suggest that Castro referred to all priests as exploiters, rather than to just three priests? It certainly does. Bryant says that Castro "told Spanish priests to pack their bags," that "special permits (to work in Cuba) will be issued to some, though he (Castro) indicated the number would be small."

First reaction is that the Associated Press account appears more reasonable. But the next day Reuters, the British news agency, reported from Havana: "Most foreign clergymen restricted since the abortive invasion of Cuba two weeks ago were free today but faced a new government edict under which they must obtain government permission to remain here. . . . Castro in his May Day speech ordered all foreign clergymen to register with the government. He said they would be allowed to remain in Cuba provided they had been 'honest' and had not aided the counter-revolutionaries who invaded the island."

Because most Canadian newspapers, including The Ontario Intelligencer, depend upon the Associated Press for much of their foreign news coverage, Canadians are in danger of being misled. It might be well for our readers to take Associated Press reports on events in Cuba with a grain of salt, at least for awhile.

The Old-Word of Ireland

By Tom Redmond in the Cork Examiner

After the great famine of 1847 the Irish swarmed across the Atlantic. Wherever they settled these emigrants "built" to their customs, beliefs and traditions, and their spoken English was colored with quaint and delightful flashes of expression heard in Ireland since the time "when Adam was a boy."

The sean-fhocal as it is called in the Irish language is literally translated as "the old-word" or proverb. "Three false sisters: 'perhaps,' 'maybe,' 'I dare say'" is a trio found in the 12th century Yellow Book of Lecan. Its counterpart is "Three kind brothers: 'hush' 'stop' 'listen'." If the great Columbian himself ever heard these sayings he must have noted he took of them—more power to his elbow!

• • •

Should you wish to rummage through the old-words then you are as welcome as the flowers in May. "Two diseases without shame are love and hard thirst"; "is a poor ben that won't scratch for herself"; "a heavy purse makes a light heart"; "the young don't know what age is, and the old forget what youth was"; "all the world wouldn't make a racehorse out of a jackass"; "the best of the hunt we descend to this evening"; "contentment is the poor man's doctor." And here is a good wish to follow: "May you be in heaven half an hour before the devil knows you are dead."

To admonish a tardy, lazy person, just say: "Slowfoot — 'tis you will get the good messenger to send for death."

Bid him hurry with "Don't let grass grow under your feet." This pictures the hirsute, arty type: "More beard than brains." Or "Is he not the goat"; the visitor who outstays his welcome: "He went to a wedding, he'd wait for the christening"; the miser who "would squeeze a penny in his mother's pockets before he was born"; the indolent: "Come go dig, Monday and Sunday." A person in a most embarrassing position acts "like a hen on a hot griddle." "Greasing the fat sow's lug" is sending presents to a wealthy man with ulterior motives of reward.

"He will be the richest man in a graveyard yet" epitomizes the tight-fisted, hard-working and hard-driving zanatic. Purloining legal action when the outcome is in doubt is "taking the Devil to law when the court is in hall." Memorize this one and recall it when you feel apprehensive about future worries and tribulations: "Never be old till you die, and never die until you meet him."

When the lying philanderer decides to turn the blarney on his lady-love, they say "he is filling her up with honey-words." But if her logs are really "as sturdy as a thrush's ankles" and she is "a dandy who wears his hat on three hairs of his head" it may well be the previous to a proposal: "How would you like to be buried with my people?" "Like a no Spring chicken" applies conversely to the aging spinster who is not looking for a matrimonial offers. The farmer's method of guessing the weight of the counting the annual rings inspired this trenchant variation: "as

A Lift For Living

Price of Pride Runs High

By DR. RALPH W. SOCKMAN

To what extent are we prisoners of pride? Of certain persons in his day, the Psalmist said, "Pride compasseth them about as a chain."

Suppose we think of some person from whom we are estranged. A reconciling word would likely start the matter. A brilliant army officer married a beautiful girl from a fine family. The couple always commanded attention at social gatherings. They were highly intelligent and witty, in public they sparkled. But marital tension developed. He was stationed in Washington. She rented a house across the Potomac in Virginia.

After the divorce the wife confided to a friend: "Only one minute stood between us. He had called that summer evening to see me. It was so pleasant. When he left, he strode slowly toward the gate — and paused. If I had simply said, 'Jerry, come back! I know he would have returned. I was too proud to call him back. How changed our lives would have been."

ARE TOO PROUD

What a price we pay for pride! A word of apology, a first step toward reconciliation — but we are too proud. It might indicate that we are in the wrong. And pride holds us back from admitting that we are in the wrong.

Or suppose one of you young people were at a party last night. As the evening drew on, you said, "I must be getting home because I am going to church tomorrow." Then one of the group, spoke up saying, "Don't tell us that you are one of those old-fashioned people who keeps the stodgy habit of going to church. Don't you know that smart people no longer go to church?" So you drop your intention of going to church. Pride holds us back from doing what "smart people" do not do.

Yes, a little second thought reveals how pride compasseth us about as with a chain. We are too proud to stand out from the crowd at the risk of being thought ridiculous or queer. We are so proud that we want to be outstanding in the crowd. Therefore we compete for the same prizes, become envious of the same successes, and conform ourselves in the same styles. The result is the curse of comparisons, the passion of competition, and the poison of envy, jealousy and greed. Pretty pride of vanity, stubborn pride of opinion, blind pride of race, narrow pride of nationality — these are the chains which imprison us.

Traditional theology lists pride as the first of the seven deadly sins. It mingles with all our vices, and without constant and anxious care it will mingle also with our virtues.

REVEALING PASSAGE

Edward Arlington Robinson's portrayal of Nicodemus has a revealing passage. The proud and learned scribe has an interview one night with the new teacher from Nazareth. Apparently he is stirred to enthusiasm by the Nazarene's message, and he comes to Caiaphas, the high priest, to praise the carpenter's ideas. But Caiaphas is not afraid that Nicodemus will take up with the new cult of the lowly Nazarene. He knows his man. And he says to Nicodemus:

"You will not go from us for a mad carpenter.
You will never be seen with him
Beside you in Jerusalem."

When we read that, we are disturbed by the question, would we have been too proud to be seen with Jesus beside us in Jerusalem if we have lived then? We mourn over the tomb where they laid Him. We join the Church that bears His name. But in the day of His flesh, it was not respectable to be seen with Him. The best people simply did not do that. Would we have been seen with Him then? I leave you to answer.

C. S. Lewis of Oxford declares: "Pride leads to every other vice: It is the complete anti-God state of mind; pride is spiritual cancer; it eats up the very possibility of love, or contentment, or even common sense."

Strong words. But think of pride's toll — all the way from bonnes emulled of love to cemeteries filled with soldiers slaughtered to save the face of selfish rulers.

Pride cannot be cured by one dose of humility. Humility is a medicine to be taken daily, drop by drop. Each day we must study to be open to new ideas, to be patient with criticism and to be ready for the reconciling word and deed.

Weddings

FRANCIS — DORET

A pretty spring wedding was solemnized on April the 29th at St. Vincent De Paul Catholic Church, Deseronto, Ontario, when Miss Mary Margaret Annette Doret, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Doret, Deseronto, exchanged vows with Mr. James P. Francis, son of Mr. John Francis, of MacTier, and the late Mrs. Francis.

The double-ring ceremony was conducted by the pastor, the Rev. D. T. Martin, who also said the nuptial mass, which was served by Daniel Rowland and Clifford Doret, cousins of the bride.

The Rev. W. Hamilton, of Read, was present in the Sanctuary.

The altar was decorated with pink and white snapdragons.

Mrs. Jack Edwards Jr., was organist and soloist and sang "Ave Maria", "O Perfect Love" and "O Lord I am Not Worthy".

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was radiant in her floor-length gown of Chantilly lace, fitted bodice having long sleeves pointed over the wrists, scooped neckline trimmed with mother-of-pearl sequins. The back of the bodice had graduated tiers of lace over nylon net.

Her three-quarter length veil of fine illusion was held in place by a crown of seed pearls.

She carried a cascade of red roses, white freesia and roses with streamers of white satin knotted with red rose buds.

Attending the bride were, Miss Dolores Doret, her sister, as maid of honor, Miss Betty Crow of Lion's Head as bridesmaid, Miss Lolo McLaren of Corbyville, cousin of the bride, as junior bridesmaid, and little Miss Lorraine Rivers of Belleville, cousin of the bride, as flower girl.

The bridegroom was Master Bobbie McKeown of Toronto, also a cousin of the bride.

The maid of honor was dressed in a street-length nile green silk organza over taffeta with lace bodice, cummerbund and front bow of organza, matching headpiece and gloves and white pearlized shoes.

She carried a cascade bouquet of yellow mums and fern tied with yellow ribbon.

The bridesmaids were dressed in gowns of similar style in mauve and yellow with matching accessories. They carried cascade bouquets of yellow and mauve mums and fern.

The little girl's dress was of white nylon and lace. She wore a white flowered headdress and white accessories and carried a basket of yellow and mauve mums.

The bridegroom was attended by Mr. Joseph Schwarz, of Toronto and the ushers were Mrs. James McDermott, of Read, and Mrs. Andre McLaren, of Corbyville, both cousins of the bride.

Following the ceremony, a dinner and reception were held in Read parish hall, where the ladies of the Catholic Women's League of Read catered to the Women's Bureau Within Dept. Is Requested

TORONTO (CP) — The provincial council of women called Thursday for establishment of a women's bureau within the Ontario labor department and appointment of Pat Noonan to the board of motion picture censors.

The women's bureau, the resolution said, would work closely with the department of education in matters concerning women.

The delegates from across the province also asked for an amendment to Ontario's Female Employment Act to remove the Act of 1951 that would permit an association to lodge a complaint on behalf of an individual. Present rules require a worker to register a complaint personally.

They urged that children under 16 be barred from viewing movies unless accompanied by an adult. The age limit now is 12.

A brief from the Ontario Association of Superannuated Women teachers asked that government grants be made available to bring the pensions of those women up to $3,000 a year. It was supported by the council.

This - - - and That

By HARRIET STEVENS

Any woman in the busy whirl of community organization, work and anyone connected with these women, knows what is accomplished and is aware of the energy and inventiveness of women. Charles Lynch says all this energy and talent should be used in the greater, central, more important areas of national life; we are happy that he has faith in us. He has been heard to speak to women on this subject; he has written an article in a national women magazine. Let us hope his addresses men on the subject, too.

A headline in yesterday's morning paper tells us that a man stoked from a church convention because his motion calling for admission of women as lay delegates was ruled out of its jurisdiction. Well, it is and has been a long, hard road, but someday we may make it. It is hardly an enlightening to go over some of the events on this long road.

FIRST WOMAN ORDAINED

To begin with a church person: Antoinette Brown Blackwell, who became the first woman in the world to be ordained in 1853. In the summer of 1853 she came into national prominence when, although a regularly authorized delegate to the World's Temperance Convention held in New York, she was refused the right to speak. Her "unseemly conduct" in striving for leave to speak, and to send a tumultuous group of angry, shouting men, was severely criticized by many newspapers. However, Horace Greeley characterized the convention's achievements toward temperance as consisting of "First — a lobster, octopus on off the platform; Second — a pugilistic fight on the floor; voting that she shall stay gagged." (N.Y. Daily Tribune, Sept. 9, 1853).

Antoinette Blackwell, Alice Stone Blackwell wrote, "She lived in Orange, wrote nine books, and lived to be 98 years old." When she died in 1921, the census showed that there were more than three thousand women ministers and preachers in the United States.

Another such instance concerning women and the Temperance Society had taken place the previous year, 1852, in Syracuse, N.Y., when two regularly elected delegates, the famous Miss Susan Anthony and Mrs. Amelia Bloomer (after whom bloomers were named) were refused the right to attend. Somewhat offsetted them a church in which to voice their sentiments; the church was crowded with the convention then drew only about fifty people.

The field of education was a stubborn one, too. Thomas W. Higginson, in a great conventian said, "The logic of events is sweeping with irresistible power to the union of the sexes for higher education." President Elliot of Harvard, however, insisted that "all the competent and eminent men whom he had consulted upon this question testified that they did not consider that women could bear the stress (educational) which is imposed upon men." Truly, men are difficult to convince. In 1878 two women were first admitted to examinations at Oxford, England.

OVERCOME PREJUDICE

There is the story of Mrs. Belva Ann Bennett Lockwood, who was refused admission to practice before the U.S. Supreme Court. She taught school and studied law. Her persistence in the classes would distract the professors. After securing legal education, the Court of Claims in 1875 refused her admission to bar because she was a woman, and secondly, because she was a married woman. The Supreme Court did likewise. She drafted a bill admitting women to practice in the U.S. Supreme Court and after three years forced its passage by Congress.

On a gentler note, Abigail, the remarkable wife of John Adams wrote her husband that: "I cannot say that I think you are a very generous to the ladies, for whilst you are proclaiming peace and good will to men, emancipating all nations, you insist on retaining an absolute power over wives."

by his teachers who is in need of financial help.

GUEST SPEAKER

Mrs. D. Scott introduced the guest speaker, Mrs. Dan Bronskill, who gave a delightful travelogue, on her vacation, during which she toured the Scandinavian and European countries. Her tour included Norway, Switzerland, Finland, Sweden, Denmark, Germany, and Italy. The speaker's commentary was most informative and entertaining. Dr. Bronskill's photographs were outstanding.

Miss Reta thanked Dr. Bronskill for her interesting travelogue.

After the meeting was adjourned a social time was enjoyed.

Medical WA Sees European Travelogue

Mrs. S. Morphy, president of the Women's Auxiliary of the Hastings and Prince Edward Medical Society, presided at the regular monthly meeting held at the home of Mrs. Harry Stanley Park, with 16 members present.

During the business part of the meeting, Mrs. S. Miles presented the treasurer's report and Mrs. D. Horne gave a report on cards sent during the past month.

The president announced that the croquet had been presented to the Plainfield-Consecon Memorial Home, during which several members visited the home.

It was decided that $150 be sent towards sending underprivileged children to summer camp, and $50 to the Bursary loan fund, which is being sponsored by the Ontario Medical Association and assists any medical student, recommended

Going Places

Popular Resort Recommended For North Hastings Area

By Shirley and Bob Sloane

Q — "This will be my first trip and I just cannot keep time to save the money." I really want to make the most of it. If you had your choice of going anywhere in North America, where would you choose to go? Where outside? Suppose you had about $200 and 30 days. Would you go first class or cheaper? Would you put most emphasis on travelling or use quite a bit for a good wardrobe? Where would you go for peace and quiet, just to relax and get away from it all?" E. W., St. Louis, Mo.

A — On this continent we would choose one of the scenic, most popular resort areas in Florida, Arizona, Mexico, California, the Pacific Northwest, Colorado, or the Ozarks. Abroad, our choice would have to be Europe because of its comparative nearness, its plentiful facilities for tourist travel and accommodations, and its great wealth of fascination.

The $200 and 30 days is made too complicated an equation to provide room and board. Better take up with a travel agent who has various combinations at his fingertips. The basic choice is between going further and living modestly or keeping your transportation cost down to that $200 limit.

We'd always go cheaper than first class, which is strictly for people to whom money is no object and for that rare breed that prefers to do things lavishly or not at all.

NOBODY CARES

We'd certainly put our money in travelling, instead of an expanded wardrobe. Why water down your original purpose if travel is what you want? Besides, most experienced travellers find that nobody cares what you wear.

For your $200, we prefer to stay home. Travel is for the millionaire, the recreation and broadening horizons. But for those who really believe in getting away from it all, a cabin cruiser or a dude ranch is a good bet.

"Will the present political climate in Mexico affect the American tourist's welcome there this year?" F. S. Kansas City, Mo.

A — What political climate? There's always always a groundswell of anti-American feeling among the world, and the bearing it is one of the penalties of being an American tourist these days. But it's also a great opportunity to do some good will ambassadoring and proving we're not such bad sorts after all.

Besides, the feeling is rarely directed against individuals, perhaps only indirectly. Indeed the tourism is well developed. Even in Cuba few visitors have been mistreated. In fact, at present there is serious danger of major disturbance as the Congo or Southeast Asia, should caucation be exercised.

Q — "I see in the Times that a four day tour to Nassau will cost $200. Is that correct but friends tell me it would wind up costing nearly $300 in all. Is this true? I am a bit stoner on a budget." Mrs. A. H., St. Petersburg, Fla.

A — We don't know about it costing as much as that for only four days. Nassau is a good place as any to point out that any package tour should be carefully scrutinised for exactly what it does and does not include.

HOTEL TIPPING

Q — "Hotel tipping in North America is a problem we have not been able to solve properly. We're starting a trip soon and would appreciate any help you can give us." Mrs. C. B., Clarksville, Mich.

A — In recent years the line between motels and hotels has become pretty thin, what with all the luxury highway spots springing up. However, only in the motel has bellhops — still comparatively rare — would you have a tipping situation that you wouldn't normally face. Otherwise, you'd tip the restaurant, the room service, and the maid (for more than two nights) pretty much as you would in a hotel.

What is tipping, stay in small motels, and eat in cafes or cafeterias or drive-ins.

Q — "We would like to take a trip this summer to the southwestern states. Is it possible during July and August to enjoy the heat unbearable?" J. C., Dallas, Tex.

A — It's not appreciably hotter in Oklahoma, which northerners consider a bit of hot. All hotels, motels, and restaurants are air conditioned as that part of the country. If your car is air conditioned, or if you choose to make that investment, it shouldn't be too bad.

THE PET KINGDOM

"'Mary had a little lamb,' described by E. V. Lucas as the best-known four-line verse in the English language, was written by Mrs. Sarah Hoogsha Hale of Boston in 1830"—J. D. Adams.

• • •

"Today," said the TV announcer, "for the first time, electric blankets for pet dogs, cats and canaries were offered for sale . . ."

Far from pooh-poohing this statement, everyone in our little group smiled delightedly: "How wonderful for the dear things!" they exclaimed.

Here's proof indeed, that people everywhere are becoming fully aware, of the importance of the state of their pets' and animals' health. Another proof is the fact that a third conference on public health for veterinarians was recently held at Cornell University, where animal problems concerned with maintaining and improving the health of an estimated 112,200,000 humans and 700,000,000 animals in the United States were discussed for the benefit of both human and animal doctors.

A census taken in 1958 of the pet population shows that there were an estimated 25,000,000 dogs, 36,700,000 cats, 15,000,000 parakeets, 6,000,000 canaries, 3,000,000 finches and other caged birds, 3,000,000turtles, 100,000 monkeys and 10,000 skunks kept in homes as pets. Pets of some kind are in 55 per cent of all the families of the United States and health is an important problem in that society. Note: the puny cat is "top dog" no less!

We are pleased that there are about 1,700 practising veterinary doctors in Canada and two veterinary colleges; one at Guelph and one at St. Hyacinthe, Que. The five-year course opens up fields, limitless in scope: surgery, meat inspection, research, industrial (drugs), regulation and enforcement of import and quarantine health requirements. Dr. Reed, federal veterinary, Department of Agriculture, Belleville, points out that in case of a nuclear war the contamination would be a certainty, whereby veterinary service would be of inestimable value. He said in an interview:

"The veterinary college at Guelph is worth seeing. Especially the facilities for, and types of surgical instruments used in, the operating room. The sterilizing technique is said to be the best. Students observe treatment given to their professors to (ailing) animals of farmers of the district known as Farm Service.

"People are concerned as never before about their pets and take them often and some times regularly to the veterinarian something not done by many 10 years ago, when there were just two veterinarians in town. Today there are seven.

The Quinte District Artificial Breeders Association employs two full time veterinarians, of which Dr. J. M. MacLean is the president and manager."

In Canada and the United States, veterinarians are responsible for the development and administering programs in basic formal and public health and research, related to veterinary medicine at provincial (or state), national and international levels. They supervise, test and produce thousands of dollars worth of biological products and drugs and are called to regulate and enforce import and export health requirements of thousands of animals. Research projects on animal diseases, many of which affect man as well as animals, are being constantly conducted by doctors of veterinary medicine. Thousands upon thousands of pounds of meat and meat products are inspected for safety and wholesomeness by these men, who aid in establishing and enforcing pure milk laws. Veterinary medicine schools not only train and teach new veterinarians but carry on research and conduct hospitals for animals simultaneously.

"Each practising veterinarian of the 19,000 doctors of veterinary medicine in the United States," said Dr. John P. Ayres, president of the New York State Association of Public Health Veterinarians, "is on the average responsible for the health of 379 horses, 7,183 cattle, 2,577 sheep, 4,585 hogs, 31,063 poultry, 3,083 dogs and 2,666 cats, plus reptiles and bird pets. About one-fifth of the veterinarians are engaged in small animal practice and 300 zoos are served by veterinarians."

Plenty of facts and figures, to be sure!

But we are grateful for them and their re-assurance of society's safety for all animals, be they pets or no; greatest of mankind's humanizers and blessings.

Spring Cleaning

By ALMA MASON

Springtime is a time of rejuvenation, a time for the resurrection of natural beauty. Old and young alike anticipate with pleasure the enthusiasm arising sunshine of April and May. For some winter weary housewives, the spring hides a drab undercoating under its outer colorful garment. Spring cleaning places a glaze wistfully through cloudy windows, then determinedly gather up scrub brushes and dust cloths and busy themselves shining the interiors of homes to match the new exterior cleanliness of lawns and gardens. A vast area of the world in the spring freshness itself inside and out. Often, though, there is one vital spot left in impurity and neglect. The heart is forgotten. Sometimes, after a long, turbulent winter it is damp and grey and the smell or decay pricks the nostrils. Let us restore it to cleanliness and purity room by room.

As we straighten the kitchen cupboards this year, let us tidy the kitchen of the heart. It has been soiled with bitterness and has become dark with doubt. The dining room, too, will need to be washed with the perfumed soap of human kindness. The heart's bedroom has taken a gloomy lailessness. Let us paper them with trust and furnish them with love of the floors. The halls are treacherous with the sweeps of hatred. The skylight will need to be swung wide to the rays of very faith. The house furnished the living room, so it will require painting with sympathy and draping with truth. Finally, we climb to the attic. Here a tremendous task confronts us. We find boxes overflowing with sighs and years and grouches and grumbles and we realize that none of this cluttered debris should be left to accumulate and multiply.

Now the windows of clouded living have been flung wide to the clean, crisp air of honesty. The sordid, dismal recesses of the heart have been slowly and surely transformed to radiate new courage. Loveliness lives in us everywhere and we open the doors to the searching summer sun of contentment and happiness.

Why the shrug of self indulgence?
When the spring is here again?
Let us tidy up the mind
And new life we'll surely find.

There's the kitchen full of lies,
Let us sweep it well of fears,
Let us scrub the floor with truth
We'll renew its sunny youth.

Let us whisk the long, dark hall,
Jealousy clings to each wall;
Now we've reached the living room,
It will need a loving broom.

Lo! We're ready for the sun!
See! At last spring has begun!
Hope and happiness will start
In this freshened up old heart.

Cannot See, Makes Objects In Wood

VANCOUVER (CP) — Mrs. Jack Hoskins has realized a lifetime ambition to create beautiful objects in wood despite the fact that she cannot see.

The slight, brown - haired grandmother is one of two persons who, in 24 months at the Canadian Institute for the Blind's recently opened woodworking classes, have completed good birds, chopping it just for fun.

"I used to get far more pleasure out of that than anything else, especially when I was mad about something. I could work it out of my system."

Mrs. Hoskins works for pleasure, not profit. She has made a small fireplace stand and a tea tray and now is working on a small lamp table.

"The first problem for us is how to locate the tools. We are shown where everything is once—then we remember and go back to find out just what we want. And, of course, many tools have to be put back where they belong.

"Touch and hearing are developed to a keener keenness in the blind. They are what I have more than normal people."

Mrs. Hoskins says she has only dim, sporadic vision in one eye.

Games' Night Held by H-S Ameliasburg

The Home and School Association of S.S. 2 Ameliasburg, sponsored a fun-filled evening of bridge, euchre and refreshments at the school in Redmerville recently.

The "games night" was the first fund-raising effort of the ways and means committee under the chairmanship of Mr. Ian Morch.

Prizes, donated by members of the association, were won by Mr. Ray Wannamaker and Mrs. Norwood Conway, high in euchre, and Mrs. Keith Ward and Mrs. Vernon Christie, bridge.

The high bridge prize was won by Mr. Brian Mulvihill and the low by Mrs. Earl Breff in cribbage the high prize went to Mrs. R. J. Barrett and the low prize to Mrs. Gerald Desjardins.

DELICIOUS REFRESHMENTS

A delicious assortment of refreshments was served. Among the gaiety resounding throughout the school, all had a wonderful evening and it is with great interest the Home and School Association anticipates the next social event, a June Bar-B-Q, planned by this capable committee of Mr. and Mrs. Leon Ward, Mr. and Mrs. George Roblin, Mr. Jack Gills, Mrs. Harold Connor and Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Wickson.

and Dr. J. G. Hamilton, who contributed so generously to the information that comprised today's column.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

Luther S. — They say it's a terrible world and they don't want to bring children into it.

Grant S. — Why bring innocent children into this cruel rat race?

Luther S. — My brother and his wife are complete pessimists and cynics. I confided in me that he is so alarmed at the state of the world — and his wife agrees with him — that they have decided that any children they'd have would only be an unkind fodder. They prefer to remain childless, he says.

I feel he is selling himself, his family and his country short. He and Blanche are well-to-do and intelligent college graduates. They are the type that is needed in our ideal parents. Since I am a bachelor, I'd hoped they'd continue our line.

But Luther's holding out for a perfect society first. I say accept this one and do your bit to improve it.

Grant S. — Each day's headlines only confirm Blanche's and my feelings that our civilization is on the road back to the jungle. We can't do much to slow it much less stop it, but we can at least spare our lives from the shock and disappointment of futile aspirations.

Because Luther is falsely proud of our lineage and heritage. There are physical disabilities which run in the family, such as poor eyesight and hearing, which I see no point in perpetuating. It's too bad my brother's family optimism didn't lead him toward a happy marriage, so he could practise what he preaches.

As things stand, Blanche and I will try to be effective citizens. We may even adopt children already born. But have our own? No.

The Council — Grant must be reading the wrong papers, and walking around with blinders! Of course there are men who slip back and become animal-like, but there are also those who move ahead and are godlike in their generosity and sacrifice. Certainly the twentieth century writer said of Beauty, is in the eye of the beholder.

As to his added reason for deliberate childlessness — the family predisposition to physical infirmity — that's the subject to medical opinion. Although in this day of rehabilitative knowhow, there are mighty few conditions which can keep anyone from anything!)

But on the gloom and bluenote arguments, we find Grant too sulky to make sense. Contrary to Luther's opinion, he and brother and Blanche would not make "ideal parents." They're too down-beat. Parents must have bounce.

I'm convinced of man's basic goodness, and of hope for the world. Grant doesn't need Diogenes' latern — just an open mind, an open heart, and wide open eyes to reach, the "little things" that don't get touted.

Every day and all around one can note acts of kindness and consideration (as well as the opposite, of course) — a casual grant "give-away" items which money can't buy; a bus driver getting up to help a lame man mount; a boy slowing down to offer his seat to a lady; one trying to cross an icy avenue; a lady helping over crippled or aged; your arms are laden, the butcher's ready quip to dispel your doldrums; the cleaner's change-maker who hands you tokens in the coat pile, instead of spread out carelessly.

These are small touches one's fellow human don't have to offer. While Luther is aware of them, Grant is able to discern the glow, perhaps he can light his own candle.

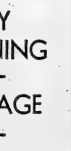
QUESTION BOX

This "Question Box" is going to be devoted to one subject based on the following question, received from Mrs. J. M., Chicago, Ill.:

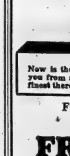
Question: "I would like to know the answers to the following questions about corsages and artificial flowers. When, and how should they be worn? Should they be worn on the right or the left shoulder? When is it considered proper to send flowers to other people? Any other rules about flowers would be appreciated."

Answer: A "live" corsage is usually worn on the left shoulder, but there is no definite rule governing this. It is really up to the individual. Only one thing should be remembered. Never wear them upside down! The flowers should face up, the way they grow. If your gown is of a rather soft material, and a corsage could harm it, place the flowers on your purse (also facing up.)



As for artificial posies, I think they should be worn on a street dress, or suit, and that they should not be overdone. A small rose or gardenia, if well made, may help add a little dressed-up touch to a dress. But wouldn't a real flower be lovelier?

There is no other way in which congratulations or thought for others can be so tastefully expressed as through the sending of flowers. It is particularly appropriate to send them to observe a birthday, a wedding anniversary or to commemorate any special occasion.



In the case of a death in a family, flowers are of course a tribute that should be sent. Always remember to place your full name on the card which accompanies flowers that you might send to a funeral home. The obituary in newspapers says "Please omit flowers" so that those wishing, if you know the family of the deceased well, sending flowers to the nearest relative, the day after the funeral, is a thoughtful way of expressing one's sympathy.

Flowers have a definite healing power, particularly to doctors, so sending them to those who are ill will definitely prove beneficial. Be sure, if sending them to a hospital, to have them in a container for flowers, without a vase of some kind, add to a nurse's problems! By the way men, enjoy receiving flowers when they are ill, just as much as do women!

Successful Living

By Doris Clark

(A Canadian Social Worker Helps with Human Problems)

What Is Childishness?

DEAR DORIS:—What do we mean when we say an old person is childish? Do we mean they are forgetful, or bad tempered, or insisting on their own way?

The old aunt I am taking care of seems to get more short-tempered and rude all the time. If I thought it was old age I could stand it. If it is just plain cussedness I can be short-tempered too.—ROSE.

DORIS CLARK

DEAR ROSE:—Childishness may mean bad temper, sulking, defiance or any of the other things we correct children for. The reasons for these characteristics being present with indicate to you the method for handling them.

Growing old brings frustrations and disappointments. Friends of a lifetime have died; old persons cannot get about so well to mix with those who are left. They feel discarded, and being human they resent it.

Old age is not a time when one becomes saintly. It does seem that good traits become more obvious with the years and bad ones more glaring. "Growing old gracefully" is much to be desired—and has to be practised many years ahead, for successful living as an oldster.

Can we add to your particular problem your dislike, however stifled, of being saddled with your aunt? Facing it will also contribute to your perspective on the matter. Understanding brings patience.

Feelings of uselessness will vanish when useful tasks are found. We all need to be needed. We encourage your aunt to have a part in the life around her. Maybe she can cook a little or sew a little. Maybe she could have tea for one or two friends, and prepare it herself.

Forgive the tantrums and firmly correct and redirect when your charges behavee badly. If you still cannot make it work, other plans should be made for her care.

According to Dr. C. Keith Grant, geriatric specialist, Ontario Department of Public Welfare: "Normal old age is not of itself a degenerative process. To the degree that arterial disease has caused organic damage there would be aggravation of and decreased ability to cope with emotional problems. But one careful study of the brains of subjects diagnosed in life as 'senile' failed to show enough hardening of the arteries to account for the diagnoses."

"I feel that much of the behavior of elderly persons is the result of social pressures and the passive or defeatist adoption of accepted patterns."

DEAR DORIS:—What's the answer when it's the wife who takes to drink, instead of the other way 'round?—Now that our daughter is married and has moved away, my wife had begun to drink heavily.

When I come home at night the house is a shambles and no dinner ready. I try to get her to straighten up but it's no good.—DISGUSTED.

DEAR DISGUSTED:—Your wife needs help, pronto. Heavy drinking is usually a symptom of some deeper problem. Doubtless she misses your daughter and there may be other things troubling her.

There is help to be had, both physical and psychological. In most Canadian centres there is a branch of Alcoholics Anonymous, a wonderful organization of people who have the same trouble as hers—too much liquor—and have found a way of coping with it. Or your own doctor may be the person you feel you can go to, to talk about this.

Several cities in Canada now have branch offices of the Alcoholism Research Foundation, a government agency which treats problem drinkers and is doing research all the time on this subject. They consider it an illness, rather than a vice. Psychiatrists, medical men, social workers and other skilled people work together to help the patients—and their wives or husbands—to understand and defeat the Demon Rum.

Your family agency, your doctor, your general hospital or the telephone directory can direct you to a convenient branch of Alcoholics Anonymous; and you may write to the Alcoholism Research Foundation, 24 Harbord Street, Toronto, for some helpful literature for guidance with your problem.

DEAR DORIS:—I was wondering if you could tell me where the flower girl and ring bearer would sit at a wedding reception.—MISS M. P.

DEAR MISS M. P.—Children who are wedding attendants may or may not be seated at the bride's table. If the flower girl and ring bearer are very young, they might be better with mother or older sister, if she is at another table. If they are old enough and comfortable enough to be seated with other attendants, they rank with bridesmaids and ushers so should be placed near them.

Christianity and Judaism Reluctant to Live Openly With Fact Jesus Was Jew

By GEORGE W. CORNELL

NEW YORK (AP)—A debate is going on today in some Jewish circles about how much and how they should give to Jesus.

The question also has been raised among Christians about whether they adequately recognize their Jewish religious origins and that Jesus was Jewish.

It all started with an article in American Judaism by author Norman Cousins, a Jew, who wrote:

"Christianity and Judaism share one of the great reluctances of history. Both are reluctant to live openly and fully with the fact that Jesus was a Jew."

He appealed for a new attitude on the part of both groups toward the "connecting figure of Jesus," as a towering "projection of Judaism."

"It is possible that a new relationship between Christian and Jew could emerge. Not a common faith, but an important new family and concurrence; possibly even a sense of spiritual community."

The suggestion stirred interest in some Christian quarters, and the article was reproduced in the United Church Herald, of the Congregational Christian churches and the Evangelical and Reformed Church.

The idea produced objections among some Jews. Rabbi Roland B. Gittelsohn, of Temple Israel, Boston, wrote an article in rebuttal.

"Why . . . should Judaism go back to him (Jesus) to capture that which it already possesses?" he asked.

He said Jesus, in an ethical sense, merely echoed the Torah (Old Testament) and previous Jewish teachers such as the prophet Hosea and the rabbi Hillel.

"Granted that Jesus was a particularly attractive personality and a most imaginative and effective teacher of these Jewish doctrines. The fact remains, however, that he originated none of them, that all of them were evolved and taught by the authentic teachers of Judaism long before he had even been born. What have we to gain, then, by accepting them in the particular form enunciated by Jesus?"

He said Jesus, in addition, taught doctrines unacceptable to Judaism, such as non-resistance to evil (turning the other cheek), castigating the rich simply for being rich, and love for one's enemies.

In a letter, Cousins replied that he was not trying to persuade Jews to "accept Jesus or Christianity," but "simply to be and act as those who have spoken in His name. Jesus never repudiated Judaism."

In his original thesis, Cousins said Christianity can find a "new approach to Judaism" by getting rid of its reluctance to see Jesus as a Jew, his apostles as Jews, and the New Testament idea as "preponderantly and authentically Jewish in accent and outlook." He also said: "There is every reason for Judaism to lose its reluctance toward Jesus. His own towering spiritual presence is a projection of Judaism, not a repudiation of it. Jesus is not to be taxed for the unchristian deeds and acts of those who have spoken in His name. Jesus never repudiated Judaism."

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

Three things went sky-high here yesterday, an American astronaut, the city tax-rate and Mayor Harvey J. McFarland of Picton.

The astronaut came back to earth after 15 minutes; the tax rate is liable to stay in orbit indefinitely and Mayor McFarland is liable to blast off again at a moment's notice.

The telephone wires between the sports desk and the mayor's office in Picton sizzled. His Worship was plain mad and his booming voice shook the poles near the backside of Commander Jay Sprague, the burgomaster of Mountain View.

What set off twin explosions in the McFarland office was, first, the inquiry as to his reaction of American "refusal" to take up the Harmsworth Trophy Races challenge on August 5-6-8 and second the Yankee demand for $40,000 as a financial attraction.

Leo Schoenith, Detroit owner of 'Gale VI', reported challenger, has stated he will pass up the Harmsworth for the Seattle Seafair Regatta and its up-for-grabs $40,000 prize money.

Later he is quoted as saying he will put in a challenge appearance in Picton on the August dates providing he gets $40,000 for his trouble.

The mayor fired his first telephone rocket with a booming repetition of his statement of yesterday. "Those American speedboat owners have developed cold feet. They're poor sports who haven't the intestinal fortitude to come here to Picton and try to take back from us which we have held from them for two years."

Hisnoner never drew a breath. "We have the best course, the best water and the best facilities in the world—and they know it. And something else they know—and this is the most important thing—we have the better boat."

Then the mayor dug deeply into his rocket pocket for his coup. "If I had known what they were going to do in Detroit I would have brought Britain's famous Don Campbell, or an internationally known European driver here to give Superiot a run, and the good people of this district their money's worth."

I got a word in sidewise here. "About the $40,000?"

"I wouldn't give them forty cents," the mayor's booming baritone bellowed over the wire. "Its fact I don't think they want that $40,000. I think it is a bluff and an excuse for them not to put in an appearance. We haven't got $40,000 and they know it."

"BUT I'LL TELL YOU WHAT I WILL DO PERSONALLY. I WILL BET ANY AMERICAN OWNER $40,000 THAT SUPERSTEET CAN BEAT ANYTHING THEY'VE GOT IN A HARMSWORTH RACE."

Any takers?

"Mr. Dupont has spent hundreds of thousands of dollars on his hydroplanes. Do you think he would demand money? Jim Thompson has also spent many thousands on his Supersonics and he comes from Detroit. Did the Americans ever hear him ask for money? He never demanded a gallon of gas from them."

"They groused and griped last year. One of the Detroit reporters wrote a bad story about no accommodations or facilities here. I talked to his editor personally and got a retraction.

"We have gone to a lot of trouble and effort to give both the competing Americans and our spectator public much better facilities than last year—and something like this happens.

"I believe Superiot and Jim Thompson can beat anything the Americans can come up with on a three-mile, a five-mile or any kind of a course, especially one on the Long Reach. And I believe the American challenger knows it, and the Seattle affair is just an excuse for not coming here in August."

That's what the mayor said.

Never to this reporter's knowledge has the shadow of "loere" dimmed the majesty of the famous Harmsworth Trophy races.

Kaye Don, Marion Carstairs and other well-known British speedboat drivers, spent thousands of pounds building, equipping, perfecting and transporting their craft for Harmsworth competition in the United States. Continuous defeat did not dull their enterprise or enthusiasm. Nor did they, to my knowledge, do a public war dance and demand an exorbitant sum in lieu of uneven prize money.

Nor did Sir Thomas Lipton, the famous tea-magnate yachtsman, and later British syndicates, who tried in many a heart-breaking year to bring back the America's Cup, and without complaint against trophy regulations, built ocean-going craft in order to adhere to racing rules.

A request for money would have been an insult to international sportsmanship as far as these Anglo-American groups were concerned.

Will Bet $40,000 On Harmsworth

Picton Mayor Hurls Defi

PICTON (CP)—Mayor Harvey McFarland Friday night offered Friday night to bet $40,000 on the Harmsworth Trophy powerboat race against United States racehaater Lee Schoenith.

The offer came after Schoenith, Detroit powerboat owner, challenged the Mayor to put a $40,000 prize on the Harmsworth, the most prized trophy of inter-national powerboating.

Schoenith said the Harmsworth, scheduled here Aug. 5-8, conflicts with a major American speedboat competition, the Seattle Seafair on Aug. 6, which has a $40,000 prize attached.

McFarland said no money has ever been put up as a prize for the Harmsworth last year in his Gale V, but said he had planned to enter the Harmsworth with his repowered Gale VI, before the conflict developed.

MAYOR WOULD BET

"They know they can't beat Superiet," the mayor said, "It is strictly against the rules to put money prizes on the trophy, but I will put a private bet on with any of them that the Superiet will win."

"They just too scared to enter," McFarland said. "The date isn't going to be changed just because they want time to develop something to beat the Superiet."

Schoenith said he was shown poor hospitality in Picton last year. The mayor didn't invite him or any of his crew to social functions, he said.

Not so, said the mayor.

"Everyone of them was invited. I had to fight almost all of Detroit to keep the Harmsworth here. They complained about everything."

McFarland said Picton's fine harbor and fast Bay of Quinte waters provide too great a challenge for the Americans, who tried to force a move to Detroit.

JUST CAN'T TAKE IT'

"Their boats have engines good in two-mile courses, where the Superiet has a hard time letting its power loose, but they just can't take our fast, fine mile course," he said.

Commodore E. A. Finlayson, chairman of the Harmsworth Committee in Canada, said Wednesday the date clash was unavoidable.

"It didn't matter what date we set," the commodore said. "It was bound to conflict with unlimited hydroplane races in the States."

The reason for the present date, Finlayson said, was to give Schoenith time to take his boat to Detroit, to race for the Cup, the main powerboat race in the U.S., held three weeks after the Harmsworth.

Canada will win by default if no American challenger appears because the U.S. issued a formal challenge in December, just because they want time to

Maple Leafs Lose 3-1 To Jersey

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

That Dave Stenhouse puts on quite a show.

The 27-year-old Jersey City righthander almost single-handedly silenced Toronto's defending International League championa Friday night, holding the Maple Leafs to three singles and stroking three hits himself in a 3-1 victory.

The triumph moved the Jerseyboys within two games of the league-leading Columbus Jets, whose game with Rochester was rained out. Elsewhere, Buffalo beat San Juan 6-1 and Syracuse defeated Richmond 10-8 in 10 innings.

Stenhouse, who gave up singles in the first and second innings and then held Toronto hitless until the eighth, scored the Jerseys' first run when he doubled in the third and scored on another two-bagger by Frank Obregon.

That run remained the only score off Toronto starter Chuck Hickman until the sixth when a double by Don Pendleton, Danny Kravitz' single and a triple by Borrego Alvarez sealed the victory with the double-header, now 2-0.

Felix Torres belted San Juan pitching for three doubles and a single, raising his batting average to .300, and Wally Shannon hit a homer as Buffalo won the first night game in new War Memorial Stadium. Dick Bunker (1-1) went the distance for the win.

A three-run homer by catcher Ken Mickman in the extra session gave the Chiefs and relief pitcher Bob Porterfield their victory over the Virginians, who had fought back from a 6-0 deficit.

Fred Kipp, third of four Richmond hurlers, took the loss after surrendering Mauney's shot.

May Quit Junior Hockey

St. Michael's Win Memorial Cup

By LORNE BRUCE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

EDMONTON (CP) — Toronto St. Michael's College Majors have written another chapter in a career that has established them as one of the great names in Canadian junior hockey. It may have been their last.

The eastern champions captured the Memorial Cup the most prized trophy among juniors, for a record fifth time Friday night with a 4-2 victory over Edmonton Oil Kings. They won the best-of-seven series 4-2.

Reports have circulated for months that St. Michael's will withdraw from the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series and Majors' coach Rev. David Bauer added authority to them Friday night by saying that "there is substance" to the rumors.

Father Bauer declined to go into details. He said a statement will be issued in November by college officials when a decision is reached. The college is operated by the Roman Catholic Order of Basilian Fathers.

HAS PRODUCED STARS

The college has channelled an impressive list of stars into professional hockey. Some of them were such bright lights as Red Kelly, Ted Lindsay, Gus Mortson, Jim Thomson, Fleming Mackel, Tod Sloan, Frank Mahovlich and Jim Pappin. All of them blazed into the National League—most with Toronto Maple Leafs.

Several reasons have been advanced for the college's decision to withdraw from the Junior A ranks. They are that college officials are strongly opposed to lengthening both the regular season and playoffs. They have said it would seriously affect the players' studies.

Some OHA teams want to change the schedule to 60 from 48 games and limit playoffs to longed playoffs. The Majors' critics say Leafs use the college to lure prospective players into their hockey chain.

Father Bauer, isolated with his team's victory, said "It is a nice thing to win."

Majors, winners over Edmonton in the first three games 4-0, 5-2 and 4-3, blasted Oil Kings next two 5-4 and 4-2, gave a fine defensive and goaltending display a defence—in finishing the series in six games.

CHEERLESS FINALISTS

Edmonton, in losing its fifth straight championship, battled throughout but failed to score in Majors' persistent checking.

A crowd of 5,000 saw the Toronto goals scored by Jack Cole, Bruce Draper, Paul Conlin and Jack Bownass. Majors had a pair tall and Larry Lund scored for the Oil Kings.

The Majors entered the series tied with Oshawa Generals, Toronto Marlboros and Winnipeg Monarchs at three tilles apiece. The Collegians won in 1934, 1945 and 1961.

Edmonton reached the final in 1934, 1936, 1951 and this season's Kings also were beaten 4-0 by the OHA winners, St. Catharines Teepees.

As is five of the six series games this season which gave the first goal went on to victory. Monday's got the only goal of the first period Friday night, went ahead 3-1 in the second and matched Edmonton's lone goal in the final 20 minutes.

LONDON (Reuters) — Englishman Bobby Locke's second putt to team was held to a 1-1 tie by Young England in the traditional end-of-season fixture here Friday night.

Giants, Dodgers Win

Reds Run 6-Game Streak

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Staff Writer

The hot and cold Cincinnati Reds are running hot at the moment with a six-game streak that blasted them from the cellar to fourth place — 2½ games sky of the National League lead.

They nailed No. 6 in the comeback, after losing eight in a row in a plunge from the top, with a 6-5 victory in 12 innings at Milwaukee Friday night on a sacrifice fly by Chico Carlenas. They battled from behind on Wally Post's pinch three-run homer in the ninth and Sunday the Braves, when reliever Bill Henry fanned Ed Mathews with two men on base.

San Francisco Giants, winning their third in a row, completed a two-game lead by beating Philadelphia 4-2, while Los Angeles Dodgers crushed second place Pittsburgh 10-0. Bain worked out the Chicago-St. Louis game with the Cubs leading 5-1 in the top of the fifth.

Ted Reds, relief pitcher for Braves a pair of unearned runs, hurled 4-2 going into the ninth against starter Lew Burdette, who gave up 11 hits. Don Blasingame doubled home the first score in the four-run ninth before Post unloaded against reliever Seth Morehead. The Braves tied it 5-5 in their ninth on Al Spangler's double and a throwing error by winning relief pitcher Jim Brosnan.

SCORED WINNING RUN

The Giants made it in a breeze behind the seven - hit pitching of Juan Marichal (2-1). The young right hander blanked the Phils after a third-inning home run by Johnny Callison. Willie Mays scored the deciding run in the third when he walked and then caught the Phils by surprise, racing all the way home on a single by Orlando Cepeda when left fielder Bobby Gene Smith threw to second.

Southpaw Johnny Podres had to retire after six innings when his forearm tightened, but won his sixth in a row, fourth this season, for the Dodgers. Reliever Don Farrell, inquired Thursday from Philadelphia, completed the seven-hit shutout, allowing his only walk and striking out five in a three-inning mop up. Right hander Bob Friend, a four-time winner, lost his first as the Dodgers swung for 14 hits, five for extra bases, and collected five unearned runs. Five batters — Willie and Tommy Davis and Norm Larker each drove in two runs for Los Angeles.

Wins for Yankees

Boyer Couldn't Bunt, So He Homers

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Staff Writer

New York Yankees, expected to blast down the walls, belted just one home run in their first crack at cozy Wrigley Field in Los Angeles, but it kept them in a tie for the American League lead. And they got it only because Clete Boyer couldn't bunt.

Boyer, coming to bat in the ninth inning with the tying run on first base, twice fouled off attempts at a sacrifice bunt and then sent a 350-foot shot over the left field wall for a two-run homer that beat the Angels 5-4 Friday night.

It was Boyer's first home run of the season and left the Yankees all square with Detroit Tigers, who rapped Chicago White Sox 8-4.

Minnesota reclaimed third place, three games behind, with a 5-1 victory over Boston. Cleveland slipped with a 5-3 defeat by Washington. Baltimore-Kansas City was rained out.

DROPE IN THREE RUNS

Boyer drove in three runs for the Yankees, who were held to one hit and an unearned run for six innings by Ron Moeller. A single by Elston Howard, Boyer's double and a sacrifice fly by pinch-hitter Deron Johnson gave the Yanks the runs in the seventh for a 3-3 tie, but the Angels were ahead again in the same inning on singles by Gene Leek and ex-Yank Fritz Brickell.

That was the way it stood until the ninth, when leaning reliever Tex Clevenger walked Roger Maris and then gave up the homer. Jimmy Piersall won it in relief.

While the Yankees were held to five hits—and Mickey Mantle's hitting streak was halted at 13 games—Los Angeles managed six, one a two-run homer by Ken Aspromonte off starter Ralph Terry. It was the Angels' 15th at Wrigley Field, which has yielded a total of 36 in nine games.

EASY WIN

The Tigers breezed at Chicago, handing the White Sox a fourth straight defeat with six runs in the first two frames, three unearned, off previously unbeaten Bob Shaw.

Norm Cash and Dick Brown, former Boston players, each drove in two runs in the first inning after a two-base error by Minnie Minoso, and Cash added an RBI single in the wrapup, two-run second. Paool Foytack won his first, but gave up a two-run homer by Roy Sievers and needed relief by Tim Donohue and Hank Aguirre.

Harry Bright crashed a two-run homer in the second inning for Washington and the Senators then beat Cleveland southpaw Johnny Antonelli with two more in the third. Willie Tasby's single drove in the clincher.

IN SLUMP

Antonelli, acquired from San Francisco in a winter deal, now is 0-6 as a starter since last May 21 and hasn't finished one of his last 11 starts. Ed Hobaugh, a righthander, gained his first major league victory with a five-hitter—on a double that gave Gene Tenpla a ninegame hit streak.

The Twins picked up only their second victory in eight games and they got it the easy way. They scored once in the second off Tom Brewer on three walks and a double play, then scored the run Jack Kralick needed for his second straight victory on Reno Bertoia's infield it, a wild pitch and an error in the third.

Davis Cup Tennis

LONDON (AP) — West Germany's tennis team took a 2-0 lead over Czechoslovakia Friday and clinched a place in the second round of the Davis Cup zone Davis Cup tournament.

Brazil, Austria, Poland and South Africa each led 2-0 at the end of the first day's play in other matches, and appeared poised to join Germany in the second round. Yugoslavia led Spain 1-0.

The big European - South American clash of first round between Belgium and Chile stood even at 1-1 at the end of the first day.

Kentucky Home Not Sunny

Rains Muddy Derby Track

By ORLO ROBERTSON

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—The sun that does or does not shine bright on the sunniest home of the Kentucky Derby today figures to play a important role in the 87th running of America's most colorful horse race.

There were an algae Friday of the sun that "shines bright on my old Kentucky home"—1.30 inches of rain drenched rambling Churchill Downs where a track-estimated crowd of 100,000 annually gathers for one of the great sports spectacles.

The racing strip, on which 15 three-year-olds will battle for fame and the major share of $185,200, looked more suitable for a crew race.

Superintendent Tom Young, wise in the ways of whipping a stubborn track into shape, said it would take a hot sun and wind to make the going even "good" by post time at 5:30 p.m. EDT.

Television is scheduled for 5:15-5:45 p.m. by CBS.

But he wasn't promised much co - operation by the weather man. The forecast said it would be rather windy at times and the temperatures might go as high as 70 degrees with more moisture.

With all 15 parading to the post, the winner will pick up $120,500 at the end of a journey that will take slightly more than two minutes. The record is 2:01 2-5 by Whirlaway in 1941.

Strangely, there wasn't a single trainer or owner of the leading contenders who expressed dissatisfaction over the prospects of a muddy track.

By contrast, there was almost glee in the camps of Mrs. Katherine Price Carry Back, the 5-to-2 favorite; Fred W. Hooper's Crozier, 3 - to - 1 second choice and the highly respected Canadian-owned combination of Four-and-Twenty and Flutterby from the Alberta Ranches Ltd. Odds on the entry dipped slightly to 5-to-2.

"I like the mud since it probably will hurt the others more than us," said Jack Price, trainer of Carry Back.

"As far as I am concerned it can keep right on raining," said trainer Vance Longden of Four-and - Twenty, owned by Mrs. Max Man Mountain Campbell, a slim 340-pound hillbilly type in a tar heels match against Nikita and Ivan Kalmikoff.

Flutterby used all his trickery while the Man Mountain featured his bone crushing bear hug.

But, "they wuz robbed".

The Russians ganged up on Flutterby to take the first fall after 14 minutes of rought and tumble wrestling.

Then the Man Mountain cultched Nikita to his billy-goldy bosom in the first second of the second fall and gave him the grizzly clutch. Nikita wilted like an over-ripe lettuce head and raded out of the picture in less than a minute.

Then the Russ pulled an ancient trick to cop the third fall and the book. Both ganged up on Flaagan, but Pat had his man stymied when his brother Russ leaned into the ring.

The Man Mountain waddled inside the ropes to help and Judge Dunlop started an address from the bench. When he turned the Russ had Patrick neatly wrapped up — and that was that.

Marino Deflates G-G

By GEO. H. CARVER
Sports Editor

A trio of bearded Russkys, the second ring sophisticates, the Gorgeous George, a terrific youngster, and two man mountain farmers formed the top fast night's wrestling opener.

Tony Marino, talented young "Mr. America" type won the plaudits of the faithful when he crumpled the Gorgeous one like a soggy pretzel in the second fall of the main bout.

The blonde beauty, who is well past the teenage category, lost the first by trying to decapitate Signor Marino with a ring rope, Judge Bunny Dunlop objected and threw the case and George out of court.

Mayhap George missed his pretty valetie Cherie Dupree. She failed to put in an appearance in the ring as Gorgeous had to do his own disinfecting himself. Even Marino got the treatment but missed out on a year-end lubrication job.

The young Italiano is a speedy agile wrestler who mixes gymnastics with his regular holds. He was never in actual trouble and at one time clowned George into a "turtle" position that ended when a swift kick to the derriere brought the elegant one to his feet.

They can bring Signor Marino back any time.

Those two sons of the Siberian steppes Ivan and Karol Kalmikoff brought a younger brother Nikita, now dubbed a sixth with them.

The trio remained closer than three burrs on a Persian cat all evening, and the novice was given a fine lesson in tovarichee skullduggery.

Karol took on big Farmer Boy Frank Townsend and the pair battled through a furious thirty-minutes to a time-limit draw. It was an action-packed bout that lacked nothing.

The old maestro Patrick Flaherty brought the elegant one to his feet.

HAMILTON (CP)—Three of the titles won Friday night in the Southwestern Ontario branch of the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada championship boxing card went to Niagara Falls fighters.

Windsor scrappers picked up two and a Hamilton boxer one of the championships which make the winners eligible for the Canadian championships to be held later in Alberta.

Manny Quinney and Dave Matthews of Niagara Falls had little trouble with the opposition. Matthews, 139-pound novice class, won a decision over Allan Procter of Brantford and Quinney knocked out Spencer of Hamilton before taking the final bout over Bobby Adams of London.

Referee Harold out George Retaharuka of Chatham at the 30-second mark of the second round for his 175-pound title.

A decision over Joey LeRoy of Hamilton in the final gave Al Quinney of Niagara Falls the 147-pound title.

Brantford Windsor fighters were Phil Parent in the 139-pound class and John Kubinic in the 156-pound class. Parent got a decision over Hardy Ansorge of Kitchener while Kubinic outpointed Dave Sheridan of Niagara Falls.

Rally Cars at Trail

TRAIL, B.C. (CP) — The first car in the 4,100 - mile Canada car rally rolled into a check point east of here Friday night. Other contestants followed at close intervals.

Next stop for the 93 cars before stopping at Penticton was the hazardous Cascade Mountain highway between Rossland and Grand Forks. The route was cleared Friday after mud slides threatened rerouting of the rally through the United States. There were no mishaps on the section to Trail.

The vehicles left the check point to cross the 40 - mile gravel and dirt road which climbs two peaks in the Monashee Mountains.

The section is one of Canada's most rugged stretches of highway and is made up of a series of hairpin turns out of the sides of mountains. Light snow was reported falling in the area.

The cross-country trip started in Montreal last Sunday and was to wind up in Vancouver today.

San Juan Stays Put For Period

NEW YORK (AP)—San Juan Marlins of the International League will remain in Puerto Rico for a longer trial period, league president Tommy Richardson said Friday after a special meeting to consider the situation.

Bill MacDonald, the Marlins' owner, declined to make the split, Richardson said in a prepared statement.

"MacDonald stated that he did not feel there had been sufficient time at this stage of the season to determine whether the operation in Puerto Rico is successful, he stated, emphatically that he will continue to operate the Marlins in San Juan," Richardson said.

Previously Richardson had said the directors had decided the franchise should be shifted and listed Charleston, W.V.A., Montreal and Miami as possible new locations.

JAZZ SHOW

Fred Davis and pianist Oscar Peterson will be joint MCs on the Canadian Jazz Show, an hour-long CBC-TV special May 10.

Liston, Machen, Cooper

Champ Bans Three Bouts

NEW YORK (AP) — World heavyweight boxing champion Floyd Patterson said Friday he will not fight Sonny Liston, Eddie Machen or Henry Cooper this year but left the door open to all the other top contenders including former champion Ingemar Johansson of Sweden and Robert Cleroux of Montreal.

"Not until next year," said the champion of Liston. "I read in the papers where he says he has got rid of some of the people around him. But by next year he should be seven cleaner."

"At first I thought I could advance my prestige by fighting Machen or Cooper," said Patterson. "As for money, I couldn't make a dime. I'm already in the 5 per - cent tax bracket. One day I read in the papers I was going to fight Machen because I was ducking Cooper. The next I read where I was ducking Machen to fight Cooper. So, I decided there was no chance for advancement in fighting either one here.

"I did want my next fight to be in New York. But I guess it won't be now. There is only one fighter to fight in New York and that is Liston."

Patterson said he will fight any of the other rated contenders listed by Ring magazine. 1, Liston; 2, Machen; 3, Zora Folley; 4, Cooper; 5, Ingemar Johansson; 6, George Chuvalo; 7, Alex Miteff; 8, Mike Dejohn; 9, Tom McNeeley; 10 Cleroux.

Lack of Commercials Helps To Sell Pay Television Best

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — After weather and taxes, no subject draws more talk in this town than pay TV.

There was plenty of talk about the subject this week at a meeting of the Hollywood Press Club. The difference was that the speakers knew what they were talking about.

Leading off the panel was Paul McNamara, an official of Telemeter, who spoke glowingly of the firm's pay-TV venture in Toronto. "One of the things that sells pay TV best in Toronto is the lack of commercials," he said. "Viewers are sick of them. It's not the networks that are so much at fault. When the network shows go off at 10:30, then the local stations murder the viewer with commercials."

Samuel Sachs, executive of a top talent agency, sees pay TV as a boon for stars. "As each new entertainment medium has developed, talent has prospered," he said.

Not only would big names be able to control their own shows on pay-TV, he said; baseball stars could even hold out for up to $50,000 for world series.

Martin Racking, production chief of Paramount, said: "Pay-TV is an inevitable as any stride forward in any medium." Contrary to Sachs, he saw the big studios regaining their power.

"The studios will certainly be making more pictures and we won't be at the mercy of other factions," Rackin said. "We will develop new personalities and expose them to the public. There are hundreds of actors in Hollywood today who could be another William Holden, another Clark Gable, another Marilyn Monroe."

Sherill Corwin gave the theatre owner's view of pay-TV: "I don't like it. I can't stop it."

Astrological Forecast

By CARROLL RIGHTER

Monday, May 8, 1961

General Tendencies: Think of ways and means by which you can lighten up and make your surroundings more attractive now. One of those times when every sort of opportunity presents itself for you to find the color, art, distinctive appliances and furnishings that can make your existence more comfortable, pleasing. P.M. Play.

Aries (March 21 to April 19) If you consult with authorities in whatever has to do with decorative and artistic schemes you will get the best ideas for whatever you need to make your surroundings far more beautiful. P.M. Talk it over with mate for best results, too.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) Every opportunity presents itself now to know what your true position is with comrades of long standing. This includes business associates, club members, et als. Confer with them quietly. Ask direct questions, be kind and courteous.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) Be sure you handle all matters of credit or security wisely so that you raise your standing in the community and have more pleasant relations with others. Evening is then fine for going out to dinner, enjoying yourself socially.

Moon Children (June 22 to July 21) Be open to any suggestions from new friends today, since one can lead to real success in the near future. Enlarge your circle of friends, too, so they include the very influential who are usually the kindest people in the world.

Leo (July 23 to Aug. 21) Improve your relationship with others now by being very conscientious in any promises made or with any work that has to be done. Make your future more solid and secure. Work out for fun and frolic in the early evening. Be gay.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) If you take the time to confer with interesting and influential people, you will soon be able to discover new and lucrative opportunities for yourself. See that you stick to principle and come to a real understanding.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 23) Don't waste a second of this fine day in doing your utmost to embellish your surroundings. Make use of that fine artistic talent you have. Be very charming tonight. Invite friends in.

Scorpio (Oct. 24 to Nov. 21) If you are peculiar in explaining creative thoughts to those who are in a position to have them advanced, you will get excellent results. P.M. Fine for going out for ideal entertainment as suits your separate temperament.

Sagittarius (Nov. 23 to Dec. 21) It is important you give full attention to the needs and wants of close ties now. Also, get into new ventures that you have been considering for some time. Spend the evening at own home entertaining there. Be happy.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) This can be a day of real accomplishment, whether out in business or at home, getting cares handled wisely, putting car in order, etc. Be your most inventive self. Then out tonight to have a good time inexpensively.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) While financial affairs may be rather difficult right now, they need immediate attention, so be sure they are handled wisely now. The evening is best spent taking the health treatments that you need. Get rest, too.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) Use spare time to study your appearance and then do whatever is necessary to improve it. You can be very magnetic if you try. Later, get out with good friends for a charming evening's entertainment. Enjoy classical music, too.

If your child is born today . . he, or she, will be one of these delightful little children who subconsciously wants many friends, but it requires the assistance of the parents to break down the natural shyness in this chart. Give the finest education you can, since there is much artistic talent here and also an ability to handle finances on a large scale. Give courses in banking.

General Tendencies: Now you have a day in which it is necessary that you think in terms of your long-range plans and the good will in which you hold those who are very near and dear to you. Take no chances at home. Living the Golden Rule can see you many a headache this Sunday, which is good for sitting and serving those less fortunate.

Aries (March 21 to April 19) It behooves you to help good comrades who are in need right now. Then the evening is fine for going out socially and having a very good time. Dress in your most charming garb and wow 'em! But, be sure you are not extravagant.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) Be sure you do nothing that will take away from the prestige you have so carefully been building up. Live the Golden Rule to the letter and be an inspiration to others, particularly your friends who need moral support.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) The best way to avoid that feeling of frustration now is to get out to church and hear the inspired words of fine religious counsel. Then apply philosophy learned to daily living and thereby gain a good deal of happiness and success. Grow.

Moon Children (June 22 to July 21) Follow your hunches today as well as the good advice of trusted friends for greatest benefits possible now. Then in the evening, get out socially and have a most pleasant time — you have not been getting around and meeting people enough.

Leo (July 23 to Aug. 21) A day to get together informally with associates and give an ear to their suggestions which are very good. Also, be sure to reconcile with any key people in your life with whom there has been some misunderstanding. Rise above limitations.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) A fine opportunity is yours now to be of real service to those who deserve your attention and thereby get a wonderful example. P.M. Read your newspaper and search for the most modern and efficient methods to operate applicable to your needs.

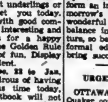
Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 23) This can be a very pleasant day or night, if you do not take any unnecessary chances and avoid undesirables. Wear a smile instead of being remorse and all will be fine.

Scorpio (Oct. 24 to Nov. 21) Maintain personal prestige today by refusing to be led by those who are very forceful and careless. You can then carry through with own plans and also be of help to good friends who are an inspiration. Green.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Don't permit underlings or servants to upset you today. Get out early with good comrades who have interesting and enjoyable plans for a happy Sunday. Live the Golden Rule and have lots of fun. Display your special talent.

Capricorn (Dec. 23 to Jan. 20) You are desirous of having a very hilarious time today, but your pocketbook will not warrant it, so be sure you look to wholesome and inexpensive pleasures instead, which are the best in the final analysis. Revise at a good hour.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Important you act soberly today and attending services will add much to do just that. Evening is fine for a social gathering, but be sure you are loyal to those living under own roof. Remember that courtesy begins at home.



Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) It behooves you to listen to the fine philosophy available at church or on the air today. Follow these wise teachings and know greater happiness in the future. P.M. Get out with right - living, right - acting people. Expand.

If your child is born today . . he, or she, will be one of those rare individuals who naturally will adopt all standard philosophies and teachings, but will have a fine, imaginative ability as well that can bring reform as inventiveness into Tomorrow's World. There is wonderful mental and physical balance in this chart and nature, so be sure you give a fine formal education which will bring success, great success.

USE EMERGENCY

that every effort had been made to give the test a realistic touch.

WILL FORM PLAN

The lessons learned in Friday's operation will form the basis of a master plan for keeping federal civilian agencies operating should the real attack come, he said. This plan would call for the establishment of several "pocket governments" in separated hideouts. It would ensure survival of at least one group to keep the nation running on an organized basis.

Files and documents vital to such an operation already are hidden in secret locations outside Ottawa, exercise director R. B. Curry revealed. Most of the areas remain ocean to be absolutely sure of surviving attack.

The test run started at 11 a.m. Friday when sirens screamed their warnings in the capital and major centres across the nation.

By noon the 22 hand - picked personnel had assembled aboard a special five - car train which made a 250-mile straight run to this army base 120 miles northwest of Ottawa.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker was armed with a test order-in-council signed by Governor-General Vanier putting the na-tion on a war footing and giving the government full wartime powers.

When the Ottawa corps arrived here, army signals units had established communications with civil defence centres in every province. A wartime cabinet meeting was called with Mr. Harkness, Health Minister Monette and Defence Production Minister O'Hurley on hand.

TOLD OF 'SITUATION'

The cabinet was informed of this situation:

Nuclear - tipped rockets had wiped out Cold Lake, Alta., and Fort William should they before 11:30 a.m.

Between 2 and 3 p.m. waves of bombers had struck across Canada dropping similar bombs on 15 communities. Two other bombs dropped just across the United States border had wiped out Victoria and Windsor.

Every department of the federal government was assigned to a specific space in two spacious buildings where reports were flowing in by radio, telephone and teletype. Simulated attack problems were handed to officials of each group.

Two hours later a warning of the approach of radioactive fallout was given. Operation underground — all 200 persons controlled into a crowded warren of corridors and cubbyholes. There was stark austerity everywhere.

The underground centre is fully equipped with its own food supply, water, power source and heating facilities. Huge ventilator shafts push filtered air through it. A control panel reports any radioactivity levels from outside monitors.

SLEEP IN BUNKS

There is sleeping space for about 168 persons in steel bunks and cots. A small side room. The only private office is a cubicle 10 by 12 feet marked "Premier Minister." Its bare walls, two chairs, a telephone on the table and a two broadcasting microphone set.

A plotting room features a map of Canada painted with yellow crosses on tiny black squares. Each cross is the site of a possible bomb hit.

For Maj.-Gen. A. E. Wrinch, chief engineer of the operation and head of the army's role in the national survival work, the real job of testing begins. He and the directors of the federal emergency measures organization must find a solution to the problems which arose and devise ways to test these solutions in Tocsin 1962.

JFK DROPS IDEA

railed for a doubling of effort in space programs and said he would ask congress for a substantial increase in funds.

Next year's space budget may total about $2,000,000,000, Kennedy is looking over programs which may be accelerated into 1962 total between $20,000,000,000 and $21,000,000,000 during a period of years.

"We have a long way to go in the field of space," Kennedy said, "and every other country, at this time."

"We are behind. But we are working hard and we are going to increase our efforts."

In the western hemisphere Kennedy found the Cuban situation has brought greater awareness of the communist menace and the seized control of a liberal revolutionary movement.

Asked whether the U.S. would continue to train Cuban exiles for the purpose of those who plan the invasion, Kennedy replied that Cubans living in the United States and join the American armed forces, but "we have no plans to train Cuban exiles, as a Cuban force in this country or with any other country, at this time."

wrgins-Canadian tax convention business and tobacco, liquor, statistics, and three resolutions.

By Friday, with attendance in the Commons down to about 60 MPs, the House was at work on the spending estimates of the northern affairs department, piloted by Walter Dinsdale, 42-year-old minister who took over the portfolio last October.

QUERIED ABOUT CONTRACT

His biggest trial was opposition questions about a contract for advertising that had been granted to a businessman in his own riding of Brandon-Souris.

Mr. Dinsdale said J. B. Neill, a former Conservative backbencher, who operates an advertising agency, received a contract to handle classified advertising for the department, which involves between $200,000 and $300,000 in annual business.

The government does not pay the ad agency, which collects a 15-per-cent fee from newspapers in which the advertisements are placed.

J. W. Pickersgill (L—Bonavista-Twillingate) and Douglas Fisher (CCF — Port Arthur) asked the minister to explain why a Brandon advertising agency in operation for only four years should receive a contract immediately after the MP for Brandon was named to the cabinet.

The minister said there was "no sinister intrigue" in giving the contract with a man living in his own constituency.

Under questioning by Mr. Fisher the minister said Mr. Neill has been active in the Young Progressive Conservatives Association "which I think demonstrates he is not a considerable discouragement and handicap."

In other business, External Affairs Minister Green said that Canadian Roman Catholic missionaries may endanger one of the strongest links between the two countries. The government was deeply concerned and the Vatican Delegacy in Havana was in touch with Canadian Roman Catholic priests and nuns.

THE GOLDEN YEARS

Beware of Move to Rich Town When Retirement Time Arrives

By THOMAS COLLINS

"I am 60, and my wife is 58. "We want to retire in June of 1962.

"I am a professional man with a good income. My wife also has some income. Altogether we are making about $15,000 a year. It is a good life, with professional prestige and status in the community. But we are beating our brains out to maintain it. We long for an early retirement.

Palm Springs, Calif., is the site we have chosen for what you call the Golden Years. We have visited there for short periods of time at all seasons of the year. We have compared it with other areas of retirement. It is definitely our choice.

"But we must know how much money per month we will require to live in Palm Springs in the manner to which persons of our professional and economic station are accustomed."

If you make $150 a week, instead of $15,000 a year, don't stop reading because the answer to this man's dilemma is in some way everybody's when it comes up to retirement.

And the answer, in brief, is that you'll need what you need now — or more. You can never really get a living standard for less anywhere, and especially in Palm Springs. The idea that the convenience and prestige which can be had here and now on a job for $1.50 can be had in retirement somewhere else for 86 cents is bankrupt. What costs $1.50 here will cost $1.50 there, and those who have only 86 cents will get 86 cents' worth of it.

A GLAMOR TOWN

Palm Springs emphasizes this more than most places in America would. It is, first of all, a glamour town. People from all over like to say they've been there. So they vacation there and spend money. Business celebrities, politicians and entertainment stars go there. Wealthy people buy homes there.

A $15,000 professional man who retired there — even if he could manage as much as $7,000 in retirement income — just wouldn't sit at the first table. No matter what his status had been in a well-ordered residential area back somewhere else, he would stand on the curb in Palm Springs and gawk like other common folk as the mink capes and sleek foreign sports cars went by.

The Palm Springs Chamber of Commerce, or somebody, will have a fit over such talk, and will hurry to tell me and you that all sorts of happy people are living well in Palm Springs on $5,000 or less a year. I have no doubt that there are such people. I would question their "happy" bit, unless they are saints. Because the comparison — the relative position of the pensioner in all the glamor and wealth — breeds discontent.

A corner-grocery man who retired to a town where everybody had gone in for supermarkets would lose all that he had back home. A concert violinist from Cincinnati would lose status if he retired to a Tennessee mountain town where the only music was the fiddle-playing at Saturday night square dances. And the couple who retires on $7,500 in a town where a lot of people are spending $30,000 will lose status, too.

ARE YOU A SAINT?

It is always possible that you are a saint, and are so philosophical life that a relatively inferior position in society — money-wise — won't bother you. If so, move to Palm Springs. It's a lovely place.

If you aren't a saint, and you don't have luxury money to spend, and you want to move, then choose a spot where your your own kind can carry over on your reduced income. There are many places in California, Arizona, Florida and the Rio Grande Valley of Texas where retirement incomes of $200 to $400 a month can get you invitations into the best homes in town.

One of the basic reason why St. Petersburg, Fla., became a famous retirement city was that doctors, lawyers, and the rest of us could move there on a retirement income and feel comfortable among other people who were of the like importance back home.

You can have a standard of living of $10,000 a year and live as well as the foreign countries and get the same or perhaps $4,000. You may not have the indoor plumbing or heated meat, but you can get it.

If you stay in America you're not likely to find what you've now got for less money anywhere.

So the trick is to move to a place where other people like you have come down the financial ladder, too. You'll be happier.

Council finally laid the matter over for more details in connection with the number of people who would be interested in using town water in that area and the amount each would pay towards the cost of installation.

In the passing of the financial statement it was noted that a considerable sum of money was advanced to the Board of Education due to the fact that the government grants had not yet been received.

At the request of the police commission council are requesting the Public Utilities Commission to install a street light on the pole in front of the home of Cecil Smith on Park St.

A by-law was passed appointing Dr. D. C. McVicker M.O.H. at a salary of $400 per year effective June 1st. The Chief of the Fire Department was granted an increase of five dollars per month on recommendation of the Fire Committee.

The Chairman of the Finance moved that the Deseronto Athletic Association be granted the sum of $375 for their work

Woman Tells of Climbing From Mass Grave Wandering Naked Through Fields 3 Days

JERUSALEM — A matronly Jewish woman told the Eichmann trial court today of being shot by men of the Nazi SS elite guard, falling into a mass grave, lying there for a day through bodies for air and surviving.

Mrs. Ritka Yoslievska, a native of Russia speaks, in testimony which she told of pecing her little daughter shot.

In the fall and winter of 1942, she said, Jews were rounded up by the hundreds and taken to a burial pit.

Her account of what happened then held the 700 spectators spellbound at the 30th session of the trial of Adolf Eichmann, charged with being a chief accomplice in the Nazi extermination of 6,000,000 Jews.

"We were taken, some in a truck and others forced to walk behind it." Mrs. Yoslievska said.

Those in the truck, arriving first, were stripped and shot by the time they got to the freshly-dug pit. Her father refused to undress, she said, and his clothes were torn from him.

There were four devils, SS men, they shot us.

"The children wanted to run. It was hard to hold on to them. We hurried, we were sort of anxious to get it all over. My mother . . . my grandmother . . . she was 80 years old and had a baby in her arms . . . my father . . . my sister.

"Then it came my turn. The German officer said, 'Shall I shoot first?' I did not answer.

STORM DAMAGE IN U.S. MOUNTS INTO MILLIONS

At Least 29 Killed, Hundreds Homeless

CHICAGO (AP) — Violent storms and floods took a heavy toll in deaths and injuries during the weekend against broad sections of the central United States.

Property damage in the storm-battered sections of eight states was in the millions of dollars. Hundreds of persons were made temporarily homeless.

The flash floods and severe weather, including tornadoes, gusty winds, heavy rain and hail, were blamed for at least 29 deaths. Nearly 100 persons were injured.

The American Red Cross in St. Louis said arrangements were made to provide food, clothing, medical care and emergency shelter for an estimated 1,000 families in north central Arkansas, southeast Missouri, northeast Oklahoma, Kansas and southern Illinois.

Severe thunderstorms continued during the morning in many areas from Oklahoma and Illinois middle and upper Mississippi valley into the Great Lakes region.

Says Unions Must Have Freedom To Make Errors, Even Stupid Ones

WINDSOR (CP) — Complete freedom—even for stupid mistakes and undesirable members — must be provided for the labor movement, President Dave Archer of the Ontario Labor Federation said Sunday.

"There are those who would have the labor movement pass laws that would seriously curtail the right of the union to function as a free organization," he said.

"And as an organization of free men to make mistakes — stupid ones;

"We have within our ranks people who are undesirable for various reasons; to have our organization free of these people, our dedicated leaders and some who are not.

"This is freedom. It is indivisible. There can be no freedom if it is restricted only to those people who do or say the things of which we approve."

In a bluntly worded address to the Ontario Federation of Labor-CCL Trade Unions he said, "It is no accident that in countries where a free trade union movement exists, there develops a strong democracy."

Imprisoned Moise Tshombe Will Face Treason Charges

COQUILHATVILLE (AP)—President Joseph Kasavubu's Leopoldville government says it will prosecute Katanga President Moise Tshombe for treason.

Foreign Minister Justin Bomboko told a press conference the imprisoned Tshombe would be tried for a series of crimes, including the assassination of former premier Patrice Lumumba. Katanga authorities reported Lumumba was killed by natives following his escape from their custody but Kasavubu blamed it on Tshombe.

Tshombe was arrested April 26 after he walked out of a meeting of Congolese leaders called to try to work out a new form of government for the entire nation. The Katanga president accused Kasavubu of "selling out" to the United Nations.

Bomboko said the Leopoldville government would use force if necessary to restore its control over Katanga, the Congo's rich mining province which seceded from the republic soon after independence last summer.

Bomboko declined to specify just how President Joseph Kasavubu's government would go about taking over Katanga. But he announced that all Belgian advisers would be expelled from the province.

Katanga has the best disciplined and most effective army in the Congo. It is believed loyal to Tshombe and is commanded by hired white officers.

The Katanga cabinet appeared solidly behind Tshombe's earlier defiance of repeated UN demands that he get rid of all foreign military and political personnel. But following the arrest, the provincial cabinet last week took a more conciliatory tone toward the Leopoldville government and promised to discuss the UN demands for expulsion of foreigners.

Appeal of Convicted Spies Rejected by British Court

LONDON (Reuters) — The Court of Criminal Appeal today rejected an application by five convicted spies to appeal against their sentences.

The five were convicted in March of passing information about the top-secret British naval underwater weapons base at Portland, England, to a "potential enemy."

They are: Gordon Arnold Lonsdale, 37, sentenced to 25 years imprisonment; Peter Kroger, 50, and his wife, Helen, 47, both given 20 years; and Harry F. Houghton, 55, and his fiancee, Ethel Gee, 49, both sentenced to 15 years.

The Krogers, identified by police as American citizens whose real names were Maurice and Lorna Cohen, were accused of providing a cleaning house for passing the secrets.

Their defence counsel argued today that there was no evidence the couple transmitted information abroad although they were prepared to do so.

Counsel for Lonsdale, described by police as the ring leader and a Soviet spy and Russian intelligence service officer, argued that there was treachery in his case."

"He . . . comes to this country on a false piece of obedience to the allegiance which he owes," the lawyer said.

Astronaut Receives Hero's Welcome From Washington

WASHINGTON (AP) — America's first space traveller received a medal and the cosmonaut's hand at them from President Kennedy today.

Spaceman Alan Shepard declared he wanted to share the honors and tributes with the other six astronauts and with the aviation - space specialists the nation has produced.

Kennedy honored the 37-year-old navy commander in a White House ceremony.

The president remarked that with everybody looking on, America was risking much to gain much from last Friday's space flight.

The 5,100 mile-an hour flight, Kennedy said, was a common effort to which many contributed.

Kennedy greeted the couple on the White House lawn, saying everyone was pleased the astronaut's wife (Shepard) has regarded our country."

Mrs. Shepard got a particular tribute to some who worked on this flight." Kennedy said, a Missouri School, at the 11th annual convention here Sunday. He succeeds Roy Wendell, of Kitchener.

whose Shepard had been under observation. Mrs. Shepard is the former Virginia Beach, Va.

Reading the citation to Shepard from NASA, Kennedy called him a civilian astronaut "a great civilian accomplishment."

Shepard said:

"I am very sleepy last night than I did the night before the flight.

"I am very mindful of the honor which has been bestowed upon me. I feel very fortunate should go to the hundreds of people who made my flight possible.

Associates at Grand Bahama Island, where Shepard splashed during the weekend, said they thought the flight was highly comprehensive about facing the public acclaim and ceremony that will follow.

Trying to keep a lid on the excitement, the National Aeronautics and Space Agency said Shepard's feat, thrilling though it was, is just a beginning and that there was no time for a ticker tape parade.

The agency ruled out any other public appearances and said Shepard will be free for a Shepard ticker tape parade Wednesday in Washington. Other cities also had been clamoring to honor him.

Talking out the "back to work" emphasis, Shepard himself will have little free space training after five to six hours in the capital. He and six fellow astronauts, with him in Washington to share the acclaim, left Langley Air Force base in southwestern Virginia today.

HOUSE ARGUES THEN PRAISES FARM MEASURE

Was Supported By All Parties

OTTAWA (CP) — The Commons wrangled for nearly two hours at its first Saturday sitting of the session about what it should discuss and then progressive Conservative speakers occupied virtually all the remaining time heaping praise on government farm legislation supported by all three parties.

The measure is the rural rehabilitation and development bill which provides for a rechannelling of the use of marginal farm lands through reforestation, tourism or other secondary industries. Research, conservation and local projects using solid-ship programs would be established.

Nobody in the 14 Conservative speakers, two CCF MPs and one Liberal member—criticized the bill.

One of the few notes of controversy was CCF Leader Argue's description of the bill as "this miniature Conservative Jamboree."

He said he reserved judgment on just what use the government would make of the legislation, which was good.

The procedural battle, occupying 1½ hours, sprang from an oversight by the government's House Leader, Veterans Minister Churchill.

GAVE RULING

The speaker was that Speaker Roland Michener finally ruled, on the basis of United Kingdom precedents, that government business should be discussed. The government called the farm bill, announced by Agriculture Minister Alvin Hamilton, after passing over the private members' business.

At day's end, it appeared that second reading of approved in principle was near.

Today, the fifth of six supply debate days in the session was scheduled to start at 2:30 p.m. Opposition privateers were unannounced for trade, defence or any other subject—if any arised.

Government supporter from Nova Scotia to British Columbia delivered a speech Saturday on the farm bill of praising Mr. Hamilton and the legislation and then adding remarks about the particular problems of their constituencies.

"This has been a Conservative field day," said Argue.

He said the government of R. B. Bennett had rallied until 1935 to help the unemployed, but now was giving administration to bring in the Prairie Farm Rehabilitation Act.

Perhaps there was an analogy there between that Conservative government, with majority support, and the present one.

FAVORS FAMILY FARM

Leonard A. Bell (PC — Carleton) said the bill would put concentration on a family farm basis. The object should be to retain the family farm, with enough land to maintain a family at a living standard comparable to other Canadians.

Twenty - one per cent of Canada's farms produced less than $1,200 a year — "subsistence farms, to be worst." Many farmers made a living only by depleting their soil resources and mining them.

Arnold Peters (CCF — Timiskaming) said that every family lively new farming areas in Northern Ontario show signs of inadequate management, with terrific spring runoffs of water carrying away topsoil.

NATO Secretary Fears Renewed Berlin Crisis

Red Threat Less Brutal But Subtle, Resourceful

OSLO, Norway—Dirk U. Stikker, new secretary-general of NATO, warned the 15-country Western alliance today that the Communist threat to Berlin may assume "new proportions and a new immediacy" this year.

Addressing the opening session of a three-day meeting of NATO foreign ministers, Stikker declared the Soviet threat "even reaches into outer space."

"What it may at times have lost in brutality, it has gained in subtlety and resourcefulness," he said.

The threat was not solely military, He was just as much political, economic, scientific, psychological and propagandist.

Stikker warned of a possible new threat to Berlin this year and said NATO also was "deeply concerned a the situation in the Congo, Laos and Cuba."

CALLS FOR SACRIFICES

He said NATO could meet the Communist challenge if its members include "the necessary sacrifices, individual and collective, which in the past have been the price of peace and which today are the price of peace."

"I am happy to say that our most powerful ally, the United States, under the vigorous leadership of President Kennedy has again and again affirmed its determination to give reinvigorated leadership to the Alliance," he said.

The chairman of the opening session, Portuguese Foreign Minister Dr. Albert Franco Nogueira, also stressed the need for Western vigilance against Russia.

State Secretary Dean Rusk of the United States promised his country would insist on maintaining the present legal status of Berlin and would guarantees of the rights of the people there.

VIOLATION SEEN

He declared that if Russia signed a separate peace treaty with East Germany, as it has threatened several times, it would constitute a violation of the Potsdam agreement.

The secretary of state said he hoped that the Berlin agreement being reached at the three-power conference in Geneva on the question of the future of Soviet obstruction and new demands. However, he insisted there would continue its efforts to reach agreement.

It was also asked the NATO members to bolster the alliance through increased economic aid to under-developed non-nuclear forces.

NATO allies have talked for 10 years of more co-operation but have done little. The ministry of any country finds it difficult to share its worries and problems with those of other socialites.

But President Kennedy's address to the British Foreign Secretary about all U.S. problems in Southeast Asia, the Middle East and Latin America on condition the other members agree to be briefed.

As the delegates to the conference began arriving, French Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville met at the airport with Soviet Foreign Secretary Gromyko.

Tax Law May Spell Finish For World-Famous Rolls Royce

LONDON (AP)—The Rolls Royce, limousine of the truly opulent, may be on the way out.

The company that has built such names as maharajahs, sheikhs, millionaires and film stars faces a financial crisis, with the cause laid largely by the recent British government budget which put $2,000 ($5,600) the income tax deduction for company automobiles purchased for executives.

Lord Kindersley, chairman of Rolls Royce, has warned the government that his company has been so hard hit by the tax law the firm's car division may have to cease production.

In less than three weeks since Chancellor of the Exchequer Selwyn Lloyd's budget proposal, the rolls orders have dropped by 75 per cent.

Rolls price tags range upward from $8,000 ($16,800). The Crewe plant produces only 30 cars a week, about half of them go to export. In January the sell for a new Rolls was 12 months.

Since the budget the sell has dropped to the five a week. Unless and within eight weeks drop it is expected to be "immediate."

Lord Kindersley, who staunchly refused to lower the standards of Rolls Royce products to cut costs, has written to every member of Parliament appealing for a revision of the tax proposal which he claims is directed specifically at his company's automobile.

Twister Puts Car Over Tree Tops, All 3 Teen-Age Occupants Survive

KANSAS CITY (AP)—"Where, are we! What happened! Where's our car? There's supposed do be another girl with us."

Dazed and disheveled, two girls from Leavenworth, Kan., wandered through a field they found them stumbling along beside a highway today after soon in the wake of a tornado.

At least 12 persons were injured in the storm which struck pasion funerals in a 95-mile path from Basehor, Kan., to Carrollton, Mo.

Daniele Gilstead, 17, Pat Williams, 16, and Mary Ann Day, 16, had started driving back to Leavenworth, Kan., from Wyandotte County Lake when a storm approached.

"All of a sudden it got bad and I put on the brakes but the car didn't stop," Miss Gilstead said. "It just kept on going."

The girls couldn't remember what happened after that, but state trooper Robert Cooper figured it this way:

The tornado hurled the car over a railroad levee a hundred feet high, and dumped it upside down in a drainage ditch 300 feet from the highway.

"The girls could n't recall how they were dumped from the car or had been thrown from it," said Robert H. Gebhart, one of the rescuers.

The men took the girls to a house. There they found Miss Day 150 feet from the car.

The girl was rolled up in a ball, face down and unhurt, Gebhart said. "She had severe facial lacerations."

The three girls were taken to a Leavenworth hospital.

300 Spanish Priests, Nuns To Leave Cuba

HAVANA, (AP) — About 300 Roman Catholic priests, brothers and nuns are scheduled to leave Cuba this week to return to Spain.

The priests, being expelled by the Cuban government for alleged counter - revolutionary activity, are expected to depart from Havana Wednesday in the Spanish steamship Covadonga bound for Mexico and Spain.

As far as can be learned no priests have been made for the departure of Canadian missionaries, although with parochial schools being nationalized by the government many no longer will be able to carry on their work.

The flashy Spurs completed the season with a 2-0 victory over Leicester City before 100,000 fans at Wembley Stadium.

The north London club won with an offensive surge midway through the second half. Centre - forward Bobby Smith, who plays the same position for the England national team, scored first in the 66th minute. Winger Terry Dyson headed in the second goal in the 75th minute.

The Spurs got an early break when Leicester right halfback Richard Norman injured his leg at the 18th minute and limped through the rest of the game.

Property damage in the storm-battered northern section of eight states was in the millions of dollars. Hundreds of persons were made temporarily homeless.

The flash floods and severe weather, including tornadoes, gusty winds, heavy rain and hail, were blamed for at least 29 deaths. Nearly 100 persons were injured.

The American Red Cross in St. Louis said arrangements were made to provide food, clothing, medical care and emergency shelter for an estimated 1,000 families in north central Arkansas, southeast Missouri, northeast Oklahoma, Kansas and southern Illinois.

Several thunderstorms continued during the morning in many areas of Oklahoma and Kansas middle and upper Mississippi valley into the Great Lakes region.

Says Unions Must Have Freedom To Make Errors, Even Stupid Ones

WINDSOR (CP) — Complete freedom—even for stupid mistakes and undesirable members —must be provided for the labor movement, President Dave Archer of the Ontario Labor Federation said Sunday.

"There are those who would have the government pass laws that would seriously curtail the right of the union to function in a free or democratic state," he said.

"And as an organization of free men to make mistakes—even stupid ones;

"To have within our ranks people who are undesirable for various reasons; to have our membership, our work people, our dedicated leaders and some who are not.

"This is freedom. It is indivisible. There can be no freedom if it is restricted only to those people who do or say the things of which you approve."

In a slightly worded address to the Ontario Federation of Printing Trade Unions he said,

"It is no accident that in countries where a free trade union movement does not exist, the democracy flounders."

About 50 delegates at closing sessions, re-elected President Harold Tomkinson of Toronto.

The federation spent most of two days considering a slate of 19 political resolutions.

Delegates resolved to press for legislation against the "recruiting and importation of strikebreakers, rats and scabs."

The federation struck at Ontario's three-per-cent sales tax effective Sept. 1. "It is among the most unfair forms of taxation bearing most heavily on those least able to pay," resolution read.

The federation also voted to support the New Party. Printing trades unions in previous years have pledged support to the CCF.

The federation also aimed to cure its own ills.

A resolution to "iron out the differences" of affiliated groups was passed. The resolution urged full co-operation to maintain the best conditions in the industry and pledged full support to any affiliated union in a legal strike.

Imprisoned Moise Tshombe Will Face Treason Charges

COQUILHATVILLE (AP)—President Joseph Kasavubu's Leopoldville government says it will prosecute Katanga President Moise Tshombe for treason.

Foreign Minister Justin Bomboko told a press conference he imprisoned Tshombe would be tried for a series of crimes, including the assassination of former premier Patrice Lumumba. Katanga authorities reported Lumumba was killed by natives following his escape from their custody but Kasavubu blamed it on Tshombe.

Tshombe was arrested April 26 after he walked out of a meeting of Congolese leaders called to try to work out a new form of government for the strife-torn nation. The Katanga president accused Kasavubu of "selling out" to the United Nations.

Bomboko said the Leopoldville government would use force if necessary to restore its control over Katanga, the Congo's rich mining province which broke from the republic soon after independence last summer.

Bomboko declined to specify just how President Joseph Kasavubu's government would go about taking over Katanga. But he announced that all Belgian advisers would be expelled from the province.

Katanga has the best disciplined and most effective army in the Congo. It is believed loyal to Tshombe and is commanded by hired white officers, many of them Belgian.

The Katanga cabinet appeared solidly behind Tshombe's earlier defiance of repeated UN demands that he get rid of all foreign military and political personnel. But following his arrest, the provincial cabinet last week took a more conciliatory line toward the Leopoldville government and promised to discuss the UN demands for expulsion of foreigners.

Appeal of Convicted Spies Rejected by British Court

LONDON (Reuters) — The Court of Criminal Appeal today rejected an application by five convicted spies to appeal against their sentences.

The five were convicted in March of passing information about the top secret British naval underwater weapons base at Portland, England, to a "potential enemy."

They are: Gordon Arnold Lonsdale, 37, sentenced to 25 years imprisonment; Peter Kroger, 50, and his wife, Helen, 47, both given 20 years; and Harry F. Houghton, 55, and his fiancee, Ethel Gee, 46, both sentenced to 15 years.

The Krogers, identified by police as American citizens whose real names were Maurice and Lorna Cohen, were accused of operating a clearing house for passing the secrets.

Their defence counsel argued today that there was no evidence the couple transmitted information which was passed, although they were prepared to do so.

Counsel for Lonsdale, described by police as the ringleader, said he was a servant of Russian intelligence service.

Lonsdale was the claimant of treachery in his case."

"He . . . comes to this country, with a wife and children, on the allegiance which he owes," the lawyer said.

Astronaut Receives Medal, Welcome From Washington

WASHINGTON (AP) — America's first space traveller received a medal, and the country's ire, from President Kennedy today.

Spaceman Alan Shepard declared he wanted to share the medal with other astronauts and with the aviation - space specialists who worked with them.

Kennedy presented the 37-year-old navy commander in a White House ceremony.

The president remarked that everybody looking on America was risking much to gain much from last Friday's space spurt.

The 5,100 mile-an hour flight, Kennedy said, was a common effort to which many contributed.

Kennedy greeted the couple on the White House lawn, saying everyone appreciated what [illegible] service he (Shepard) has rendered our country."

"I also want to pay a particular tribute to some who worked on this flight," Kennedy said, "and I refer to the officials of Aeronautics and Space Administration officials who worked on the journey that carried Shepard 115 miles into space.

Shepard, 37, and the six men he beat out for the honor of the first American space flight flew to the White House by helicopter from an air force base in Maryland. The astronauts came from Grand Bahama Island where Shepard had been under observation. Mrs. Shepard was with the New Orleans Deuces.

Reading the citation to Shepard from NASA, Kennedy called it a civilian award for a great military achievement.

Shepard said:

"I'll put that sleep last night than I did the night before the flight.

"I am very mindful of the honor which has been bestowed on me, but I feel that really should go to the hundreds of people who made my flight possible.

Associates at Grand Bahama Island, Bahamas, related during the weekend, said they thought the test pilot would be content to remain facing the public acclaim and ceremony which has come his way.

Trying to keep a lid on the celebration, the National Aeronautical Space Agency said Shepard's fast, thrilling though it was, was only a short hop and that there was no time for

- congratulations.

The president ruled out any other public appearances and Shepard said he hopes the Shepard ticker tape parade went down as his. Other astronauts had been clamoring to honor him.

Carrying out the "back to work" emphasis, Shepard himself will hurry back to his space job after five to six hours in the capital. He and his six fellow astronauts, with him in Washington to share the acclaim, go to Langley Air Force base in southwestern Virginia today.

HOUSE ARGUES THEN PRAISES— FARM MEASURE

Was Supported By All Parties

OTTAWA (CP) — The Commons wrangled for nearly two hours at its first Saturday sitting of the session about what it should discuss and then Progressive Conservative speakers occupied virtually all the remaining time heaping praise on government farm legislation supported by all three parties.

The measure is the rural rehabilitation and development bill which provides for a rechannelling of the use of marginal farm lands through recreation, tourism or other secondary industries. Research, conservation and local projects using self-help programs would be established.

Nobody in the 14 Conservative speakers, three CCF MPs and one Liberal member criticized the bill itself.

One of the notes of controversy was CCF Leader Argue's declaration of the measure as "this miniature Conservative filibuster."

He said he reserved judgment on just what use the government would make of the rehabilitation, which was good.

The procedural battle, occupying the first hour, sprang from opposition oversight by the government's House Leader, Veterans Minister Churchill.

GAVE RULING

The upshot was that Speaker Roland Michener finally ruled, on the basis of United Kingdom precedents, that government business should be discussed. The government called the farm development agreement bill, and Agriculture Minister Alvin Hamilton, after assuring peace, moved second reading.

At day's end, it appeared that second reading — approval in principle — was near.

Today, the fifth of six supply debates allotted for the session is scheduled to start at 2:30 p.m. Opposition grievances on unemployment, trade, defence or any other subject—may be raised.

Government supporter from Nova Scotia to British Columbia have expressed satisfaction on the farm bill of praising Mr. Hamilton and the legislation and when adding remarks about the particular problems of their constituencies.

"This has been a Conservative field day," Argue said, as the government of R. B. Bennett had waited until 1935 to bring in legislation similar to that now before the House.

Perhaps there was an analogy there between that Conservative government and the present one.

FAVORS FAMILY FARM

Gerald A. Bell (PC — Carleton) said the bill would put conservation on a truly scientific basis. Farming should be to retain the family farm, with farm units large enough to maintain a family at a living standard comparable to other groups.

Twenty - one per cent of Canada's farmers received only $1,200 a year — "subsistence farming at its worst." Many farmers made a living only by depleting their soil resources through bad practices.

Arnold Peters (CCF — Timiskaming) said the bill was merely new farming areas in Northern Ontario show signs of bad management, with sterile spring runoffs of water carrying away topsoil.

Tax Law May Spell Finish For World-Famous Rolls Royce

LONDON (AP)—The Rolls Royce, limousine of the truly opulent, may be on the way out.

The company that has built plush autos for kings, queens, shahs, millionaires and film stars faces a financial crisis.

The tax law in the current of the recent British government law limiting to £2,000 ($5,600) the annual tax deduction for company automobiles purchased by executives.

Lord Kindersley, chairman of Rolls Royce, has warned the government that his company has been so hard hit by the tax law the firm's car division may have to cease production.

In less than three weeks since Chancellor of the Exchequer Selwyn Lloyd's budget proposal, the rolls order book has shrunken by 75 per cent.

Rolls price range upward from £6,000 ($16,800). The Crewe plant produces only 2,000 cars a year, about half of them go in export. In January the wait for a new Rolls was two years.

Since the budget the wait has shortened to six months and within sight seven delivery is expected to be available.

Lord Kindersley, who staunchly refused to lower the standards of Rolls Royce products to cut costs, has written to every member of Parliament appealing for a revision of the tax proposal which he claims is directed specifically at his company's automobile.

NATO Secretary Fears Renewed Berlin Crisis

Red Threat Less Brutal But Subtle, Resourceful

OSLO, Norway—Dirk U. Stikker, new secretary-general of NATO, warned the 15-country Western alliance today that the Communist threat to Berlin may assume "new proportions and a new immediacy" this year.

Addressing the opening session of a three-day meeting of NATO foreign ministers, Stikker declared the Soviet threat "even reaches into outer space."

"What it may at times have lost in brutality, it has gained in subtlety and resourcefulness," he said.

The threat was not solely military. It was just as much political, economic, scientific, psychological and propagandist.

Stikker warned of a possible new threat to Berlin this year and said NATO also was "deeply concerned a the situation in Laos, Vietnam and Cuba."

CALLS FOR SACRIFICES

He said NATO could meet the Communist challenge if its members would "show the will to sacrifice, individual and collective, which in the past have been the price of peace and which today are the price of peace."

"I am happy to say that our host government, the United States, under the vigorous leadership of President Kennedy, has again and again affirmed its determination to give reinforced support to the cause of freedom," he said.

The chairman of the opening session, Norwegian Foreign Minister Dr. Albert Franco Noraadi, also stressed the need for Western vigilance against Russia.

State Secretary Dean Rusk of the United States promised his country would insist on maintaining the present legal status of Berlin and would guarantee the West's access and position there.

VIOLATION SEEN

He declared that if Russia signed a separate peace treaty with East Germany, as it has threatened several times, it would constitute a violation of existing international law.

The secretary of state said he had little hope of any agreement at the forthcoming Geneva conference on disarmament. Soviet obstruction and new demands, however, do not justify continuing efforts to reach agreement.

It will be up to the NATO members to bolster the alliance through increased co-operation and the set-up non-nuclear forces.

NATO allies have talked for 10 years of more co-operation but has done little, Rusk said. Ministers of any country finds it difficult to share its worries and problems with those of other associates.

Jim Mathews Gets Big Trout

Jim Mathews, well known local angler, this morning landed a seven-pound trout in Lake Opeongo in Algonquin Park. However, Mr. Mathews had to take second place to an Indian named John Whiteduck, who started out with a seven-pounder and followed it the same day with a nine-pound beauty. Mr. Mathews is a member of a party of four Belleville men, the others being Hazen Stairs, Clarence Tice and Steve Flishoff, who left Sunday to fish in Red Rock Lake, but who have found that they will be delayed reaching that lake because ice is still in the upper end of Lake Opeongo, which they have to traverse.

City Entries Fared Well In Car Rally

Provisional results issued at the conclusion of the Transcona Rally-Classic that has local entrants stand well up among the 75 cars which completed the gruelling 4,200-mile, seven-day trek from Montreal to Vancouver which finished late Saturday evening.

Two Minor Accidents, One Small Fire

TRENTON — Two minor accidents were investigated at the Trenton police station over the weekend. One rear-end collision on the Sunday afternoon created small damage to the two cars involved.

On Saturday, Leroy Harrison of Elm Street, reported to police that he had struck a tree on the Broken Front near Wallbridge Street when he tried to avoid striking a dog. The Harrison car was damaged to the extent of $75.

Saturday morning the fire department was called to the Kenney Press on Princess Street where fire had broken out at the back of the building. A blow torch being used to remove paint from the frame building was believed to have ignited the blaze in a partition.

Fire Chief Cecil Ellis said this morning that it was a dangerous practice to use torches to remove paint. He said that fire often broke out in cracks in partitions when such a practice was followed.

X-Ray Dept. Contains Latest In Equipment

TRENTON — Recently the Trenton Memorial Hospital's modern 8 X-ray department went into operation on the first floor of the new east wing. One of the two radiographic rooms has been equipped with the latest ceiling type suspended tube stand. It is planned to install similar equipment in the second identically designed room. These installations are unsurpassed for flexibility and convenience to both patient and technician, according to radiologist Dr. Arthur W. Edgett, who last spring visited Baltimore to examine the equipment. When engineers developed this apparatus they left little to be desired by the technician who would operate it, he explained.

One of the electronic controls is called Geiometer, which confines X-ray beams to a specific area. The technician can illuminate and mask off a small part of the anatomy so that the patient receives the absolute minimum dose of radiation. Hence there are no injurious effects.

Unlike in the original building, the new radiographic rooms are full sized and adequate when it is necessary for them to be utilized for operations in which X-rays are required during surgery.

In the event it is not advisable to move a patient from a bed or stretcher, the ceiling suspended tube can be moved into position by means of the fixing bath.

Construction at the hospital has been progressing noticeably. Many favorable comments are heard about the design and construction work. H. J. McFarland Construction Company of Picton are firm responsible for the building at the $775,-000 addition.

Staff of the X-ray department includes: Dr. Peter Lodor and Dr. W. Elliot, radiologists; Isobel Disley, Reg. N., and Clifford John, R.T., and Mrs. G. Mattis, secretary.

The Navy and Canada

Throughout the nation this week citizens will be asked to recognize the efforts past and aims present of the Royal Canadian Navy. Past efforts do not really need to ask for recognition. Although a young navy when compared to the wealth of tradition and history of its parent, the Royal Navy, it has a proud and enviable record of service not only in Canada, but to the British Commonwealth and the nations of the Free World.

It was to the gallant wee band of ships and men which constituted Canada's senior service in 1940 that the enormous task of providing the escort protection for the desperately required supply convoys to Great Britain, the stronghold of freedom, was assigned. It is to the everlasting credit of this country and its navy that these men and ships were equal to this task and that they carried it out for the balance of World War II.

It again served in the cause of freedom when the United Nations required a naval force during the Korean campaign and its men are prepared to serve yet again whenever our own or the world's freedom is threatened. It is an acknowledged fact, and one of which Canadians can be very proud, that the Royal Canadian Navy is one of the best trained and best equipped naval forces afloat today, which is its aim present.

Although we in inland waters may fail to fully appreciate the role of the Navy despite many local citizens being veterans of the senior service we may see it represented in this community by the Royal Canadian Sea Cadet Corps "Quinte" and, upon examination, well represented.

The local Sea Cadet Corps, sponsored by the Belleville branch of the Navy League of Canada on funds obtained through the United Appeal, is building a proud record of its own. It was not too many years back that the local corps was in the doldrums and, frankly, one of the lowest placed corps in Ontario.

Of late, however, the quality of this corps has been vastly improved. In fact it promises to develop into the finest in Ontario of some 46 corps with the continued enthusiasm of its officers, civilian instructors and cadets and support of the community through the local Navy League.

Shortly, in fact, this Sea Cadet Corps is to be honored as has no other Sea Cadet Corps in Canada or in the history of the Royal Canadian Navy. During the early part of the summer the minesweeper HMCS "Quinte" will be at anchor in the bay of its name and, in a special ceremony, its White Ensign will be turned over to the local Sea Cadet Corps for safe-keeping. It has been tradition for centuries up to now that when any warship "retires" its colors they are placed in church.

The creation of a new tradition right here in this inland community is one which should be a source of pride for local citizens as well as for those directly concerned with the Sea Cadet Corps "Quinte."

When we view the local Sea Cadets engaged in their various activities, aimed towards helping young lads establish that sort of self-reliance, confidence and discipline which will make them better citizens for tomorrow, we might realize that the ways of the sea and the navy leave their mark upon inland points as well as coastal points.

In the same fashion the Royal Canadian Navy serves Canada and affects every community by keeping our sea-lanes open and providing a ready source of defence against those who would cut off our trade routes or attack our shores. Throughout history's pages we can see example after example of civilized nations whose very existence depended on their sea-lanes staying open and free from harm.

In the past half century we have seen the sea play the most important part as a line of supply, a line of defence and a line of attack for a nation in the history of both friend and foe. It was the Navy which prevented the enemy from breaking our lines and provided the wedge which broke his. This is the major role of the Navy—to protect and maintain the lifelines of our country.

The real question is: To what world do we want our Bible to belong? Many of those who instinctively cling to the King James version would really rather prefer it did not come too close to life. They would like it to remain a thing of beauty, in a glass cage, and they wince to see the glass shattered.—Rt. Rev. J. A. T. Robinson, Bishop of Woolwich, one of the translators of "The New English Bible."

Strictly Personal

One's Success Can Suffer By Comparison

By SIDNEY J. HARRIS

How relative a matter of age, how fragile a thing called success. Ever since President Kennedy's election, I have a knack around feeling ashamed of myself.

He and I are exactly the same age, give or take a few weeks. I used to feel I had done fairly well for myself. Now, when my name comes up to visit, she sits reading the paper and clucking, "My, my, that Kennedy, such a young man and doing a great job."

During previous administrations, she was proud of me. After all, I had been writing my own column since the age of 35, and friends still sent her clippings of my stuff from newspapers all over the country.

Then last November, everything changed. Here was another young man of 43, who was considerably younger than the White House. My medals began to look tarnished, indeed. There was a silent reproach in her glance as I settled down at night with me, anyhow, not to have gotten further in the world?

I think that every American male in his early 40s has felt much the same way. The Kennedy victory was a blow to our pride and self-esteem. Whatever ills the country was heir to, we could put our forefathers began to look small and puny, and Hoover's ugly word "failure" trailed us about.

That boyish grin, that refreshery look of hair, that lithe athletic frame in the whole country in the Presidential office constantly disturbing reminder that those qualities in a 43 year old group have been falsely preserving ourselves with our tiny triumphs. We have been living up for the hollow men we really are, headpieces filled with straw.

"Care to look at today's column?" I would say brightly, with a bright and hopeful smile. "Ohhmm, that's nice," she would shrugged, "I see where President Kennedy's really cracking down on the draft evasion — such a brilliant and energetic man, and really you believe in only 4), your own age!"

I crawled into my study, tore the column into small pieces and batted out a red-hot letter addressed to the White House, accusing the administration of gross stupidity in its handling of the draft problem. What else could a self-respecting man of 43 do?

Occasionally, at lunch with other members of my peer group, we would nearly silence fall over the table. In the midst of our talk of victory, in the market place or on other fronts, the name "Kennedy" is wafted into our consciousness—and we half-heartedly settle the bill, murmur "Well, back to work" touch back to our offices, feeling as empty and lost as Willy Loman lugging those heavy sample cases across New England. I know one anthropology bloc that can't wait until '64, that's all.

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

May 8th, 1941.

At the regular monthly meeting of the Belleville Branch of the Canadian Red Cross Society held on Monday, Dr. Caldwell of Toronto spoke concerning voluntary blood donor groups. He explained that Dr. Amason of blood for overseas use was already being looked after by the large cities but many of the smaller cities were setting up volunteer blood donor groups for service in local hospitals. Dr. MacKay was questioned and spoke on behalf of those representing the Belleville Hospital and Dr. Anderson also spoke representing the medical men of the city.

Approximately twenty-two cheesemakers of the Stirling district convened at the office of Mr. J. J. Gibbard, Dairy Cheese Grader, in Belleville on Tuesday morning for the essentially disturbing reminder that those cheese in the 1941 production group have been falsely preserving ourselves with our tiny triumphs. We are living up for the hollow men we really are, headpieces filled with straw.

"Care to look at today's column?" I would say brightly, with a bright and hopeful smile. "Ohhmm, that's nice," she would shrugged, "I see where President Kennedy's really cracking down on the draft evasion — such a brilliant and energetic man, and really you believe in only 4), your own age!"

The old-fashioned cat that walked by itself now has its modern counterpart in the machine that talks to itself. It is a sort of typewriter that could have been fashioned as a substitute for the stenographer who talks too frequently to the boy friend. It is equipped with another machine that takes voice dictation and sets it down in written syllables. Not apparently has as much trouble with spelling as the body. While we have it he tried to write his own letters.

Both machines are carrying machines of the future. Certain forms of communication as this example started, Soviet statesman "Gags" from the stapper. And it is clear that one of the next Soviet-level problems that mankind must tackle is not just how to understand the machines but how to be understood by them.

The machine talk back is meant to be a sort of super yeoman whose nod, once set in motion by the supposed master, will "put it in writing" (as that dreadful phrase has it) over and over again from a punched tape that the typewriter itself produces. Not only that, but by means of that tape it may control innumerable other machines.

The advertiser of this machine says that its main function is "translating information into a language that machines can understand." The objection to be understood by machines is therefore one that smacking is acquiring. Even even before it has found a way to be heard in human language into language that humans can understand.

Mankind itself is begging to be understood. When the machine comes along that can supply that need and that can translate the increasingly strange language of the machine age into human terms again the master may have cause to thank his mechanical yeoman.

STRENGTH for the DAY

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

GOD HAS A D ESTINY FOR US

Two hundred years ago a young Englishman studied law and after passing his examinations opened an office. For ten years he waited for clients to appear and only a single client showed up. But since he had so much time on his hands he decided that he would turn to writing on legal matters. The young client's name was William Blackstone, and, although he never became a practicing attorney, he made attorneys out of literally millions of men who read his books.

Marcus Dods, a Scotchman, experienced a similar difficulty after he left the seminary and tried to get a church. He became what was known as "a suckit minister." No church in Scotland would touch him with a ten-foot pole. He could preach any congregation to sleep in five minutes. But Dods wrote books which ministers have been using to help them prepare for the preparations of their sermons. I have two of his books now which are out of print and I would not take $100 apiece for them.

Very often the Lord makes us fail in one direction in order to make us successful in the things he has really put us into the world to do. So if bigger are going rough for you, remember Blackstone and Dods — and a host of others who have had the same type of experience.

God has a destiny for every one of us, and sometimes the most amazing experiences for us to encounter is the discovery of what that destiny really is.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

In New York, I went into a tobacco shop smoking a favorite pipe of mine which is flutted and has a somewhat unusual appearance. The clerk was middleaged, smartly dressed man of that proprietorial type you often find in New York shops.

He looked at my pipe with interest. . . .

"Where do you get a pipe like that?" he enquired.

"I got it in Victoria, B.C.," I said.

"B.C.?" he asked. "Where's that?"

"British Columbia." I explained.

"Ah," he said, comprehending. "South America, eh?"

"No," I said, pointing. "Out the other side of Montana, 'deed that way."

"Oh?" said he, astonished.

I related this carefully to a friend.

"Now just a minute" he said. "The Vancouver that's where Oregon and Utah are. The Winnipeggers know where Nova and South Dakota are, and Minnesota and even Iowa. The Torontonians have a fair idea where Ohio is and maybe Indiana. And the Maritimers can tell you exactly where Connecticut is. But the average Canadian has only the foggiest notion of the location of the states."

Still South America? Holy smoke!

Letter To The Editor

Urges Civil Defence Program for City

Editor,
Ontario Intelligencer.

I am a home maker and a mother. I have a large house to look after and I absolutely hate watching television at 10:30 in the morning, but Friday I was. I watched the first instalment of the Free World take off and land safely in Belleville, leaving left school mid-way through Grade XI I couldn't even begin to guess what this does and will mean to science in years to come. Science was my poor subject anyway.

Scientists have done something else for us too. They've made bombs, guns, and high things that can wreck, kill or mutilate my husband, my children, my home and without even adding in the rest of my family or friends, or neighbors.

After Cmdr. Shepard had landed successfully, I turned off the television set and turned on the radio. It was 11 o'clock. There was a talking program on, telling us what to do—or rather, what will be done if the bomb drops. Did you hear it?

They told us what the millions will do, what the government will do and how they'll feed lots of volunteers. They didn't say anything about what our children will do nor what we as mothers will do.

Picture this if you will:

Johnny's in school. Susie's asleep in her cradle. Mother's baby sitter chats on the phone, you're at the hairdresser. . . . Then the siren sounds and there is it!

What does the principal of Johnny's school do with three or four hundred frightened children milling around? Does the baby sitter take Susie? And how about you? Do you honestly know what you would do if you had even half an hour's notice.

On this program there was an address given by a Mr. Gow entitled "Seven Steps To Survival." He is the regional official (or Provincial) Civil Defence Co-Ordinator. The booklet I got from him is a most encouraging address and no name goes with it. I called CJBQ—no information. I called the Ontario Intelligencer and Mr. Claude Tice suggested I call Mayor Faulkner. From Mr. Duffy I learned that there is no Civil Defence in Belleville, therefore no Civil Defence Co-Ordinator. There has to be. Now that we have it we very well be in the future a Civil Defence Organization at work in the city and the surrounding district. I feel that our fathers took care of the past and we (and I'm sure they let them live) will take care of the future. Surely they're entitled to our consideration.

The whole point of my letter is this, to my mind and in my imagination, if we have a threat of a sudden nuclear attack, a thousand things will happen, including care of their children and themselves property; a hundred thousand or more unbidden volunteers will be needed. Please, sir, tell us what we should do. Will you open an inexpensive shelter in my yard? What? I don't think I would fill a book. But I do care, and I do want to find out exactly there is to do. Surely many others who feel as I do, but what are we doing about it? I have called the Red Cross. The lady I spoke with told me that the course in first aid has been given last year because of insufficient demand. The whole course is 12 to 15 hours; cost about $1.00 for the manual.

Mr. Duffy, speaking for the militia has stated that they would give their full support to any Civil Defence organization in Belleville. He suggested I call the City Clerk in reference to the pamphlet I mentioned.

The city clerk asked me to call the City Manager.

The City Manager, Mr. Reynolds, told me that he thought the general public isn't interested; the Federal Government should get busy for any practical shelter because the municipality can't afford one and that he feels it is a necessity. He also stated that general lack of interest in Civil Defence protection is the main reason for no organization in Belleville.

I think the public is interested—parents for children, husbands for wives and wives for husbands.

I think that if we can pay extra taxes for a hockey team, we can pay them for a life saving fall shelter.

I understood completely when he says that "City Hall" can do nothing without the assistance and persistence of we the people of Belleville. Do we want Civil Defence here or is it just all to much trouble? In Canada they have to be requested. In Canada, no one can force us. Isn't your family worth the effort?

I believe we owe it to ourselves, our families and our community to take first aid courses, prepare room in our basements for potential shelters and most of all insist that our county and our city set up a Civil Defence and set up a Defence in Belleville.

The Boy Scouts have used the motto "Be Prepared" for years and I've never heard them laughed at yet.

Mrs. E. Peters.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

SETTING AN EXAMPLE

Our growth and our happiness are regulated largely by what we set before us as something to strive toward.

We are all imitators.

We read an inspiring book, or phrase, or we see an uplifting example in some human life, and we immediately want to emulate it. Some one else's way worthy of these things, thoughts or people, so that we may be like them in character.

And there is none of us so slender or unimportant that no one else in watching and seeking to take some part of his example.

This is something that is sure to be true, sooner or later.

How quickly a calm, beautiful personality radiates its worth. And how quickly these traits such a one seek to take upon themselves the virtues and beauties of such a character.

There is nothing that brings out the buds and flowering of the heart like kindness. Kindness

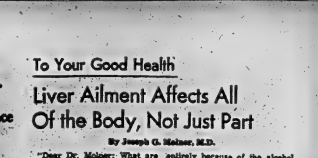
Liver Ailment Affects All Of the Body, Not Just Head

By Joseph G. Molner, M.D.

"Dear Dr. Molner: What are the symptoms of—cirrhosis of the liver? What causes it? What can be done about it? Does it cause dizziness in the stomach or back? Or what part of the body have pain from it? R. H. S."



"Cirrhosis of the liver" means in essence, that the liver has been scarred, and the scarring process that it from functioning adequately.

Therefore, the entire body ultimately is affected by it, one way or another.

Early in a case there are no symptoms. That's why the best rule of health is to obey the ordinary rules of good diet, rest, exercise, etc.

There's a lots of talk these days about "preventive medicine." I'm certainly in favor of it. But like biggest part of "preventive medicine" isn't something that somebody else does for you. It's what you do for yourself — living a healthy life.

Cirrhosis most often occurs in middle-aged men. The main cause is poor diet. Alcoholics frequently have cirrhosis, a of Hot piston test reveals the ash-free secret of Shell X-100 Premium. Here's how Shell scientists can prove that Shell X-100 Premium leaves no additive ash. A simulated aluminum piston is heated and a few drops of conventional multi-grade motor oil dropped on it. As the pistons on left shown, this oil leaves a deposit. This deposit is additive ash. When the test is repeated, as at right, with Shell X-100 Premium, all the oil vaporizes. It leaves no additive ash. That's important, because additive ash can contribute to engine knock and uneven performance.

BREAKTHROUGH:

Suddenly Shell makes every other motor oil obsolete —with a revolutionary new formula which fights the five internal troubles that can shorten engine life

Shell's research on engine behaviour discloses five common internal troubles that can shorten the life of your car.

These troubles are additive ash, crankcase dirt, temperature changes, engine acid, and cooling system leaks. They all act silently and unseen.

Read how new X-100* Premium Motor Oil prolongs engine life by fighting all five troubles —and why Shell scientists can make this unique promise.

TODAY, every Shell dealer in Canada has new Shell X-100 Premium Motor Oil ready for your Spring oil change.

New Shell X-100 Premium is a true scientific breakthrough because it is the only motor oil available that protects your car simultaneously against these five internal troubles that can shorten engine life.

Do you know what these troubles are? If not, you owe it to your engine to read this advertisement. Ten minutes' time now can save you hours of trouble in the future.

Trouble #1—additive ash

Up to now, even the best premium motor oils were powerless to guard against additive ash—because they actually created it. While endeavouring to keep your crankcase shipshape, some of the ingredients in these oils contributed to the hard crust of ash inside your combustion chamber.

All other premium motor oils still have the same snag.

The trouble stems from the metallic additives used to prevent scuffing, dirt deposits, oxidation and so forth. These additives do what's expected of them, but with each stroke of the piston, they can leave a tiny amount of metallic salts in the combustion chamber where they burn and form additive ash.

This hard crusty ash, when allowed to build up, can seriously effect your car's performance—and can make it knock and run roughly.

New Shell X-100 Premium doesn't add to this problem—because it doesn't contain a single metallic additive.

No metal additives. No additive ash from motor oil. It's as simple as that.

Trouble #2—crankcase dirt

All engines accumulate crankcase dirt no matter how well they are protected by filters. The problem is to stop this dirt from getting together and forming sticky sludge which can clog your engine.

Most premium oils use a detergent additive to do the job. And they perform well. But, like other additives, most detergents are metallic and cause that old devil—ash.

Shell's solution is to replace detergent with a remarkable new ingredient known as a dispersant. Shell scientists call it Alkadine.*

Alkadine in new Shell X-100 Premium helps keep your engine clean by holding dirt particles apart. Thus they don't form sticky sludge. Some particles can be trapped by the oil filter; most are drained out when you change your oil.

Oddly enough, nobody yet knows exactly how Alkadine works. But the proof of the pudding is in the testing. After 1,320,000 miles of city driving, engines of test cars lubricated with Shell X-100 Premium showed so little sludge that it could hardly be measured.

Trouble #3—temperature changes

Many motor oils tend to become too thick when cold and too thin when hot.

New Shell X-100 Premium is an all-year oil. Here's how it works. Alkadine has a molecular structure that resembles a basket of eels.

This is new Shell X-100 Premium. Look for the white can with red letters. Your Shell service station now has it.

When the oil is cold, Alkadine's eel-like molecules curl up as if for comfort. In effect, they take up less space in the oil—and the oil flows freely through the tightest bearing, even on cold nights.

Conversely, when the Alkadine in new Shell X-100 Premium is hot, its molecules uncurl. They take up more room. And the oil resists thinning.

Thus, new Shell X-100 Premium eliminates trouble from sudden temperature changes. It lubricates just as efficiently in June as it does in January.

Trouble #4—engine acid

All automobile engines manufacture acid. This acid can do far more damage than friction. It can eat away at engine parts in much the way stomach acid can cause ulcers. Then you're really in trouble.

One way to combat engine acid is to make the oil alkaline. Many oils use this method. But here's what happens.

The neutralizing effect of alkaline oil inevitably gets weaker and weaker as engine acid eats up the alkalinity—till it eventually stops working completely. When this happens, your oil no longer gives you anti-acid protection.

Shell tackles this troublesome acid problem in a new and better way.

Shell X-100 Premium actually plates all engine surfaces with a thin chemical film. The metal literally adsorbs some of Shell X-100 Premium's protective qualities. Chemists call this phenomenon "chemisorpsion."

"Chemisorption" offers a longer-lasting protection against acid attack than any other method yet invented.

Trouble #5—cooling system leaks

Tiny anti-freeze leaks can play nasty tricks with many motor oils.

These oils can react chemically with permanent anti-freeze and form a horrible sludge which can actually bring an otherwise healthy engine to a standstill. Then you're on the way to a major repair bill.

New Shell X-100 Premium sets all such fears at rest. It resists reaction with any sort of anti-freeze. It shrugs it off. (Better get that leak fixed, anyhow, to keep your cooling system working.)

The additives in Shell X-100 Premium resist washing out with water, too. In some oils, additives can be lost to water leaks. In Shell X-100 Premium, they stay in the oil to protect your engine.

Astounding results from 5½ million-mile road test

Professional drivers put Shell X-100 Premium to a brutal test. They took $270,000 worth of automobiles and drove them relentlessly for 5½ million miles. Over highways, up mountain grades, around test tracks, over turnpikes—and through stop and go city traffic, the toughest test of all.

When Shell technicians tore the engines apart for inspection, here's what they found.

1. Wear was incredibly low. One car lubricated with Shell X-100 Premium still revealed the original tool markings on its rings—even after 70,000 miles at speeds of 60 to 100 mph.

The low wear with Shell X-100 Premium was verified over and over. In fact, when nine cars were driven at test track speeds for 70,000 to 100,000 miles, it was found that, from the standpoint of cylinder wear, the engines were good for another 100,000 miles.

2. Cleanliness ratings were tops. Pistons removed from a car lubricated with Shell X-100 Premium scored a rating of 9.5 out of a possible 10. A score of 9 is considered excellent.
3. Sludge was reduced to almost half the amount that lubrication experts consider to be acceptable.
4. Oil consumption records caused cheers. Cars lubricated with Shell X-100 Premium were driven at race track speeds for 100,000 miles, yet used only one quart every 1,800 miles.

On some tests, Shell X-100 Premium even out-performed expensive laboratory "reference oils." Shell X-100 Premium, fortunately, is neither expensive nor a laboratory oddity.

How much does Shell X-100 Premium cost?

If you drive an average of 10,000 miles per year, the switch to Shell X-100 Premium (with regular oil changes) will cost you only $7.20 more than ordinary oil—give or take a nickel. And probably nothing extra if you already use a premium grade.

Drive to your Shell service station and ask the dealer to change your oil while the engine is still hot. Be sure to ask for Shell X-100 Premium in the white can. It protects your engine from all five internal troubles listed above.

W.R. Club Entertains S.S. Pupils

The pupils of Centre St. United Church Sunday School were entertained on Saturday from 7 to 9 p.m. in their auditorium by the "Wedding Ring Club" of the Centre St. United Church." Group 4 presented the program of the last club meeting with a few musical numbers added.

Bill McIntyre then rendered several musical selections on the piano while the club was getting ready to get underway with the program, following which Mr. Rood, district minister on the charge, who has recently graduated from Queen's, led in a short sing-song.

Superintendent Roy Schenkeveld, opened the program with a few remarks to the children after which Club president, Carmen Sine, acted as chairman for the evening. Following a few remarks, he called on those present to sing "The Queen". The first item on the program was a vocal solo by Mrs. G. Hoult, "The Lilac Tree", accompanied by Neilla Greenwood on the piano. Next was an "Operation Silhouette". Mrs. Schenkeveld, superintendent, Emma Armstrong as nursing assistant to surgeon Art Greenwood, and Reg. Armstrong, a humorous reading entitled "Bedtime Bedding Hide", was well presented by Mrs. Hoult, after which Monte Armstrong delighted with an unusual solo consisting of parts of some 17 songs. At this time Mrs. Hoult held a slap-stick auction ring which all present were invited to bid on various items.

The next item on the program was a presentation of prizes for the contest by Mrs. Hoult as "The Great Gordo", and Florence Watson as "The Clown". Winners of all of the children enjoyed themselves immensely. Monte received with another solo, "The Little Red Patch on the seat of my Pants".

Superintendent Ron moved a vote of thanks for the evening and all the children were given bags of popcorn as they left for home.

Paris Styles Provide Perfect Backdrops for Costume Jewelry

By PEGGY MASSEN

PARIS (Reuters) — Collarless necklines, sleeveless dresses and short hairstyles in the Paris collections provide perfect backdrops for imaginative costume jewelry.

The jewelry designers have worked in conclusion with the couturiers. Together they have devised exciting new effects for summer and new ways of wearing such old classics as the favorite pearl necklace.

The simplicity of the silhouette arbitrarily commands carefully chosen jewelry for the final complement.

Marc Bohan of Christian Dior launches the innovation of "clip - on" necklaces. Multi-strand wood or pearl necklaces are open at the front and attached to the boat neckline or decollete of the dress. Enormous colored stones set in sparkling mounts or cheap-looking "twin" anchors securing a pearl collar looped behind the neck.

Couturier Bob Bognand advocates clips or brooches pinned half way under the lapel of a suit, concealed in the flow of drapery, or caught on a low-waisted belt overshadowed by a bloused bodice. The idea is to vary ways to "keep the public guessing."

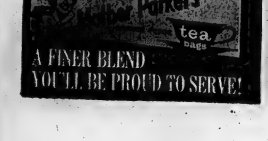
NECKLINES HIGH

Multi-strand pearl necklaces shown by Bognand are worn back to front. Dress necklines are high and severe but frequently plunge pleasingly low in back. Accordingly, necklaces are designed with a single strand choker over multi-strand tiers cascading down the bare back.

Colors and media lend new interest to costume jewelry. Pierre Cardin replaces his velvet - covered cuff with round beads, covered in chiffon or silk and strung on a fine chain. A cluster of grapes tied with a bow is made entirely of silk organza.

Baleociags stays true to sombre-toned Spanish inspired jewelry, with necklaces made of black jet or dark brown stones, contrasting with light-colored ensembles. Givenchy likes chatelaines and sautoirs suspending tiny gold "spotlights" at the centre front.

Castillo of Lavin endorses the respective themes with massive stones and designs inspired by the Louis XIII period. Even belts are loaded with jewels; fringed with pearls, coral, turquoise or amethyst pendants.



Boy Scout Aux. Plans Pot Luck Supper

The Boy Scout Auxiliary Executive Board of Belleville and District is holding its 4th annual pot-luck supper this week.

All auxiliary members are urged to attend. Please bring your own place setting, ample main course and dessert. Coffee to be provided.

Manly Macdonald Paintings Featured at UWC 'Spring Fair'

On Saturday afternoon in the Kiwanis Centre, Belleville, the University Women's Club again presented at its "Spring Fair" an exhibition of paintings by Manly Macdonald. The guests were greeted by Mrs. A. Lewis, president; Mrs. H. Pugh, vice-president, and Miss E. Neilles, convenor of the Fair.

The centre of interest was the art exhibit arranged by Mrs. J. H. Bateman. On display were many lovely paintings by Manly Macdonald, R.C.A., who, with Mrs. Macdonald, was present to discuss with the visitors the locale and other interesting features of his canvases.

BAY OF QUINTE SCENES

Mr. Macdonald, hailed as one of Canada's foremost colorists, has spent most of his life in Ontario as a setting for his work. "Sunset" on the Bay of Quinte and "Summer Clouds" over the Bay were two such paintings. Many of the canvases displayed the natural beauty of these well-known scenes. "Chisholm's Saw Mill" and "O'Hara Mill" both found north of Belleville, "David" and "Vicky", the artist's grandsons, fishing at Picton Beach drew appreciative comments from the viewers.

From the 30 canvases on display at the Fair, the visitors realized the inherent natural ability of the artist and the fun he and his models displayed in their teachers. Mrs. Sowden and Miss Newman, displayed their versatility in the rendition of several songs.

Mrs. Moore, principal of the school, introduced Mr. C. Reid, grade 7 teacher at Bayview, Mrs. Sine, primary supervisor for Belleville and Miss May, music supervisor for Belleville, who proceeded to describe in detail the excellent work being made of the record player recently donated to the school by the association.

TYPES OF MUSIC

Miss May described the different types of music and records available for presentation to the children and explained how the record player given to instil in the children a love for music and a good basic knowledge of it.

Mr. Reid presented an outline of a typical music appreciation lesson by going through the process of giving such a lesson. The record player, used in conjunction with a film strip projector showed the early story and music of the William Tell Overture. The members were thus fully able to realize the value of this method of teaching.

Following Mr. Reid, Mrs. Sine illustrated how the record player was used in the primary division. The children are stimulated into the recognition and the identification of certain environmental aspects as sounds around the home.

With the aid of these speakers the parents were given an insight into the benefits that their children will receive from the record player.

Mr. Walton expressed the gratitude of the meeting.

OFFICERS INSTALLED

Mrs. Jones, the president of the Belleville Home and School Association Council, brought greetings from the council and installed the new slate of officers for the coming year. Mrs. L. Jourard was installed as president, with Mrs. Olaveson as treasurer. Members of the executive will be Mrs. E. McMullen, Mrs. G. Ward, Mrs. H. Thompson, Mrs. O. Bradley and Mr. E. Riley.

Mrs. Jourard gave her acceptance speech.

Tea was provided all business, the annual meeting was followed by a social hour was provided by the parents of Mrs. Coughlin's grade one students.

Bayview H-S Assoc. Names 1961 Officers

On Tuesday the annual meeting of the Bayview Home and School Association was held in the school to conclude the current term.

Presiding at the meeting was the outgoing president, Mrs. S. Whitaker. The incoming president, Mrs. L. Jourard, conducted the devotional.

All annual reports of the association for the 1960-61 year were read and adopted.

Following the business, the meeting was treated to one of the most enjoyable programs of the year. A choir of grades two and three students led by their teachers, Mrs. Sowden and Miss Newman, displayed their versatility in the rendition of several songs.

Mrs. Moore, principal of the school, introduced Mr. C. Reid, grade 7 teacher on staff and Mrs. Sine, primary supervisor for Belleville and Miss May, music supervisor for Belleville who proceeded to describe in detail the excellent work being made of the record player recently donated to the school by the association.

At the May meeting of the St. Julien Chapter I.O.D.E. the members were greatly interested in hearing the reports of the Provincial annual meeting held in Hamilton. Those were given by the regent, Mrs. M. Patterson, who was the delegate to the convention.

Mrs. E. Sutton, the chapter's standard bearer, took part in the stirring ceremony of the procession of standard bearers at the opening morning session.

Mrs. W. R. Morrison, provincial president, had challenged every chapter in Ontario during the coming year to undertake a program which would include all departments of the work of the order.

In I.O.D.E. members have the perfect opportunity to express patriotism and to demonstrate I.O.D.E. devotion to the Commonwealth family.

HIGH GRADE WORK

Educational work of the I.O.D.E. was at an all time high, with a total of $139,250 being spent in 1960, most of it in direct student assistance. In "Services at Home," $128,777 was administered by members of the I.O.D.E. chapters, while $47,040 represented the value of overseas shipments distributed by the Bethel and the Children Fund.

The St. Julien Chapter welcomed two new members, Mrs. Lennox and Mrs. George Gibbons. It was with regret that the resignation of Miss M. Sherman, as membership convener and Mrs. G. MacEwen as assistant secretary, were received.

Mrs. H. Thompson reported most successful telephone bridge had been held in April, convened by Mrs. A. Hitchon. The first prize was won by Mrs. W. Jarvah, the second by Mrs. W. Cook and the low prize by Mrs. Peterson.

COMMONWEALTH DAY

Mrs. K. Pottage, educational convener, reported calling on Mrs. Reid, teacher of the adopted school and making plans for a program for Commonwealth Day on May 19th.

Mrs. Taylor thanked the members who had helped at the Red Cross Blood Donor clinic.

Lunch and a social hour were enjoyed with Mrs. J. M. Parrott in charge.

Artist and Public Meet On an Equal Footing

By HARRY CALNEK
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP)—The artist and his public have met on equal footing at the Canadian Conference of the Arts, and it's been a new experience for both.

The conference, bringing together representatives of all the arts in Canada, is designed to examine Canadian culture and help close the gap that exists between artists and the public.

Artists have been discovered as people, not freaks. But the public was cautioned not to try to understand the artist to death.

"He's a man in perpetual flight from a society that insists on discovering corners of his soul that he has not yet discovered for himself," said Russell Lynes, editor of Harper's Magazine.

He said artists would emerge from their holes and tasternakers would disappear if art lovers worried more about public pleasure than uplifting public taste. "Too much concern was placed on leading the audience by the hand or dragging it by the heels to culture."

Not everybody approved of the conference, including novelist-journal Hillier who told a literary discussion the conference was amusing, but false.

"If it's supposed to be a support meeting between different cultures, I doing-here!" he asked. "I'd rather be listening to painters because I don't know anything about painting."

Richler discussed the subject of national boundaries experienced in writing. Montreal Night magazine editor Edmund Edinborough, and authors George Lamming and Hugh McLennan.

They agreed a writer should travel outside his native country.

Harold Town of Toronto, a painter of the modern school, said he had no desire to travel and considered it an act of courage to post a letter.

ATTACK BUILDINGS

New building in North America, especially Canada, came under heavy fire from a panel of architects and planners. Sprawling - suburbs were described as dull, drab, boring and a dreadful mess.

Stewart Bates, president of Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation, said the best example of town design in the last 20 years was in Nevada where it was built for dice, dissipation and divorce.

The conference ends today.

Party Dessert

By Mary Moore

If you are interested, here is some Moore news: you are getting ready for Peg's and Margaret's wedding and the round of activities and festivities is increasing daily.

I am having some of the fun of taking in a wedding gift at the door. Until Peg and Margaret get here on weekends I am consumed with the curiosity of the contents. Delivery men bring huge arrivals, parcels in the mail, and one big box to stow in Pete's clothes cupboard. Which is already packed.

I am getting ready for a party tonight for guests who will attend the wedding and with whom we need to have a rendezvous.

When I was planning the menu Pete was home so I asked him what he would like me to serve. "One of those dishes we've cooked most of best and I think John would like that," French chocolate dessert you made last Fall when Marianne was here."

This suited me fine for I have two requests from readers for a "repeat" of the low-slow method of roasting beef. But today I am going to give you the recipe for the dessert for it has to be made in advance—at least overnight, at least. Tomorrow I will repeat the low-slow method of roasting beef.

The amounts I gave you last Fall for the dessert I called it "Deluxe Chocolate Party Dessert" were for serving 30 people. I have reduced the quantity so this dessert will serve 8 or 10 and be more useful to you for smaller parties. I am calling it:

Dinner Menus

MONDAY

Barbecued Rambourg Cabas; Mashed Potatoes; Buttered Quick - cooked Cabbage; Carrot and Celery Sticks; Warm Applesauce; Cookies; Coffee.

FRENCH CHOCOLATE MOULD (serves 8-10):

1 1-3 squares unsweetened chocolate, 1-3 cup sugar, 4 eggs — yolks and whites separated, 3 tablespoons plus 1 teaspoon milk, 1-2 lb. unsalted butter (see note below), 1 cup sifted icing sugar (divided — see below), 1-16 teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 1-4 lb. lady fingers, 1 cup cold strong coffee, about 1-4 pint whipping cream, about 2-3 cup shredded Brazil or pecans or almonds.

Melt chocolate in top of double boiler over hot — but not boiling — water. Combine white sugar, milk and egg yolks. Add to chocolate, and cook until smooth and thickened, stirring constantly. Cool to room temperature. Be sure there is no warmth left in the chocolate mixture. I cooled it by standing it in cold water in the bottom of the double boiler and stirring it occasionally. In large bowl cream butter well with electric beater, adding 1-2 cup of the sifted icing sugar while creaming until very light. Add cooled chocolate mixture and mix well. Beat egg whites with salt until stiff, gradually beating in remaining 1-2 cup of sifted icing sugar. Fold into chocolate mixture. Add vanilla. Cut lady fingers in halves crosswise. (Note: You may use sponge cake if lady fingers are hard to find. I found "sweetening" which is Dutch lady fingers and much crisper than Canadian.) Dip them for about 15 seconds in the cold strong coffee and line sides and bottom of 1 buttered loaf pan with them or sides of 1 buttered ring mould (8 1-4"). Do this as neatly as possible. Spoon the chocolate mixture into lady-finger-lined pan, knocking the pan on the counter as you fill it to make chocolate mixture flow into cracks between lady fingers. Fill brimming full and give pan a few last knocks on counter to make sure there are no air holes. Chill overnight.

When ready to turn out, loosen edges with thin sharp knife, dip mould for 15 seconds into hot, not boiling, water. Invert on serving dishes. Decorate bottom edge with whipped cream and serve cake over cream and top. Serves 8 or 10. Worthy of a French cuisine.

NOTE:

If you cannot buy unsalted use regular butter and omit salt in recipe.

Y's Menettes Sponsor Father, Daughter Banquet at 'Y'

By GLADYS WARD

On Saturday evening the Y's Menettes Club sponsored a "Father and Daughter Banquet" in the gymnasium of the Y.M.C.A. where the large gathering shared dinner, and heartily enjoyed the meal served by a low bowl of yellow and white mums on the head table, and daffodils and tulips on the long tables made the room very festive. Miss Jane McFarland offered grace before the meal.

Mrs. A. Newman, immediate past president of the Y's Menettes, presided for the evening, and welcomed the "girls and their fathers" "dates". A lively singsong of parodies on favorite old songs was led by Mr. W. J. Scarrow with Mr. L. Read at the piano.

Miss Patti Bradford proposed a toast to the fathers, telling them how pleased the daughters were to have them there, and leading three cheers for them. Mr. R. Lamont replied with the thought that probably girls had to learn at an early age to be kind to men, and perhaps some would not have treated them so well if it were not so. It is up to the girls also to enjoy the fellowship and pleasure of the Y.

DIRECTORS' GREETINGS

Mr. J. McDonald brought greetings from the Board of Directors. He hoped the fathers realized just how few years they had to spare their daughters around, because soon some other young man would be taking their place. The Board was a group of men and women concerned with the welfare of what went on in that building, and in seeing that a program was provided that would be of interest to young people. The Board was not satisfied with the building and was engaged in the middle of a campaign to get a new one.

In the new building the pool would be three times the size of the present one, with a wider area of walkway, and space for spectators. The new gym would be twice the size; there would be a larger assembly room, which other community groups could use; there would be two locker areas, and it would be something the Belleville people would be proud of.

Mr. B. MacKenzie spoke for the Youth committee, stating that in his work it had been a pleasure to see the young people take over problems once they were faced with them, as they did with the old club. The present facilities limited the age group to the ages from nine to about 14. The older ones cannot get proficiency in such cramped quarters.

The physical education committee was represented by Mr. F. Sisson, who noted that the new crowding in had forced the Y to expand. Mr. Sisson thought the girls could do a public relations job by letting the community know that the Y was for girls as well as boys.

The guests at the head table were introduced by Mr. Demarestides, Miss Carol Hickson and Miss Glenys Dickey, who are leaving the service of the Y to go to college in the fall, were presented with gifts by Mr. Diamantides on behalf of the Y.

A demonstration on the pommel horse was given by Misses Betty Hudson and Elizabeth Linscott.

Mrs. B. Pearsies introduced the guest speaker, Mrs. F. W. Wallis as one of the most enthusiastic supporters of the Quinte district. Most of the slides shown by Mrs. Wallis were taken in this area.

COLORED SLIDES

Obviously the result of infinite patience and perseverance, the colored slides were most interesting and absorbing, and Mrs. Wallis' commentary was concise and comprehensive. Some sobering thoughts on conservation were pointedly shown with pictures of a skunk with its head in a garbage can; raccoon with both its 'hands' caught in cans where it had foraged in garbage dumps, and the all child proof boats on the lakes which will kill a duck or gull that comes near it.

Mrs. Wallis was able to rescue the skunk and raccoon, but the duck died, although she tried to wash the oil off with detergents. The speaker emphasized the beauty of animals, and the only reason to shoot them was when they are sick or aged. She closed, too, served a useful purpose by eating great quantities of wild oats, and were of great benefit to mankind.

SYMPATHETIC COON

The slides cover a wide range of birds, animals, reptiles and fish, in varying degrees of life. One close-up of a turtle makes it look like a pre-historic animal. But the picture that gets the most re-action and delighted laughter is the slide which is watching Mrs. Wallis climb a tree to get a specimen of it. When she falls from the tree the coon covers its eyes with its paws.

Appreciation for the interesting discourse was expressed by Miss Carol Hickson. Miss Sandra Clarke thanked the Y's Menettes for the dinner and the entertainment.

QUESTION BOX

Question — How long may a hostess delay dinner for 1 to 3 late guest? I have been giving a series of small parties to help my back account social debts. Each time the late ones (and there always are some) have practically ruined the food by wandering in late. What do you do in this case? — Mrs. D. G. B., Trenton, N. J.

Answer — Surely guests are the bane of every hostess! Usually the actions of these people are inexcusable. The only way to combat them is to wait fifteen minutes, no longer, and go ahead with your party. When the late ones finally put in an appearance (unless they have a really valid excuse), show your displeasure by being a little cool when they offer stupid reasons!

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

Naomi G. — How many engagement parties per couple ought there be in one family?

Charlene T. — Any relative who feels like it can give a party in honor of the youngsters.

* * *

Naomi G. — Does this sort of thing just happen in our family, or is it a new trend? I refer to "Engagement Parties" where the guests are always the same crowd of rushes, and showers, and they're all expected to turn up with gifts each time. In addition we're asked to attend showers, which means more "chores." and then there's the wedding gift list to save up for.

These parties are a farce. You push through 50 or 60 guests, packed in an ordinary living room, trying to find the disappearing towels in. There's a fancy buffet table and drinks somewhere, but try and get near them!

Now we just squeeze in, depositi a gift, and wriggle out. Are such parties proper?

* * *

Charlene T. — I'm Naomi's cousin and I know she's referring to the series of parties everyone's giving for my son Glenn, and his fiancee. I think Naomi is wrong. The get together's in different homes are a lot of fun. The young folks get their brief "place in the sun," and a chance to become acquainted with the family. And we, in turn, meet them and their friends.

As to gifts, of course you bring them. That's part of it, isn't it? And about the discomfort, what can you expect when the family happens to be large? Besides, they stand in one spot when in a home they have the fun of circulating among the young people. But that's no reason for giving parties.

We can't all have a big home so we invite the shebang, and make do.

* * *

The Council — Mooning is fine greeting in times, but is fine. Engagement parties which make these possible are fine, too. But the Council's gimmick behind some of them turn these events into crass and tarnished experiences. We're glad Naomi reveals the disenchantment of some.

Charlene's defence of these parties is a good one. She is a true mother of the groom. Chances are she mother of the bride feels the same. Glenn is a fine son so is a lokster no matter who buys it.

But since these gals bring us this problem in all good nature, let's shake hands and see whether we can come out with a set of ground rules for the future. After all, about a million and a half engagements are announced each year in this country, and if — as Naomi fears — the trend is towards more parties, this becomes a matter of sheer self defence for all of us.

First, a party is for conviviality, communication, and the cementing of friendships. An engagement party is to celebrate the prospective merger of two families through the love of a boy and a girl. Affection for the kids, interest in their welfare — these are the tickets of admission. Not packages.

Second, what about gifts? We believe a total of two gifts, to be plenty. One can be a bauble, a trinket, a gadget — mailed or delivered in person at one of the showers or parties during the engagement period. The other can be more substantial, and labelled the gift, proffered close to the wedding date. Contrary to what Charlene says, gifts needn't be part of every party. It's up to the bride to keep track of who gives what; not up to each hostess!

Third, a word for comfort. Who ever invites the mob has a duty to provide something more genteel than a subway crush. Either cut down the list, or provide sheltered ushers.

Above all, don't let engagement-parties turn into swap shops, with casseps.

Successful Living

Leaves School to Marry

DORIS CLARK

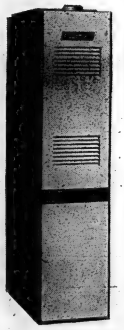
DEAR DORIS: — My 17-year-old daughter has become quite a problem.

She has been going with a boy who at first seemed quite decent. We even let him room at our house. Now we find he lied about his age and he has been in trouble with the police several times. He had his driving license taken away from him and is still driving by borrowing one. He has no respect for anything or anybody.

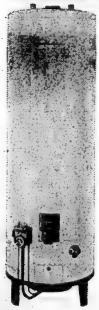
I objected to them spending so much time together and now my daughter says we are mean and don't want her to enjoy life. This weekend she came home with a diamond. Says she is quitting school in June and will get married in September when she is 18.

I asked her to stay in school another year and go to teachers' college for a year, then if she still wants to marry the same fellow, I'll go along with it. She always said she wanted to teach. I intend to see someone myself. Do you think I am on the right track?—MRS. M. S.

DEAR MRS. M.S.:—Unless you are exaggerating (and your letter is only published in part), it would appear that your daughter is being blinded by an infatuation which can only lead to disaster. There is a great difference in ages. He has lied about that and many other things. He gets drunk. His family history indicates instability. You made a big mistake in inviting him to room at your home and have been far too indulgent all along.



If she intends to tie herself up for life to this ne'er-do-well, she would be wise to equip herself with special training as you suggest, because she will doubtless be stuck with supporting him and any children who may come along. Another year to think about it, and get the teachers' training, could make all the difference—especially if she could be persuaded to at least take a look at other young people.



You are right to seek guidance from capable persons in your community. Where there is no social agency, that person may be your minister, your doctor or the counsellor at the nearest YMCA or family court.

(Doris Clark will be glad to help you with your problems. Write to her care of this paper, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.)

HOLY ROSARY BANQUET

The K. of C. hall is beautifully decorated in very good taste and makes a most appropriate place for banquets. Flowers and candles in yellow and claret, the group colors, showed up well on the white linen tablecloths. Jellies and salads looked very inviting and were eclipsed only by the excellent turkey dinner served by the auxiliary.

All of the Scouts and Cubs took part in the "Flag-break" ceremony. Father Maurice said "Grace", Mr. Phil Alcorn proposed the toast to the Queen, after which full justice was done to the well-cooked and appetizing dinner. Chairman Frank Mutrhill, introduced the head table and leaders: Scout Davil Lyon, a dutiful and well-mannered young gentleman who "adopted" Chris Leggat as his father for the evening; Mrs. J. Hogan, president of Auxiliary; Cub Bobby Mutrhill; Rev. Maurice Imhoff, padre; District Commissioner Phil Alcorn; Rob Lacy, president of P.T.A.; Scoutmaster Bill Post; A.S.M. Jerry O'Sullivan; Cub Master Harold Lyon; and C.M. Harris.

Father Maurice related some of his personal experiences. In the United States he was Chaplain of Veterans of Foreign Wars. He was invited to their banquet, the invitation read, "Bring your wife or sweetheart." This provided a problem, even the commander's offer to "loan" him a lady friend didn't quite settle the quandry it left him in. At this banquet he feels at home because he considers himself to be a father with an interest in all the boys.

He was invited by a judge of the Juvenile Court to sit in chambers and witnessed many children 8 to 13 years old appearing before the court, but couldn't recall any who belonged to the Guides or Scouts. From this he drew the conclusion that there isn't any juvenile delinquency in Scouting.

A ten-year-old boy, caught stealing, was sent to bed supperless by his father. Softhearted mother sneaked his supper upstairs but was repelled with the remark that she was just as bad as his father because she married him. A Negro boy facing his fourth charge of gambling was ordered by the judge to throw the dice and he would get one year for every spot showing. The boy came away laughing which point the court sentenced him to stay in custody until the spots appeared.

Father Maurice concluded his speech saying that Holy Rosary boys have proved themselves to be fine gentlemen and their parents are proud of them. Each boy should grow up faithful to his church, teachings and his next allegiance is to his country. "For God and Country" may our pride never be displaced.

D.C. Phil Alcorn praised the leaders of the 13th. The group has successfully emerged through difficult times and their problems were solved when good leaders took charge. Fathers shouldn't be satisfied to leave everything to the other fellow but should support the leaders by visiting and helping where wanted.

BOYS ENTERTAIN

Several amusing skits by the Cubs under C. M. Lyon, were enjoyed. The Scouts also provided some clever skits. In one of them S.M. Post and ASM O'Sullivan were asked to participate. They were "it to be tied" and received neither sympathy or help from the onlooker. Oh, well, popularity has its penalties.

ACM Harris reported during the year six Cubs went up to Scouts, 8 Cubs had Second Stars, 8 Cubs had First Stars and 13 new Chums joined the pack. A very good report for the 13th. Alexis Lyon presented Second Stars to Cubs S. Hay, J. Barrett, L. Doran, R. Lyon, B. Mutrhill, B. McQuaid. Toymaker and First Aid badges to Cub J. Doran. House Orderly and Artist to B. McQuaid. First Aid to B. Mutrhill. Handicraft and House Orderly to R. Lyon. Scoutmaster Post was proud to present Firemen's badges to Scouts Bill Guay, Don Deakin, David Lyon, Steve Smith, Bob Hogan, Gary Thompson, Michael Reed and Ken Smith.

RELIGION AND LIFE

This rare award was given to Scout Bill Guay by Father Maurice. The padre said he was very happy to be able to say that Billy had worked hard for this award and fully deserved it.

Mr. Elmer Hardy of Carling's Brewery, showed three colored films, "Survival in the Bush", "Caribou" and "Fishing." Mr. Jim Hay of Canada Dry was a very welcome guest.

Poor Starts Blamed on Fuel Pump

By EUGENE B. MILMOE

If your car refuses to start, is difficult to start, misses or tends to die out when a certain engine speed is reached it might be due to the fuel pump. Many things — wear, leakage, looseness, distortion, binding — can cause fuel pump failure. Sometimes, however, what may appear to be pump trouble is only a clogging, looseness or leakage at the fuel filter/bowl.

Generally, weak rather than excessive pump pressure is the rule. In the case of excessive pump pressure, incorrect installation is often at fault, but conditions can also develop in a properly installed pump which will cause pressure to go too high, thus providing an over-rich fuel mixture. Such things as binding linkage or fuel seepage which causes the pump diaphragm to swell can boost pressure too much.

N. W. writes: "A garage man once told me that cleaning up the engine block and cylinder head can help gas and oil mileage. How?"

(A) A layer of dirt, grime, oil, etc., on the engine can contribute to engine overheating—thus, increasing gas and oil consumption.

* * *

J.C. asks: "I removed the battery cables to clean and scrape off all dirt and corrosion. Is it all right to scrape the battery posts, too? Wiping doesn't remove everything."

(A) Scraping both clamps and posts a few times a year is recommended for good battery operation.

From T. G.: "My car is a 1957 model driven less than 14,000 miles, and babied since new. Are spark plugs always foul up quickly and need cleaning or replacement every 3,000 or 4,000 miles. Is this normal?"

(A) Apparently you car is used just for short distance or "door-to-door" type driving which means that the engine doesn't get hot enough to prevent rapid spark plug fouling. A change in spark plug heat range, i.e., to hotter plugs, will minimize this trouble.

R. A. writes: "How often do car brakes need relining?"

(A) It depends on how you drive and where you drive. Panic stops, and constant traffic driving require frequent brake relining and will wear out linings much quicker than careful driving and long distance turnpike mileage. In other words, linings may wear out in less then 10,000 miles or last for as long as 25,000 miles, depending on the use and abuse they receive.

Excerpts From Letters People Would Like to Get, Never Do

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Excerpts from letters people would like to get—but rarely do:

"Well, dear brother-in-law, I guess I won't have to be borrowing from you and Sis any more. After 15 years of unemployment, I finally have found a job. I have been selected to be the first man shot to the moon, while the job may be only temporary . . ."

"It is our pleasure to inform you that as holder of ticket No Z-164538214 you have won a grand lottery prize of $142,000, and we respectfully inquire whether you would like this sum in bills or by cheque?"

"Upon reconsideration we realize it was ridiculous to offer you a trade-in value of only $500 on your old car. We are upping the figure to $1,800 and hope . . ."

ROUGH ON DANDRUFF

"Our laboratory tests show that the formula developed by your small son with his home chemistry set is worthless as a dandruff cure because of its tendency to destroy the scalp. However, we are greatly excited over its potential as a crabgrass remover, and if you and the boy would drop in to talk over terms we are sure that . . .

"Frankly, this time the bank is in error, and we regret any inconvenience to you or your husband. Our records shows that instead of being overdrawn $136.48, your joint account actually has a balance of $367.26. If you wish, we will be glad to write another letter to your husband explaining the mistake. It is entirely our fault, and you are blameless."

"It was awfully sweet of you to pay me $75 a week alimony out of your $125 salary these last 20 years, George, but you don't have to any longer. I met a well-to-do retired businessman on a trip to Florida last month who simply insisted that we—well I suppose you can guess the rest. Since your last alimony cheque arrived after the cermony, I am returning it uncashed."

Science at Work

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Topics this week: A benefit for games, freedom-loving fish, and germs that like radiation.

DIVIDEND FROM GAMES

In table tennis, a little ball can travel at speeds estimated up to 100 miles an hour or more. Skilled players rely on concentrated watching and trained reflexes to make their return shots.

"There is no time for the brain to give an order," Dr. Andrew Gal, a tournament player who was born in Hungary, writes in Medical Tribune.

As a dividend from this kind of sport, the reflexive or automatic response could be useful in everyday life, he says. For example, a good player is apt to be quicker and more assured in meeting a sudden crisis, while driving an automobile.

FISH STORY

Aquariums sometimes display sayfish with their peculiar bills, but no swordfish.

Nobody has ever been able to keep a swordfish in captivity, says the Marine Studios at St. Augustine, Fla. They and their close cousin are hefty fighters who keep struggling to the end against capture.

Even if captured quickly, this type of fish keeps struggling and thrashing until it builds up in its blood such a concentration of metabolic waste that it is no likely to live, long. Tranquillizers or other drugs might keep them asleep until they reach an aquarium, but whether these fishes would accept captivity "is another question, so far unanswered."

RADIATION RESISTANCE

Germs that laugh at radiation are being studied for clues to the mechanism of radiation-resistance and how to protect other living things from deadly rays.

These germs, turned up in 1955 during tests aimed at preserving meat and other foods by knocking radiation bombs of meat still spoiled, and were found to harbor the resistant bacteria. The germs were able to survive 10,000 times as much radiation as a human being can. They don't cause any disease and are easily killed by heat. The germs now have been found to be a new, distinct species and tentatively have been named micrococcus radiodurans, says Dr. A. W. Anderson, bacteriologist at Oregon State University.
